Title 3—

The President

Proclamation 6359 of October 17, 1991

Crime Prevention Month, 1991

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

America has committed unprecedented energy and resources to the fight against crime—and with promising results. We have strengthened law enforcement, making record increases in the number of Federal prosecutors and agents, and we have significantly increased the capacity of Federal prisons. Through vigorous public education and prevention programs, we have started to reduce the demand for drugs—the companion and source of far too much corruption and violence. At the same time, through stepped-up interdiction efforts, we have disrupted the deadly operations of several major drug cartels. Such intensified efforts to uphold law and order have made a difference: according to victimization surveys cited by the Department of Justice, the percentage of American households affected by crime fell last year to its lowest rate since 1975.

Despite the progress we have made, however, the incidence of crime in the United States is still much too high. More than 22 million households in the United States felt the blow of crime last year, and countless Americans live in fear for their safety. While we can place great confidence in the courage, professionalism, and skill of our law enforcement officials, we also know that government cannot do the job alone—law enforcement officers must have the respect and the support of the people they serve.

Fortunately, many concerned Americans have already taken a stand to help prevent crime and to apprehend its perpetrators. These Americans are keeping watch over their neighborhoods and reporting any suspicious activity to police; they are helping to identify drug dealers and to clean up abandoned lots and other places that seem to attract illicit activity; and they are working to develop rewarding education and recreation programs that can help keep youngsters away from drugs. Such voluntary grass-roots efforts are vital to winning the fight against crime.

Crime Prevention Month underscores the fact that everyone has a role to play in making our streets safe—businesses, schools, religious and voluntary organizations, the media, as well as concerned individuals and families. With that in mind, let us create a new spirit of cooperation and caring in our communities. Let us reinforce, by word, deed, and example, the values that make law and order possible: personal responsibility, respect for others, and the fundamental sense of decency that comes from knowing the difference between right and wrong. Working together, we can build a better, safer America.

The Congress, by House Joint Resolution 303, has designated October 1991 as "Crime Prevention Month" and has authorized and requested the President to issue a proclamation in observance of this month.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GEORGE BUSH, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim October 1991 as Crime Prevention Month. I call on all Americans to observe this month with appropriate programs, ceremonies, and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this seventeenth day of October, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and ninety-one, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and sixteenth.

George Bush

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service

7 CFR Part 301

[Docket No. 91-133]

Witchweed Regulated Areas

AGENCY: Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, USDA.

ACTION: Affirmation of interim rule.

SUMMARY: We are affirming without change an interim rule that amended the list of suppressive areas under the witchweed quarantine and regulations by adding and deleting areas in North Carolina and South Carolina. The rule affected 11 counties in North Carolina and 3 counties in South Carolina. The action was necessary in order to impose certain restrictions on the interstate movement of regulated articles to prevent the artificial spread of witchweed and to remove unnecessary restrictions on the interstate movement of regulated articles.

EFFECTIVE DATE: November 20, 1991.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Thomas G. Flanigan, Operations Officer, Domestic and Emergency Operations, PPQ, APHIS, USDA, room 646, Federal Building, 6505 Belcrest Road, Hyattsville, MD 20782, (301) 436-8247.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

In an interim rule published in the Federal Register and effective on July 1, 1991 (56 FR 29889-29892, Docket Number 91-083), we amended the witchweed quarantine and regulations by adding areas in Craven, Duplin, Greene, Pitt, and Wayne Counties in North Carolina, and areas in Berkeley County in South Carolina to the list of suppressive areas in § 301.80-2a of the regulations.

We also amended the list of suppressive areas by removing areas in Columbus, Craven, Cumberland, Duplin, Harnett, Lenoir, Pender, Sampson, and Wayne Counties in North Carolina, and areas in Florence and Horry Counties in South Carolina from § 301.80-2a of the regulations. As a result of these actions, there are no longer any regulated areas in Harnett and Lenoir Counties, North Carolina, or in Florence County, South Carolina.

In another document published on August 7, 1991 (56 FR 37606, Docket Number 91-083), the Federal Register corrected three typographical errors on page 29891 of the interim published on July 1, 1991.

Comments on the interim rule were required to be received on or before August 30, 1991. We did not receive any comments. The facts presented in the interim rule still provide a basis for the rule.

Executive Order 12291 and Regulatory Flexibility Act

We are issuing this rule in conformance with Executive Order 12291, and we have determined that it is not a "major rule." Based on information compiled by the Department, we have determined that this rule will have an estimated annual effect on the economy of less than $100 million; will not cause a major increase in costs or prices for consumers, individual industries, Federal, State, or local government agencies, or geographic regions; and will not cause a significant adverse effect on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

For this action, the Office of Management and Budget has waived the review process required by Executive Order 12291.

This action affects the interstate movement of regulated articles from specified areas in North Carolina and South Carolina. Based on information compiled by the Department, we have determined that approximately 3,449 small entities move these articles interstate from North Carolina and South Carolina. However, this action affects only 709 of these entities, by removing 699 entities from regulation and placing 10 new entities under regulation. We have determined that the 699 deregulated entities will realize combined annual savings of approximately $46,800 or an average of $67 each, in regulatory and control costs. We estimate that the 10 newly regulated entities will need to invest approximately $20 each, per year, in order to comply with our regulations.

Under these circumstances, the Administrator of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service has determined that this action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

Paperwork Reduction Act

This interim rule contains no information collection or recordkeeping requirements under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.).

Executive Order 12372

The program/activity is listed in the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance under No. 10.025 and is subject to Executive Order 12372, which requires intergovernmental consultation with State and local officials. (See 7 CFR part 3015, subpart V.)

List of Subjects in 7 CFR Part 301

Agricultural commodities, Plant pests, Plants (Agriculture), Quarantine, Transportation, Witchweed.

Accordingly, we are adopting as a final rule, without change, the interim rule amending 7 CFR part 301.80-2a that was published at 56 FR 29889-29892 on July 1, 1991.

PART 301—DOMESTIC QUARANTINE NOTICES

Authority: 7 U.S.C. 150bb, 150dd, 150ee, 150ff, 161, 162 and 164-167; 7 CFR 2.17, 2.51, and 371.2(c).

Done in Washington, DC, this 15th day of October 1991.

Robert Melland,

Acting Administrator, Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Milk in the New Mexico-West Texas and Certain Other Marketing Areas; Order Amending Orders

AGENCY: Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This action merges the marketing areas of the Rio Grande Valley; Lubbock-Plainview, Texas; and the Texas Panhandle orders under one order. The merged area is expanded to include all of the unregulated territory in the State of New Mexico and Lipscomb and Parmer Counties, Texas. The regulatory provisions of the "New Mexico-West Texas" marketing order are patterned after the adjacent Southwest Plains order, including that order's payment plan, but with modifications in other provisions. One modification would regulate a disturbing plant located in the marketing area under the order even if a greater proportion of its fluid milk sales is made in another Federal order marketing area.

This action also provides for some price restructuring which increases the Class I price by 15 cents in eastern New Mexico (Clovis). In addition, this action reduces the Texas order Class I differential by 12 cents per hundredweight and establishes a minus 21-cent location adjustment in Zone 6 of the marketing area. This action maintains the minus 25-cent location adjustment in Zone 1-A (Wichita Falls) of the Texas marketing area. Other conforming location adjustment changes are provided for the Texas and Southwest Plains orders to recognize the pricing structure of the New Mexico-West Texas order.

The changes, which are based on industry proposals considered at a public hearing held December 6-8, 1989 in El Paso, Texas, are necessary to reflect current marketing conditions and to assure orderly marketing in the respective areas.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 1, 1991.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This administrative action is governed by the provisions of sections 556 and 557 of title 5 of the United States Code and, therefore, is excluded from the requirements of Executive Order 12291.

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601-612) requires the Agency to examine the impact of a proposed rule on small entities. Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 605(b), the Administrator of the Agricultural Marketing Service has certified that this action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The amendments would promote orderly marketing of milk by producers and regulated handlers.

Findings and Determinations

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth supplement those that were made when each of the aforesaid orders were first issued and when they were amended. The previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and confirmed, except where they may conflict with those set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601-674), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreements and to the orders regulating the handling of milk in each of the aforesaid marketing areas.

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The New Mexico-West Texas order, which amends and merges the Rio Grande Valley, Lubbock-Plainview, Texas and Texas Panhandle orders, and the Southwest Plains and Texas orders as amended, and all the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the New Mexico-West Texas, Southwest Plains, and Texas marketing areas, and the minimum prices specified in the New Mexico-West Texas order and the Southwest Plains and Texas orders as hereby amended are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The New Mexico-West Texas order and the Southwest Plains and Texas orders are hereby amended regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and are applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, marketing agreements upon which a hearing has been held.

(4) All milk and milk products handled by handlers, as defined in the New Mexico-West Texas order as hereby merged and amended, are in the current of interstate commerce or directly burden, obstruct, or affect interstate commerce in milk or its products; and

(5) It is hereby found that for the New Mexico-West Texas order the necessary expense of the market administrator for the maintenance and functioning of such agency will require the payment by each handler, as his pro rata share of such expense, 5 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to milk specified in § 1138.85 of the attached New Mexico-West Texas order.

(b) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of handlers (excluding cooperative associations specified in section 8c(9) of the Act) of more than 50 percent of the milk, which is marketed within the marketing areas to sign a proposed marketing agreement, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The issuance of the New Mexico-West Texas order, which amends and merges the Rio Grande Valley, Lubbock-Plainview, Texas and Texas Panhandle orders, and the issuance of the order amending the Southwest Plains and Texas orders is the only practical means pursuant to the declared policy of the Act of advancing the interests of producers as defined in the order; and

(3) The issuance of the New Mexico-West Texas order and the order amending the Southwest Plains and Texas orders is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers, or by producers who represent more than two-thirds of the volume of production of producers, who during the determined representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the respective marketing areas.

The terms, definitions, and provisions in part 1000 of this chapter are hereby incorporated by reference and made a part of this order.

Definitions

§ 1138.2 New Mexico-West Texas marketing area.

The New Mexico-West Texas marketing area, hereinafter called the marketing area, means all territory within the boundaries of the following counties, and all territory occupied by government (Municipal, State or Federal) reservations, installations, institutions, or other similar establishments if any part thereof is within any of the listed counties:

Zone 1: Following counties—Bernalillo, Catron, Cibola, Colfax, Curry, De Baca, Dona Ana, Grant, Guadalupe, Harding, Hidalgo, Lincoln, Los Alamos, Luna, McKinley, Mora, Otero, Quay, Rio Arriba, Roosevelt, Sandoval, San Miguel, Santa Fe, Sierra, Socorro, Taos, Torrance, Union and Valencia, all in the State of New Mexico, and El Paso in Texas.

Zone 2: Following counties—Archuleta, LaPlata and Montezuma in Colorado, and Chaves, Eddy, Lea and San Juan in New Mexico.

Zone 3: Following counties—Armstrong, Bailey, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Childress, Cochran, Collingsworth, Cottle, Crosby, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Dickens, Donley, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Gray, Hale, Hall, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hockley, Hutchinson, Lamb, Lipscomb, Lubbock, Lynn, Moore, Motley, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher, Terry, Wheeler and Yoakum, all in the state of Texas.

§ 1138.3 Route disposition.

Route disposition means any delivery to a retail or wholesale outlet (except to a plant) either direct or through any distribution facility (including disposition from a plant store, vendor or vending machine) of any fluid milk product classified as Class I milk.

§ 1138.4 Plant.

Plant means the land, buildings, facilities and equipment constituting a single operating unit or establishment at which milk or milk products (including filled milk) are received, processed or packaged. Separate facilities used only as a reload point for transferring bulk milk from one tank truck to another or separate facilities used only as a distribution point for storing packaged fluid milk products in transit for route disposition shall not be a plant under this definition.

§ 1138.5 Distributing plant.

Distributing plant means any plant: (a) Approved by a duly constituted regulatory agency for the handling of milk approved for fluid consumption.

(b) In which fluid milk products are processed or packaged; and

(c) From which there is route disposition in the marketing area during the month.

§ 1138.6 Supply plant.

Supply plant means a plant approved by a duly constituted regulatory agency for the handling of milk approved for fluid consumption from which fluid milk products are transferred to a distributing plant(s) during the month.

§ 1138.7 Pool plant.

Pool plant means: (a) A distributing plant: (1) From which during the month there is total route disposition (except filled milk) in an amount not less than 50 percent of the total quantity of fluid milk products (except filled milk) received at such plant, including producer milk diverted from the plant, and not less than 10 percent of such receipts are disposed of as fluid milk products on routes in the marketing area; or

(2) Located in the marketing area that qualifies pursuant to paragraph (a)(1) of this section so long as this order's Class I price applicable at such plant location is not less than an other order's Class I price applicable at the same location even though the plant may meet the pooling requirements of the other Federal order and have greater route disposition in the other marketing area than in the New Mexico-West Texas marketing area.

(b) A supply plant from which during the month not less than 50 percent of the total quantity of milk that is received from dairy farmers (including producer milk diverted from the plant pursuant to § 1138.13, but excluding milk diverted to such plant) and handlers described in § 1138.9(c) is transferred to plants described in paragraph (a) of this section, subject to the following. A supply plant that has qualified as a pool plant during each of the immediately preceding months of September through January shall continue to qualify in each of the following months of February through August.

(c) Any plant located in the marketing area that is operated by a cooperative association if pool plant status under this paragraph is requested by the cooperative association and 35 percent or more of the producer milk of members of the cooperative association (and any producer milk of nonmembers and members of another cooperative association which may be marketed by the cooperative association) is physically received during the month in the form of bulk fluid milk products at plants specified in paragraph (a) of this section either directly from farms or by transfer from supply plants operated by the cooperative association and from plants of the cooperative association for which pool plant status has been requested under this paragraph subject to the following conditions:

(1) The plant does not qualify as a pool plant under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section or under comparable provisions of another Federal order; and

(2) The plant is approved by a duly constituted regulatory agency for the handling of milk approved for fluid consumption in the marketing area.

(d) The shipping standards in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section may be increased or decreased up to 10 percentage points by the Director of the Dairy Division if the Director finds such revision is necessary to obtain needed shipments or to prevent uneconomic shipments. Before making such a finding the Director shall investigate the need for revision, either at the Director's initiative or at the request of interested persons. If the investigation shows that a revision might be appropriate, the Director shall issue a notice stating that revision is being considered and inviting data, views, and arguments. If a plant which would not otherwise qualify as a pool plant during the month qualifies as a pool plant because of a reduction in shipping standards pursuant to this paragraph, such plant shall be a nonpool plant for such month if the operator files a written request for nonpool plant status with the market administrator at the time the report is filed for such plant pursuant to § 1138.30.

(e) The term pool plant shall not apply to the following plants:

(1) A producer-handler plant, a governmental agency plant, or an exempt plant.

(2) A distributing plant qualified pursuant to paragraph (a)(1) of this section which also meets the pooling requirements of another Federal order and from which there is a greater quantity of route disposition, except filled milk, during the month in such other Federal order marketing area than in this marketing area, except that if such plant was subject to all the provisions of this part in the immediately preceding month, it shall continue to be subject to all the provisions of this part until the third consecutive month in which a greater proportion of its route disposition, except filled milk, is made in such other marketing area unless, notwithstanding the provisions of this paragraph, it is regulated under such other order. On the basis of a written application made by the plant operator at least 15 days prior to the date for which a determination of the Secretary is to be effective, the Secretary may determine that the route disposition in the respective marketing areas to be used for purposes of this paragraph shall exclude (for a specified period of time) route disposition made under limited term contracts to governmental bases and institutions;

(3) A distributing plant qualified pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section which also meets the pooling requirements of another Federal order and from which there is a greater quantity of route disposition, except filled milk, during the month in this marketing area than in such other Federal order marketing area but which plant is, nevertheless, fully regulated under such other Federal order;

(4) A supply plant qualified pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section which also meets the pooling requirements of another Federal order and from which greater qualifying shipments are made during the month to plants regulated under such other order than are made to plants regulated under this part; or

(5) A plant qualified pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section which has automatic pooling status under another Federal order.

§ 1138.8 Nonpool plant.

Nonpool plant means any milk or filled milk receiving, manufacturing, or processing plant other than a pool plant. The following categories of nonpool plants are further defined as follows:

(a) Other order plant means a plant that is fully subject to the pricing and pooling provisions of another order issued pursuant to the Act.

(b) Producer-handler plant means a plant operated by a producer-handler as defined in any order (including this part) issued pursuant to the Act.

(c) Partially regulated distributing plant means a distributing plant that does not qualify as a pool plant and is not an other order plant, a governmental agency plant, or a producer-handler plant.

(d) Unregulated supply plant means a nonpool plant, except an other order plant, a governmental agency plant, or a producer handler plant, from which fluid milk products are moved during the month to a pool plant qualified pursuant to § 1138.7.

(e) Governmental agency plant means a plant owned and operated by a governmental agency or establishment which processes or packages milk or filled milk that is distributed in the marketing area. Such plant shall be exempt from the pricing and pooling provisions of this order.

(f) Exempt plant means any plant that has monthly route disposition of 150,000 pounds or less that may be exempt from the pricing and pooling provisions of this order if the handler operating the plant files timely reports as specified by the market administrator and maintains adequate books and records that are made available to the market administrator which will enable determination of the exempt status of such plant.

§ 1138.9 Handler.

Handler means: (a) Any person who operates a pool plant;

(b) Any cooperative association with respect to the milk of producers which it causes to be diverted pursuant to § 1138.13 for the account of such cooperative association;

(c) Any cooperative association with respect to milk that it receives for its account from the farm of a producer for delivery to a pool plant of another handler in a tank truck owned and operated by, or under the control of, such cooperative association, unless both the cooperative association and the operator of the pool plant notify the market administrator prior to the time that such milk is delivered to the pool plant that the plant operator will be the handler for such milk and will purchase such milk on the basis of weights determined from its measurement at the farm and butterfat tests determined from farm bulk tank samples. Milk for which the cooperative association is the handler pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed to have been received by the cooperative association at the location of the pool plant to which such milk is delivered;

(d) Any person who operates a partially regulated distributing plant;

(e) Any person who is a producer-handler or who operates a governmental agency or exempt plant; and

(f) Any person who operates an other order plant described in § 1138.7(e) or an unregulated supply plant.

§ 1138.10 Producer-handler.

Producer-handler means any person: (a) Who processes and packages milk from his or her own farm's production;

(b) Who has route disposition within the marketing area consisting of any portion of such milk;

(c) Who receives no fluid milk products from other dairy farmers or from any source other than a pool plant and whose receipts from pool plants are not in excess of 11,000 pounds per month;

(d) Who disposes of no other source milk as Class I milk except by increasing the nonfat milk solids content of the fluid milk products received from own farm production or pool plants; and

(e) Who furnishes to the Market Administrator for verification, subject to review by the Secretary, evidence that the care and management of all the dairy animals and other resources necessary to produce the entire amount of fluid milk products handled (excluding receipts from pool plants) is the personal enterprise of and at the personal risk of such person and the operation of the processing and distribution business is the personal enterprise of and at the personal risk of the same person.

§ 1138.11 [Reserved]

§ 1138.12 Producer.

(a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, producer means any person who produces milk approved for fluid consumption by a duly constituted regulatory agency and whose milk is: (1) Received at a pool plant or by a handler described in § 1138.9(c); or

(2) Diverted pursuant to § 1138.13 by a handler for such handler's account.

(b) Producer shall not include: (1) A producer-handler as defined in any order (including this part) issued pursuant to the Act;

(2) A governmental agency that operates a plant exempt pursuant to § 1138.8(e) and a handler that operates an exempt plant pursuant to § 1138.8(f);

(3) Any person with respect to milk production that is diverted to a pool plant from an other order plant if the other order designates such person as a producer under that order and such milk is allocated to Class II or Class III utilization pursuant to § 1138.44(a)(8)(iii) and the corresponding step of § 1138.44(b); or

(4) Any person with respect to milk production that is reported as diverted to an other order plant if any portion of such person's milk so moved is assigned to Class I under the provisions of such other order.

§ 1138.13 Producer milk.

Producer milk means the skim milk and butterfat in milk from a producer that is:

(a) Received by the operator of a pool plant directly from such producer. Any milk picked up from the producer's farm tank in a tank truck owned and operated by, or under the control of, the operator of a pool plant but which is not received at a plant until the following month, shall be considered as having been received by the handler during the month in which it is picked up at the producer's farm and shall be priced at the location of the plant where it is physically received in the following month. This paragraph shall apply in like manner to milk received by the operator of a pool plant who, in accordance with § 1138.9(c), is the handler for such milk.

(b) Received by a handler described in § 1138.9(c).

(c) Diverted from a pool plant for the account of the handler operating such plant to another pool plant, without limit in any month. Such milk shall be priced at the location of the plant to which diverted.

(d) Diverted by the operator of a pool plant or by a cooperative association from a pool plant to a nonpool plant (other than a producer-handler plant), subject to the following conditions: (1) In each of the months of September through January, milk of a producer shall not be eligible for diversion from a pool plant under this section unless at least one day's production from such producer is physically received at a pool plant during the month;

(2) The total quantity of milk diverted by a cooperative association in any month shall not exceed the total quantity of producer milk that the cooperative association caused to be delivered to and was physically received at pool plants during the month;

(3) The operator of a pool plant other than a cooperative association may divert any milk that is not under the control of a cooperative association that is diverting milk during the month pursuant to paragraph (d)(2) of this section. The total quantity of milk so diverted in any month shall not exceed the total quantity of milk that was physically received at pool plant(s) as producer milk for which the plant operator is the handler;

(4) Any milk diverted in excess of the limits prescribed in paragraphs (d) (2) and (3) of this section shall not be producer milk. In such event, the diverting handler may designate the dairy farmer deliveries that shall not be producer milk. If the handler fails to so designate, milk diverted on the last day of the month, then the second-to-last-day of the month, and so on, shall be excluded until all diversions in excess of the prescribed limits are accounted for;

(5) The quantity of milk diverted from a pool plant that would cause the pool plant to become a nonpool plant shall not be producer milk. Diversions in excess of the prescribed limit shall be prorated among the diverting handlers;

(6) If a dairy farmer loses producer status under this order (except as a result of temporary loss of approval from a duly constituted regulatory agency for the production of milk for fluid consumption), such dairy farmer's milk shall not be eligible for diversion until it has been physically received as producer milk at a pool plant; and

(7) Diverted milk shall be priced at the location of the plant to which diverted.

§ 1138.14 Other source milk.

Other source milk means all skim milk and butterfat contained in or represented by:

§ 1138.19 [Reserved]

The following product prices shall be used in calculating the basic Class II formula price pursuant to § 1138.51(a):

(a) Butter price. Butter price means the simple average, for the first 15 days of the month, of the daily prices per pound of Grade A (92-score) butter. The prices used shall be those of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange as reported and published weekly by the Dairy Division, Agricultural Marketing Service. The average shall be computed by the Director of the Dairy Division, using the price reported each week as the daily price for that day and for each following work-day until the next price is reported. A work-day is each Monday through Friday, except national holidays. For any week that the Exchange does not meet to establish a price, the price for the following week shall be the last price that was established.

(b) Cheddar cheese price. Cheddar cheese price means the simple average for the first 15 days of the month of the daily price per pound of cheddar cheese in 40-pound blocks. The price used shall be those of the National Cheese Exchange (Green Bay, WI), as reported and published weekly by the Dairy Division, Agricultural Marketing Service. The average price shall be computed by the Director of the Dairy Division, using the price reported each week as the daily price for that day and for each following work-day until the next price is reported. A work-day is each Monday through Friday except national holidays. For any week that the Exchange does not meet to establish a price, the price for the following week shall be the last price that was established.

(c) Nonfat dry milk price. Nonfat dry milk price means the simple average, for the first 15 days of the month, of the daily price per pound of nonfat dry milk, which average shall be computed by the Director of the Dairy Division as follows:

(1) The prices used shall be the prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of high heat, low heat and Grade A nonfat dry milk, respectively, for the Central States production area, as reported and published weekly by the Dairy Division, Agricultural Marketing Service.

(2) For each week, determine the simple average of the prices reported for the three types of nonfat dry milk. Such average shall be the daily price for the day that such prices are reported and for each preceding work-day until the day such prices were previously reported. A work-day is each Monday through Friday except national holidays.

(3) Add the prices determined in paragraph (c)(2) of this section for the first 15 days of the month and divide by the number of days for which there is a daily price.

(d) Edible whey price. Edible whey price means the simple average, for the first 15 days of the month, of the daily prices per pound of edible whey powder (nonhygroscopic). The prices used shall be the prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of edible whey powder for the Central States production area, as reported and published weekly by the Dairy Division, Agricultural Marketing Service. The average shall be computed by the Director of the Dairy Division, using the price reported each week as the daily price for that day and for each preceding work-day until the day such price was previously reported. A work-day is each Monday through Friday except national holidays.

For purposes of classifying all skim milk and butterfat to be reported by a handler pursuant to § 1138.30, the market administrator shall determine the following:

(a) The pro rata assignment of shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, at each pool plant to the respective quantities of skim milk and butterfat;

(2) Plus 1.5 percent of the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in milk received from a handler described in § 1138.9(c) and in milk diverted to such plant from another pool plant, except that, in either case, if the operator of the plant to which the milk is delivered purchases such milk on the basis of weights determined from its measurement at the farm and butterfat tests determined from farm bulk tank samples, the applicable percentage under this subparagraph shall be 2 percent;

(3) Plus 0.5 percent of the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in producer milk diverted from such plant by the plant operator to another plant, except that if the operator of the plant to which the milk is delivered purchases such milk on the basis of weights determined from its measurement at the farm and butterfat tests determined from farm bulk tank samples, the applicable percentage under this subparagraph shall be zero;

(7) Less 1.5 percent of the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in bulk fluid milk products transferred to other plants that is not in excess of the respective amounts of skim milk and butterfat to which percentages are applied in paragraphs (b) (1), (2), (4), (5), and (6) of this section; and

(c) The quantity of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in shrinkage of milk from producers for which a cooperative association is the handler pursuant to § 1138.9 (b) or (c), but not in excess of 0.5 percent of the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in such milk. If the operator of the plant to which the milk is delivered purchases such milk on the basis of weights determined from its measurement at the farm and butterfat tests determined from farm bulk tank samples, the applicable percentage under this paragraph for the cooperative association shall be zero.

§ 1138.42 Classification of transfers and diversions.

(a) Transfers and diversions to pool plants. Skim milk or butterfat transferred or diverted in the form of a fluid milk product or a bulk fluid cream product from a pool plant to another pool plant shall be classified as Class I milk unless the operators of both plants request the same classification in another class. In either case, the classification of such transfers or diversions shall be subject to the following conditions:

(1) The skim milk or butterfat classified in each class shall be limited to the amount of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, remaining in such class at the transferee-plant or divertee-plant after the computations pursuant to § 1138.44(a)(12) and the corresponding step of § 1138.44(b);

(2) If the transferor-plant or divertor-plant received during the month other source milk to be allocated pursuant to § 1138.44(a)(7) or the corresponding step of § 1138.44(b), the skim milk or butterfat so transferred or diverted shall be classified so as to allocate the least possible Class I utilization to such other source milk; and

(3) If the transferor-handler or divertor-handler received during the month other source milk to be allocated pursuant to § 1138.44(a) (11) or (12) or the corresponding step of § 1138.44(b), the skim milk or butterfat so transferred or diverted, up to the total of the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in such receipts of other source milk, shall not be classified as Class I milk to a greater extent than would be the case if the other source milk had been received at the transferee-plant or divertee-plant.

(b) Transfers and diversions to other order plants. Skim milk or butterfat transferred or diverted in the form of a fluid milk product or bulk fluid cream product from a pool plant to an other order plant shall be classified in the following manner. Such classification shall apply only to the skim milk or butterfat that is in excess of any receipts at the pool plant from the other order plant of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in fluid milk products and bulk fluid cream products, respectively, that are in the same category as described in paragraph (b) (1), (2), or (3) of this section:

(1) If transferred as packaged fluid milk products, classification shall be in the classes to which allocated as a fluid milk product under the other order;

(2) If transferred in bulk form, classification shall be in the classes to which allocated under the other order (including allocation under the conditions set forth in paragraph (b)(3) of this section);

(3) If the operators of both plants so request in their reports of receipts and utilization filed with their respective market administrators, transfers or diversions in bulk form shall be classified as Class II or Class III milk to the extent of such utilization available for such classification pursuant to the allocation provisions of the other order;

(4) If information concerning the class to which such transfers or diversions were allocated under the other order is not available to the market administrator for the purpose of establishing classification under this paragraph, classification shall be as Class I subject to adjustment when such information is available.

(5) For purposes of this paragraph, if the other order provides for a different number of classes of utilization than is provided for under this part, skim milk or butterfat allocated to a class consisting primarily of fluid milk products shall be classified as Class I milk, and skim milk or butterfat allocated to the other classes shall be classified as Class III milk; and

(6) If the form in which any fluid milk product that is transferred to an other order plant is not defined as a fluid milk product under such other order, classification under this paragraph shall be in accordance with the provisions of § 1138.40.

(c) Transfers to producer-handlers and transfers and diversions to exempt plants and governmental agency plants. Skim milk or butterfat transferred in the following forms from a pool plant to a producer-handler under this or any other Federal order or transferred or diverted from a pool plant to an exempt plant or and a governmental agency plant shall be classified:

(1) As Class I milk, if so moved in the form of a fluid milk product; and

(2) In accordance with the utilization assigned to it by the market administrator, if transferred in the form of a bulk fluid cream product. For this purpose the transferee's utilization of skim milk and butterfat in each class, in series beginning with Class III, shall be assigned to the extent possible to its receipt of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in bulk fluid cream products, pro rata to each source.

(d) Transfers and diversions to other nonpool plants. Skim milk or butterfat transferred or diverted in the following forms from a pool plant to a nonpool plant that is not an other order plant, a producer-handler plant, an exempt handler plant, or a governmental agency plant shall be classified:

(1) As Class I milk, if transferred in the form of a packaged fluid milk product; and

(2) As Class I milk, if transferred or diverted in the form of a bulk fluid milk product or a bulk fluid cream product, unless the following conditions apply:

(i) If the conditions described in paragraph (d)(2)(i) (A) and (B) of this section are met, transfers or diversions in bulk form shall be classified on the basis of the assignment of the nonpool plant's utilization to its receipts as set forth in paragraphs (d)(2) (ii) through (viii) of this section:

(A) The transferor-handler or divertor-handler claims such classification in his report of receipts and utilization filed pursuant to § 1138.30 for the month within which such transaction occurred; and

(B) The nonpool plant operator maintains books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat received at such plant which are made available for verification purposes if requested by the market administrator.

(ii) Route disposition in the marketing area of each Federal milk order from the nonpool plant and transfers of packaged fluid milk products from such nonpool plant to plants fully regulated thereunder shall be assigned to the extent possible in the following sequence:

(A) Pro rata to receipts of packaged fluid milk products at such nonpool plant from pool plants;

(B) Pro rata to any remaining unassigned receipts of packaged fluid milk products at such nonpool plant from other order plants;

(C) Pro rata to receipts of bulk fluid milk products at such nonpool plant from pool plants; and

(D) Pro rata to any remaining unassigned receipts of bulk fluid milk products at such nonpool plant from other order plants;

(iii) Any remaining Class I disposition of packaged fluid milk products from the nonpool plant shall be assigned to the extent possible pro rata to any remaining unassigned receipts of packaged fluid milk products at such nonpool plant from pool plants and other order plants;

(iv) Transfers of bulk fluid milk products from the nonpool plant to a plant fully regulated under any Federal milk order, to the extent that such transfers to the regulated plant exceed receipts of fluid milk products from such plant and are allocated to Class I at the transferee-plant, shall be assigned to the extent possible in the following sequence:

(A) Pro rata to receipts of fluid milk products at such nonpool plant from pool plants; and

(B) Pro rata to any remaining unassigned receipts of fluid milk products at such nonpool plant from other order plants;

(v) Any remaining unassigned Class I disposition from the nonpool plant shall be assigned to the extent possible in the following sequence:

(A) To such nonpool plant's receipts from dairy farmers who the market administrator determines constitute regular sources of Grade A milk for such nonpool plant; and

(B) To such nonpool plant's receipts of Grade A milk from plants not fully regulated under any Federal milk order which the market administrator determines constitute regular sources of Grade A milk for such nonpool plant;

(vi) Any remaining unassigned receipts of bulk fluid milk products at the nonpool plant from pool plants and other order plants shall be assigned, pro rate among such plants, to the extent possible first to any remaining Class I utilization, then to Class III utilization, and then to Class II utilization at such nonpool plant;

(vii) Receipts of bulk fluid cream products at the nonpool plant from pool plants and other order plants shall be assigned, pro rata among such plants, to the extent possible first to any remaining Class III utilization then to any remaining Class II utilization, and then to Class I utilization at such nonpool plant; and

(viii) In determining the nonpool plant's utilization for purposes of this subparagraph, any fluid milk products and bulk fluid cream products transferred from such nonpool plant to a plant not fully regulated under any Federal milk order shall be classified on the basis of the second plant's utilization using the same assignment priorities at the second plant that are set forth in this subparagraph.

(e) Transfers by a handler described in § 1138.9(c) to pool plants. Skim milk and butterfat transferred in the form of bulk milk by a handler described in § 1138.9(c) to another handler's pool plant shall be classified pursuant to § 1138.44 pro rata with producer milk received at the transferee-handler's plant and the value thereof at the class prices shall be included in the pool plant handler's value of milk pursuant to § 1138.60.

§ 1138.43 General classification rules.

In determining the classification of producer milk pursuant to § 1138.44, the following rules shall apply:

(a) Each month the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and other obvious errors all reports filed pursuant to § 1138.30 and shall compute separately for each pool plant, and for each cooperative association with respect to milk for which it is the handler pursuant to § 1138.9 (b) or (c) that was not received at a pool plant, the pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in each class in accordance with §§ 1138.40, 1138.41 and 1138.42. The combined pounds of skim milk and butterfat so determined in each Class for a handler described in § 1138.9 (b) or (c) shall be such handler's classification of producer milk;

(b) If any of the water contained in the milk from which a product is made is removed before the product is utilized or disposed of by a handler, the pounds of skim milk in such product that are to be considered under this part as used or disposed of by the handler shall be an amount equivalent to the nonfat milk solids contained in such product plus all of the water originally associated with such solids; and

(c) The classification of producer milk for which a cooperative association is the handler pursuant to § 1138.9 (b) or (c) shall be determined separately from the operations of any pool plant operated by such cooperative association.

§ 1138.44 Classification of producer milk.

For each month the market administrator shall determine for each handler described in § 1138.9(a) for each pool plant of the handler separately the classification of producer milk and milk received from a handler described in § 1138.9(c), by allocating the handler's receipts of skim milk and butterfat to the utilization of such receipts by such handler as follows:

(a) Skim milk shall be allocated in the following manner:

(1) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class III the pounds of skim milk in shrinkage specified in § 1138.41(b);

(2) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class I the pounds of skim milk in receipts of packaged fluid milk products from an unregulated supply plant to the extent that an equivalent amount of skim milk disposed of to such plant by handlers fully regulated under any Federal milk order is classified and priced as Class I milk and is not used as an offset for any other payment obligation under any order;

(3) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class the pounds of skim milk in fluid milk products received in packaged form from an other order plant, except that to be subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a)(7)(vi) of this section, as follows:

(i) From Class III milk, the lesser of the pounds remaining or 2 percent of such receipts; and

(ii) From Class I milk, the remainder of such receipts.

(4) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk in products specified in § 1138.40(b)(1) that were received in packaged form from other plants, but not in excess of the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II;

(5) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk in products specified in § 1138.40(b)(1) that were in inventory at the beginning of the month in packaged form, but not in excess of the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II. This paragraph shall apply only if the pool plant was subject to the provisions of this paragraph or comparable provisions of another Federal milk order in the immediately preceding month;

(6) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk in other source milk (except that received in the form of a fluid milk product or a fluid cream product) that is used to produce, or added to, any product specified in § 1138.40(b), but not in excess of the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II;

(7) Subtract in the order specified below from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class, in series beginning with Class III, the pounds of skim milk in each of the following:

(i) Other source milk (except that received in the form of a fluid milk product) and, if paragraph (a)(5) of this section applies, packaged inventory at the beginning of the month of products specified in § 1138.40(b)(1) that was not subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a) (4), (5) and (6) of this section;

(ii) Receipts of fluid milk products (except filled milk) for which Grade A certification is not established;

(iii) Receipts of fluid milk products from unidentified sources;

(iv) Receipts of fluid milk products from a producer-handler as defined under this or any other Federal milk order and from a governmental agency plant and an exempt plant;

(v) Receipts of reconstituted skim milk in filled milk from an unregulated supply plant that were not subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a)(2) of this section;

(vi) Receipts of reconstituted skim milk in filled milk from an other order plant that is regulated under any Federal milk order providing for individual-handler pooling, to the extent that reconstituted skim milk is allocated to Class I at the transferor-plant; and

(vii) Receipts of fluid milk products from a person described in § 1138.12(b)(5);

(8) Subtract in the order specified below from the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II and Class III, in sequence beginning with Class III:

(i) The pounds of skim milk in receipts of fluid milk products from an unregulated supply plant that were not subtracted pursuant to paragraphs (a)(2) and (7)(v) of this section for which the handler requests a classification other than Class I, but not in excess of the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II and Class III combined:

(ii) The pounds of skim milk in receipts of fluid milk products from an unregulated supply plant that were not subtracted pursuant to paragraphs (a)(2), (7)(v), and (8)(i) of this section which are in excess of the pounds of skim milk determined pursuant to paragraphs (a)(8)(ii) (A) through (C) of this section. Should the pounds of skim milk to be subtracted from Class II and Class III combined exceed the pounds of skim milk remaining in such classes, the pounds of skim milk in Class II and Class III combined shall be increased (increasing as necessary Class III and then Class II to the extent of available utilization in such classes at the nearest other pool plant of the handler, and then at each successively more distant pool plant of the handler) by an amount equal to such excess quantity to be subtracted, and the pounds of skim milk in Class I shall be decreased by a like amount. In such case, the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class at this allocation step at the handler's other pool plants shall be adjusted in the reverse direction by a like amount;

(A) Multiply by 1.25 the sum of the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class I at this allocation step at all pool plants of the handler (excluding any duplication of Class I utilization resulting from reported Class I transfers between pool plants of the handler);

(B) Subtract from the above result the sum of the pounds of skim milk in receipts at all pool plants of the handler of producer milk, milk from a handler described in § 1138.9(c), fluid milk products from pool plants of other handlers, and bulk fluid milk products from other order plants that were not subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a)(7)(vi) of this section; and

(C) Multiply any plus quantity resulting above by the percentage that the receipts of skim milk in fluid milk products from unregulated supply plants that remain at this pool plant is of all such receipts remaining at this allocation step at all pool plants of the handler; and

(iii) The pounds of skim milk in receipts of bulk fluid milk products from an other order plant that are in excess of bulk fluid milk products transferred or diverted to such plant and that were not subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a)(7)(vi) of this section, if Class II or Class III classification is requested by the operator of the other order plant and the handler, but not in excess of the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II and Class III combined;

(9) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class, in series beginning with Class III, the pounds of skim milk in fluid milk products and products specified in § 1138.40(b)(1) in inventory at the beginning of the month that were not subtracted pursuant to paragraphs (a)(5) and (7)(i) of this section;

(10) Add to the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class III the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a)(1) of this section;

(11) Subject to the provisions of paragraphs (a)(11) (i) and (ii) of this section, subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class at the plant, pro rata to the total pounds of skim milk remaining in Class I and in Class II and Class III combined at this allocation step at all pool plants of the handler (excluding any duplication of utilization in each class resulting from transfers between pool plants of the handler), with the quantity pro-rated to Class II and Class III combined being subtracted first from Class III and then from Class II, the pounds of skim milk in receipts of fluid milk products from an unregulated supply plant that were not subtracted pursuant to paragraphs (a)(2), (7)(v), and (8) (i) and (ii) of this section and that were not offset by transfers or diversions of fluid milk products to the same unregulated supply plant from which fluid milk products to be allocated at this step were received:

(i) Should the pounds of skim milk to be subtracted from Class II and Class III combined pursuant to this subparagraph exceed the pounds of skim milk remaining in such classes, the pounds of skim milk in Class II and Class III combined shall be increased (increasing as necessary Class III and then Class II to the extent of available utilization in such classes at the nearest other pool plant of the handler, and then at each successively more distant pool plant of the handler) by an amount equal to such excess quantity to be subtracted, and the pounds of skim milk in Class I shall be decreased by a like amount. In such case, the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class at this allocation step at the handler's other pool plants shall be adjusted in the reverse direction by a like amount; and

(ii) Should the pounds of skim milk to be subtracted from Class I pursuant to this subparagraph exceed the pounds of skim milk remaining in such class, the pounds of skim milk in Class I shall be increased by an amount equal to such excess quantity to be subtracted, and the pounds of skim milk in Class II and Class III combined shall be decreased by a like amount (decreasing as necessary Class III and then Class II). In such case, the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class at this allocation step at the handler's other pool plants shall be adjusted in the reverse direction by a like amount, beginning with the nearest plant at which Class I utilization is available;

(12) Subtract in the manner specified below from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class the pounds of skim milk in receipts of bulk fluid milk products from an other order plant that are in excess of bulk fluid milk products transferred or diverted to such plant and that were not subtracted pursuant to paragraphs (a)(7)(vi) and (8)(iii) of this section:

(i) Subject to the provisions of paragraphs (a)(12)(ii), (iii), and (iv) of this section, such subtraction shall be pro rata to the pounds of skim milk in Class I and in Class II and Class III combined, with the quantity prorated to Class II and Class III combined being subtracted first from Class III and then from Class II, with respect to whichever of the following quantities represents the lower proportion of Class I milk.

(A) The estimated utilization of skim milk of all handlers in each class as announced for the month pursuant to § 1138.45(a); or

(B) The total pounds of skim milk remaining in each class at this allocation step at all pool plants of the handler (excluding any duplication of utilization in each class resulting from transfers between pool plants of the handler);

(ii) Should the proration pursuant to paragraph (a)(12)(i) of this section result in the total pounds of skim milk at all pool plants of the handler that are to be subtracted at this allocation step from Class II and Class III combined exceeding the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II and Class III at all such plants, the pounds of such excess shall be subtracted from the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class I after such proration at the pool plants at which such other source milk was received;

(iii) Except as provided in paragraph (a)(12)(ii) of this section, should the computations pursuant to paragraph (a)(12)(i) or (ii) of this section result in a quantity of skim milk to be subtracted from Class II and Class III combined that exceeds the pounds of skim milk remaining in such classes, the pounds of skim milk in Class II and Class III combined shall be increased (increasing as necessary Class III and then Class II to the extent of available utilization in such classes at the nearest other pool plant of the handler, and then at each successively more distant pool plant of the handler) by an amount equal to such excess quantity to be subtracted, and the pounds of skim milk in Class I shall be decreased by a like amount. In such case, the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class at this allocation step at the handler's other pool plants shall be adjusted in the reverse direction by a like amount; and

(iv) Except as provided in paragraph (a)(12)(ii) of this section, should the computations pursuant to paragraph (a)(12)(i) or (ii) of this section result in a quantity of skim milk to be subtracted from Class I that exceeds the pounds of skim milk remaining in such class, the pounds of skim milk in Class I shall be increased by an amount equal to such excess quantity to be subtracted, and the pounds of skim milk in Class II and Class III combined shall be decreased by a like amount (decreasing as necessary Class III and then Class II). In such case the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class at this allocation step at the handler's other pool plants shall be adjusted in the reverse direction by a like amount beginning with the nearest plant at which Class I utilization is available;

(13) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class the pounds of skim milk in receipts of fluid milk products and bulk fluid cream products from another pool plant according to the classification of such product pursuant to § 1138.42(a); and

(14) If the total pounds of skim milk remaining in all classes exceed the pounds of skim milk in producer milk and milk received from a handler described in § 1138.9(c), subtract such excess from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class in series beginning with Class III. Any amount so subtracted shall be known as "overage";

(b) Butterfat shall be allocated in accordance with the procedure outlined for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section; and

(c) The quantity of producer milk and milk received from a handler described in § 1138.9(c) in each class shall be the combined pounds of skim milk and butterfat remaining in each class after the computations pursuant to paragraph (a)(14) of this section and the corresponding step of paragraph (b) of this section.

§ 1138.45 Market Administrator's reports and announcements concerning classification.

The market administrator shall make the following reports and announcements concerning classification:

(a) Whenever required for the purpose of allocating receipts from other order plants pursuant to § 1138.44(a)(12) and the corresponding step of § 1138.44(b), estimate and publicly announce the utilization (to the nearest whole percentage) in each class during the month of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in producer milk of all handlers. Such estimate shall be based upon the most current available data and shall be final for such purpose.

(b) Report to the market administrator of the other order, as soon as possible after the report of receipts and utilization for the month is received from a handler who has received fluid milk products or bulk fluid cream products from an other order plant, the class to which such receipts are allocated pursuant to § 1138.44 on the basis of such report, and thereafter, any change in such allocation required to correct errors disclosed in the verification of such report.

(c) Furnish to each handler operating a pool plant who has shipped fluid milk products or bulk fluid cream products to an other order plant the class to which shipments were allocated by the market administrator of the other order on the basis of the report by the receiving handler, and, as necessary, any changes in such allocation arising from the verification of such report.

(d) On or before the 12th day after the end of the each month, report to each cooperative association which so requests, the amount and class utilization of milk received by each handler from producers whose milk is being marketed by such cooperative association. For the purpose of this report, the milk caused to be so delivered by a cooperative association shall be pro-rated to each class in the proportion that the total receipts of producer milk by such handler were used in each class.

Class Prices

Subject to the provisions of § 1138.53, the class prices for the month per hundredweight of milk shall be as follows: (a) Class I price. The Class I price shall be the basic formula price for the second preceding month plus $2.35.

(b) Class II price. The Class II price shall be computed by the Director of the Dairy Division and transmitted to the market administrator on or before the 15th day of the preceding month. The Class II price shall be the basic Class II formula price computed pursuant to § 1138.52 for the month plus the amount that the value computed pursuant to paragraph (b)(1) of this section exceeds the value computed pursuant to paragraph (b)(2) of this section, plus any amount by which the basic formula price for the second preceding month, adjusted pursuant to paragraphs (b)(1) and (b)(2) of this section, was less than the Class III price for the second preceding month.

(1) Determine for the most recent 12-month period the simple average (rounded to the nearest cent) of the basic formula prices computed pursuant to § 1138.51 and add 10 cents; and

(2) Determine for the same 12-month period as specified in paragraph (b)(1) of this section the simple average (rounded to the nearest cent) of the basic Class II formula prices computed pursuant to § 1138.52.

(c) Class III price. The Class III price shall be the basic formula price for the month.

§ 1138.51 Basic formula price.

The basic formula price shall be the average price per hundredweight for manufacturing grade milk f.o.b. plants in Minnesota and Wisconsin as reported by the Department for the month, adjusted to a 3.5 percent butterfat basis and rounded to the nearest cent. For such adjustment, the butterfat differential pursuant to § 1138.74 shall be used.

§ 1138.52 Basic Class II formula price.

The basic Class II formula price for the month shall be the basic formula price determined pursuant to § 1138.51 for the second preceding month plus or minus the amount computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) through (d) of this section:

(a) The gross values per hundredweight of milk used to manufacture cheddar cheese and butter-nonfat dry milk shall be computed, using price data determined pursuant to § 1138.20 and yield factors in effect under the Dairy Price Support Program authorized by the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, for the first 15 days of the preceding month and, separately, for the first 15 days of the second preceding month as follows:

(1) The gross value of milk used to manufacture cheddar cheese shall be the sum of the following computations:

(i) Multiply the cheddar cheese price by the yield factor used under the Price Support Program for cheddar cheese;

(ii) Multiply the butter price by the yield factor used under the Price Support Program for determining the butterfat component of the whey value in the cheese price computation; and

(iii) Subtract from the edible whey price the processing cost used under the Price Support Program for edible whey and multiply any positive difference by the yield factor used under the Price Support Program for edible whey.

(2) The gross value of milk used to manufacture butter-nonfat dry milk shall be the sum of the following computations:

(i) Multiply the butter price by the yield factor used under the Price Support Program for butter; and

(ii) Multiply the nonfat dry milk price by the yield factor used under the Price Support Program for nonfat dry milk.

(b) Determine the amounts by which the gross value per hundredweight of milk used to manufacture cheddar cheese and the gross value per hundredweight of milk used to manufacture butter-nonfat dry milk for the first 15 days of the preceding month exceed or are less than the respective gross values for the first 15 days of the second preceding month.

(c) Compute weighting factors to be applied to the changes in gross values determined pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section by determining the relative proportion that the data included in each of the following subparagraphs is of the total of the data represented in paragraphs (c)(1) and (2) of this section:

(1) Combine the total American cheese production for the States of Minnesota and Wisconsin, as reported by the National Agricultural Statistics Service of the Department for the third preceding month, and divide by the yield factor used under the Price Support Program for cheddar cheese to determine the quantity of milk used in the production of American cheddar cheese; and

(2) Combine the total nonfat dry milk production for the States of Minnesota and Wisconsin, as reported by the National Agricultural Statistics Service of the Department for the third preceding month, and divide by the yield factor used under the Price Support Program for nonfat dry milk to determine the quantity of milk used in the production of butter-nonfat dry milk.

(d) Compute a weighted average of the changes in gross values per hundredweight of milk determined pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section in accordance with the relative proportions of milk determined pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section.

§ 1138.53 Plant location adjustments for handlers.

For milk received at a plant from producers or a handler described in § 1138.9(c) and which is classified as Class I milk, the price specified in § 1138.50(a) shall be adjusted by the amount stated in paragraph (a) of this section for the location of such plant:

(a) For a plant located within one of the zones set forth in § 1138.2, the adjustment shall be as follows:

Zone	Adjustment per hundredweight
Zone 1	No adjustment.
Zone 2	Minus 15 cents.
Zone 3	Plus 14 cents.

(b) The Class I price applicable to other source milk shall be adjusted at the rates set forth in paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 1138.54 Announcement of class prices.

The market administrator shall announce publicly on or before the fifth day of each month the Class I price for the following month, the Class III price for the preceding month, and on or before the 15th day of each month the Class II price for the following month computed pursuant to § 1138.50(b).

§ 1138.55 Equivalent price.

If for any reason a price or pricing constituent required by this part for computing class prices or for other purposes is not available as prescribed in this part, the market administrator shall use a price or pricing constituent determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to the price or pricing constituent that is required.

Uniform Price

§ 1138.60 Handler's value of milk for computing uniform price.

For the purpose of computing the uniform price, the market administrator shall determine for each month the value of milk of each handler with respect to each of his pool plants and of each handler described in § 1138.9 (b) and (c) with respect to milk that was not received at a pool plant as follows:

(a) Multiply the pounds of producer milk and milk received from a handler described in § 1138.9(c) that were classified in each class pursuant to §§ 1138.43(a) and 1138.44(c) by the applicable class prices, and add the resulting amounts;

(b) Add the amounts obtained from multiplying the pounds of overage subtracted from each class pursuant to § 1138.44(a)(14) and the corresponding step of § 1138.44(b) by the respective class prices, as adjusted by the butterfat differential specified in § 1138.74, that are applicable at the location of the pool plant;

(c) Add the amount obtained from multiplying the difference between the Class III price for the preceding month and the Class I price applicable at the location of the pool plant or the Class II price, as the case may be, for the current month by the hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat subtracted from Class I and Class II pursuant to § 1138.44(a)(9) and the corresponding step of § 1138.44(b);

(d) And the amount obtained from multiplying the difference between the Class I price applicable at the location of the pool plant and the Class III price by the hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat subtracted from Class I pursuant to § 1138.44(a)(7) (i) through (iv) and (vii) and the corresponding step of § 1138.44(b), excluding receipts of bulk fluid cream products from an other order plant;

(e) Add the amount obtained from multiplying the difference between the Class I price applicable at the location of the transferor-plant and the Class III price by the hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat subtracted from Class I pursuant to § 1138.44(a)(7) (v) and (vi) and the corresponding step of § 1138.44(b);

(f) Add the amount obtained from multiplying the Class I price applicable at the location of the nearest unregulated supply plants from which an equivalent volume was received by the pounds of skim milk and butterfat subtracted from Class I pursuant to § 1138.44(a)(11) and the corresponding step of § 1138.44(b), excluding such skim milk and butterfat in receipts of bulk fluid milk products from an unregulated supply plant to the extent that an equivalent amount of skim milk or butterfat disposed of to such plant by handlers fully regulated under any Federal milk order is classified and priced as Class I milk and is not used as an offset for any other payment obligation under any order; and

(g) Subtract for a handler described in § 1138.9(c) the amount obtained from multiplying the Class III price for the preceding month by the hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat contained in inventory at the beginning of the month that was delivered to another handler's pool plant during the month.

§ 1138.61 Computation of uniform price.

The market administrator shall compute for each month the uniform price per hundredweight for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the values computed pursuant to § 1138.60 for all handlers who filed the reports prescribed in § 11.38.30 for the month and who made the payments pursuant to § 1138.71 for the preceding month;

(b) Add not less than one-half of the unobligated balance in the producer-settlement fund;

(c) Add the aggregate of all minus location adjustments and subtract the aggregate of all plus location adjustments computed pursuant to § 1138.75;

(d) Divide the resulting amount by the sum of the following for all handlers included in the computations;

(1) The total hundredweight of producer milk; and

(2) The total hundredweight for which a value is computed pursuant to § 1138.60(f); and

(e) Subtract not more than 5 cents. The result shall be the "uniform price" for milk received from producers.

§ 1138.62 Announcement of uniform price and butterfat differential.

The market administrator shall announce publicly on or before:

(a) The fifth day after the end of each month the butterfat differential for such month; and

(b) The 12th day after the end of each month the applicable uniform price pursuant to § 1138.61 for such month.

Payments for Milk

§ 1138.70 Producer-settlement fund.

The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to § § 1138.71, 1138.76 and 1138.77 and from which he shall make all payments pursuant to § § 1138.72 and 1138.77, except that payments to a cooperative association pursuant to § 1138.72 shall be offset by any payments due from such cooperative association pursuant to § 1138.71 that have not been received by the market administrator.

§ 1138.71 Payments to the producer-settlement fund.

(a) Subject to paragraph (d) of this section, each handler shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 14th day after the end of the month the amount, if any, by which the amount specified in paragraph (a)(1) of this section exceeds the amount specified in paragraph (a)(2) of this section:

(1) The total value of milk of the handler for such month as determined pursuant to § 1138.60.

(2) The sum of:

(i) The value at the uniform price, as adjusted pursuant to § 1138.75, of such handler's receipts of producer milk and milk received from handlers pursuant to § 1138.9(c). In the case of a cooperative association which is a handler, less the amount due from other handlers pursuant to § 1138.73(d), exclusive of differential butterfat values; and

(ii) The value at the uniform price applicable at the location of the plant from which received of other source milk for which a value is computed pursuant to § 1138.60(f).

(b) Subject to paragraph (d) of this section, each person who operated a plant that was regulated during such month under an order providing for individual-handler pooling shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 25th day after the end of each month an amount computed as follows:

(1) Determine the quantity of reconstituted skim milk in filled milk in route disposition from such plant in the marketing area which was allocated to Class I at such plant. If there is such route disposition from such plant in marketing areas regulated by two or more marketwide pool orders, the reconstituted skim milk allocated to Class I shall be prorated to each order according to such route disposition in each marketing area; and

(2) Compute the value of the reconstituted skim milk assigned in paragraph (b)(1) of this section to route disposition in this marketing area by multiplying the quantity of such skim milk by the difference between the Class I price under this part that is applicable at the location of the other order plant (but not to be less than the Class III price) and the Class III price.

(c) Any handler who the market administrator determines was more than 3 days late in making any payment obligation under part 1138 shall pay to the market administrator the amount the handler would have otherwise been required to pay to producers and cooperative associations pursuant to § 1138.73. Payment shall be made to the market administrator on or before the day prior to the dates specified in § 1138.73 and such payments shall continue until the handler has met all payment obligations for 3 consecutive months.

(d) The following conditions shall apply with respect to payments prescribed in paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of this section:

(1) Payments to the market administrator shall be deemed not to have been made until such payments have been received by the market administrator.

(2) If the date by which payments must be received by the market administrator falls on a Saturday or Sunday or any day that is a national holiday, payment shall not be due until the next day on which the market administrator's office is open for public business.

(3) Payments due the market administrator from a cooperative association handler may be offset by payments determined by the market administrator to be due the cooperative association pursuant to § 1138.73 (b) and (d).

§ 1138.72 Payments from the producer-settlement fund.

(a) On or before the 15th day after the end of each month the market administrator shall pay to each handler except one making payment pursuant to § 1138.71(c) the amount, if any, by which the amount computed pursuant to § 1138.71(a)(2) exceeds the amount computed pursuant to § 1138.71(a)(1).

(b) If the market administrator received payment from a handler(s) pursuant to § 1138.71(c), he shall distribute such amount plus any amount due such handler(s) pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section to producers and to cooperative associations in the same manner as provided in § 1138.73. In the event the handler fails to transmit the total amount due, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly the payments due to producers of such handler and complete such payments when the remaining amount is received.

(c) If at any time the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the appropriate funds are available.

§ 1138.73 Payments to producers and to cooperative associations.

(a) Except as provided in § 1138.71(c) and paragraphs (b), (d) and (f) of this section, each handler shall make payment to each producer from whom milk is received during the month as follows:

(1) On or before the last day of each month each producer who did not discontinue shipping milk to such handler before the 23rd day of the month, an amount equal to not less than the previous month's uniform price (adjusted for location of such plant) multiplied by the hundredweight of milk received from such producer during the first 15 days of the month, less proper deductions authorized in writing by the producer, provided that the deductions do not exceed the value of the milk received during the partial payment period and the handler has paid such deductions to assignees by the date payment is otherwise due the producer.

(2) On or before the 17th day of the following month, an amount equal to not less than the appropriate uniform price adjusted by the butterfat differential and location adjustments to producers multiplied by the hundredweight of milk received from such producer during the month, subject to the following adjustments:

(i) Less payments made to such producer pursuant to paragraph (a)(1) of this section;

(ii) Less deductions for marketing services made pursuant to § 1138.86;

(iii) Plus or minus adjustments for errors made in previous payments made to such producer; and

(iv) Less proper deductions authorized in writing by such producer, provided that the deductions do not exceed the value of the milk received during the final payment period and the handler has paid such deductions to assignees by the date payment is otherwise due to the producer: Provided, That if by such date such handler had not received full payment from the market administrator pursuant to § 1138.72(a) for such month, he may reduce pro rata his payments to producers by not more than the amount of such underpayment. Payments to producer shall be completed thereafter not later than the date for making payments pursuant to this paragraph next following after the receipt of the balance due from the market administrator.

(b) Except as provided in paragraph (f) of this section, in the case of a cooperative association which the market administrator determines is authorized by those producers for whom it markets milk to collect payment for their milk and which has so requested any handler in writing, such handler other than one specified in § 1138.71(c) shall on or before the 2nd day prior to the date on which payments are due individual producers pay the cooperative association for milk received during the month from those producers for whom it markets milk as determined by the market administrator an amount equal to not less than the amount due such producers as determined pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) In making payments to producers pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, or to a cooperative association pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section, each handler shall furnish such producer or cooperative association with respect to each of the producers for whom it markets milk and from whom the handler received milk during the month, a written statement showing:

(1) The identity of the handler and the producer and the month to which the payment applies;

(2) The total pounds, and, with respect to final payments, the average butterfat content of the milk for which payment is being made;

(3) The minimum rate of payment required by the order and the rate of payment used if such rate is other than the applicable minimum rate;

(4) The amount and nature of any deductions from the amount otherwise due the producer; and

(5) The new amount of payment to the producer.

(d) Except as provided in § 1138.71(c) and paragraph (f) of this section, each handler pursuant to § 1138.9(a) who receives milk from a cooperative association as a handler pursuant to § 1138.9(c), including the milk of producers who are not members of such association, and who the market administrator determines have authorized such cooperative association to collect payment for their milk, shall pay such cooperative for such milk as follows:

(1) On or before the 2nd day prior to the last day of the month for milk received during the first 15 days of the month, not less than the applicable partial payment rate specified for such month in paragraph (a)(1) of this section; and

(2) On or before the 15th day of the following month for milk received during the month, not less than the uniform price as adjusted pursuant to § 1138.74 and § 1138.75, less any payments made pursuant to paragraph (a)(1) of this section.

(e) Except as provided in § 1138.71(c), each handler who received bulk fluid milk or bulk fluid cream products from a pool plant operated by a cooperative association shall pay the following amounts for such products to the cooperative association:

(1) On or before the 2nd day prior to the last day of each month, an amount determined by multiplying such receipts during the first 15 days of the month by the applicable partial payment rate specified for such month in paragraph (a)(1) of this section. If the handler so elects, such price may be adjusted by the butterfat differential specified in § 1138.74 for the preceding month.

(2) On or before the 15th day after the end of each month, an amount determined by multiplying the quantity of such receipts during the month that was classified in each class pursuant to § 1138.42(a) by the applicable class price, as adjusted by the butterfat differential specified in § 1138.74, less any payments made by the handler pursuant to paragraph (e)(1) of this section for such month. For the purpose of such computation, the applicable Class I price shall be the Class I price applicable at the transferee plant including the applicable administrative assessment rate.

(f) If the application of § 1138.71(d)(2) results in a delay in payment by the market administrator to handlers, the payments prescribed in paragraphs (a), (b) and (d) of this section may be delayed by the same number of days.

(g) If the market administrator does not receive the full payment required of a handler pursuant to § 1138.71(c), he shall reduce uniformly per hundredweight the payments due producers and cooperative associations for their milk received by such handler by a total amount not in excess of the amount due from such handler. The market administrator shall complete such payments on or before the next date for making payments pursuant to this section following the date on which the remaining payment is received from such handler.

§ 1138.74 Butterfat differential.

For milk containing more or less than 3.5 percent butterfat, the uniform price shall be increased or decreased, respectively, for each one-tenth percent butterfat variation from 3.5 percent by a butterfat differential, rounded to the nearest one-tenth cent, which shall be 0.138 times the butter price less 0.0028 times the average price per hundredweight, at test, for manufacturing grade milk, f.o.b. plants in Minnesota and Wisconsin, as reported by the Department for the month. The butter price means the simple average for the month of the daily prices per pound of Grade A (92-score) butter. The prices used shall be those of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange as reported and published weekly by the Dairy Division, Agricultural Marketing Service. The average shall be computed by the Director of the Dairy Division, using the price reported each week as the daily price for that day and for each following day until the next price is reported.

§ 1138.75 Plant location adjustments for producers and on nonpool milk.

(a) In making payments required pursuant to § 1138.73, the uniform price computed pursuant to § 1138.61 shall be adjusted by the amounts set forth in § 1138.53 according to the location of the plant where the milk being priced was received.

(b) For the purpose of computations pursuant to §§ 1138.71 and 1138.72, the uniform price shall be adjusted by the amount set forth in § 1138.53 that is applicable at the location of the non-pool plant from which the milk was received.

§ 1138.76 Payments by a handler operating a partially regulated distributing plant.

Each handler who operates a partially regulated distributing plant shall pay on or before the 25th day after the end of the month to the market administrator for the producer-settlement fund the amount computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section. If the handler submits pursuant to § 1138.30(b) and § 1138.31(b) the information necessary for making the computations, such handler may elect to pay in lieu of such payment the amount computed pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section:

(a) The payment under this paragraph shall be the amount resulting from the following computations:

(1) Determine the pounds of route disposition in the marketing area from the partially regulated distributing plant:

(2) Subtract the pounds of fluid milk products received at the partially regulated distributing plant:

(i) As Class I milk from pool plants and other order plants, except that subtracted under a similar provision of another Federal milk order; and

(ii) From another nonpool plant that is not an other order plant to the extent that an equivalent amount of fluid milk products disposed of to such nonpool plant by handlers fully regulated under any Federal milk order is classified and priced as Class I milk and is not used as an offset for any other payment obligation under any order;

(3) Subtract the pounds of reconstituted skim milk in route disposition in the marketing area from the partially regulated distributing plant;

(4) Multiply the remaining pounds by the difference between the Class I price and the uniform price, both prices to be applicable at the location of the partially regulated distributing plant; and

(5) Add the amount obtained from multiplying the pounds of reconstituted skim milk specified in paragraph (a)(3) of this section by the difference between the Class I price applicable at the location of the partially regulated distributing plant and the Class III price.

(b) The payment under this paragraph shall be the amount resulting from the following computations:

(1) Determine the value that would have been computed pursuant to § 1138.60 for the partially regulated distributing plant if the plant had been a pool plant, subject to the following modifications:

(i) Fluid milk products and bulk fluid cream products received at the partially regulated distributing plant from a pool plant or an other order plant shall be allocated at the partially regulated distributing plant to the same class in which such products were classified at the fully regulated plant;

(ii) Fluid milk products and bulk fluid cream products transferred from the partially regulated distributing plant to a pool plant or an other order plant shall be classified at the partially regulated distributing plant in the class to which allocated at the fully regulated plant. Such transfers shall be allocated to the extent possible to those receipts at the partially regulated distributing plant from pool plants and other order plants that are classified in the corresponding class pursuant to paragraph (b)(1)(i) of this section. Any such transfers remaining after the above allocation which are classified in Class I and for which a value is computed for the handler operating the partially regulated distributing plant pursuant to § 1138.60 shall be priced at the uniform price (or at the weighted average price if such is provided) of the respective order regulating the handling of milk at the transferee-plant, with such uniform price adjusted to the location of the nonpool plant (but not to be less than the lowest class price of the respective order), except that transfers of reconstituted skim milk in filled milk shall be priced at the lowest class price of the respective order; and

(iii) If the operator of the partially regulated distributing plant so requests, the value of milk determined pursuant to § 1138.60 for such handler shall include, in lieu of the value of other source milk specified in § 1138.60(f) less the value of such other source milk specified in § 1138.71(a)(2)(ii), a value of milk determined pursuant to § 1138.60 for each nonpool plant that is not an other order plant which serves as a supply plant for such partially regulated distributing plant by making shipments to the partially regulated distributing plant during the month equivalent to the requirements of § 1138.7(b) subject to the following conditions:

(A) The operator of the partially regulated distributing plant submits with its reports filed pursuant to §§ 1138.30(b) and 1138.31(b) similar reports for each such nonpool supply plant;

(B) The operator of such nonpool supply plant maintains books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat received at such plant which are made available if requested by the market administrator for verification purposes; and

(C) The value of milk determined pursuant to § 1138.60 for such nonpool supply plant shall be determined in the same manner prescribed for computing the obligation of such partially regulated distributing plant; and

(2) From the partially regulated distributing plant's value of milk computed pursuant to paragraph (b)(1) of this section, subtract:

(i) The gross payments by the operator of such partially regulated distributing plant, adjusted to a 3.5 percent butterfat basis by the butterfat differential specified in § 1138.74, for milk received at the plant during the month that would have been producer milk if the plant had been fully regulated.

(ii) If paragraph (b)(1)(iii) of this section applies, the gross payments by the operator of such nonpool supply plant, adjusted to a 3.5 percent butterfat basis by the butterfat differential specified in § 1138.74, for milk received at the plant during the month that would have been producer milk if the plant had been fully regulated; and

(iii) The payments by the operator of the partially regulated distributing plant to the producer-settlement fund of another order under which such plant is also a partially regulated distributing plant and like payments by the operator of the nonpool supply plant if paragraph (b)(1)(iii) of this section applies.

§ 1138.77 Adjustment of accounts.

Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's reports, books, records, or accounts discloses adjustments to be made, for any reason, which results in monies due the market administrator from such handler, the market administrator shall promptly notify such handler of any such amount due, and payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payment set forth in the provision under which the error occurred. Any monies found to be due a handler from the market administrator shall be paid promptly to such handler, except that the market administrator shall offset any monies due a handler against monies due from such handler. Whenever verification by the market administrator of the payment by a handler to any producer or cooperative association for milk received by such handler discloses payment of less than is required pursuant to § 1138.73, the handler shall pay such balance due such producer or cooperative association not later than the time of making payment to producers or cooperative associations next following such disclosure.

§ 1138.78 Charges on overdue accounts.

Any unpaid obligation of a handler pursuant to §§ 1138.71, 1138.73, 1138.76, 1138.77, 1138.85, or 1138.86 shall be increased 1 percent beginning on the first day after the due date, and on the same day of each subsequent month until such obligation is paid, subject to the following conditions:

(a) The amounts payable pursuant to this section shall be computed monthly on each unpaid obligation, which shall include any unpaid charges previously computed pursuant to this section; and

(b) For the purpose of this section, any obligation that was determined at a date later than prescribed by the order because of a handler's failure to submit a report to the market administrator when due shall be considered to have been payable by the date it would have been due if the report had been filed when due.

(c) All monies collected pursuant to this section shall be paid to the administrative assessment fund maintained by the market administrator.

Administrative Assessment and Marketing Service Deduction

§ 1138.85 Assessment for order administration.

As each handler's pro rata share of the expense of administration of the order, each handler shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of the month 5 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary may prescribe with respect to:

(a) Receipts of producer milk (including such handler's own production) other than such receipts by a handler described in § 1138.9(c) that were delivered to pool plants of other handlers or held in inventory at the end of the month;

(b) Receipts from a handler described in § 1138.9(c);

(c) Other source milk allocated to Class I pursuant to § 1138.44(a) (7) and (11) and the corresponding steps of § 1138.44(b), except such other source milk that is excluded from the computation pursuant to § 1138.60 (d) and (f); and

(d) Route disposition from a partially regulated distributing plant in the marketing area that exceeds the skim milk and butterfat specified in § 1138.76(a)(2).

§ 1138.86 Deduction for marketing services.

(a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, each handler, in making payments to producers pursuant to § 1138.73, shall deduct 6 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to the milk of such producer (except a handler's own farm production) for whom the marketing services set forth in this paragraph are not being performed by a cooperative association as determined by the Secretary. Each handler making such deductions shall pay the deductions to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of the month. The monies shall be used by the market administrator to verify or establish weights, samples and tests of producer milk and provide producers with market information. The services shall be performed by the market administrator or an agent engaged by and responsible to the market administrator.

(b) In the case of producers for whom a cooperative association is actually performing the services set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, each handler shall make, in lieu of the deduction specified in paragraph (a) of this section, such deductions from the payments to be made to such producer as may be authorized by the membership agreement or marketing contract between such cooperative association and such producers, and on or before the 15th day after the end of each month, pay such deduction to the cooperative association rendering such services accompanied by a statement showing the quantity of milk for which such deduction was computed for each such producer.

9 CFR Part 73

Scabies in Cattle

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: We are amending the scabies in cattle regulations by removing all references to "Deputy Administrator" and replacing them with references to "Administrator." We are also removing certain references to "Veterinary Services" and replacing them with references to "Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service." These changes are warranted so the regulations will accurately reflect that the Administrator of the agency holds the primary authority and responsibility for various decisions under the regulations.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 21, 1991.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Granville H. Frye, Chief Staff Veterinarian, Cattle Diseases and Surveillance Staff, VS, APHIS, USDA, room 729, Federal Building, 6505 Belcrest Road, Hyattsville, MD 20782; 301–436–8711.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The regulations in 9 CFR part 73 (referred to below as the regulations) regulate the interstate movement of certain cattle in order to help prevent the spread of cattle scabies. Prior to the effective date of this document, these regulations indicated that the Deputy Administrator, Veterinary Services, of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) was the official responsible for various decisions under these regulations. We are revising 9 CFR part 73 to indicate that the primary authority and responsibility for various decisions under these regulations belongs to the Administrator of the agency. We are making similar revisions in all other APHIS regulations. These revisions will be published in separate Federal Register documents.

We are removing all references to "Deputy Administrator" and replacing them with references to "Administrator," and removing references to "Veterinary Services" and replacing them with references to "Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS)." We are also adding a definition of "Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service." In addition, we are making nonsubstantive wording changes for clarity.

This rule relates to internal agency management. Therefore, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 553, notice of proposed rulemaking and opportunity to comment are not required, and this rule may be made effective less than 30 days after publication in the Federal Register. Further, since this rule relates to internal agency management, it is exempt from the provisions of Executive Order 12291. Finally, this action is not a rule as defined by Public Law 96–354, the Regulatory Flexibility Act, and thus is exempt from the provisions of that Act.

Paperwork Reduction Act

This rule contains no new information collection or recordkeeping requirements under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.).

Executive Order 12372

BILLING CODE 3410–34–M

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

13 CFR Part 121

Small Business Size Regulations; Waiver of the Nonmanufacturer Rule

AGENCY: Small Business Administration.

ACTION: Notice of denial of waiver of the "nonmanufacturer rule" for petroleum products.

SUMMARY: This notice advises the public of the Small Business Administration's (SBA) decision not to grant a waiver of the so-called "nonmanufacturer rule" for the nine classes of petroleum products cited in a notice of intent to waive the rule for these products, published in the Federal Register on September 4, 1990 (55 FR 35908). This decision to deny a waiver is based on information received in response to that notice indicating that there is greater participation in the Federal procurement market by small refiners than was previously known. Also, a recent statutory change now requires that SBA consider all firms available to participate in the Federal procurement market when rendering decisions regarding waivers of the nonmanufacturer rule. The new information, together with the new statutory language, broadens consideration to small refiners in at least twenty geographical areas, rather than the seven cited in the notice of proposed intent to waive the Rule.

For information purposes only, the public is also advised that waivers of the Nonmanufacturer Rule may now be granted by SBA on individual solicitations after reviewing a determination by a contracting officer that no small business can reasonably be expected to supply a product meeting the specifications (including period of performance) required of an offeror by the solicitation.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 21, 1991.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: James Fairbairn, Office of Procurement Policy and Liaison, (202) 205–6465.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On November 15, 1988, Public Law 100–656 incorporated into the Small Business Act the previously existing SBA requirement that recipients of supply contracts that are other than the actual manufacturer (nonmanufacturers) set aside for small business or the 8(a) program must provide the products of a small business manufacturer or processor. Section 303(h) of Public Law 100–656 also provided that SBA may waive this requirement for any class of products for which there are no small business manufacturers or processors in the Federal market. In accordance with this provision for waiver, SBA published a notice of proposed intent to waive the nonmanufacturer rule for nine classes of petroleum products in the Federal Register on September 4, 1990. The products being considered for waiver included automotive gasoline, burner fuels, diesel fuels, kerosene, military specification type residuals, special and heavy grade fuel and other black (boiler type) fuels, bunker C commercial grade fuels, and illuminating oils. The basis for that intended waiver was that although small manufacturers or processors had provided each of the nine classes to the Federal government, SBA believed that it was reasonable to grant a waiver if it excluded certain geographical market areas in which small refiners had supplied the products. As discussed in the notice, SBA generally considers waivers on a national basis, unless the products are not supplied on a national basis. In such cases, SBA may consider such factors as perishability of the product, transportation costs relative to the value of the good, and potential entry into a market area by small businesses, before defining a market area on a less than national basis. An SBA review of contract awards for petroleum products during 1987–1989 revealed that only seven small refiners had been awarded direct contracts, and that they supplied their products within limited market areas.

Two comment letters received in response to the notice of intent to issue a waiver raised concerns regarding SBA's definition of "the Federal market". One letter indicated that the Federal market is broader than that which SBA considered in its review. One reason given was the changing nature and competitiveness of the petroleum refining industry makes it difficult to identify the markets in which small businesses participate at any given time. While SBA examined participation of small refiners during the period from 1987–1989, nine additional small refiners that had received Federal contracts during the past ten years either offered on or were awarded contracts in 1990. This point was meant to demonstrate that refiners often enter the market and are not restricted to a limited area. Also, SBA did not consider small refiners that had offered, but not received a contract, as being in the Federal market. If such firms had been included in the review, the number of geographical areas in which small refiners compete would have to be expanded to at least twenty. Another comment letter suggested that SBA's definition of the Federal market should include refiners that have provided petroleum through dealers. It was further suggested that the effect of granting such a waiver would be to allow dealers to provide the products of large refiners on set-aside or 8(a) contracts. This would result in fewer purchases from small refiners, which is opposite of the purpose of the Nonmanufacturer Rule.

Section 210 of Public Law 101–574, enacted on November 15, 1990, amended the language of the Small Business Act to allow for the granting of waivers for classes of products for which there are "no small business manufacturers or processors available to participate in the Federal procurement market." (emphasis added).

The comments have satisfactorily demonstrated to SBA that small refiners are in the Federal market or are available to participate in greater numbers than had been previously realized by SBA. Taking these considerations into account, there are at least twenty geographical areas that would have to be made exempt under a waiver. This number of areas demonstrates the diversity of small refiners available to participate in the Federal market. Also, the demonstrated potential for small refiners to enter the market does not allow the position that stable geographic market areas can be defined. Accordingly, SBA cannot issue a waiver for the nine petroleum products as proposed in the Federal Register on September 4, 1990.

We also received a comment to the notice of intent from several 8(a) dealers. They argued that the proposed waiver should be expanded to include jet fuel. As explained in the notice of intent in the Federal Register, other petroleum products were not included because small refiners supply those products in a national market rather than in one that is geographically restrictive. Waivers may only be granted for classes of products when there are no small business manufacturers or processors available to participate in the Federal market.

While this notice denies a waiver for petroleum products, the public is advised for information purposes only that it is possible that SBA may grant waivers of the nonmanufacturer rule on individual solicitations under certain conditions. Section 210 of Public Law 101–574 now permits SBA to waive the rule on individual solicitations after reviewing a determination by a contracting officer that no small business manufacturer or processor can be reasonably expected to offer a product meeting the specifications (including period of performance) required of an offeror on a specific solicitation.

Federal Aviation Administration

14 CFR Part 71

[Airspace Docket No. 90–ASW–51]

Establishment of Transition Area: Hugo, OK

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This action establishes a transition area at Hugo, OK. The development of a new standard instrument approach procedure (SIAP) to the Stan Stamper Municipal Airport utilizing the new Hugo Nondirectional Radio Beacon (NDB), makes this action necessary. The effect of this action is to provide adequate controlled airspace for aircraft executing the new NDB Runway 25 SIAP. This action upgrades the status of the Stan Stamper Municipal Airport from visual flight rules (VFR) operations only to include instrument flight rules (IFR) operations.

EFFECTIVE DATE: 0901 u.t.c., January 9, 1992.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mark F. Kennedy, System Management Branch, Air Traffic Division, Southwest Region, Department of Transportation, Federal Aviation Administration, Fort Worth, TX 76193–0530, telephone (817) 624–5561.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

History

On November 28, 1990, the FAA proposed to amend part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) to establish a transition area at Hugo, OK (55 FR 51430).

Interested persons were invited to participate in this rulemaking proceeding by submitting written comments on the proposal to the FAA. No comments objecting to the proposal were received. Except for editorial changes, this amendment is that proposed in the notice. Section 71.181 of part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations was republished in Handbook 7400.6G, dated September 4, 1990.

The Rule

This amendment to part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations will establish a transition area located at Hugo, OK. The development of a new SIAP (NDB Runway 35) at the Stan Stamper Municipal Airport makes this action necessary. This action will establish a 700-foot transition area around the Stan Stamper Municipal Airport with a radius of 6.5 miles and an arrival extension to the south. The effect of this action will provide adequate controlled airspace for aircraft executing the new NDB Runway 35 SIAP. This action upgrades the status of the Stan Stamper Municipal Airport from VFR only to include IFR operations.

The FAA has determined that this regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. It, therefore—(1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. Since this is a routine mater that will only affect air traffic procedures and air navigation, it is certified that this rule, when promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This action revises the transition area located at Muleshoe, TX. The Edward Warren Field has been closed and a new airport, Muleshoe Municipal Airport, has been constructed to serve the area. The subsequent development of a new VHF omni-directional radio range/distance measuring equipment, Alpha (VOR/DME–A) standard instrument approach procedure (SIAP) to the new airport makes this action necessary. The effect of this proposal is to provide adequate controlled airspace for aircraft executing the new VOR/DME–A SIAP. This action upgrades the status of the Muleshoe Municipal Airport from visual flight rules (VFR) operations only to include operations under instrument flight rules (IFR).

EFFECTIVE DATE: 0901 u.t.c., January 9, 1992.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

History

On June 14, 1991, the FAA proposed to amend part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) to revise the transition area located at Muleshoe, TX (56 FR 30353).

Interested persons were invited to participate in this rulemaking proceeding by submitting written comments on the proposal to the FAA. No comments objecting to the proposal were received. Except for editorial changes, this amendment is that proposed in the notice. Section 71.181 of part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations was republished in Handbook 7400.6G, dated September 4, 1990.

The Rule

This amendment to part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations will revise the transition area located at Muleshoe, TX. The construction of the new Muleshoe Municipal Airport after the closure of Edward Warren Field and the development of a new VOR/DME–A SIAP to the new airport, makes this action necessary. The effect of this action will provide adequate controlled airspace for all aircraft executing the new VOR/DME–A SIAP. This action revises the status of the Muleshoe Municipal Airport from VFR operations only to include IFR operations.

The FAA has determined that this regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. It, therefore—(1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. Since this is a routine matter that will only affect air traffic procedures and air navigation, it is certified that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Adoption of the Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me, part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) is amended as follows:

Amendment, Control Zone and Transition Area, Pullman, WA

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This action amends the Pullman, Washington Control Zone and Transition Area. This action is necessary because a new VHF Omnidirectional Range/Distance Measuring Equipment (VOR–DME–A) approach is being established for the Pullman/Moscow Regional Airport. This will define new controlled airspace that will contain the new procedure and will accurately define the controlled airspace for pilot reference. The changes will be depicted on aeronautical charts.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

History

On June 19, 1991, the FAA proposed to amend part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) to amend the Control Zone and Transition Area, Pullman, Washington (56 FR 28122). Interested parties were invited to participate in this rulemaking proceeding by submitting written comments on the proposal to the FAA. No comments objecting to the proposal were received. The Control Zone and Transition Area at Pullman, Washington, have been revised to define the controlled airspace that will contain the new VOR/DME–A approach. Accordingly, the control zone rule is adopted as proposed. The transition area rule is adopted as proposed, except for a correction to ensure that the area coincides with the control zone, in accordance with established FAA policy and historical practice. Sections 71.171 and 71.181 of part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations were republished in Handbook 7400.6G dated September 4, 1990.

The Rule

This amendment to part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations amends the legal description of the Control Zone and Transition Area at Pullman, Washington. The revision to the Control Zone and Transition Area is necessary to define the controlled airspace that will contain the new VOR/DME–A approach being established for the Pullman/Moscow Regional Airport.

The FAA has determined that this regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. It, therefore—(1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. Since this is a routine matter that will only affect air traffic procedures and air navigation, it is certified that this rule will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

RIN 0960–AB34

Federal Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance Overpayment Recovery by Offset of Federal Income Tax Refund

AGENCY: Social Security Administration, HHS.

ACTION: Final rules with request for comments.

SUMMARY: These final regulations govern participation of the Social Security Administration (SSA) in the Federal income tax refund offset program established under section 2653 of the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984, Public Law 98–369. Section 5129 of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 (OBRA 1990), Public Law 101–508, amended the statutes that govern the tax refund offset program, 31 U.S.C. 3720A and 26 U.S.C. 6402(d), to permit the recovery of Social Security overpayments through the withholding of amounts due to former Social Security beneficiaries as Federal income tax refunds. Section 5129 also amended section 204(a)(1)(A) of the Social Security Act (the Act) to add the Federal income tax refund offset to the list of overpayment recovery methods available to the Secretary. In these final rules, we reflect the provisions of these statutes and explain the procedures that we will follow in implementing this legislation. Although these regulations are being published as final rules, we are asking for comments on the regulations from members of the public. After the end of the comment period, we will consider carefully any comments we receive to determine whether any changes are necessary.

DATES: Effective Date: October 21, 1991.

Comment Date: Comments must be submitted on or before December 20, 1991.

ADDRESSES: Comments on these final rules should be submitted in writing to the Commissioner of Social Security, Department of Health and Human Services, P.O. Box 1585, Baltimore, Maryland 21235, or delivered to the Office of Regulations, Social Security Administration, 3–B–1 Operations Building, 6401 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, Maryland 21235 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on regular business days. Comments received may be inspected during these same hours by making arrangements with the contact person shown below.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 2653 of the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984, codified at 31 U.S.C. 3720A and 26 U.S.C. 6402(d), authorized the Secretary of the Treasury, upon receiving notice from a Federal agency that a named individual owes the agency a past-due, legally enforceable debt, to withhold all or a part of any income tax refund that is due to the debtor and pay the amount withheld to the agency. Section 2653 specifically precluded the use of these procedures to recover overpayments of Social Security benefits paid under title II of the Act (title II overpayments). Section 5129 of OBRA 1990 removed this restriction and provided authority for us to recover certain title II overpayments through the withholding of Federal income tax refunds. Section 5129 also amended section 204(a)(1)(A) of the Act to add the Federal income tax offset to the list of overpayment recovery methods available to the Secretary.

Under 31 U.S.C. 3720A, a Federal agency that is owed a past-due, legally enforceable debt by an individual may notify the Secretary of the Treasury of the debt in accordance with regulations issued by the Department of the Treasury. The applicable Treasury regulations are codified at 26 CFR 301.6402–6T. Before an agency may refer a debt to Treasury, it must, under 31 U.S.C. 3702A, take the following actions: (1) Notify the debtor that the agency proposes to refer the debt for tax refund offset; (2) give the debtor at least 60 days to present evidence that all or part of the debt is not past-due or not legally enforceable; (3) consider all evidence the debtor presents in determining that all or a part of the debt is past-due and legally enforceable; and (4) satisfy any other conditions that the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe to ensure that the agency's findings are valid and that the agency has made reasonable efforts to obtain the payment of the debt. Section 5129 of OBRA 1990 added several additional conditions to the referral of title II overpayments for offset. These include: (1) The overpaid individual may not be currently entitled to Social Security benefits under title II of the Act; (2) the notice that we send to the overpaid individual concerning our intent to seek the offset must describe the conditions under which we are required to waive recovery of an overpayment under section 204(b) of the Act; and (3) if the overpaid individual requests that we waive recovery of the overpayment within the 60-day period allowed under the program for presenting evidence that the debt is not past due or not legally enforceable, we may not certify the overpayment to Treasury without first issuing a determination on the waiver request. The Federal income tax refund offset statutory provisions, and thus these final rules, apply with respect to tax refunds payable on or before January 10, 1994.

Following enactment of the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984, The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) published regulations implementing the tax refund offset provisions. See 53 FR 25592 (July 8, 1988). These HHS regulations are codified at 45 CFR part 31. The final rules we are now issuing to reflect section 5129 of OBRA 1990 parallel the provisions of the statute and the HHS and Treasury Department regulations.

Explanation of Changes to Regulations

We are adding a new § 404.520 to our regulations to provide general information about the tax refund offset program and to explain that we may pursue collection of an overpayment through this program if the overpaid individual is not entitled to benefits. The new regulatory section also explains that we will not initiate the tax refund offset to collect an overpayment sooner than 3 months or later than 10 years after our right to collect the overpayment first accrued.

We are adding a new § 404.521 to explain that before we refer an overpayment to the Treasury Department, through the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), we will notify the overpaid individual of our intention to do so. This notice will advise the individual of the amount of the overpayment and the conditions under which we will waive recovery of an overpayment under section 204(b) of the Act. The notice will also explain that unless, within 60 days from the date of our notice, the overpaid individual repays the overpayment, presents evidence that the overpayment is not past due or not legally enforceable, or requests a waiver of the overpayment, we will refer the overpayment to the IRS to offset any tax refund payable to the overpaid individual. The notice additionally will advise the individual of the right to inspect and copy our records related to the overpayment.

The rules in §§ 404.522 and 404.523 explain our procedures for reviewing and making findings when an overpaid individual submits evidence that an overpayment is not past due or not legally enforceable.

The rules in § 404.524 explain our procedures for the overpaid individual who wishes to review our records related to the overpayment.

The rules in § 404.525 explain that if, within 60 days after the date of our notice of intent to seek an offset, an individual presents evidence that the overpayment is not past due or not legally enforceable or asks us to waive collection of the overpayment, we will suspend our referral of the overpayment to the IRS for offset until we issue written findings that affirm that all or a part of the overpayment is past due and legally enforceable and, where appropriate, determine that waiver of the overpayment is unwarranted.

The rules in § 404.526 set out our intention, in cases where a tax refund is insufficient in a tax year to satisfy the amount of the overpayment, to recertify to the IRS in the following year any amount of the overpayment that remains as long as the remainder of the overpayment continues to meet the criteria for referral under the tax refund offset program in the following year.

We are adding to § 404.903 a new paragraph (p) to include in the list of administrative actions that are not initial determinations findings on whether we can collect an overpayment by using the Federal income tax refund offset procedure. Administrative actions that are not initial determinations may be reviewed by us, but they are not subject to the administrative review process provided by subpart J of our regulations, and they are not subject to judicial review.

Regulatory Procedures

We are publishing these regulations as final rules with a request for comments instead of proposed rules. Even when not required to do so by statute, HHS as a matter of policy, generally follows the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) notice of proposed rulemaking and public comment procedures specified in 5 U.S.C. 553 in the development of its regulations. The APA provides exceptions to its notice and public comment procedures when an agency finds that there is good cause for dispensing with such procedures on the basis that they are impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest. In the case of these rules, we have determined that under 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(B), good cause exists for waiving the notice of proposed rulemaking procedures. These rules implement statutory provisions for reporting certain Social Security overpayments to the IRS so that an offset against an income tax refund due the overpaid individual can be effectuated. Since the rules reflect statutory provisions and existing HHS regulations which govern the referral of debts to the IRS for tax refund offset, we believe that using the proposed rulemaking procedures would be unnecessary.

These final regulations differ from the current HHS regulations only to the extent necessary to reflect specific statutory requirements or to conform to existing SSA regulatory or nonsubstantive procedural requirements. The differences required by section 5129 of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 are reflected in §§ 404.520 (restriction to overpayments of taxpayers not currently entitled to title II benefits), 404.521(c) (requirement that our notice include a description of the conditions under which we will waive the overpayment); and §§ 404.521(b), 404.522(b), 404.522(c), 404.523 (a)–(c) and 404.525 (requirement that we make a determination on a timely waiver request before referring an overpayment to IRS). Other changes from the HHS regulations are made to reflect nonsubstantive SSA procedures. Publication of final rules with a request for comments will enable us to advise the public of this new statutory authority for recovering Social Security overpayments and also have the benefit of the comments of the public in our regulations.

In addition, as a practical matter, under applicable Department of the Treasury regulations, we must have our own regulations governing the operation of the tax refund offset program in place before we certify any overpayments to the IRS. In order to affect tax refunds issued in 1992, these regulations must be published by December 12, 1991.

Executive Order 12291

The Secretary has determined that this is not a major rule under Executive Order 12291 because these regulations will not result in any significant costs or otherwise meet the criteria for a major rule. We estimate the administrative costs to be $2 million for fiscal year (FY) 1991, $7 million for FY 1992, $7 million for FY 1993 and $1 million for FY 1994 with estimated savings (recouped overpayments) of $5 million in FY 1991, $49 million in FY 1992, $49 million in FY 1993 and $1 million in FY 1994.

The savings in FY 1991 are expected to be derived from overpaid individuals responding to the notice of intent to collect their overpayment through IRS tax refund offset by paying off the debt or implementing a repayment plan rather than waiting for the tax refund offset which would occur in 1992.

Paperwork Reduction Act

These final regulations impose no recordkeeping or reporting requirements requiring the Office of Management and Budget clearance.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Secretary certifies that these final regulations will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities because they affect only individuals. Therefore, a regulatory flexibility analysis as provided in Public Law No. 96–354, the Regulatory Flexibility Act, is not required.

Subpart F—[Amended]

1. The authority citation for part 404, subpart F is revised to read as follows:

Authority: Secs. 204(a)–(d), 205(a), and 1102 of the Social Security Act; 31 U.S.C. 3720A; 42 U.S.C. 404(a)–(d), 405(a), and 1302.

PART 404—[AMENDED]

2. Sections 404.520, 404.521, 404.522, 404.523, 404.524, 404.525, and 404.526 are added to read as follows:

§ 404.520 Referral of overpayments to the Internal Revenue Service for tax refund offset—General.

(a) The standards we will apply and the procedures we will follow before requesting the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to offset income tax refunds due taxpayers who have an outstanding overpayment are set forth in §§ 404.520 through 404.526. These standards and procedures are authorized by the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984 (31 U.S.C. 3720A), as amended by section 5129 of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990, and as implemented through Department of the Treasury regulations at 26 CFR 301.6402–6T and Department of Health and Human Services regulations at 45 CFR Part 31.

(b) We will use the IRS tax refund offset procedure to collect overpayments that are certain in amount, past due and legally enforceable, and eligible for tax refund offset under regulations issued by the Secretary of the Treasury. We will use these procedures to collect overpayments only from individuals who are not currently entitled to monthly Social Security benefits under title II of the Act. We will refer an overpayment to the Secretary of the Treasury for offset against tax refunds no sooner than 3 months after our right to collect the overpayment first accrued and no later than 10 years after our right to collect the overpayment first accrued.

§ 404.521 Notice to overpaid individual.

A request for reduction of an IRS tax refund will be made only after we determine that an amount is owed and past due and provide the overpaid individual with 60 calendar days written notice. Our notice of intent to collect an overpayment through IRS tax refund offset will state:

(a) The amount of the overpayment;

(b) That unless, within 60 calendar days from the date of our notice, the overpaid individual repays the overpayment, sends evidence to us at the address given in our notice that the overpayment is not past due or not legally enforceable, or asks us to waive collection of the overpayment under section 204(b) of the Act, we intend to seek collection of the overpayment by requesting that the IRS reduce any amounts payable to the overpaid individual as refunds of Federal income taxes by an amount equal to the amount of the overpayment;

(c) The conditions under which we will waive recovery of an overpayment under section 204(b) of the Act;

(d) That we will review any evidence presented that the overpayment is not past due or not legally enforceable;

(e) That the overpaid individual has the right to inspect and copy our records related to the overpayment as determined by us and will be informed as to where and when the inspection and copying can be done after we receive notice from the overpaid individual that inspection and copying are requested.

§ 404.522 Review within SSA that an overpayment is past due and legally enforceable.

(a) Notification by overpaid individual. An overpaid individual who receives a notice as described in § 404.521 has the right to present evidence that all or part of the overpayment is not past due or not legally enforceable. To exercise this right, the individual must notify us and present evidence regarding the overpayment within 60 calendar days from the date of our notice.

(b) Submission of evidence. The overpaid individual may submit evidence showing that all or part of the debt is not past due or not legally enforceable as provided in paragraph (a) of this section. Failure to submit the notification and evidence within 60 calendar days will result in referral of the overpayment to the IRS, unless the overpaid individual, within this 60-day time period, has asked us to waive collection of the overpayment under section 204(b) of the Act and we have not yet determined whether we can grant the waiver request. If the overpaid individual asks us to waive collection of the overpayment, we may ask that evidence to support the request be submitted to us.

(c) Review of the evidence. After a timely submission of evidence by the overpaid individual, we will consider all available evidence related to the overpayment. If the overpaid individual has not requested a waiver we will make findings based on a review of the written record, unless we determine that the question of indebtedness cannot be resolved by a review of the documentary evidence. If the overpaid individual has asked us to make a waiver determination and our records do not show that after an oral hearing we had previously determined that he was at "fault" in accepting the overpayment, we will not deny the waiver request without first scheduling an oral hearing.

§ 404.523 Findings by SSA.

(a) Following the hearing or a review of the record, we will issue written findings which include supporting rationale for the findings. Issuance of these findings concerning whether the overpayment or part of the overpayment is past due and legally enforceable is the final Agency action with respect to the past-due status and enforceability of the overpayment. If we make a determination that a waiver request cannot be granted, we will issue a written notice of this determination in accordance with the regulations in subpart J of this part. Our referral of the overpayment to the IRS will not be suspended under § 404.525 pending any further administrative review of the waiver request that the individual may seek.

(b) Copies of the findings described in paragraph (a) of this section will be distributed to the overpaid individual and the overpaid individual's attorney or other representative, if any.

(c) If the findings referred to in paragraph (a) of this section affirm that all or part of the overpayment is past due and legally enforceable and, if waiver is requested, we determine that the request cannot be granted, we will refer the overpayment to the IRS. No referral will be made to the IRS if, based on our review of the overpayment, we reverse our prior finding that the overpayment is past due and legally enforceable or, upon consideration of a waiver request, we determine that waiver of our collection of the overpayment is appropriate.

§ 404.524 Review of our records related to the overpayment.

(a) Notification by the overpaid individual. An overpaid individual who intends to inspect or copy our records related to the overpayment as determined by us must notify us stating his or her intention to inspect or copy.

(b) Our response. In response to a notification by the overpaid individual as described in paragraph (a) of this section, we will notify the overpaid individual of the location and time when the overpaid individual may inspect or copy our records related to the overpayment. We may also, at our discretion, mail copies of the overpayment-related records to the overpaid individual.

§ 404.525 Suspension of offset.

If, within 60 days of the date of the notice described in § 404.521, the overpaid individual notifies us that he or she is exercising a right described in § 404.522(a) and submits evidence pursuant to § 404.522(b) or requests a waiver under § 404.506, we will suspend any notice to the IRS until we have issued written findings that affirm that an overpayment is past due and legally enforceable and, if applicable, make a determination that a waiver request cannot be granted.

§ 404.526 Tax refund insufficient to cover amount of overpayment.

If a tax refund is insufficient to recover an overpayment in a given year, we will recertify the remainder of the overpayment to the IRS in the following year, assuming that all criteria for certification are met at that time.

Subpart J—[Amended]

Subpart J of part 404 of chapter III of title 20 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended to read as follows:

1. The authority citation for part 404, subpart J is revised to read as follows:

Authority: Secs. 201(j), 205 (a), (b) and (d)–(h), 221(d), and 1102 of the Social Security Act; 31 U.S.C. 3720A; 42 U.S.C. 401(j), 405 (a), (b) and (d)–(h), 421(d) and 1302.

2. Section 404.903 is amended by adding paragraph (p) to read as follows:

§ 404.903 Administrative actions that are not initial determinations.

* * * * *

(p) Findings on whether we can collect an overpayment by using the Federal income tax refund offset procedure. (See § 404.523).

permanent regulatory program (hereinafter referred to as the Ohio program) under the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 (SMCRA). The amendment is intended to incorporate rule changes initiated by the State. The amendment specifies the use of agreements between mine operators and surface owners concerning the repair or compensation of subsidence damage. It also limits exemptions concerning the repair or compensation for subsidence damage to only those structures owned by mine operators or permittees, and specifies Ohio's and mine operators' responsibilities if a surface owner prevents the implementation of the operator's plan for repair or compensation of subsidence damage.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 21, 1991.

I. Background on the Ohio Program.
II. Submission of Amendment.
III. Director's Findings.
IV. Summary and Disposition of Comments.

VI. Procedural Determinations.

I. Background on the Ohio Program

On August 16, 1982, the Secretary of the Interior conditionally approved the Ohio program. Information on the general background of the Ohio program submission, including the Secretary's findings, the disposition of comments, and a detailed explanation of the conditions of approval of the Ohio program, can be found in the August 10, 1982, Federal Register (47 FR 34688).

Subsequent actions concerning the conditions of approval and program amendments are identified at 30 CFR 935.11, 935.12, 935.15, and 935.16.

II. Submission of Amendment

By letter dated January 31, 1989 (Administrative Record No. OH-1142), the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Reclamation (Ohio), submitted proposed Ohio Program Amendment Number 38 to revise the Ohio program at Ohio Administrative Code (OAC) 1501:13-12-03(B), (D)(2) (a) and (b), and (D)(4)(a)(ii) and (D)(4)(b).

OSM announced receipt of the proposed amendment in the March 1, 1989 Federal Register (54 FR 8561), and, in the same notice, opened the public comment period and provided opportunity for a public hearing on the adequacy of the proposed amendment. The comment period closed on March 31, 1989.

By letter dated August 10, 1989 (Administrative Record No. OH-1198), Ohio submitted Revised Program Amendment Number 38. Revised Program Amendment Number 38 modifies OAC 1501:13-12-03 paragraphs (D)(2), (D)(2) (a) and (b), (D)(4), and (D)(4) (a) and (b), and creates new paragraphs (E) and (H)(3). The proposed amendment also makes nonsubstantive changes to paragraph letter notations throughout the rule.

OSM announced receipt of proposed Revised Program Amendment Number 38 in the August 28, 1989 Federal Register (54 FR 35504), and, in the same notice, opened the public comment period and provided for a public hearing on the adequacy of the proposed amendment. The comment period closed on September 27, 1989. A summary of the comments received and their disposition appears in part IV of this notice. Since no one requested an opportunity to testify at either of the public hearings scheduled during the public comment periods, the hearings were cancelled.

As noted in the Director's findings below, there have been discussions and correspondence between OSM and Ohio concerning the interpretation of the amendment's revisions to OAC 1501:13-12-03.

III. Director's Findings

Set forth below, pursuant to SMCRA and the Federal regulations at 30 CFR 732.15 and 732.17, are the Director's findings concerning the proposed amendment to the Ohio program submitted on August 10, 1989, and as clarified by letters dated July 18, 1990, August 24, 1990, and August 1, 1991. Provisions which are not discussed below concern nonsubstantive wording changes or revise cross references and paragraph notations to reflect organizational changes resulting from this amendment.

1. OAC 1501:13-12-03(E) and OAC 1501:13-12-03(D)(2)(b)

Ohio is adding a new paragraph (E) to OAC 1501:13-12-03 which states that any agreement between the operator and a surface owner which addresses the repair or the compensation for subsidence damage to the surface owner's structures shall take precedence over the provisions of OAC 1501:13-12-03 and the provisions of this rule shall not apply to any damage to such structures. Ohio is proposing to delete subparagraph (D)(2)(b) which exempts an operator from the requirement to repair or compensate material damage caused to structures or facilities if the operator clearly demonstrates by property conveyance or agreement that he has been relieved of his liability for subsidence-caused damage. In a letter dated July 18, 1990 (Administrative Record Number OH-1338), Ohio states that the effect of these two revisions is to act as "an incentive for the operator and owner to address the issues of repair or compensation before the fact, rather than in response to a material damage notice." The letter further states that any agreement reached before damage occurs could not fall below the regulatory minimum, that is, repairing the damage or compensating a structure owner for the full amount of the diminution in value resulting from subsidence. If any agreement did so, Ohio would consider the agreement to be the equivalent of no agreement. OSM was concerned that new paragraph (E) may be subject to interpretations different from Ohio's interpretation in its July 18, 1990, response to OSM. Therefore, by letter dated August 24, 1990 (Administrative Record Number OH-1371), Ohio clarified its interpretation by stating that "because it reads and enforces rules in their entirety, paragraphs (E), (F), and (H) taken together with the deletion of former subparagraph (D)(2)(b), would not excuse the operator from liability or from the minimum obligations for repair or compensation, nor would they limit the Chief's authority to enforce the existing provisions of (F) and (H)." In addition, Ohio clarified "that an agreement between a surface owner and an operator could not take precedence over the provisions of paragraph (J). Paragraph (J) very specifically covers features and facilities in which there is a high public interest." See, August 1, 1991, letter (Administrative Record Number OH-1552). Generally, under both Ohio law and 30 CFR 817.121(d), mining is prohibited under structures with a public interest. Ohio's addition of paragraph (E) does not change this protection.

The Federal regulations concerning subsidence control at 30 CFR 817.121(c)(2) state that the operator shall, to the extent required under applicable provisions of State law, either correct material damage to structures or facilities resulting from subsidence or compensate the owners of such structures or facilities. The preamble to the Federal rule at 30 CFR 817.121(c)(2) states that "liability for damage to surface and subsurface structures and facilities under section 507(f) of the Act (SMCRA) is tied to liability under State law because the Act was not intended to create additional property rights" (52 FR 4863, February 17, 1987). Therefore, the Federal rule allows States to choose whether or not they wish to protect structures from subsidence. The reader is further referred to the Federal rule preamble for a complete discussion of material damage to structures and facilities (52 FR 4860–68). In National Wildlife Federation v. Lujan, 733 F. Supp. 419 (D.D.C. February 12, 1990), the U.S. District Court remanded this rule to the Secretary with instructions to remove the reference to State law. Subsequently, on March 22, 1991, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia reversed the district court. National Wildlife Federation v. Lujan, 928 F. 2d 453 (D.C. Cir. 1991). In effect, the court reinstated 30 CFR 817.121(c). As a result, it is up to each State to determine the extent of liability for subsidence-related damage to structures.

Thus, when the intentional deletion of subparagraph (D)(2)(b) is read together with the addition of paragraph (E), it is clear that Ohio has eliminated almost all exemptions to the requirement that an operator must repair or compensate the structure owner for any material damage caused by subsidence. The compensation or repair must, at the minimum, be the equivalent of the full amount of the structure's diminution in value resulting from that subsidence. See, OAC 1501:13–12–03(F). Any agreement between the operator and the owner must meet this minimum. The only exception to this requirement is when the owner of the structure is also the operator. Thus, the Director finds that since 30 CFR 817.121(c)(2) allows the State to determine operator liability based on State law, the two Ohio revisions are not inconsistent with 30 CFR 817.121(c)(2).

2. OAC 1501:13–12–03(F) and OAC 1501:13–12–03(H)

The Ohio rule at OAC 1501:13–12–03(D)(2) has been redesignated as paragraph OAC 1501:13–12–03(F). The word "either" has been deleted from the beginning of the first sentence and replaced by language which reads "If the operator and the owner of the structures have no agreement for repair and compensation, the operator shall . . ." Based on the amendment and Ohio's interpretations, any agreements which fall below the minimum, as discussed above, amount to no agreement. In such situations, and when there was never any agreement to begin with, the operators must repair or compensate the structure owner for subsidence damage to structures or facilities based on the minimum requirements of paragraph (F).

Ohio is amending paragraph OAC 1501:13–12–03(H), formerly subparagraph (D)(4), by adding language which clarifies that the operator is subject to the provisions of OAC 1501:13–12–03(H) if "the operator has not reached an agreement with the owner of the structures or facilities" as is provided for in the proposed new paragraph at OAC 1501:13–12–03(E). Paragraph (H) requires the operator to submit information to the Chief after the operator has been issued a material damage notice.

As stated in Director's Finding No. 1, 30 CFR 817.121(c)(2) allows the States to choose whether or not they wish to protect structures from subsidence. Ohio has exercised this discretion by requiring operators to repair or compensate structure owners according to the minimum requirements of paragraph (F). The Director, therefore, finds that the revised rules at paragraphs (F) and (H) are not inconsistent with the Federal rule.

3. OAC 1501:13–12–03(H)(2) and (H)(3)

Subparagraph OAC 1501:13–12–03(H)(2), formerly subparagraph (D)(4)(b), is amended by deleting the existing language which subjected an operator to the requirements of paragraph (G), formerly subparagraphs (D)(3)(a) to (e), if the Chief determined that the operator was not exempt as the operator had claimed. The amendment also adds language that requires the operator to perform the obligations specified in any plan submitted in accordance with subparagraph (H)(1) of this rule within the time period stated in the plan, provided that the surface owner does not prevent the operator from performing its obligations under the plan.

Further, new subparagraph OAC 1501:13–12–03(H)(3) states that if the surface owner prevents the implementation of the operator's plan for repair or compensation, then the Chief shall take no further action and the surface owner may pursue whatever private rights of action may be available to the surface owner.

In answer to OSM's concern about the implementation of subparagraph (H)(3), Ohio responded by letter dated August 1, 1991 (Administrative Record Number OH–1552) that the Chief will not issue a notice of violation to the operator for failure to repair or compensate if the Chief has determined that the operator has taken all reasonable steps to implement the plan. Ohio does not interpret subparagraph (H)(3) to mean "that the Chief would be restricted in his authority to pursue whatever remedies he determines appropriate—such as legal action against the landowner or regulatory action against the coal operator—prior to determining that the landowner is effectively preventing implementation." Regarding the question of verification, the Chief would continue to require adequate verification that the operator is prevented from implementing the repair plan.

The Director finds, therefore, that subparagraphs (H)(2) and (H)(3), along with Ohio's letter of interpretation, are not inconsistent with the Federal rule at 30 CFR 817.121(c)(2) because Ohio is taking reasonable steps to insure that the intent of 30 CFR 817.121(c)(2) is fulfilled by the operator and as discussed in Finding No. 1.

In addition, the deletion of former subparagraph (D)(4)(b) does not render the Ohio program less effective than the Federal rule at 30 CFR 817.121(c) because Ohio still retains, as discussed in the August 1, 1991, letter the discretion to pursue whatever legal action is necessary against the operator prior to a determination that the landowner is effectively preventing the implementation of the operator's plan.

IV. Summary and Disposition of Comments

Public Comments

The public comment period and opportunity to request a public hearing announced in the March 1, 1989, Federal Register (54 FR 8561) closed on March 31, 1989. The public comment period was subsequently reopened and announced in the August 28, 1989, Federal Register (54 FR 35504). The public comment period closed on September 27, 1989. The scheduled public hearings were not held as no one requested an opportunity to provide testimony. The following comments opposed to OSM's approval of the proposed amendment were received from the Ohio Mining and Reclamation Association (OMRA) dated March 29, 1989 (Administrative Record Number OH–1183):

1. The Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Reclamation, may not have the authority under Ohio law to adopt the proposed rule changes.

2. The proposed rule changes are inadequate because they do not provide for the right of entry by underground mine operators to enter into properties to repair affected structures.

3. The proposed rule changes violate both Ohio and Federal case law in that the deletion of subsidence liability waivers previously accomplished through agreements with owners interferes with contractual rights as determined by Ohio and Federal courts.

4. Because the proposed rule interferes with contractual rights as determined by Ohio courts, the proposed rule, is therefore, unconstitutional.

5. Existing Ohio law at Ohio Revised Code section 1503.07(E)(2)(iii) does not authorize the Chief of the Division of Reclamation to adjudicate property right disputes. Disputes between owners and mine operators should be settled in the court system.

OMRA questioned Ohio's authority to amend the Ohio rules in the manner in which it has proposed. Section 1513.02 of the Ohio Revised Code authorizes the Chief of the Division of Reclamation to adopt, amend, and rescind rules to implement the reclamation of lands affected by coal mining and to attain "those objectives in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare to which these reclamation requirements are directed."

OMRA's second comment is that the rule does not give the operator any authority to enter land that needs to be repaired, if the landowner refuses entry to the operator for such repairs. OMRA then goes on to say that because of a landowner's recalcitrance, an operator would be forced to compensate the structure owner for any damage instead of repairing it. While the Ohio rule does not specifically give such authority, an affirmatively imposed statutory duty, such as reclaiming mined or subsided areas, necessarily carries with it implicit authority to carry out the required act. This would include any area mined off the original permit area for which a right of entry was required. However, operators who are prevented from performing repairs by property owners are adequately protected in those instances because the Ohio rule at OAC 1501:13–12–03(H)(3) states that the Chief will not pursue enforcement actions when the operator has made reasonable attempts to repair the damage.

With respect to OMRA's third and fourth comments, OMRA maintains that the amendment cannot be approved because under Ohio law operators have the right to subside and surface owners can release operators from any liability to repair or compensate for material damage caused by subsidence. OMRA concludes that to allow otherwise is an unconstitutional interference with both contractual and property rights that have been established by Federal and Ohio case law. The essence of this comment was reasserted in OMRA's subsequent comment dated September 25, 1989 (Administrative Record Number OH–1216) regarding Ohio's revised amendment. The Director disagrees with the OMRA comment.

The U.S. Supreme Court in Keystone Bituminous Coal Association v. DeBenedictis, 480 U.S. 470, 107 S.Ct. 1232, 94 L.Ed.2d 472 (1987), upheld a Pennsylvania law which requires inter alia, repair or compensation for structures damaged by subsidence. In the event the operator fails to repair or compensate the owner, the operator's permit will be revoked or suspended. See, 52 Pa. Cons. Stat. 1406.6. The plaintiffs in Keystone argued that this provision violated the Contracts Clause of the Constitution because the Pennsylvania statute prohibited the operators from holding the surface owners to their contractual waiver of liability for surface damage. Id. at 502. The Court upheld the statute because it was amply justified by the public purposes that it served. Id. at 506. Thus, in some respects the Ohio amendment is similar to the Pennsylvania law found constitutional by the Court.

The fifth OMRA comment concerns the possible conflict with ORC 1503.07(E)(2)(iii). OMRA claims that the Chief will be adjudicating property rights. The Chief is not determining who owns the mineral rights of a specific property but rather enforcing an operator's responsibilities to repair or compensate a structure owner for material damage caused by subsidence.

Agency Comments

Pursuant to section 503(b) of SMCRA and the implementing regulations at 30 CFR 732.17(h)(11)(i), comments were solicited from various Federal agencies with an actual or potential interest in the Ohio Program. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency responded that they had no comments on the proposed amendment. The U.S. Department of Labor, Mine Safety and Health Administration, responded that liability for subsidence-caused damage is an area that is outside their jurisdiction. No other comments were received.

V. Director's Decision

Based on the above findings, the Director is approving Ohio Revised Program Amendment Number 38, originally submitted by Ohio as Program Amendment Number 38 on January 31, 1989, and revised and submitted by letter dated August 10, 1989. It was later clarified by letters dated July 18, 1990, August 24, 1990, and August 1, 1991.

The Federal regulations at 30 CFR part 935 codifying decisions concerning the Ohio program are being amended to implement this decision. This final rule is being made effective immediately to expedite the State program amendment process and to encourage states to bring their programs in conformity with the Federal standards without undue delay. Consistency of State and Federal standards is required by SMCRA.

EPA Concurrence

Under 30 CFR 732.17(h)(11)(ii), the Director is required to obtain the written concurrence of the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) with respect to any provisions of a State program amendment which relate to air or water quality standards promulgated under the authority of the Clean Water Act (33 U.S.C. 1251 et seq.) or the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7401 et seq.). The Director has determined that this amendment contains no such provisions and that EPA concurrence is, therefore, unnecessary.

VI. Procedural Determinations

National Environmental Policy Act

The Secretary has determined that, pursuant to section 702(d) of SMCRA, 30 U.S.C. 1292(d), no environmental impact statement need be prepared on this rulemaking.

Executive Order No. 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act

On July 12, 1984, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) granted OSM an exemption from sections 3, 4, 7, and 8 of Executive Order 12291 for actions directly related to approval or conditional approval of State regulatory programs. Therefore, this action is exempt from preparation of a regulatory impact analysis and regulatory review by OMB.

The Department of the Interior has determined that this rule will not have a significant economic effect on a substantial number of small entities under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.). This rule will not impose any new requirements; rather, it will ensure that existing requirements established by SMCRA and the Federal rules will be met by the State.

Paperwork Reduction Act

This rule does not contain information collection requirements which require approval by the Office of Management and Budget under 44 U.S.C. 3507.

DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS

38 CFR Part 3

RIN 2900–AE98

Claims Based on Exposure to Herbicides Containing Dioxin (PCT/Chloracne)

AGENCY: Department of Veterans Affairs.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) has amended its regulations which govern the adjudication of claims for service-connected disability compensation based on exposure to a herbicide containing dioxin. The amendments will (1) extend, from three to nine months, the period during which chloracne must appear following exposure to a herbicide containing dioxin in order to establish service connection, and (2) provide that there is no significant statistical association between exposure to a herbicide containing dioxin and porphyria cutanea tarda (PCT). These changes are necessary to implement our determinations based on a review of scientific and medical studies. The intended effect is to establish a rule for making determinations regarding service connection for chloracne and PCT for all veterans who were exposed to herbicides containing dioxin during military service.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The amendment to § 3.311a(d) is effective September 25, 1985. The amendment to § 3.311a(c) is effective October 21, 1991.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John Bisset, Jr., Consultant, Regulations Staff, Compensation and Pension Service, Veterans Benefits Administration, Department of Veterans Affairs, 810 Vermont Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20420, (202) 233–3005.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In the Federal Register of March 19, 1991 (56 FR 11536–11537), VA published a proposal to amend 38 CFR 3.311a in order to extend the period during which chloracne must appear following exposure to a herbicide containing dioxin in order to establish service connection, and to codify the Secretary's decision that there is no significant statistical association between exposure to a herbicide containing dioxin and PCT. Interested persons were invited to submit written comments, suggestions or objections on or before April 18, 1991. We received one comment from the American Legion.

The commenter submitted a report concerning a person with PCT who had been exposed to TCDD which had been published in the Morbidity Mortality Weekly Report of March 2, 1984, saying he was not aware whether the Veterans Advisory Committee on Environmental Hazards (VACEH) had considered the case. VACEH met on May 23, 1991, and reviewed the report. Due to a number of factors, including the subject's exposure to a number of chemical compounds plus his history of chronic alcohol ingestion, which has been reported to result in PCT, the report does not warrant a change in the previous determination that there is no significant statistical association between exposure to a herbicide containing dioxin and PCT.

The commenter also submitted for consideration by VACEH a copy of an article from the spring edition of New Solutions, Journal of Occupational and Environmental Health concerning the American Legion's Agent Orange Scientific Task Force Report.

At its meeting of May 16–17, 1990, VACEH had conducted its own review of the Agent Orange Scientific Task Force Report and found that from a scientific standpoint, the conclusions of the Task Force represent an over-interpretation of inconclusive data and an oversimplification of a complex biological process. VACEH further found that the Task Force presented only a selective review of the literature and its review appeared to be generally uncritical and lacking of any discussion of the strengths and weaknesses of particular studies. The article submitted by the commenter is essentially a summary of the Task Force Report and its conclusions, and it contains no new evidence or insights which would warrant a change in either VACEH's assessment of the Task Force Report or VA's previous determination that there is no significant statistical association between exposure to a herbicide containing dioxin and PCT.

The commenter also noted that the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) Registry of Dioxin Workers, which was partially reported in the January 24, 1991, issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, will offer a further opportunity to study the relationship between dioxin and PCT, and suggested that VA defer publishing the final rule until the complete NIOSH study is available for review.

Since the body of currently available scientific and medical literature does not support a finding that there is a significant statistical association between exposure to a herbicide containing dioxin and subsequent development of PCT, delaying publication of the final rule based on speculation as to what one future study might indicate would serve no useful purpose. Should future scientific or medical studies warrant a change in the Secretary's determination, the regulation will be amended accordingly.

The Secretary finds good cause for the assigned effective dates for these regulatory amendments. Because in Nehmer v. United States Veterans Administration, 712 F. Supp. 1404 (N.D. Cal. 1989), the court invalidated VA's original service connection determinations in 38 CFR 3.311a(d) ab initio, and because those determinations were the original regulatory response to the mandate in section 5(a)(1) of the Veterans' Dioxin and Radiation Exposure Compensation Standards Act, Public Law 98–542, 98 Stat. 2735 (1984), we are making the amendment to § 3.311a(d) effective retroactive to September 25, 1985, the original effective date of the section. Since § 3.311a(d) serves as a substitute for a void regulation, this effective date is appropriate.

We are making the amendment to § 3.311a(c) effective the date of publication of the final rule. The Secretary finds good cause for doing so since the extension of the manifestation period for chloracne from three to nine months following exposure to a herbicide containing dioxin relieves a restriction and will not work to the detriment of any claimant. This decision is fully consistent with VA's longstanding policy to administer the law under a broad interpretation for the benefit of veterans and their dependents (38 CFR 3.102).

VA appreciates the comment submitted in response to the proposed rule, which is now adopted without amendment.

The Secretary hereby certifies that this regulatory amendment will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as they are defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), 5 U.S.C. 601–612. The reason for this certification is that this amendment would not directly affect any small entities. Only VA beneficiaries could be directly affected. Therefore, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 605(b), this amendment is exempt from the initial and final regulatory flexibility analysis requirements of sections 603 and 604.

In accordance with Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation, the Secretary has determined that this regulatory amendment is non-major for the following reasons:

(1) It will not have an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more.

(2) It will not cause a major increase in costs or prices.

(3) It will not have significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

Transportation of Claimants and Beneficiaries

ACTION: Final regulations.

SUMMARY: The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) hereby adopts, as final regulations, a proposed regulation which was published in the Federal Register on Friday, February 1, 1991, at 56 FR 4025. The proposed regulations amended the Transportation of Claimants and Beneficiaries regulations (38 CFR, part 17, § 17.100) concerning the provision of beneficiary travel reimbursement to specified categories of eligible veterans.

This action was taken in accordance with the Veterans' Benefits and Services Act of 1988, Public Law 100–322, section 108, which restores in large part, VA travel reimbursement benefits.

EFFECTIVE DATE: These regulations are retroactively effective July 1, 1988, as required by law.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Veterans' Benefits and Services Act of 1988, Public Law 100–322, section 108, significantly modified the authority of VA to pay travel benefits. It requires that, if VA provides any beneficiary travel reimbursement under section 111 in any given fiscal year, then payments must be provided in that year in the cases of travel for health-care services for all the categories of beneficiaries specified in the statute. In order to limit the overall cost of this program, the law imposes a $3 one-way deductible applicable to all travel except for veterans otherwise eligible for beneficiary travel reimbursement who are traveling by special modes of transportation, or to receive a compensation and pension examination. In order to limit the overall impact on veterans whose clinical needs dictate frequent travel for VA medical care, an $18 per calendar month cap on the deductible would apply for those veterans who are pre-approved as needing to travel on a frequent basis. The regulations contain several provisions intended to clarify the meaning of terms used in the law. They define the term "unable to defray the expenses of travel" to include service-connected veterans rated at least 30 percent, and veterans traveling in connection with treatment of a service-connected disability. That will assure that those veterans are able to receive the same benefit that nonservice-connected veterans can receive to travel by a special mode of transportation, such as an ambulance, when necessary. The regulations also clarify the meaning of severe financial hardship for purposes of waiving the deductible. They state that hardship will result when loss of employment, illness or disability cause income to drop below the maximum level of VA pension, which in 1990 was $10,824 for a single veteran. Finally, the regulations clarify which persons in addition to veterans are eligible to receive beneficiary travel payments, including attendants when it has been determined in advance that the beneficiary's physical or mental condition requires the presence of an attendant.

On Friday, February 1, 1991, VA published a proposed regulation in the Federal Register at 56 FR 4025, amending the Transportation of Claimants and Beneficiaries regulations (38 CFR part 17, § 17.100) to incorporate the Veterans' Benefits and Services Act of 1988, Public Law 100–322, section 108, to restore, in large part, VA travel reimbursement benefits.

Written comments were solicited for 30 days after publication in the Federal Register, and the regulation was scheduled for review so that any amendment made necessary by public comment could be published in the Federal Register as quickly as possible. No comments were received, therefore, the proposed regulation is hereby adopted as a final regulation.

These regulatory amendments are considered nonmajor under the criteria of Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation. They will not have an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more; they will not result in major increases in costs for consumers, individual industries, Federal, State or local government agencies, or geographic regions, nor will they have significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of the United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

The Secretary of the Department of Veterans Affairs hereby certifies that these regulations will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as they are defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601–612. These regulations concern the provision of beneficiary travel reimbursement to specified categories of eligible veterans. No paperwork, administrative or other regulatory burdens are imposed upon small entities.

The Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance number is 64.001.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

40 CFR Part 52

[MI-3-5159; FRL-4021-9]

Approval and Promulgation of Implementation Plans; Michigan

AGENCY: United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA).

ACTION: Notice of final rulemaking.

SUMMARY: USEPA is disapproving three site-specific revisions to the Michigan State Implementation Plan (SIP) for ozone for Enamalum Corporation in Oakland County, Extrusion Painting in Wayne County, and General Aluminum Products in Eaton County. The revisions concern volatile organic compound (VOC) emissions from surface coating operations, and compliance date extensions. USEPA is disapproving these revisions because they do not meet USEPA's policy requirements on compliance date extensions, and because Michigan has not demonstrated that the extensions will not interfere with attainment and maintenance of the ozone National Ambient Air Quality Standard (NAAQS) or with reasonable further progress (RFP).

DATES: This final rulemaking becomes effective on November 20, 1991.

ADDRESSES: Copies of the SIP revision request and other materials relating to this rulemaking are available for inspection at the following address: (It is recommended that you telephone Charles C. Hatten, at (312) 886-6031, before visiting the Region V office.) U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Region V, Air Toxics and Radiation Branch (5AT-26), 230 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois 60604.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Charles C. Hatten, Air Toxics and Radiation Branch (5AT-26), U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Region V, Chicago, Illinois 60604, (312) 886-6031.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On January 12, 1988, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR) submitted to USEPA proposed site-specific SIP revisions in the form of Consent Orders. These proposed revisions were for the Enamalum Corporation (Consent Order No. 9-1987) in Oakland County, Extrusion Painting (Consent Order No. 8-1987) in Wayne County, and General Aluminum Products (Consent Order No. 7-1987) in Eaton County. All three facilities are located in areas designated as nonattainment for ozone.

The proposed SIP revisions involve the use of high performance architectural coatings applied to miscellaneous metal parts and products at these three facilities. The coating operations are regulated within the Michigan SIP by rule 336.1621. The SIP revisions request seeks an extension of compliance dates for these sources.

Proposed Rulemaking Action

On June 19, 1990, USEPA proposed to disapprove three site-specific revisions to the Michigan SIP for the Enamalum Corporation, Extrusion Painting, and General Aluminum Products.[1] USEPA did not receive any comments during the public comment period on this notice of proposed rulemaking to disapprove these SIP revisions.

[1] For a discussion of the history of the current Michigan SIP requirements, the emission limits contained in Consent Orders (nos. 7-1987, 8-1987, 9-1987), USEPA's compliance date extension criteria, and USEPA's evaluation of the SIP revisions, please refer to the June 19, 1990 (55 FR 24897) Federal Register.

Final Rulemaking Action

USEPA is disapproving the requested SIP revisions for the following reasons (as detailed in the June 19, 1990, Federal Register notice):

(1) The revisions do not meet USEPA's policy requirements for compliance date extensions.

(2) The State did not demonstrate that the proposed compliance schedules are as expeditious as practicable and that the extensions will not interfere with the attainment and maintenance of the ozone NAAQS or RFP.

Subsequent to USEPA'S proposed disapproval of the Michigan SIP revisions, Congress enacted the Clean Air Act of 1990, on November 15, 1990. Public Law 101-549, 104 Stat. 2399, codified at 42 U.S.C. 7401-7671q. These amendments do not affect USEPA's denial of Michigan's SIP revision request. Although the amendments extend the time for nonattainment areas to attain the NAAQS, they have no effect on past progress that has been made or that should have been made by nonattainment areas. The extended time frame cannot be used to justify a SIP relaxation just because the relaxation affects only an earlier period. The new RACT provisions and the savings clause in the amended Act support this reasoning.

First, the amendments expressly preserve the requirement of the previous Act that the SIP provide for the implementation of RACT as expeditiously as practicable. Section 172(c)(1). In the case of these three facilities, December 31, 1983, was the date for application of RACT that was "as expeditiously as practicable." Since the compliance-date extension would allow these facilities to avoid implementing RACT as expeditiously as practicable, it interferes with the RACT requirement under the amended Act. The amendments prohibit USEPA from approving control requirements that interfere with RACT. See section 110(l). Moreover, all classified nonattainment areas must correct or add RACT that was required under the pre-amended Act. Section 182(a)(2)(A). The RACT provision is evidence that Congress did not intend to override the RACT requirements of the pre-amended Act, but rather to insure they are in place and that more stringent requirements are implemented in the future.

The savings clause, which is essentially an antibacksliding provision, states that no control requirement that was in effect on the date the amendments were enacted may be modified unless it insures "equivalent or greater emissions reductions." Section 193. Congress failed to define the term "equivalent." USEPA, therefore, interprets this term to mandate that the SIP provide, at a minimum, for the same amount of reductions during the same time frame in which it would have been reasonable for such reductions to have been achieved in the area governed by the SIP—but no later than the date USEPA act on the SIP revision. The proper time period for Michigan to have achieved those reductions would have been by December 31, 1983, since these three facilities reasonably could have achieved the relevant reductions during that time period.

The savings clause also preserves the RFP requirements in the Michigan SIP. Id. Section 193 provides that any regulation or rule issued by USEPA prior to the enactment of the 1990 amendments will remain in effect unless inconsistent with the terms of the amended Act. Although the amendments provide new RFP requirements, these have no effect prior to enactment of the amendments. Nothing in the amended Act expressly or impliedly affects the RFP requirements that applied through existing SIPs to nonattainment areas prior to the 1990 Amendments.

Today's action makes final the action proposed at June 19, 1990, (55 FR 24897). As noted elsewhere in this notice, USEPA received no public comment on the proposed action. This action has been classified as a Table Two action by the Regional Administrator under the processing procedures established at 54 FR 2214. On January 6, 1989, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) waived Table Two and Table Three SIP revisions (54 FR 2222) from the requirements of Section 3 of Executive Order 12291 for a period of 2 years. USEPA has submitted a request for a permanent waiver for Table Two and Table Three SIP revisions. OMB has agreed to continue the temporary waiver until such time as it rules on USEPA's request.

Nothing in this action should be construed as permitting or allowing or establishing a precedent for any future request for revision to any SIP. Each request for revision to the SIP shall be considered separately in light of specific technical, economic, and environmental factors and in relation to relevant statutory and regulatory requirements.

Under section 307(b)(1) of the Clean Air Act, petitions for judicial review of this action must be filed in the United States Court of Appeals for the appropriate circuit by December 20, 1991. Filing a petition for reconsideration by the Administrator of this final rule does not effect the finality of this rule for the purpose of judicial review nor does it extend the time within which a petition for judicial review may be filed, and shall not postpone the effectiveness of such rule or action. This action may not be challenged later in proceedings to enforce its requirements. (See section 307(b)(2).)

GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

48 CFR Parts 525 and 552

[Acquisition Circular AC-90-2, Supplement 1]

General Services Administration Acquisition Regulation; Deviation to FAR Buy American Act—Trade Agreements Act—Balance of Payments Program

AGENCY: Office of Acquisition Policy, GSA.

ACTION: Temporary regulation; extension of effective date.

SUMMARY: This supplement to the General Services Administration Acquisition Regulation, Acquisition Circular AC-90-2 extends the expiration date to October 29, 1992. The intended effect is to extend the policies and procedures established in AC-90-2, which revised part 552 of the regulation, to provide a provision and clause for use which are consistent with the ruling of the General Services Administration Board of Contract Appeals (GSBCA) in the protest of the International Business Machines Corporation, GSBCA No. 10532-P, May 18, 1990.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Edward McAndrew, Office of GSA Acquisition Policy (VP), (202) 501-1224.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

A. Determination to Issue a Temporary Regulation

A determination was made to issue the regulation in GSAR as a temporary rule. This action is necessary to authorize a class deviation from an existing FAR provision and clause consistent with the GSBCA's ruling. However, pursuant to Public Law 98-577 and FAR 1.501, public comments are solicited and will be considered in formulating a final rule.

B. Executive Order 12291

The Director, Office of Management and Budget (OMB), by memorandum dated December 14, 1984, exempted certain agency procurement regulations from Executive Order 12291. The exemption applies to this rule.

C. Regulatory Flexibility Act

This temporary rule is not expected to have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities within the meaning of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., because it authorizes a deviation from a FAR provision and clause that will resolve an inconsistency with the current FAR provision and clause based upon the GSBCA's ruling. Therefore, an Initial Regulatory Flexibility Analysis has not been prepared.

D. Paperwork Reduction Act

This temporary rule does not contain information collection requirements that require approval of OMB under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (44 U.S.C. 3501).

50 CFR Part 646

[Docket No. 910507-1107]

Snapper-Grouper Fishery of the South Atlantic

AGENCY: National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS), NOAA, Commerce.

ACTION: Advance notice of closure.

SUMMARY: The Secretary of Commerce (Secretary) announces that the fishery for wreckfish in the exclusive economic zone off the South Atlantic coastal states will be closed when the current annual quota of 2 million pounds (907,194 kilograms) is reached. Accordingly, the additional quota of 1 million pounds (453,597 kilograms) that had been potentially available October 16, 1991, will not be added to the quota during the current fishing year. The date of closure of the wreckfish fishery will be announced in the Federal Register when the 2-million-pound quota is reached or is projected to be reached. The intended effect of this action is to protect the wreckfish resource.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 16, 1991.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peter J. Eldridge, (813) 893–3161.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Snapper-grouper species, including wreckfish, are managed under the Fishery Management Plan for the Snapper-Grouper Fishery of the South Atlantic (FMP), prepared by the South Atlantic Fishery Management Council (Council), and its implementing regulations at 50 CFR part 646, under the authority of the Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act.

In accordance with procedures approved in Amendment 3 to the FMP, the Council recommended and NMFS published proposed and final rules changing the wreckfish annual quota (56 FR 14496, April 10, 1991, and 56 FR 21960, May 13, 1991). The wreckfish quota for the 1991 fishing year, which commenced April 16, 1991, was set in increments of 1 million pounds for each of three fishing quarters, with the third million pounds available if analysis of current data indicates that it is the appropriate harvest level for the resource. The third quarter of the fishing year commences on October 16, 1991. As stated in the preamble to the proposed rule, "If the data indicate the wreckfish resource is in danger of being overfished, the Secretary will close the fishery for the remainder of the fishing year at the two million pound harvest level by notice in the Federal Register."

Analysis of current wreckfish data indicates a decline in catch per unit of effort (CPUE), a slight increase in mean size, and a significant decline in overall landings from last year. As of October 7, 1991, only 1.24 million pounds of wreckfish had been landed. In contrast, by August 8, 1990, the entire 2-million-pound quota had been landed, and the fishery was closed. It is unlikely that any significant portion of the third increment would be landed if it were made available.

Relatively little is known about the wreckfish resource. The decline in CPUE and overall landings may well be indicators that the wreckfish resource is in danger of being overfished. The Council and the Secretary agree that a conservative approach to the management of this resource is appropriate in light of the limited information available. Accordingly, the Secretary is closing the wreckfish fishery when the 2-million-pound quota is reached, and no additional quota will be made available. The date of the closure will be announced in the Federal Register.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Marketing Service

7 CFR Part 979

[Docket No. FV-91-436]

Melons Grown in South Texas; Expenses

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: This proposed rule would authorize expenditures under Marketing Order No. 979 for the 1991–92 fiscal period. Authorization of this budget would permit the South Texas Melon Committee (committee) to incur expenses that are reasonable and necessary to administer the program. Funds to administer this program are derived from assessments on handlers.

DATES: Comments must be received by October 31, 1991.

ADDRESSES: Interested persons are invited to submit written comments concerning this proposal. Comments must be sent in triplicate to the Docket Clerk, Fruit and Vegetable Division, AMS, USDA, P.O. Box 96456, Room 2525–S, Washington, DC 20090–6456. Comments should reference the docket number and the date and page number of this issue of the Federal Register and will be available for public inspection in the Office of the Docket Clerk during regular business hours.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Martha Sue Clark, Marketing Order Administration Branch, Fruit and Vegetable Division, AMS, USDA, P.O. Box 96456, room 2525–S, Washington, DC 20090–6456, telephone 202–447–2020.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This rule is proposed under Marketing Agreement No. 156 and Order No. 979 (7 CFR Part 979), regulating the handling of melons grown in South Texas. The marketing agreement and order are effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674) hereinafter referred to as the Act.

This rule has been reviewed by the Department of Agriculture in accordance with Departmental Regulation 1512–1 and the criteria contained in Executive Order 12291 and has been determined to be a "non-major" rule.

Pursuant to the requirements set forth in the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), the Administrator of the Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) has considered the economic impact of this proposed rule on small entities.

The purpose of the RFA is to fit regulatory actions to the scale of business subject to such actions in order that small businesses will not be unduly or disproportionately burdened. Marketing orders issued pursuant to the Act, and the rules issued thereunder, are unique in that they are brought about through group action of essentially small entities acting on their own behalf. Thus, both statutes have small entity orientation and compatibility.

There are approximately 27 handlers of South Texas melons under this marketing order, and approximately 27 producers. Small agricultural producers have been defined by the Small Business Administration (13 CFR 121.601) as those having annual receipts of less than $500,000, and small agricultural service firms are defined as those whose annual receipts are less than $3,500,000. The majority of South Texas melon producers and handlers may be classified as small entities.

The budget of expenses for the 1991–92 fiscal period was prepared by the South Texas Melon Committee, the agency responsible for local administration of the marketing order, and submitted to the Department of Agriculture for approval. The members of the committee are handlers and producers of South Texas melons. They are familiar with the committee's needs and with the costs of goods and services in their local area and are thus in a position to formulate an appropriate budget.

The committee, in a mail vote which was completed on September 19, 1991, unanimously recommended a 1991–92 budget of $93,187 for personnel, office, and travel expenses, the same as last year. The assessment rate and funding for the research and promotion projects will be recommended at the committee's organization meeting later this year. Funds in the reserve at the beginning of the 1991–92 fiscal period, estimated at $307,039, were within the maximum permitted by the order of two fiscal periods' expenses. These funds would be adequate to cover any expenses incurred by the committee prior to the approval of the assessment rate.

Since no assessment rate is being recommended at this time, no additional costs would be imposed on handlers. Therefore, the Administrator of the AMS has determined that this action would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

This action should be expedited because the committee needs to have approval to pay its expenses which are incurred on a continuous basis. The 1991–92 fiscal period for the program began on October 1, 1991. Therefore, it is found and determined that a comment period of 10 days is appropriate because the budget approval for this program needs to be expedited.

List of Subjects in 7 CFR Part 959

Marketing agreements, Melons, Reporting and recordkeeping requirements.

For the reasons set forth in the preamble, it is proposed that 7 CFR part 979 be amended as follows:

PART 979—MELONS GROWN IN SOUTH TEXAS

2. A new § 979.214 is added to read as follows:

§ 979.214 Expenses.

Expenses of $93,187 by the South Texas Melon Committee are authorized for the fiscal period ending September 30, 1992. Unexpended funds may be carried over as a reserve.

BILLING CODE 3410–02–M

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

13 CFR Part 102

Freedom of Information; Disclosure of Information

AGENCY: Small Business Administration.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: This proposed rule would revise the Agency's regulations implementing the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA). The changes bring the regulations in conformance with changes in FOIA law and Executive Order 12600 on the release of Business Information.

DATES: Comments must be received on or before November 20, 1991.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Beverly Linden, Chief, FOI/PA, (202) 653–6460.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: These amendments to SBA's FOIA regulations address a number of issues which have arisen in the course of SBA's administration of the FOIA. The regulations also implement the procedures for handling requests for business information mandated by Executive Order 12600.

Section 102.2(b)

The change to this section would clarify that the provisions of FOIA apply to requests for information by participants in SBA programs, and that SBA's regulations on the disclosure of information are applicable to all requests for information.

Section 102.3

Paragraph (b)(2)(vi) would be removed from this section. This subsection presently states that SBA would not release the names of participating lenders without their consent. However, withholding this information cannot be justified under current FOIA law. Therefore, the proposed rule deletes this subsection.

Further, this proposed rule would amend paragraph (j) of this section. Currently, this section states that SBA would not release mailing lists. However, recent court decisions in FOIA cases on mailing lists have required their release except where withholding them could be justified under FOIA's Exemption six, which protects against clearly unwarranted invasions of personal privacy. Therefore, while SBA would continue to withhold the names and addresses of individuals, when deemed appropriate, the Agency would no longer refuse requests for names and addresses of organizations under §102.3(j).

Section 102.4

This amendment would omit paragraph (e), as it refers to forms no longer in use. It also amends the newly redesignated paragraph (e)(2), to provide that the Notice of Denial of a request will inform a requester that he or she has 45 days within which to file an appeal of the denial. This time limit provides a reasonable amount of time for a requester to make an appeal, but it does not leave the process open-ended with no time limit. Other agencies operate under similar regulations.

Section 102.5

This new section would implement the requirements of Executive Order 12600, 52 FR 23781 (1987). It establishes procedures to ensure that business information submitted to SBA shall not be disclosed unless the submitter has first had notice of the pending disclosure. In addition, it would give the submitter an opportunity to object to disclosure and to demonstrate how that disclosure could cause the submitter substantial competitive harm.

The section would define "business information" as information which is arguably protected by Exemption four of FOIA, and "submitters" as any entity which submits information to SBA. It also provides examples of those entities most likely to be submitters. An "Office" would be the SBA office responding to the request.

If an office is about to disclose information which has been designated by a submitter as proprietary or which the office believes may be protected from disclosure by Exemption four, it would be required to give notice to the submitter of the proposed disclosure. The notice would contain copies of the proposed disclosure or give a complete description of it.

The submitter would have five business days from the date of the notice to object to the disclosure and to provide an explanation of their objections. Though this is a short time period, it is necessary to comply with the statutorily imposed 10 day time limit within which the Agency must respond to a FOIA request. However, the Agency may extend the five-day time period in individual cases where the Agency determines that the complexity or volume of the subject information necessitates such an extension. The submitter must show that it would suffer substantial competitive harm as a result of the disclosure. If the office determines that the information should be disclosed, it must send a notice of that decision to the submitter at least five business days prior to the proposed disclosure. The notice shall describe the information to be released, the reasons for disclosure and the proposed disclosure date. This notice is intended to give the submitter an opportunity to file a "reverse FOIA" lawsuit to prevent disclosure, while preserving the statutory disclosure time limit.

SBA is seeking comments suggesting a method in which to provide submitters an adequate time period in which to respond to matters concerning business information while still meeting the statutory deadline. The Executive Order requires the Agency to provide submitters with a reasonable time period in which to object to disclosure, as well as to receive notice of the Agency's intent to disclose. SBA chose to provide five days in both instances. The Agency requests public comments whether such periods are reasonable; whether one or both periods could be briefer; and how to better provide for the legitimate needs of the submitters who have requested confidentiality while complying with the statutory time period.

If the information is not disclosed, and the requester brings suit to compel the disclosure, then the office must notify the submitter.

This proposed regulation would also advise all submitters of confidential business information of their right to make reasonable designations of information deemed proprietary, although these designations do not bind the agency. This designation would expire ten years after the submission unless the submitter requests, and provides reasonable justification for, a designation period of greater duration.

The predisclosure notice requirements would not apply if the office is either going to withhold the information or determines that the submitter's designation of the information as protected is frivolous. However, if the latter is true the office would still notify the submitter of a decision to disclose prior to disclosing.

The purpose of these provisions is to protect the rights of submitters of business information. The submitters would have a voice in the decision to disclose business information they have submitted to the government and a chance to make an argument as to why their business information should be protected. However, the final decision and disclosure remains with the government.

Section 102.6

This section, formerly § 102.5, would be amended to provide that appeals from an initial denial must be filed within 45 calendar days of the notice of denial. The notice of denial is the denial from the Agency of the request at the initial level. This time limit does not leave the process entirely open-ended yet provides ample time for a requester to appeal an initial denial to the FOI/PA. Current paragraph (d) on the Nature of the Appeal would be dropped as it would become redundant. Finally, the Agency's new address would be included.

Section 102.7

This section, formerly § 102.6, would be amended in paragraph (b)(6) to state that all fees at $8.00 or under will be waived in the public interest. This replaces the previous provision that all fees equal to or greater than the cost of collecting them shall be waived, with the FOI/PA determining whether this is so, with a simple provision that fees less than $8.00 are to be waived. This is because the Agency has determined that $8.00 is the approximate cost of collecting fees. This section provides that the office processing a request is the office responsible for assessing fees. This insures that SBA offices know when processing a request that they must assess the fees upon the requester, unless a fee waiver is justifiably requested and granted.

Section 102.8

This section, formerly § 102.7, would revise the procedures for agency officials' responses to subpoenas. The proposed regulation would clearly state that it applies to all subpoenas, civil or criminal, state or Federal. The Chief, FOI/PA is presently the source of advice on all subpoenas, but as a practical matter that office relies upon advice from the Associate General Counsel for Litigation in civil cases, and the Inspector General in criminal cases. This is because these offices have the expertise in the respective fields to evaluate the requests. Also, the Associate General Counsel for Litigation would be aware of any problems with Agency civil litigation that might arise from the request, and the Inspector General would know if a criminal subpoena touched upon any of their investigations. Under the proposed regulations, the Associate General Counsel for Litigation would directly advise on civil subpoenas. The Chief, FOI/PA would continue to give advice on criminal subpoenas, but the regulation would be amended to require that it be with the advice of the Inspector General, so as to formalize this valuable source of advice, and insure coordination of Agency investigations with other criminal proceedings.

Compliance With Regulatory Flexibility Act, Executive Orders 12291 and 12612 and the Paperwork Reduction Act

SBA certifies that this proposed rule would not, if promulgated in final form, have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. SBA states that this is because the rule is one of agency organization, procedure and practice.

SBA certifies that this proposed rule, if promulgated as final, would not constitute a major rule for purposes of Executive Order 12291, because it is unlikely to have an annual economic impact of over $100 million. The impact will be solely on the agency's handling of FOIA requests, and SBA does not expect that this will entail greater costs for any requesters.

SBA certifies that this proposed rule, if promulgated as final, would pose no new reporting or recordkeeping requirements subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act, 44 U.S.C. chapter 35.

SBA also certifies that this proposed rule, if promulgated as final, would not have federalism implications warranting preparation of a Federalism Assessment in accordance with Executive Order 12612.

List of Subjects is 13 CFR Part 102

Disclosure of information, Freedom of information.

For the reasons set forth above, title 13, chapter I, part 102, subpart A of the Code of Federal Regulations is proposed to be amended to read as follows:

§§ 102.5 through §§ 102.7 [Redesignated as §§ 102.6 through §§ 102.8]

5. Sections 102.5 through 102.7 are redesignated as §§ 102.6 through 102.8, and the following new § 102.5, Business Information, is added, to read as follows:

§ 102.5 Business information.

(a) General. Business information provided to the Small Business Administration by a submitter shall not be disclosed pursuant to a Freedom of Information Act request except in accordance with this section.

(b) Definitions. The following definitions are used in reference to this section:

Business information is a trade secret, or commercial or financial information provided to the SBA by a submitter that arguably is protected from disclosure under Exemption 4 of the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552(b)(4).

Office refers to the particular office within SBA which receives and responds to a FOIA request at the initial level.

Submitter is any person or entity who provides business information, directly or indirectly, to the SBA. The term includes, but is not limited to, participating lenders, SBA borrowers, SBA program participants, corporations, state governments, and foreign governments.

(c) Notice to submitters. An office shall, to the extent permitted by law, provide a submitter with prompt written notice of a Freedom of Information Act request or administrative appeal encompassing its business information whenever required under paragraph (d) of this section, except as provided for in paragraph (i) of this section, in order to afford the submitter an opportunity to object to disclosure pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section. Such written notice shall either reasonably describe the business information requested or provide copies of the records or portions thereof containing the business information.The requester also shall be notified that notice and opportunity to object are being provided to a submitter.

(d) When notice is required. Notice shall be given to a submitter whenever an office intends to disclose information and (1) the information has been designated reasonably and in good faith by the submitter as information deemed protected from disclosure by Exemption 4; or (2) the office has reason to believe that the information may be protected from disclosure under Exemption 4. No notice to the submitter is necessary when an office determines that it will not disclose the information.

(e) Designation of business information. Submitters of business information shall use reasonable, good-faith efforts to designate, by appropriate markings, either at the time of submission or at a reasonable time thereafter, those portions of their submissions which the believe to be protected from disclosure under Exemption 4. Such designations shall be deemed to have expired ten years after the date of submission unless the submitter requests, and provides reasonable justification for, a designation period of greater duration.

(f) Opportunity to object to disclosure. Through the notice described in paragraph (c) of this section, an office shall afford a submitter a period of five business days from the date of the said notice within which to provide the office with a detailed written statement of any objection to disclosure. The Agency may extend the five-day time period in individual cases where the Agency determines that the complexity or volume of the subject information necessitates such an extention. Such statement shall specify all grounds for withholding any of the information under any exemption of the Freedom of Information Act and, in the case of Exemption 4, shall demonstrate why the information is contended to be a trade secret or commercial or financial information that is privileged or confidential, by showing how substantial competitive harm could result from disclosure. Whenever possible, the submitter's claim of confidentiality should be supported by a statement or certification by an officer or authorized representative of the submitter. Information provided by a submitter pursuant to this paragraph may itself be subject to disclosure under FOIA.

(g) Notice of intent to disclose. An office shall consider carefully a submitter's objections and specific grounds for nondisclosure prior to determining whether to disclose business information. Whenever an office decides to disclose business information over the objection of a submitter, the office shall forward to the submitter a written notice which shall include:

(1) A statement of the reasons for not sustaining the submitter's disclosure objections;

(2) A description of the business information to be disclosed; and

(3) A specified disclosure date.

Such notice of intent to disclose shall be forwarded to the submitter at least five business days prior to the specified disclosure date and the requester shall be notified likewise.

(h) Notice of FOIA lawsuit. Whenever a requester brings suit seeking to compel disclosure of business information, the office shall promptly notify the submitter.

(i) Exceptions to notice requirements. The notice requirements of paragraph (c) of this section shall not apply if:

(1) The office determines that the information should not be disclosed;

(2) The information has been published lawfully or has been officially made available to the public;

(3) Disclosure of the information is required by law (other than 5 U.S.C. 552); or

(4) The designation made by the submitter in accordance with paragraph (e) of this section is frivolous; except that, in such case, the office shall provide the submitter with written notice of any final administrative decision to disclose business information at least five days prior to a specified disclosure date.

6. In newly redesignated § 102.6, paragraphs (a) through (e)(1) are revised as follows:

§ 102.6 Administrative appeal of refusal to disclose.

(a) Who may appeal. Any person whose request for information or records has been denied may submit a written appeal to the Agency. A failure by the Agency to act on a request within the time limit imposed by § 102.4(e) of this part shall be deemed a denial for purposes of appeal.

(b) When an appeal must be submitted. An appeal from a notice of denial of a request for information or records must be submitted no later than 45 calendar days after the date of the notice of denial.

(c) Form of appeal. While no particular form is prescribed, the letter or other written statement utilized for such purpose shall contain a description of the information or record requested, the name and place of employment of the SBA official or employee who denied the request, the reason, if any given for the denial, and such other pertinent facts and statements as the appellant may deem appropriate. SBA may request additional details where the information submitted is insufficient to support a decision.

(d) Where to appeal. Appeals shall be addressed to the Chief, Freedom of Information/Privacy Acts Office, (Chief, FOI/PA), Small Business Administration, 409 Third Street, SW., Washington, DC 20416.

(e) Agency decision—(1) Who decides. Final agency decisions on appeals from refusals to disclose information shall be made by the Chief, FOIA/PA, who shall promptly review each appeal and provide appellant and other interested parties, if any, with a written notice of decision.

(b) * * *

(6) Restrictions on assessing fees. The Agency office processing a FOIA request shall be responsible for assessing the fees on that request. With the exception of requesters seeking documents for commercial use, section 4(a)(iv) of the Freedom of Information Act, as amended, requires SBA to provide the first 100 pages of duplication and the first two hours of search time without charge. Moreover, this section prohibits SBA from charging fees to any requesters, including commercial use requesters, if the cost of collecting the fee would be equal to or greater than the fee itself. These provisions, read together, mean that except for commercial use requesters, SBA would not begin to assess fees until after it had provided the free search and reproduction. For example, for a request that involved two hours and ten minutes of search time and resulted in 105 pages of documents, SBA would determine the cost of only ten minutes of search time and only five pages of reproduction. All fees assessed at $3.00 or under will be waived.

8. Newly redesignated § 102.8 is revised to read as follows:

§ 102.8 Appearances and testimony by SBA officers and employees.

Whenever an officer or employee of SBA is served with a subpoena, whether state or federal, including grand jury subpoenas, demanding the disclosure of the information or the production of files, documents and records described in this part, or is requested by any court, committee or other body to disclose such information, the officer or employee shall promptly inform his superior of the requirements of the subpoena or request and shall ask for instructions from the Associate General Counsel for Litigation in the Office of General Counsel or his designee if the matter is a civil case, or the Chief, FOI/PA, when the matter is criminal in nature. Such officer or employee shall appear before the court, committee or body and, if the Associate General Counsel for Litigation or the Chief, FOI/PA, after consultation with the Agency's Inspector General, has not authorized disclosure, the employee shall respectfully decline to disclose the information or produce the files, documents and records demanded or requested, basing such refusal upon this part.

Discussion

The Direction Générale de l'Aviation Civile (DGAC) which is the airworthiness authority of France, in accordance with existing provisions of a bilateral airworthiness agreement, has notified the FAA of an unsafe condition which may exist on certain Aerospatiale Model ATR42-200, -300, and -320 series airplanes. During a recent sampling check, cracks were found on two hinge pins from the same batch on the drag brace assembly of the nose landing gear (NLG). A metallurgical examination performed on these pins revealed that the cracks were due to incorrect heat treatment which occurred during manufacturing. This condition, if not corrected, could result in collapse of the NLG.

Aerospatiale has issued Service Bulletin ATR42-32-0039, Revision 1, dated August 1, 1991, which describes procedures to perform a one-time dye penetrant inspection of the four hinge pins on the NLG leg and drag braces to detect cracks, and replacement of the hinge pins, if necessary. The French DGAG has classified this service bulletin as mandatory, and has issued French Airworthiness Directive 91–157–041(B) addressing this subject.

This airplane model is manufactured in France and type certificated in the United States under the provisions of § 21.29 of the Federal Aviation Regulations and the applicable bilateral airworthiness agreement.

Since this condition is likely to exist or develop on other airplanes of the same type design registered in the United States, an AD is proposed which would require a one-time dye penetrant inspection of the four hinge pins on the NLG leg and drag braces to detect cracks, and replacement of the hinge pins, if necessary, in accordance with the service bulletin previously described. Variances in the strength of the hinge pins that were incorrectly heat treated have not consistently weakened all of the hinge pins in the affected batch. The FAA has determined that hinge pins that are not cracked when inspected at the threshold required by this AD are sufficient in strength to withstand loads until required to be replaced in accordance with the operator's FAA-approved maintenance program.

It is estimated that 10 airplanes of U.S. registry would be affected by this AD, that it would take approximately 4 manhours per airplane to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor cost would be $55 per manhour. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $2,200.

The regulations proposed herein would not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this proposal would not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this proposed regulation (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291, (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A copy of the draft evaluation prepared for this action is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

Aerospatiale: Docket No. 91–NM–185–AD.

Applicability: Model ATR42–200, –300, and –320 series airplanes; Serial Number 16, 17, 19, 20, 22 through 34, 36 through 39, 41 through 45, 47 through 49, 54, 59, and 107; certificated in any category.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless previously accomplished.

To prevent collapse of the nose land gear (NLG), accomplish the following:

(1) For airplane serial number 17, 19, 22, 23, 24, 26, 28, 30, 31, 33, 37, 39, 41, 44, 45, 47, 48, and 59: Within 30 days after the effective date of this AD, or prior to the accumulation of 250 hours time-in-service, whichever occurs first.

(2) For airplane serial numbers 16, 20, 25, 27, 29, 32, 34, 36, 38, 42, 43, 49, 54, and 107: Within 60 days after the effective date of this AD, or prior to the accumulation of 500 hours time-in-service, whichever occurs first.

(b) If a cracked hinge pin is found as a result of the inspection required by paragraph (a) of this AD, replace it with a new hinge pin or with a hinge pin that previously has been inspected and found to be free of cracks, in accordance with Aerospatiale Service Bulletin ATR42–32–0039, Revision 1, dated August 1, 1991.

(c) As of the effective date of this AD, no hinge pin shall be installed on any airplane unless that hinge pin is new or has been inspected in accordance with Aerospatiale Service Bulletin ATR42–32–0039, Revision 1, dated August 1, 1991, and found to be free of cracks.

(d) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time, which provides an acceptable level of safety, may be used when approved by the Manager, Standardization Branch, ANM–113, FAA, Transport Airplane directorate.

Note: The request should be forwarded through an FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may concur or comment and then sent it to the Manager, Standardization Branch, ANM–113.

(e) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with FAR 21.197 and 21.199 to operate airplanes to a base in order to comply with the requirements of this AD.

All persons affected by this directive who have not already the appropriate service documents from the manufacturer may obtain copies upon request to Aerospatiale, 316 Route de Bayonne, 31060 Toulouse, Cedex 03, France. These documents may be examined at the FAA, Northwest Mountain Region, Transport Airplane Directorate, 1601 Lind Avenue SW., Renton, Washington.

[Docket No. 91–NM–193–AD]

Airworthiness Directives; Boeing Model 747 Series Airplanes

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM).

SUMMARY: This notice proposes to adopt a new airworthiness directive (AD), applicable to certain Boeing Model 747 series airplanes, which would require the installation of an Auxiliary Power Unit (APU) pneumatic duct restraint. This proposal is prompted by two reports of APU pneumatic duct ruptures adjacent to a coupling, which allowed a vertical section of the ducting to separate, pivot, and make contact with an elevator control rod. This condition, if not corrected, could result in damage to the elevator control rod or complete jamming of the elevator system, which could result in a reduced ability to control the pitch of the airplane.

DATES: Comments must be received no later than December 10, 1991.

ADDRESSES: Send comments on the proposal in duplicate to the Federal Aviation Administration, Northwest Mountain Region, Transport Airplane Directorate, ANM–103, Attention: Airworthiness Rules Docket No. 91–NM–193–AD, 1601 Lind Avenue SW., Renton, Washington 98055–4056. The applicable service information may be obtained from Boeing Commercial Airplane Group, P.O. Box 3707, Seattle, Washington 98124. This information may be examined at the FAA, Northwest Mountain Region, Transport Airplane Directorate, 1601 Lind Avenue SW., Renton, Washington.

All comments submitted will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons. A report summarizing each FAA/public contact, concerned with the substance of this proposal, will be filed in the Rules Docket.

The post card will be date/time stamped and returned to the commenter.

Discussion

There have been two reports indicating that the Auxiliary Power Unit (APU) pneumatic duct on two Boeing Model 747 series airplanes ruptured adjacent to a coupling, which allowed a vertical section of the ducting to separate, pivot, and make contact with an elevator control rod. This contact resulted in a 30 degree bend in the elevator control rod in one case, and a jammed elevator system in the other case. Both of these incidents occurred on the ground. However, in the case in which the elevator control rod was bent, the condition was not noticed until the airplane was airborne. The potential exists for similar incidents to occur in flight, since Model 747–100, –200, and –300 airplanes are certified for APU operation up to 20,000 feet pressure altitude and Model 747–400 airplanes are certified for APU operation up to 15,000 feet pressure altitude. Ruptures of the APU pneumatic duct could result in damage to the elevator control rod or complete jamming of the elevator; this condition could then result in a reduced ability to control the pitch of the airplane.

Both of the duct rupture incidents described above occurred at a duct weld. The FAA previously had issued AD 91–15–24, Amendment 39–7089 (56 FR 37140, August 5, 1991), which requires penetrant inspection, proof pressure testing, and stress relieving of the duct assemblies to prevent future duct weld ruptures. However, due to the criticality of an APU duct rupture at this one location and the potential for a coupling failure, which AD 91–15–24 does not address, the FAA considers that more immediate and positive action is required to protect the elevator control system.

The FAA has reviewed and approved Boeing Alert Service Bulletin 747–36A2087, dated June 6, 1991, which describes procedures for installing an APU pneumatic duct restraint. This duct restraint consists of two support brackets on the forward side of the APU firewall, a clamp assembly on the APU pneumatic ducting and two cables connecting the clamp assembly to the new brackets. Addition of this restraint to a vertical section of the APU pneumatic ducting will prevent the duct from contacting the elevator control rods in the event of a duct rupture.

Since this condition is likely to exist or develop on other airplanes of this same type design, the AD is proposed which would require installation of an APU pneumatic duct restraint in accordance with the service bulletin previously described.

There are approximately 854 Model 747 series airplanes of the affected design in the worldwide fleet. It is estimated that 232 airplanes of U.S. registry would be affected by this AD, that it would take approximately 26 manhours per airplane to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor cost would be $55 per manhour. It is estimated that the parts required to accomplish this modification would cost $439 per airplane. Based on these figures the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $433,608.

The regulations proposed herein would not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this proposal would not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this proposed regulation (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A copy of the draft evaluation prepared for this action is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket.

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Applicability: Model 747 series airplanes; line numbers 1 through 856 except line numbers 679 and 685; certificated in any category.

Discussion

Inspection of Boeing Model 757 series airplanes has indicated that certain side-of-body floor panels, made by Hexcel, had disbonded one-piece inserts. Testing has shown that the disbonded one-piece inserts had shear strength below what is necessary for a 9g forward load event. A 9g load transmitted by the seat tracks to side-of-body floor panels with disbonded one piece inserts could cause those floor panels with the seats attached to break away.

The FAA has reviewed and approved Boeing Alert Service Bulletin 757-53A0060, dated August 8, 1991, which describes procedures for the inspection, and replacement or repair, of side-of-body floor panels made by Hexcel that are subject to disbonded one-piece inserts.

Since this condition is likely to exist or develop on other airplanes of this same type design, an AD is proposed which would require the inspection for the installation of certain Hexcel side-of-body floor panels, and replacement or repair of those panels, if necessary, in accordance with the service bulletin previously described.

There are approximately 193 Model 757 series airplanes of the affected design in the worldwide fleet. It is estimated that 113 airplanes of U.S. registry would be affected by this AD, that it would take approximately 18 manhours per airplane to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor cost would be $55 per manhour. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $111,870.

The regulations proposed herein would not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this proposal would not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this proposed regulation (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A copy of the draft evaluation prepared for this action is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket.

The Proposed Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration proposes to amend 14 CFR part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations as follows:

PART 39—[AMENDED]

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421 and 1423; 49 U.S.C. 106(g) (Revised Pub. L. 97-449, January 12, 1983); and 14 CFR 11.89.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

Boeing: Docket No. 91–NM–191–AD.

Applicability: Model 757 series airplanes, listed in Boeing Alert Service Bulletin 757–53A0060, dated August 8, 1991, certificated in any category.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless previously accomplished.

To prevent side-of-body floor panels from breaking away from the floor beams during a 9g forward load emergency landing, accomplish the following:

(a) Within the next 18 months of the effective date of this AD, examine the identification placards of each side-of-body floor panel to determine the manufacturer and date of manufacture of the panel, as specified in Figure 1 of Boeing Alert Service Bulletin 757–53A0060, dated August 8, 1991.

(1) If the panel was made by Hexcel, accomplish the following:

(i) If the Hexcel panel was manufactured prior to January 7, 1991, prior to further flight, repair or replace all one-piece inserts in accordance with Boeing Alert Service Bulletin 757–53A0060, dated August 8, 1991.

(ii) If the Hexcel panel was not manufactured prior to January 7, 1991, no further action is necessary.

(2) If the panel was not made by Hexcel, no further action is required.

(b) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time, which provides an acceptable level of safety, may be used when approved by the Manager, Seattle Aircraft Certification Office (ACO), FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate.

Note: The request should be forwarded through an FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may concur or comment and then send it to the Manager, Seattle ACO.

(c) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with FAR 21.197 and 21.199 to operate airplanes to a base in order to comply with the requirements of this AD.

Discussion

When a Model 757 series airplane is pressurized, a large pressure load will occur on the Body Station (BS) 1640 soft bulkhead lining. The FAA has determined that, in the event of a sudden decrease in air pressure aft of the soft bulkhead lining at BS 1640, damaging loads could occur to the floor beams at BS 1640 on certain Boeing Model 757 airplanes. This condition, if not corrected, could result in damage to the floor beam at BS 1640, hydraulic system components, and flight controls.

The FAA has reviewed and approved Boeing Alert Service Bulletin 757–25A0112, dated July 18, 1991, which describes the modifications to the soft bulkhead structure at BS 1640 and the installation of a new soft bulkhead lining. The modifications prevent damage to the floor beam at BS 1640 by transmitting pressure loads to two new stanchions and to the support structure. The new lining has two blowout vents that are designed to open if there is a difference in air pressure; this will lessen the pressure loads on the bulkhead lining and the support structure.

Since this condition is likely to exist on other airplanes of this same type design, an AD is proposed which would require modification of the soft bulkhead support structure at BS 1640 and installation of a new lining in accordance with the service bulletin previously described.

There are approximately 368 Model 757 series airplanes of the affected design in the worldwide fleet. It is estimated that 226 airplanes of U.S. registry would be affected by this AD, that it would take approximately 27

manhours per airplane to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor cost would be $55 per manhour. Modification kits are available from the manufacturer at no charge. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $335,610.

The regulations proposed herein would not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this proposal would not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this proposed regulation (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A copy of the draft evaluation prepared for this action is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket.

The Proposed Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration proposes to amend 14 CFR part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations as follows:

PART 39—[AMENDED]

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421 and 1423; 49 U.S.C. 106(g); and 14 CFR 11.89.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

Boeing: Docket No. 91–NM–192–AD.

Applicability: Model 757 series airplanes, listed in Boeing Alert Service Bulletin 757–25A0112, dated July 18, 1991, certificated in any category.

Compliance: Required within the next 18 months after the effective date of this AD, unless previously accomplished.

To prevent damage to the floor beams at body station (BS) 1640, hydraulic system components, and flight control functions in the event of a sudden decrease in air pressure aft of the bulkhead lining, accomplish the following:

(a) Modify the soft bulkhead support structure at BS 1640 and replace the bulkhead lining in accordance with Boeing Alert Service Bulletin 757–25A0112, dated July 18, 1991.

(b) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time, which provides an acceptable level of safety, may be used when approved by the Manager, Seattle Aircraft Certification Office (ACO), FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate.

Note: The request should be forwarded through an FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may concur or comment and then send it to the Manager, Seattle ACO.

(c) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with FAR 21.197 and 21.199 to operate airplanes to a base in order to comply with the requirements of this AD.

All persons affected by this directive who have not already received the appropriate service documents from the manufacturer may obtain copies upon request to Boeing Commercial Airplane Group, P.O. Box 3707, Seattle, Washington 98124. These documents may be examined at the FAA, Northwest Mountain Region, Transport Airplane Directorate, 1601 Lind Avenue SW., Renton, Washington.

Issued in Renton, Washington, on October 10, 1991.

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM).

SUMMARY: This notice proposes to adopt a new airworthiness directive (AD), applicable to certain British Aerospace Model ATP series airplanes, which would require the installation of modified earthing arrangements to the pilot static and stall warning systems and overhead stowage units, modification of the roof and sidewall light wiring, and a standby compass check. Discussion

The United Kingdom Civil Aviation Authority (CAA), in accordance with existing provisions of a bilateral airworthiness agreement, has notified the FAA of an unsafe condition which may exist on certain British Aerospace Model ATP series airplanes. There have been recent reports of standby compass deviations exceeding the ±10 degree type design tolerance when certain airplane electrical equipment is turned on or off. The Excessive deviation of the standby compass is caused by electromagnetic fields associated with operation of certain electrical equipment installed on the airplane. This condition, if not corrected, could result in inaccurate navigation when using the standby compass.

British Aerospace has issued Service Bulletin ATP–24–34, dated April 25, 1991, which describes procedures for the installation of modified earthing arrangements to the pitot static and stall warning systems (Modification 10194A) to reduce standby compass deviation error; and the installation of modified earthing arrangements to the overhead stowage units. (Modification 10194B) to prevent stud overloading. The United Kingdom CAA has classified this service bulletin as mandatory.

British Aerospace has also issued Service Bulletin ATP–33–8, Revision 2, dated April 11, 1991, which describes a modification of the roof and sidewall light wiring (Modification 35113A) to use earth connections at the main transformer rectified unit (TRU) earths and thereby reduce E2B standby compass deviations. The United Kingdom CAA has approved this service bulletin but has not classified it as mandatory.

This airplane model is manufactured in the United Kingdom and type certificated in the United States under the provisions of § 21.29 of the Federal Aviation Regulations and the applicable bilateral airworthiness agreement.

Since this condition is likely to exist or develop on other airplanes of the same type design registered in the United States, an AD is proposed which would require installation of modified earthing arrangements to the pitot static and stall warning systems and overhead stowage units, and modification of the roof and sidewall light wiring, in accordance with the service bulletins previously described.

It is estimated that 8 airplanes of U.S. Registry would be affected by this AD, that it would take approximately 229 manhours per airplane to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor cost would be $55 per manhour. The estimated cost for required parts is $1,523 per airplane. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $112,944.

The regulations proposed herein would not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this proposal would not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this proposed regulation (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291, (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A copy of the draft evaluation prepared for this action is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket.

The Proposed Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration proposes to amend 14 CFR part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations as follows:

PART 39—[AMENDED]

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421 and 1423; 49 U.S.C. 106(g); and 14 CFR 11.89.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

British Aerospace: Docket No. 91–NM–166–AD.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless previously accomplished.

To prevent inaccurate navigation when using the standby compass, accomplish the following:

(a) Within 8 months after the effective date of this AD, accomplish the following:

(1) Modify the earthing arrangements to the pitot static and stall warning systems (Modification 10194A) and to the overhead stowage units (Modification 10194B), as applicable, in accordance with British Aerospace Service Bulletin ATP 24–34, dated April 25, 1991.

(2) Modify the roof and sidewall light wiring (modification 35113A) in accordance with British Aerospace Service Bulletin ATP–33–8, Revision 2, dated April 11, 1991.

(b) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time, which provides an acceptable level of safety, may be used when approved by the Manager, Standardization Branch, ANM–113, FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate.

Note: The request should be forwarded through an FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may concur or comment and then send it to the Manager, Standardization Branch, ANM–113.

(c) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with FAR 21.197 and 21.199 to operate airplanes to a base in order to comply with the requirements of this AD.

Proposed Establishment of Transition Area: Los Alamos, NM

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This notice proposes to establish a transition area at Los Alamos, NM. A special instrument approach procedure has been developed to provide services to the Los Alamos Airport, NM, under contract from the Department of Energy. This proposal would provide an operational advantage allowing air traffic control to provide service to approved operators executing the new special instrument approach procedure (VOR/DME–A) and benefit the commerce and welfare at this location. The proposal would provide adequate controlled airspace for approved operators executing the new special instrument approach procedure. If adopted, this proposal would upgrade the status of the Los Alamos Airport (private) from visual flight rules (VFR) operations only to include operations under instrument flight rules (IFR).

DATES: Comments must be received on or before December 3, 1991.

ADDRESSES: Send comments on the proposal in triplicate to: Manager, System Management Branch, Air Traffic Division, Southwest Region, Docket No. 91–ASW–22, Department of Transportation, Federal Aviation Administration, Fort Worth, TX 76193–0530.

Availability of NPRM's

Any person may obtain a copy of this notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) by submitting a request to the Manager, System Management Branch, Department of Transportation, Federal Aviation Administration, Fort Worth, TX 76193–0530. Communications must identify the notice number of this NPRM. Persons interested in being placed on a mailing list for future NPRM's should also request a copy of Advisory Circular No. 11–2A which describes the application procedure.

The Proposal

The FAA is considering an amendment to § 71.181 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) to establish a 700-foot transition area located at Los Alamos, NM. The development of a new special instrument approach procedure (VOR/DME–A) to the Los Alamos Airport, NM, has necessitated this proposal. This proposal would provide adequate controlled airspace for approved operators executing the new special instrument approach procedure and change the status of the Los Alamos Airport, NM, from VFR operations only to include IFR operations. Section 71.181 of part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations was republished in Handbook 7400.6G dated September 4, 1990.

The FAA has determined that this proposed regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. It, therefore—(1) is not a "major rule" under Executive order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. Since this is a routine matter that will only affect air traffic procedures and air navigation, it is certified that this rule, when promulgated, will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Aviation safety, Transition areas.

The Proposed Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me, the FAA proposes to amend part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 71) as follows:

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, AREA LOW ROUTES, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

1. The authority citation for part 71 continues to read as follows:

§ 71.181 [Amended]

2. Section 71.181 is amended as follows:

Los Alamos, NM [New]

That airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface within a 9-mile radius of the Los Alamos Airport (latitude 35°52'47"N., longitude 106°16'07"W.), excluding that airspace within restricted area R–5101.

Issued in Fort Worth, TX on September 27, 1991.

Proposed Amendment to Time of Designation for Restricted Area R–2530 Sierra Army Depot, CA

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This notice proposes to amend the time of designation for Restricted Area R–2530 Sierra Army Depot, CA. The current published time of designation is "0800 to 1800 PST, Monday to Friday." The U.S. Army's munitions disposal workload has increased to the point where the existing time designation does not allow sufficient time for this mission to be accomplished. This proposal would add the provision "other times by NOTAM" to the existing time to enable the Army to temporarily extend the restricted area hours in order to accommodate the increased workload.

DATES: Comments must be received on or before November 29, 1991.

ADDRESSES: Send comments on the proposal in triplicate to: Manager, Air Traffic Division, AWP–500, Docket No. 91–AWP–9, Federal Aviation Administration, P.O. Box 92007, Worldway Postal Center, Los Angeles, CA 90009.

The official docket may be examined in the Rules Docket, weekdays, except Federal holidays, between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. The FAA Rules Docket is located in the Office of the Chief Counsel, Room 916, 800 Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, DC.

The informal docket may also be examined during normal business hours at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Division.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Linda Ullom, Military Operations Program Office (ATM–420), Office of Air Traffic System Management, Federal Aviation Administration, 800 Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, DC 20591; telephone: (202) 267–7683.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Comments Invited

Interested parties are invited to participate in this proposed rulemaking by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Comments that provide the factual basis supporting the views and suggestions presented are particularly helpful in developing reasoned regulatory decisions on the proposal. Comments are specifically invited on the overall regulatory, aeronautical, economic and energy aspects of the proposal. Communications should identify the airspace docket and be submitted in triplicate to the address listed above. Commenters wishing the FAA to acknowledge receipt of their comments on this notice must submit with those comments a self-addressed, stamped postcard on which the following statement is made: "Comments to Airspace Docket No. 91–AWP–9." The postcard will be date/time stamped and returned to the commenter. All communications received before the specified closing date for comments will be considered before taking action on the proposed rule. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received. All comments submitted will be available for examination in the Rules Docket both before and after the closing date for comments. A report summarizing each substantive public contact with FAA personnel concerned with this rulemaking will be filed in the docket.

Availability of NPRM's

Any person may obtain a copy of this Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) by submitting a request to the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of Public Affairs, Attention: Public Inquiry Center, APA–230, 800 Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, DC 20591, or by calling (202) 267–3484. Communications must identify the notice number of this NPRM. Persons interested in being placed on a mailing list for future NPRM's should also request a copy of Advisory Circular No. 11–2A which describes the application procedure.

The Proposal

The FAA is considering an amendment to § 73.25 of part 73 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 73) to amend the time of designation of R–2530 Sierra Army Depot, CA, by adding the "other times of NOTAM" provision to the existing time of designation of "0800–1800 PST, Monday to Friday." The U.S. Army's munitions disposal workload has increased to the point where the existing time designation does not allow sufficient time for this mission to be accomplished. The "other times by NOTAM" provision is necessary to enable the Army to temporarily extend the restricted area hours in order to accommodate the increased workload. Furthermore, adding the "other times by NOTAM" provision would provide the operational flexibility needed to meet future requirements for timely munitions disposal. Section 73.25 of part 73 of the Federal Aviation Regulations was republished in Handbook 7400.6G dated September 4, 1990.

The FAA has determined that this proposed regulation only involves an established body of technical regulations for which frequent and routine amendments are necessary to keep them operationally current. It, therefore—(1) is not a "major rule" under Exective Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is no minimal. Since this is a routine matter that will only affect air traffic procedures and air navigation, it is certified that this rule, when promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Aviation safety, Restricted areas.

The Proposed Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me, the Federal Aviation Administration proposes to amend part 73 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 73) as follows:

PART 73—SPECIAL USE AIRSPACE

1. The authority citation for part 73 continues to read as follows:

2. Section 73.25 is amended as follows:

Availability of Petition To Initiate Rulemaking; Surface Coal Mining and Reclamation Operations; Permanent Regulatory Program; Performance Standards; Permanent and Temporary Impoundments AGENCY: Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Interior.

ACTION: Notice of availability of a petition to initiate rulemaking and request for comment.

SUMMARY: The Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement (OSM) of the United States Department of the Interior (DOI) seeks comments concerning the rule change suggested in a petition, submitted pursuant to the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act (SMCRA or the Act), to amend OSM's regulations governing temporary and permanent impoundments. The petition suggests that OSM amend its rules to incorporate the statutory distinction between temporary and permanent impoundments as it pertains to the incorporation of standards issued under Public Law 83–566 (16 U.S.C. 1006) including Technical Release Number 60 (TR–60) published by the Soil Conservation Service (SCS). OSM is requesting comments on the merits of the petition and the rule changes suggested in the petition. Such comments will assist the Director of OSM in making the decision whether to grant or deny the petition.

DATES: OSM will accept written comments on the petition until 5 p.m. Eastern time on November 20, 1991. The comment period on this petition will coincide with the comment period for the proposed rule on permanent and temporary impoundments issued June 28, 1991 (56 FR 29774), which will be extended in a separate notice.

ADDRESSES: Mail comments to the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Administrative Record, room 5131–L, 1951 Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20240; or hand-deliver the comments to the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Administrative Record, room 5131, 1100 L Street, NW., Washington, DC.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Robert A. Wiles, P.E., Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, U.S. Department of the Interior, 1951 Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20240; Telephone: 202–343–1502 (Commercial or FTS).

I. Public Comment Procedures

Written Comments

Written comments on the suggested change should be specific, should be confined to issues pertinent to the proposed revision, and should explain the reason for the comment. Where practicable, commenters should submit three copies of their comments. Comments received after the close of the comment period (see DATES) or delivered to an address other than those listed (see ADDRESSES) may not necessarily be considered or included in the Administrative Record on the petition.

Availability of Copies

Additional copies of the petition, copies of 30 CFR parts 701, 780, 783, 816, and 817, and copies of the proposed rule dated June 28, 1991 (56 FR 29774), are available for inspection and may be obtained at the location listed under ADDRESSES.

Public Hearing

OSM will not hold a public hearing on the proposed revision, but OSM personnel will be available to meet with the public during business hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the comment period. In order to arrange such a meeting, call or write to the person identified under FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT.

II. Background and Substance of Petition

OSM received a letter on September 12, 1991, from Stuart A. Sanderson, senior Counsel, and Harold P. Quinn, Jr., Vice President and Counsel, representing the Joint NCA/AMC Committee on Surface Mining Regulations, Coal Building, 1130 17th St., NW., Washington, DC, as a petition for rulemaking. The petitioners requested that the agency propose for comment a rulemaking which will incorporate the statutory distinction between temporary and permanent impoundments as it pertains to the incorporation of standards issued under Public Law 83–566 including TR–60. The petition was included in the comments received from the Joint NCA/AMC Committee on a proposed rule to amend portions of the permanent program regulations governing permanent and temporary impoundments published June 28, 1991 (56 FR 29774). The text of the petition appears at the end of this notice.

Under section 201(g) of SMCRA, any person may petition the Director of OSM to initiate a proceeding for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of any of the regulations implementing SMCRA. Under the applicable regulations for rulemaking petitions, 30 CFR 700.12, this notice seeks public comment on the merits of the petition and on the rule changes suggested in the petition.

At the close of the comment period, a decision will be made whether to grant or deny the petition. Under 30 CFR 700.12, the Director shall issue a written decision either granting or denying the petition within 90 days of the date of its receipt. Soon thereafter, notice of that decision will be published in the Federal Register. If the petition is granted, rulemaking proceedings will be initiated in which public comment will again be sought before a final rulemaking notice appears. If the petition is denied, no further rulemaking action will occur pursuant to the petition.

III. Procedural Matters

Publication of this notice of the receipt of the petition for rulemaking is a preliminary step in the rulemaking process. If a decision is made to grant the petition, a formal rulemaking process will be initiated. Thus, no regulatory flexibility analysis is needed at this stage, nor is a regulatory impact analysis necessary under Executive Order 12291.

Publication of this notice does not constitute a major Federal action having a significant effect on the human environment for which an environmental impact statement under the National Environmental Policy Act, 44 U.S.C. 4322(a)(C), is needed.

Appendix

The text of the petition dated August 26, 1991 (received September 12, 1991), from the Joint NCA/AMC Committee, is as follows:

This letter comprises the comments of the Joint NCA/AMC Committee on Surface Mining Regulation on the proposed changes to rules applicable to permanent and temporary impoundments. The proposed rule illegally applies SCS criteria to temporary impoundments in that SMCRA specifically applies that criteria only to permanent impoundments. Moreover, the proposal goes well beyond the stated purpose in the preamble to clarify that certain requirements apply to both SCS class B and C dams. We do not believe the additional changes have been accompanied by an adequate legal or technical justification. Moreover, the unnecessary revisions contained in this proposal will only lead to additional confusion in the field.

I. Applicability of SCS Standards to Temporary Impoundments

The provision of SMCRA which references Public Law 83–566, pertains to permanent impoundments of water. Section 515(b)(8). Temporary impoundments used as siltation structures are governed by a separate provision, Section 515(b)(10), which contains no reference to Public Law 83–566. This purposeful distinction has been removed improperly in the rules by applying the SCS standards issued under Public Law 83–566 to virtually all impoundments regardless of their character, ie permanent vs temporary. We request under 30 CFR 700.12 that the agency reevaluate and propose for comment a rulemaking which will incorporate the statutory distinction between temporary and permanent impoundments as it pertains to the incorporation of standards issued under Public Law 83–566 including TSR–60. We submit as a basis for this petition the following considerations:

1. TSR–60 and other guidance issued under Public Law 83–566 is intended for permanent dams, whereas temporary impoundments or siltation structures are not permanent and will be removed in the course of reclamation. Moreover, temporary impoundments are subject to periodic inspections and maintenance under SMCRA and the Mine Safety Act so as to alleviate and address concerns with respect to safety and property damage. On the other hand, permanent impoundments will be no longer subject to such protections after mining has ceased under the Mine Safety Act, or after bond release under the state program approved under SMCRA. Accordingly, for these permanent dams it makes sense to have them constructed under the specifications established for permanent dams under Public Law 83–566. On the other hand, the same rationale is absent for temporary siltation structures which will be removed in the course of reclamation. Finally, the SCS requirements will lead to greater environmental disturbance to conform temporary impoundments to standards designed for permanent structures.

2. Since the adoption of the SCS criteria for both temporary and permanent impoundments, the appropriate interpretation of SMCRA has been further clarified by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. In NWF v. Lujan 839 F. 2d 694 (D.C. Cir., 1988), the court, on several occasions, emphasized that Congress acted purposefully in providing distinct standards. For example, the Appeals Court noted that for coal mine waste piles not used as an impoundment or dam are not subject to the detailed design mandated under section 515(f) which incorporates the Army Corps of Engineers criteria for flood control structures. 839 F. 2d at 732–733 (because non-impounding waste piles are not used as dams, section 515(f) is inapplicable).

Similarly, the court also held that the ubiquitous requirement to eliminate highwalls does not apply to permanent impoundments, since Section 515(b)(8) provides a distinct grading requirement. Accordingly, the appeals court held that "Congress included requirements precisely in those provisions where it meant to do so." 839 F. 2d at 760, citing Russello v. United States, 464 U.S. 16, 23 (1983) (where Congress includes particular language in one section of a statute but omits it in another section of the same Act, it is presumed that Congress acts intentionally and purposefully in the disparate inclusion or exclusion). See also NWF v. Lujan, 839 F. 2d at 764 (Strong presumption that Congress expresses its intent through language it chooses—therefore, cannot imply that AOC variance applies beyond steep slope provisions).

Plainly, the manner in which OSM has removed the statutory distinction for requirements applicable to permanent and temporary impoundments has no basis in SMCRA. We request that OSM publish for public comment a proposed rule to remove from the standards applicable to temporary impoundments references to Public Law 83–566 and the SCS classification system and related standards.

Note: The remaining text from the letter of the Joint NCA/AMC Committee is not represented here because it contains comments on the proposed permanent and temporary impoundment rule published June 28, 1991 (56 FR 29774).

Sincerely,

Stuart A. Sanderson,

Senior Counsel.

Technical Flexibility in the Mobile Communications Services

ACTION: Proposed rule; Order Terminating Proceeding.

SUMMARY: The Commission terminated Gen. Docket No. 85–171 and incorporated the record of that proceeding, as it pertains to licensees under part 90 of its rules, into the record of PR Docket No. 91–170. This was done because the Notice of Inquiry in PR Docket No. 91–170 examines issues similar to those raised in Gen. Docket No. 85–171 in an extremely broad context.

Order Terminating Proceeding

Adopted: September 9, 1991.

Released: October 2, 1991.

By the Commission:

1. In the Notice of Inquiry and Proposed Rule Making (Notice) and Further Notice of Proposed Rule Making (Further Notice) the Commission requested comments on a new form of equipment testing and authorization entitled "Alternative Type Acceptance" (ATA).[1] ATA would permit the introduction of new spectrum efficient equipment and technology into existing land mobile radio bands in more efficient manner.

2. We have recently initiated a new proceeding, PR Docket No. 91–170,[2] containing many of the issues raised in the Notice and Further Notice. The new Notice of Inquiry examines technical flexibility for the private land mobile radio services, in the bands primarily below 470 MHz, in an extremely broad context. The new Notice of Inquiry is intended to consider the issues involved in introducing new spectrum efficient equipment and technology into the existing private land mobile radio bands.[3] Thus, we have incorporated the record of this proceeding, as it pertains to licensees under part 90 of our rules, into the record of PR Docket No. 91–170.

3. Accordingly, It is ordered That under the authority contained in sections 4(i) and 33 of Communications Act of 1934, as amended, this proceeding Is terminated without further action.

Summary of Order

On June 6, 1991, the Commission issued a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking and Notice of Inquiry (the Expanded Interconnection proceeding) proposing to require that Tier I local exchange carriers provide expanded interconnection for interstate special access to all third parties, and beginning an inquiry concerning expanded interconnection for the provision of interstate local transport. That Notice also sought comment on certain aspects of local exchange carrier special access pricing.

In comments filed in another Commission proceeding dealing with transport pricing, the Competitive Telecommunications Association (CompTel) argued that both transport and special access prices of the local exchange carriers reflect an arbitrary and excessive degree of distance sensitivity that seriously disadvantages the smaller interexchange carriers. A number of local exchange carriers challenged CompTel's analysis of distance sensitivity issues.

The Commission concluded that the distance sensitivity issue merited consideration and requested comment in the Transport proceeding on the extent to which transport rates should be distance sensitive. The Commission is including the issue of special access distance sensitivity in the Expanded Interconnection proceeding, and has expanded the scope of that proceeding to request comment on the extent to which rates for special access should be distance sensitive. Any new requirements or policies concerning distance sensitivity may be applied to all LECs, not just Tier 1 LECs.

Ex Parte Rules

This is a non-restricted notice and comment rulemaking. Ex parte presentations are permitted, except during the Sunshine period, provided they are disclosed as provided in the Commission's rules. See generally, 47 CFR 1.1202, 1.1203, and 1.1206(a).

Regulatory Flexibility Requirements

Pursuant to the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the Commission certifies that the Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 does not apply to this rulemaking proceeding because the proposed rule amendments, if promulgated, would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small business entities, as defined in section 601(3) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. Carriers providing interstate transport services directly subject to the proposed rule amendment do not qualify as small businesses since they are dominant in their field of operation. The Commission will, however, take appropriate steps to ensure that the special circumstances of the smaller local exchange carriers are carefully considered in resolving these issues.

Ordering Clauses

Accordingly, it is ordered that notice is hereby given of regulatory changes in the special access rate structure described above, and that comment is invited on these issues.[1]

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

Department of Defense, Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement, Foreign Acquisition AGENCY: Department of Defense (DoD).

ACTION: Proposed rule and request for comments.

SUMMARY: The Defense Acquisition Regulations (DAR) Council is proposing changes to the Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement (DFARS) to add a new section implementing part of a reciprocal agreement between the Department of Defense and the United Kingdom (U.K.). This rule addresses case-by-case waivers of Commercial Exploitation Levies assessed by the U.K. Government.

Note: This rule amends the 1991 edition of the DFARS which was published July 31, 1991 (56 FR 36280).

DATES: Comments on the proposed rule should be submitted in writing to the address shown below on or before December 20, 1991, to be considered in the formulation of the final rule. Please cite DAR Case 91–027 in all correspondence related to this issue.

ADDRESSES: Interested parties should submit written comments to: Defense Acquisition Regulations Council, ATTN: Mrs. Alyce Sullivan, DAR Council, OUSD(A)DP(DARS), Room 3D139, The Pentagon, Washington, DC 20301–3000.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mrs. Alyce Sullivan, DAR Council, (703) 697–7266.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

A. Background

This rule implements policy disseminated to defense activities by the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Procurement memorandum of September 30, 1988. Based on comments from the Military Services and Defense Security Assistance Agency, the policy was revised to include a clause, similar to one used by the British. The clause requires contractors to provide information on levies. It also puts contractors on notice regarding the U.S./U.K. policy and advises that DoD reserves the right to reduce the contract price commensurate with the levy amount waived.

B. Regulatory Flexibility Act

An initial Regulatory Flexibility Analysis has not been performed because the proposed rule is not expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities within the meaning of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq because it is limited to U.K. prime contractors and contracts with subcontracts over $1 million in value. Comments are invited from small businesses and other interested parties. Comments from small entities concerning this rule will be considered in accordance with section 610 of the Act. Such comments must be submitted separately and cite DAR Case 91–610 in correspondence.

C. Paperwork Reduction Act

The proposed rule adds information collection requirements which require the approval of OMB under 44 U.S.C. 3501, et seq. Accordingly, a request for clearance has been forwarded for approval.

Claudia L. Naugle,

Executive Editor, Defense Acquisition Regulations System.

Therefore, it is proposed that 48 CFR parts 225 and 252 be amended as follows:

1. The authority citation for 48 CFR parts 225 and 252 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 5 U.S.C. 301, 10 U.S.C. 2202, DoD Directive 5000.35, and FAR subpart 1.3.

PART 225—FOREIGN ACQUISITION

2. Sections 225.873, 225.873–1, 225.873–2 and 225.873–3 are added to read as follows:

225.873 Waiver of United Kingdom commercial exploitation levies.

225.873–1 Policy.

DoD and the Government of the United Kingdom (U.K.) have agreed to waive U.K. commercial exploitation levies and U.S. nonrecurring cost charges on a reciprocal basis. In order for these levies to be waived, they must be identified and a waiver must be requested before award of the contract or subcontract under which the levies are charged.

225.873–2 Procedures.

(a) Waiver of these levies must be approved by the Government of the U.K. When an offeror or contractor identifies a levy included in an offered or contract price, the contracting office shall provide written notification to the Office of the Secretary of Defense, Defense Security Assistance Agency, Operations Management Division, Room 4–B–740, The Pentagon, Washington, DC 20301–2800, telephone (703) 697–8108, which will request a waiver of the levy from the Government of the U.K. The notification shall include:

(1) Name of the U.K. firm;

(2) Prime contract number;

(3) Description of item for which waiver is being sought;

(4) Quantity being acquired; and

(5) Amount of levy. (b) Waiver may occur after contract award. Where levies are waived before contract award, the offer will be evaluated without the levy. Where levies are identified but not waived before contract award, the offer will be evaluated inclusive of the levies.

225.873–3 Contract clause.

Use the clause at 252.225–XXXX, Waiver of United Kingdom Commercial Exploitation Levies, in all solicitations and contracts for supplies:

(a) Where U.K. firms are expected to participate as offerors/prime contractors; or

(b) If a subcontract over $1 million with a U.K. firm is anticipated.

PART 252—SOLICITATION PROVISIONS AND CONTRACT CLAUSES

Subpart 252.2—Texts of Provisions and Clauses

3. Section 252.225–XXXX is added to read as follows:

252.225–XXXX Waiver of United Kingdom commercial exploitation levies.

Waiver of United Kingdom Commercial Exploitation Levies (XXX 1991)

(a) Offered prices for contracts and subcontracts with United Kingdom (U.K.) firms may contain commercial exploitation levies assessed by the Government of the U.K. The Offeror shall identify to the Contracting Officer all levies included in the offered price by describing: (1) The name of the U.K. firm;

(2) The item to which the levy applies, and quantity; and

(3) The amount of levy plus any associated indirect costs and profit or fee.

(b) If, after award of the prime contract, the Contractor contemplates award of a subcontract over $1 million to a U.K. firm, the Contractor shall identify any levy before award of the subcontract and shall provide the following information to the Contracting Officer:

(1) Name of the U.K. firm;

(2) Prime contract number;

(3) Description of item to which levy applies;

(4) Quantity being acquired; and

(5) Amount of levy plus any associated indirect costs and profit or fee.

(c) The Offeror/Contractor can obtain assistance in identifying levies from the Director of Procurement, U.K. Defense Procurement Office, British Embassy, 3100 Mass. Ave. NW., Washington, DC 20008, (202) 898–4480.

(d) The U.S. Government may attempt to obtain a waiver of levies pursuant to the U.S./U.K. reciprocal waiver agreement of September 1988.

(1) Where levies are waived before contract award, the offer will be evaluated without the levy.

(2) Where levies are identified but not waived before contract award, the offer will be evaluated inclusive of the levies.

(3) Where a waiver of the levy is obtained after award, the U.S. Government reserves the right to reduce the contract price by the amount of the levy waived plus associated indirect costs, profit or fee.

(e) The Contractor agrees to insert the substance of this clause, including this paragraph (e), in any subcontract for supplies where a lower tier subcontract over $1 million with a U.K. firm is anticipated.

Railroad User Fees; Open Meeting

AGENCY: Federal Railroad Administration, Department of Transportation.

ACTION: Notice of open meeting.

SUMMARY: On September 30, 1991, the Federal Railroad Administration (FRA) published an interim final rule establishing the railroad user fee program which is applicable to the collection of user fees for fiscal year 1991 only. FRA indicated in the interim final rule its intention to reopen the user fee proceeding early in fiscal year 1992 to consider other user fee allocation criteria. Accordingly, as a first step in this process, FRA will hold an informal open meeting on November 8, 1991, in Washington, DC. The meeting will be open to any interested persons who wish to attend at either participants or observers.

DATES: The open meeting will be held on Friday, November 8, 1991 at 9 a.m.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Gail L. Payne, Senior Program Analysis, Industry Operations and Safety Analysis Division, Office of Policy, (RRP–12), FRA, Washington, DC 20590 (Telephone: 202 366–0384); or William R. Fashouer, Deputy Assistant Chief Counsel, Office of Chief Counsel, (RCC–10), FRA, Washington, DC 20590 (Telephone: 202–366–0616).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On September 30, 1991, FRA published an interim final rule establishing the railroad user fee program mandated by section 216 of the Federal Railroad Safety Act of 1970 (45 U.S.C. 421 et seq.) as enacted in section 10501 of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 (Pub. L. No. 101–508, 104 Stat. 1388–399). FRA's interim final rule bases the collection of railroad user fees for fiscal year 1991 on two criteria: train miles and road miles. As noted in FRA's Notice of Proposed Rulemaking ("NPRM") (45 FR 21216 (May 7, 1991)). FRA selected these criteria because they equitably allocated user fees across the railroad industry, they represent data the industry was already maintaining and therefore imposed only a limited additional reporting burden on the industry, they represented data that FRA could verify, and they allowed FRA to complete the interim rulemaking process in fiscal year 1991. A number of entities commenting on the NPRM noted that the fiscal year 1991 rulemaking schedule did not afford them sufficient time to evaluate and propose alternative criteria. These commenters requested FRA to reopen the proceeding early in fiscal year 1992 in order to examine other factors upon which to allocate the user fees for fiscal years 1992 through 1995. FRA agreed to this request.

Individuals and groups commenting on the NPRM offered a number of alternative criteria, however, the limited time involved precluded the development and presentation of detailed analysis supporting the proffered options. The purpose of the open meeting will be to explore user fee criteria and options for fiscal year 1992–1995 assessments. The criterion or criteria must satisfy at least two essential requirements: fairly and equitably allocate the total user fees to be collected across all railroads, and be based on data that are readily available to and verifiable by FRA. Since the statute requires FRA to assess and collect use fees before the end of each fiscal year, the data upon which the assessments will be based must be available to FRA early enough in the fiscal year to allow the billing process to be completed before the end of the fiscal year.

Participants are requested to come prepared to describe and support alternative bases upon which FRA would collect the user fees mandated by Congress. Persons or groups desiring to actively participate are encouraged to notify either of the individuals identified above in advance of the meeting. In addition, in the interest of facilitating the exchange of information, participants are requested to bring written outlines or descriptions of their proposals for distribution to other participants.

Issued in Washington, DC, on November 15, 1991.

Federal Railroad Administrator.

Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards; Denial of Petition for Rulemaking; Hydraulic Brakes AGENCY: National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), Department of Transportation (DOT).

ACTION: Denial of petition for rulemaking.

SUMMARY: Dr. Christoper G. Shapley petitioned NHTSA to amend Federal Motor Vehicle Standard No. 105, Hydraulic Brakes, to include a test of the adequacy of the power source in braking system power assist units. NHTSA is denying the petition because the agency has concluded that there is no demonstrated safety need for this type of test.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Vernon Bloom, Office of Vehicle Safety Standards, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 400 Seventh Street, SW., Washington, DC 20590 (202–366–5277).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: NHTSA received a petition for rulemaking from Dr. Christopher G. Shapley, dated June 5, 1991. He requested that NHTSA amend Standard No. 105, Hydraulic Brakes, to include a test of the adequacy of the power source used in braking system power assist units. Specifically, he requested that a vehicle with power brakes not show any sign of "hard pedal" under the following test conditions:

Minimum source capacity
Maximum master cylinder stroke
Brake pedal cycling from zero to the equivalent of 0.7g, repeated once per second for thirty seconds.

Dr. Shapley stated that "hard pedal" is the condition where the booster is unable to provide any further amplification of pedal effort. In such a case, the pedal seems to become hard. The petitioner believes that the test he recommends is necessary because drivers often interpret a "hard pedal" condition as a complete loss of braking.

NHTSA has decided to deny the petition. NHTSA has concluded that an amendment to Standard No. 105 to require a power source capability evaluation is not necessary. NHTSA does not believe that "hard pedal" conditions in motor vehicles are a significant safety problem. NHTSA is not convinced that safety problems would necessarily occur even if some drivers interpreted "hard pedal" as a complete loss of braking. Those drivers would likely take appropriate action (e.g., driving to the side of the road) until they determined that the "hard pedal" did not represent a loss of braking. In addition, NHTSA has concluded that the test advocated by the petitioner is not representative of the conditions that are likely to be encountered in actual driving. The petitioner advocates a test which consists of cycling from a zero load to the equivalent of 0.7g braking force load, at one second intervals, for 30 seconds. However, NHTSA believes that the drivers of most vehicles would not approach a cycling rate of one cycle per second, when applying high pressure to the brake pedal in combination with long pedal travel. Further, NHTSA believes that the 0.7g equivalent brake force is an unrealistic test condition. Such a brake force would generally result in wheel lockup on all but the highest-coefficient-of-friction dry road surfaces.

Endangered and Threatened Wildlife and Plants; Proposed Endangered Status for the Plant Isoetes louisianensis (Louisiana quillwort)

AGENCY: Fish and Wildlife Service, Interior.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: The Service proposes to list a plant, Isoetes louisianensis (Louisiana quillwort), as an endangered species under the authority contained in the Endangered Species Act (Act) of 1973, as amended. Isoetes louisianensis is currently only known from a localized portion of the Mill Creek drainage, and a single site in Miller Creek, Washington Parish, Louisiana. These two populations are threatened by timber harvest, gravel mining, or any other activity that would affect the hydrology or stability of the streams in which the plant occurs. This proposed rule, if made final, will extend the Act's protection to Isoetes louisianensis. The Service seeks data and comments from the public on this proposed rule.

DATES: Comments from all interested parties must be received by December 20, 1991. Public hearing requests must be received by December 5, 1991.

ADDRESSES: Comments and materials concerning this proposal should be sent to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 6578 Dogwood View Parkway, Jackson, Mississippi 39213. Comments and materials received will be available for public inspection, by appointment, during normal business hours at the above address.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Paul Hartfield at the above address (601/965-4900 or FTS 490-4900).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Isoetes louisianensis is a small, grasslike, aquatic herb in the quillwort family. Quillworts are seedless vascular plants which reproduce by spores and are closely related to ferns. Their slender quill-like leaves arise from a short fleshy stem (corm) that is shallowly rooted in the substrate. The leaves are rounded, hollow and swollen at their base. The sporangia (spore-containing structures) are embedded in the broadened bases of the leaves. Quillworts are heterosporous producing both megasporangia and microsporangia. Megaspore morphology and habitat preference are primary characters for the identification of Isoetes species (Taylor et al. 1989).

Isoetes louisianensis was described in 1973 from Thigpen Creek, a tributary of Mill Creek in the Bogue Chitto drainage, Washington Parish, Louisiana (Landry and Thieret 1973). Distinctive characters on which the species was based included brown-spotted sporangial walls and megaspores with high reticulate ridges producing a spiny effect. The leaves are numerous, varying in length from 15 to 40 centimeters (6-16 inches) depending on water depth (Kral 1983). Isoetes louisianensis has been reported to sporulate twice a year, producing megaspores in the spring and microspores in the fall (Landry and Thieret 1973).

In 1982, Brian Boom reduced the specific status of the Thigpen Creek population of Isoetes to a hybrid. He considered the population's distinctive characters (sporangial wall coloration, megaspore ornamentation, sporulation frequency) to be intermediate between I. engelmannii and I. melanopoda, although these two species are not known to co-occur. Luebke and Taylor (1986) questioned the hybrid parentage proposed by Boom for this as well as other purported hybrid crosses. They noted the absence of the putative parents from the hybrid localities; a lack of cytological evidence supporting the proposed crosses; and the uniformity of spore morphology in the putative hybrids and their viability. Hybrid spores are typically abortive and are not normal in appearance, and primary laboratory produced Isoetes hybrids are usually sterile.

Taylor et al. (1989) treat Isoetes louisianensis as a distinct species in an unpublished manuscript for the Flora of North America project. They acknowledge that while I. louisianensis may be of hybrid origin (it is tetraploid, $2n=44$) with I. engelmannii as one of its parents, the species' spores are uniform in size and texture and readily germinate in culture. Based on the lack of information supporting Boom's hybrid concept, and Taylor et al.'s recognition of the taxon, the Service recognizes the taxonomic validity of Isoetes louisianensis.

Isoetes louisianensis is a semi-aquatic plant known from only four small streams in the Bogue Chitto River drainage, Washington Parish, Louisiana. A report of the species from Worth County, Georgia (Bruce et al. 1980) was in error (Snyder in litt. 1988). The plant is found in a 1.25 km (0.75 mile) reach of Thigpen Creek, an 0.5 km (0.3 mile) reach of Clearwater Creek and in a 1.0 km (0.6 mile) reach of Mill Creek in the Mill Creek drainage, and at a single site in Miller Creek (McInnis 1991). These streams are typically small to medium sized, shallow and with clear, tannic acid colored water, running through narrow riparian forest communities. Substrates are stable mixtures of silt, sand and gravel.

Isoetes louisianensis occurs predominately on sand and gravel bars on accreting sides of streams and in moist over flow channels. The species is found less commonly on low sloping banks near, and occasionally below, the low water level. Plants are regularly inundated as much as 50 cm (20 inches) following rains, and may be inundated for long periods in wet seasons. Corm depth has been found as great as 3 cm (1.2 inches), indicating a tolerance for deposition of material. Plants can be found singly or in numbers of several hundred in the Mill Creek drainage. Only four plants are known from Miller Creek. Close herbaceous associates are Viola primulifolia, Scirpus divaricatus, Justicia lanceolata, Hypoxis leptocarpa, Xyris sp., Carex sp., and the liverwort Pallavicinia lyellii.

It is possible that the species was once more widespread. However, numerous small stream riparian habitats with similar physiognomy and vegetational composition have been searched in the Bogue Chitto River drainage in Louisiana and Mississippi, and in other drainages across south Mississippi without finding Isoetes louisianensis (Rosso 1987, McInnis 1991). McInnis (1991) noted that the numerous small streams that were unsuccessfully searched differed from known localities in type or stability of substrate, steepness of banks, absence of sand or gravel bars, seasonal lack of flow, or habitat alteration that has resulted in siltation, erosion, pollution, etc. Other wetland habitats surveyed without result included bottomland hardwood forests, pitcher plant seeps, large stream riparian zones, edges of ponds and gravel pits, ditches, mudholes, and wet areas along roadsides and utility rights-of-ways.

Federal actions involving Isoetes louisianensis began with Section 12 of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, which directed the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution to prepare a report on those plants considered to be endangered, threatened, or extinct. This report, designated as House Document No. 94–51, was presented to Congress on January 9, 1975. On July 1, 1975, the Service published a notice in the Federal Register (40 FR 27823) of its acceptance of the report of the Smithsonian Institution as a petition within the context of Section 4(c)(2), now section 4(b)(3)(A), of the Act and of its intention thereby to review the status of those plants. On June 16, 1976, the Service published a proposed rule in the Federal Register (41 FR 24523) to determine approximately 1,700 vascular plant species to be endangered species pursuant to section 4 of the Act. Isoetes louisianensis was included in the Smithsonian petition and the 1976 proposal. General comments received in relation to the 1976 proposal were summarized in an April 26, 1976 Federal Register publication (43 FR 17909).

The Endangered Species Act Amendments of 1978 required that all proposals over 2 years old be withdrawn. A 1–year grace period was given to proposals already over 2 years old. In the December 10, 1979, Federal Register (44 FR 70796), the Service published a notice of withdrawal of the June 16, 1976, proposal, along with four other proposals that had expired. Isoetes louisianensis was included as a category 2 species in a revised list of plants under review for threatened or endangered classification published in the December 15, 1980, Federal Register (45 FR 82480). This species was maintained in category 2 in the Service's updated plant notices of September 27, 1985 (50 FR 39526) and February 21, 199O (55 FR 6184). Category 2 species are those for which there is some evidence of vulnerability, but for which there are not enough data to support listing proposals at this time. The Service funded a status survey for this plant species in 1990. Field surveys were conducted during the summer and early fall of that year. A final report was received and approved by the Service in early 1991. This report (McInnis 1991) and other information support the proposed listing.

Section 4(b)(3) of the Endangered Species Act, as amended in 1982, requires the Secretary to make certain findings on pending petitions within 12 months of their receipt. Section 2(b)(1) of the 1982 amendments further requires that all petitions pending on October 13, 1982, be treated as having been newly submitted on that date. This was the case for Isoetes louisianensis because of the acceptance of the 1975 Smithsonian report as a petition. In October of 1983, and succeeding years, the Service found that the petitioned listing of Isoetes louisianensis was warranted, but that listing this species was precluded due to other higher priority listing actions and additional data were being gathered. Publication of the present proposal constitutes the final 1-year finding that is required.

Summary of Factors Affecting the Species

Section 4(a)(1) of the Endangered Species Act (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) and regulations (50 CFR part 424) promulgated to implement the listing provisions of the Act set forth the procedures for adding species to the Federal lists. A species may be determined to be an endangered or threatened species due to one or more of the five factors described in section 4(a)(1). These factors and their application to Isoetes louisianensis Thieret (Louisiana quillwort) are as follows:

A. The Present or Threatened Destruction, Modification, or Curtailment of Its Habitat or Range

The primary threats to Isoetes louisianensis are activities that would affect the hydrology or stability of the streams in which the plant occurs. Thigpen and Clearwater Creeks converge to form Mill Creek. Any natural or human disturbance that would affect either tributary would also impact the Mill Creek portion of the population.

Timber removal can lead to an increase in surface runoff and contributes to stream erosion and/or siltation. All known stream habitat supporting this species is associated with a well developed stream canopy. Canopy removal would alter the light regime under which the species is currently known to exist. Timber harvest has occurred at various locations along all streams supporting the taxon (McInnis 1991). Extensive clearcuts have been made along portions of Clearwater Creek. Portions of the bayhead forests in the headwaters of Thigpen and Clearwater Creeks are currently being clearcut and replanted with pine seedlings.

Isoetes louisianensis is generally associated with stable coarse sand and gravel substrates. Although the plants are occasionally found in finer soils in overflow channels, the substrate is always firm and stable (McInnis 1991). Sand and gravel mining along Clearwater Creek is affecting the hydrology, water quality and substrate stability of that stream and Mill Creek. Portions of Clearwater Creek have been completely cleared, channelized or re-routed by sand and gravel mining activities (McInnis 1991). The headwaters of Thigpen and Clearwater Creek have been ditched to direct surface drainage away from the mining operation.

An application for a permit to discharge produced waters from a natural gas compressor station into the upper Thigpen Creek is currently under review by the Louisiana Department of Environmental Quality (McInnis 1991). The nature and amount of discharge, and the potential effects to Isoetes louisianensis are unknown.

B. Overutilization for Commercial, Recreational, Scientific, or Educational Purposes

Due to the limited distribution and easily accessed habitat of Isoetes louisianensis, indiscriminate collecting of any nature could seriously affect this species and perhaps result in its extinction. Overcollecting is not known to occur at this time.

C. Disease or Predation

This plant species is not known to be threatened by disease or predation.

D. The Inadequacy of Existing Regulatory Mechanisms

This species is not recognized by any existing Federal or State regulation. Without listing, it would not be considered during project impact evaluation under other environmental laws.

E. Other Natural or Manmade Factors Affecting Its Continued Existence

Isoetes louisianensis is extremely vulnerable because of its restricted range and limited population size. Only 2.75 km (1.65 miles) of continuous habitat for the species exists in the lower portions of Thigpen and Clearwater Creeks and the upper portion of Mill Creek. Only four plants are known from a single site in the Miller Creek drainage. This restricted range makes the species vulnerable to any loss of individuals from its limited gene pool.

The Service has carefully assessed the best scientific and commercial information available regarding the past, present, and future threats faced by this species in determining to propose this rule. Based on this evaluation, the preferred action is to list Isoetes louisianensis as endangered. Endangered status is appropriate due to the plants small populations, restricted range, and continuing threats to its habitat. An endangered species, as defined by the Act, is threatened with extinction throughout all or a significant portion of its range. Critical habitat is not being designated for reasons discussed in the following section.

Critical Habitat

Section 4(a)(3) of the Act, as amended, requires that, to the maximum extent prudent and determinable, the Secretary propose critical habitat at the time the species is proposed to be endangered or threatened. The Service finds that the designation of critical habitat is not presently prudent for this species. As discussed under Factor B in the Summary of Factors Affecting the Species, Isoetes louisianensis is potentially threatened by taking. It is not protected by any existing State regulation. In addition, take is regulated by the U.S. Endangered Species Act with respect to plants only in cases of (1) removal and reduction to possession of endangered plants from lands under Federal jurisdiction, or their malicious damage or destruction on such lands; and (2) removal, cutting, digging up, or damaging or destroying in knowing violation of any State law or regulation, including State criminal trespass law. The two known populations of this species are located only on private land. Therefore, if this species is listed under the Act, it will not receive protection from taking. While listing under the Act increases the public's awareness of the species' plight and conservation needs, it can also increase the desirability of a species to collectors. Isoetes louisianensis is a rare and unusual species, existing in only two populations. Publication of critical habitat descriptions and maps in the Federal Register and local newspapers would considerably increase the vulnerability of Isoetes louisianensis to collectors.

As discussed above, it would not now be prudent to designate critical habitat for Isoetes louisianensis. All involved parties, including Federal and State agencies and principal landowners, have been notified of the location and importance of protecting this species'habitat. Protection of this species' habitat will be addressed through the recovery process and through the section 7 jeopardy standard.

Available Conservation Measures

Conservation measures provided to species listed as endangered or threatened under the Endangered Species Act include recognition, recovery actions, requirements for Federal protection, and prohibitions against certain practices. Recognition through listing encourages and results in conservation actions by Federal, State, and private agencies, groups, and individuals. The Endangered Species Act provides for possible land acquisition and cooperation with the States and requires that recovery actions be carried out for all listed species. The protection required of Federal agencies and the prohibitions against certain activities involving listed plants are discussed, in part, below.

Section 7(a) of the Act, as amended, requires Federal agencies to evaluate their actions with respect to any species that is proposed or listed as endangered or threatened and with respect to its critical habitat, if any is being designated. Regulations implementing this interagency cooperation provision of the Act are codified at 50 CFR part 402. Section 7(a)(4) requires Federal agencies to confer informally with the Service on any action that is likely to jeopardize the continued existence of a proposed species or result in destruction or adverse modification of proposed critical habitat. If a species is listed subsequently, section 7(a)(2) requires Federal agencies to ensure that activities they authorize, fund, or carry out are not likely to jeopardize the continued existence of such a species or to destroy or adversely modify its critical habitat. If a Federal action may affect a listed species or its critical habitat, the responsible Federal agency must enter into formal consultation with the Service.

Federal involvement may include the following agencies: the Environmental Protection Agency through the Clean Water Act's provisions for pesticide registration and waste management actions, the Corps of Engineers relative to wetlands permits, and the Federal Highway Administration in case of impacts from federally funded bridge and road construction. Continuing urban development within the drainage basins where the plant occurs may also involve the Farmers Home Administration and their loan programs.

The Act and its implementing regulations found at 50 CFR 17.61, 17.62, and 17.63 set forth a series of general prohibitions and exceptions that apply to all endangered plants. All trade prohibitions of section 9(a)(2) of the Act, implemented by 50 CFR 17.61, apply. These prohibitions, in part, make it illegal for any person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States to import or export, transport in interstate or foreign commerce in the course of a commercial activity, sell or offer for sale this species in interstate or foreign commerce, or to remove and reduce to possession the species from areas under Federal jurisdiction. In addition, for endangered plants, the 1988 amendments (Pub. L. 100–478) to the Act prohibit the malicious damage or destruction on Federal lands and the removal, cutting, digging up, or damaging or destroying of endangered plants in knowing violation of any State law or regulation, including State criminal trespass law. Certain exceptions apply to agents of the Service and State conservation agencies. The Act and 50 CFR 17.62 and 17.63 also provide for the issuance of permits to carry out otherwise prohibited activities involving endangered species under certain circumstances.

It is anticipated that few trade permits would ever be sought or issued because the species is not common in cultivation or in the wild. Requests for copies of the regulations on listed plants and inquiries regarding prohibitions and permits may be addressed to the Office of Management Authority, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 4401 N. Fairfax Drive, room 432, Arlington, Virginia 22203 (703/358–2104).

Public Comments Solicited

The Service intends that any final action resulting from this proposal will be as accurate and as effective as possible. Therefore, comments or suggestions from the public, other concerned governmental agencies, the scientific community, industry, or any other interested party concerning this proposed rule are hereby solicited. Comments particularly are sought concerning:

(1) Biological, commercial trade, or other relevant data concerning any threat (or lack thereof) to this species;

(2) The location of any additional populations of this species and the reasons why any habitat should or should not be determined to be critical habitat as provided by Section 4 of the Act;

(3) Additional information concerning the range, distribution, and population size of this species; and

(4) Current or planned activities in the subject area and their possible impacts on this species.

Final promulgation of the regulation on this species will take into consideration the comments and any additional information received by the Service, and such communications may lead to a final regulation that differs from this proposal.

The Endangered Species Act provides for a public hearing on this proposal, if requested. Requests must be received within 45 days of the date of publication of the proposal. Such requests must be made in writing and addressed to Complex Field Supervisor (see ADDRESSES section).

National Environmental Policy Act

The Fish and Wildlife Service has determined that an Environmental Assessment, as defined under the authority of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, need not be prepared in connection with regulations adopted pursuant to Section 4(a) of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. A notice outlining the Service's reasons for this determination was published in the Federal Register on October 25, 1983 (48 FR 49244).

Endangered and Threatened Wildlife and Plants; Proposed Endangered Status for the Plant Clematis morefieldii (Morefield's Leather Flower)

AGENCY: Fish and Wildlife Service, Interior.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: The Service proposes to list a plant, Clematis morefieldii (Morefield's leather flower), as an endangered species under the authority contained in the Endangered Species Act (Act) of 1973, as amended. Clematis morefieldii is currently believed extant at only five sites in Madison County, Alabama. Three historical populations have been destroyed and two of the remaining sites are imminently threatened by residential development. The continued existence of this species is also jeopardized due to its limited range, small populations, and reduced vigor at sites that are excessively shaded. This proposed rule, if made final, will extend the Act's protection to Clematis morefieldii. The Service seeks data and comments from the public on this proposed rule.

DATES: Comments from all interested parties must be received by December 20, 1991. Public hearing requests must be received by December 5, 1991.

ADDRESSES: Comments and materials concerning this proposal should be sent to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 6578 Dogwood View Parkway, Suite A, Jackson, Mississippi 39213. Comments and materials received will be available for public inspection, by appointment, during normal business hours at the above address.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Clematis morefieldii is a perennial vine in the buttercup family (Ranunculaceae) and is a north Alabama endemic. It was first collected by Morefield in the early 1980's from Round Top Mountain in Madison County, Alabama, and later described by Kral (1987). This species is a member of the Viornae subsection of Clematis, which is noted for its narrow endemics (Kral 1987). Clematis in this subsection are distinguished by urn-shaped flowers which occur singly, or in few-flowered groups, in leaf axils. Their primary flower stalks (peduncles) are subtended by leafy bracts. Clematis morefieldii is closely related to C. viorna, a more variable species, but C. morefieldii has dense white hairs on the shoot, velvety lower leaf surfaces, and stouter, usually shorter (15–25 millimeters (mm) or 0.6 to 1.0 inch long) peduncles with sessile to nearly sessile bracts at the base (Kral 1987). Clematis morefieldii attains heights up to 5 meters (16 feet) and its compound leaves may attain lengths of 2 decimeters (8 inches). Leaves have 9 to 11 leaflets and the terminal 1 to 3 leaflets form tendrils. The flowers are pinkish and 20 to 25 mm (0.8 to 1.0 inch) long. Fruits are clusters of achenes. Clematis morefieldii flowers from late May to early July.

Extensive surveys have been conducted for C. morefieldii. Currently, it is known from only five locations in Madison County, Alabama. The vines are rooted in basic clay-loam soils in rocky limestone woods on the south and southwest facing slopes of mountains. Plants often sprawl over shrubs and boulders or climb understory shrubs (Kral 1987). Clematis morefieldii occurs locally near seeps within a juniper-hardwoods community with Cotinus obovatus (smoketree) as the principal indicator species. Other associate hardwoods include Carva ovata, oaks (Quercus shumardii, Q. muhlenbergia, Q. alba, Q. stellata), Ulmus, and Fraxinus americana.

Four of the five populations are within 0.3 to 1.7 kilometers (km) (0.2 to 1.1 miles) of one another on the Huntsville—Monte Sano Mountain complex. A single vine is on one site, two sites have approximately 20 plants, and the fourth site has several hundred vines. The fifth site (on Keel Mountain) is disjunct, approximately eight km (six miles) from the other sites, and has an estimated 300 vines. On all sites, the plants are clustered within a small area (0.1 hectare (0.25 acre) or less) (Weber 1991). Two populations are located on public land currently owned by the city of Huntsville. The other sites are on private property.

Of the total eight reported populations (including historic and extant sites), three populations are believed to have been destroyed, and two of the remaining five extant sites, are imminently threatened by residential development. The continued existence of this species is also jeopardized due to its limited range, small population sizes, and reduced vigor at sites which are heavily shaded. Management may be necessary to maintain appropriate habitat.

Federal actions involving Clematis morefieldii began with field surveys in 1989, after the Service had been alerted to a newly described species of Clematis which appeared to be rare and facing imminent threats. In the February 21, 1990, publication of a notice of review for native plants in the Federal Register (50 FR 6184), Clematis morefieldii was included as a category 2 species (the specific name was misspelled in the notice). Category 2 species are those for which listing as endangered or threatened species may be warranted but for which substantial data on biological vulnerability and threats are not currently known or on file to support a proposed rule. The Service contracted for additional surveys in 1990 to further assess this species' rarity and threats to its existence. The contractor submitted a final report on this species' status in 1991. This report (Weber 1991) and other information support the proposed listing. The data demonstrate a limited distribution and continuing threats to the species.

Summary of Factors Affecting the Species

Section 4(a)(1) of the Endangered Species Act (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) and regulations (50 CFR part 424) promulgated to implement the listing provisions of the Act set forth the procedures for adding species to the Federal lists. A species may be determined to be an endangered or threatened species due to one or more of the five factors described in section 4(a)(1). These factors and their application to Clematii morefieldii Kral (Morefield's leather flower) are as follows:

A. The Present or Threatened Destruction, Modification, or Curtailment of Its Habitat or Range

This species' range is currently recognized as limited to five sites in northern Alabama, all in Madison County. While surveying potential habitat for additional populations, it was noted that residential development had destroyed or adversely modified similar habitats. Residential development on mountains in the Huntsville area is increasing. Two of the existing populations are imminently threatened due to their precarious location on lots in a residential area. Clearing has already impacted habitat and individuals on these sites. Destruction of these two sites would result in a 55 percent loss of total known individuals. At this time, only two of the five sites (respectively, 22 and 300 plants) appear to be secure. Within the last few years, three populations have been destroyed by road building, clearing, and herbicide use associated with residential development (Weber 1991).

B. Overutilization for Commercial, Recreational, Scientific, or Educational Purposes

This recently discovered species is currently not known to be a significant component of the commercial wildflower trade; however, it is attractive and has horticultural potential. Publicity from its listing could generate an increased demand. Taking and vandalism pose threats because of its visibility when flowering and the accessibility of many of the sites. Over-collecting for any purposes could extirpate populations, especially the sites with only a few plants.

C. Disease or Predation

Seed predation by insects was noted in several populations (Weber 1991) and requires further investigation.

D. The Inadequacy of Existing Regulatory Mechanisms

Although it is considered endangered in Alabama (Gunn, Alabama Heritage Program, pers. comm., 1991), there are no State or Federal laws protecting Clematis morefieldii or its habitat. Two populations (totalling <25 plants) occur on public land (city of Huntsville) and are currently protected. However, ownership, thus protection, for one of these sites is tenuous. There is a possibility that public ownership will revert to private landowners if sufficient funds are not available to complete payment (Weber 1991). The Act would strengthen existing protection, provide additional protection and encourage active management for Clematis morefieldii (see "Available Conservation Measures").

E. Other Natural or Manmade Factors Affecting Its Continued Existence

This species is extremely vulnerable because it has a limited range and low numbers of plants at many of the sites. One population has one plant, two have approximately 20 plants, and all sites occupy less than a 0.1 hectare (0.25 acre) in area. A single unnatural or natural disturbance could destroy a significant percentage of the known populations. In addition, the small number of individuals at three sites may indicate a limited gene pool and, without infusion of gene flow, it is questionable if these smaller populations can survive.

Clematis morefieldii appears to have restricted ecological requirements. Plants are locally distributed and seem to require areas where shale forms seeps which are moist for a good part of the year (Weber 1991). One population, located under a closed canopy, appeared to be stressed. Individuals were smaller and fewer flowers were observed, when compared to populations where the canopy was somewhat "open". This species may require habitat management to curtail succession.

The Service has carefully assessed the best scientific and commercial information available regarding the past, present, and future threats faced by this species in determining to propose this rule. Based on this evaluation, the preferred action is to list Clematis morefieldii as endangered. Endangered status is appropriate due to the species' restricted range and imminent threats facing several populations. An endangered species, as defined by the Act, is threatened with extinction throughout all or a significant portion of its range. Critical habitat is not being designated for reasons discussed in the following section.

Critical Habitat

Section 4(a)(3) of the Act, as amended, requires that, to the maximum extent prudent and determinable, the Secretary designate critical habitat at the same time the species is determined to be endangered or threatened. The Service finds that designation of critical habitat presently is not prudent for this species. This recently discovered Clematis occurs in limited numbers at only five locations, three of which are easily accessible. Publication of critical habitat maps in the Federal Register and local newspapers would increase public interest and possibly lead to additional threats for this attractive species.

Take is regulated by the Act with respect to endangered plants only in cases of (1) removal and reduction to possession from lands under Federal jurisdiction, or their malicious damage or destruction on such lands; and (2) removal, cutting, digging up, damaging, or destroying these plants in knowing violation of any State law or regulation, including State criminal trespass law. However, the known populations of Clematis morefieldii are located only on private and city land. Although the species is listed as endangered by the State, the State law provides no protection from collecting or vandalism. While listing under the Act increases the public's awareness of the species' plight, it can also increase the desirability of a species to collectors. As stated previously, this Clematis is an attractive vine which may be attractive to the wildflower trade or novelty collectors. Discovery and elimination of even one population would compromise the survival of the species. It also could be adversely affected by increased visits to, and associated trampling of, occupied sites as a result of critical habitat designation.

As discussed above, it would not now be prudent to determine critical habitat for Clematis morefieldii. All involved parties, including appropriate City and State agencies, and key private landowners, have been notified of the location and importance of protecting this species' habitat. Protection of this species' habitat will be addressed through the recovery process and through the Section 7 consultation process.

Available Conservation Measures

Conservation measures provided to species listed as endangered or threatened under the Endangered Species Act include recognition, recovery actions, requirements for Federal protection, and prohibitions against certain practices. Recognition through listing encourages and results in conservation actions by Federal, State, and private agencies, groups, and individuals. The Endangered Species Act provides for possible land acquisition and cooperation with the States and requires that recovery actions be carried out for all listed species. The protection required of Federal agencies and the prohibitions against certain activities involving listed plants are discussed, in part, below.

Section 7(a) of the Act, as amended, requires Federal agencies to evaluate their actions with respect to any species that is proposed or listed as endangered or threatened and with respect to its critical habitat, if any is being designated. Regulations implementing this interagency cooperation provision of the Act are codified at 50 CFR part 402. Section 7(a)(4) requires Federal agencies to confer informally with the Service on any action that is likely to jeopardize the continued existence of a proposed species or result in destruction or adverse modification of proposed critical habitat. If a species is listed subsequently, section 7(a)(2) requires Federal agencies to ensure that activities they authorize, fund, or carry out are not likely to jeopardize the continued existence of such a species or to destroy or adversely modify its critical habitat. If a Federal action may affect a listed species or its critical habitat, the responsible Federal agency must enter into formal consultation with the Service.

All presently known populations are located on private or city-owned land. The only currently known activity to be authorized, funded, or carried out by a Federal agency that would affect Clematis morefieldii is consideration of this species by the Environmental Protection Agency relative to pesticide (herbicide) registration.

The Act and its implementing regulations found at 50 CFR 17.61, 17.62, and 17.63 set forth a series of general prohibitions and exceptions that apply to all endangered plants. All trade prohibitions of section 9(a)(2) of the Act, implemented by 50 CFR 17.61, would apply. These prohibitions, in part, make it illegal for any person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States to import or export, transport in interstate or foreign commerce in the course of a commercial activity, sell or offer for sale this species in interstate or foreign commerce, or to remove and reduce to possession the species from areas under Federal jurisdiction. In addition, for endangered plants, the 1988 amendments (Pub. L. 100–478) to the Act prohibit the malicious damage or destruction on Federal lands and the removal, cutting, digging up, or damaging or destroying of endangered plants in knowing violation of any State law or regulation, including State criminal trespass law. Certain exceptions apply to agents of the Service and State conservation agencies. The Act and 50 CFR 17.62 and 17.63 also provide for the issuance of permits to carry out otherwise prohibited activities involving endangered species under certain circumstances.

It is anticipated that few trade permits would ever be sought or issued because the species is not common in cultivation or in the wild. Requests for copies of the regulations on listed plants and inquiries regarding prohibitions and permits may be addressed to the Office of Management Authority, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 4401 N. Fairfax Drive, room 432, Arlington, Virginia 22203 (703/358–2104).

Public Comments Solicited

The Service intends that any final action resulting from this proposal will be as accurate and as effective as possible. Therefore, comments or suggestions from the public, other concerned governmental agencies, the scientific community, industry, or any other interested party concerning this proposed rule are hereby solicited. Comments particularly are sought concerning:

(1) Biological, commercial trade, or other relevant data concerning any threat (or lack thereof) to this species;

(2) The location of any additional populations of this species and the reasons why any habitat should or should not be determined to be critical habitat as provided by Section 4 of the Act;

(3) Additional information concerning the range, distribution, and population size of this species; and

(4) Current or planned activities in the subject area and their possible impacts on this species.

Final promulgation of the regulation on this species will take into consideration the comments and any additional information received by the Service, and such communications may lead to a final regulation that differs from this proposal.

The Endangered Species Act provides for a public hearing on this proposal, if requested. Requests must be received within 45 days of the date of publication of the proposal. Such requests must be made in writing and addressed to Complex Field Supervisor (see ADDRESSES section).

National Environmental Policy Act

The Fish and Wildlife Service has determined that an Environmental Assessment, as defined under the authority of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, need not be prepared in connection with regulations adopted pursuant to section 4(a) of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. A notice outlining the Service's reasons for this determination was published in the Federal Register on October 25, 1983 (48 FR 49244).

Forest Service

Intent To Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement; Eldorado National Forest, CA

AGENCY: Forest Service, USDA.

ACTION: Notice of intent to prepare an environmental impact statement.

SUMMARY: The Forest Service is preparing an environmental impact statement to analyze future management options for the recently acquired Echo Summit Ski area facilities on the Eldorado National Forest, Placerville Ranger District, together with the surrounding 115 acres of Forest Service land previously leased to the operator. Facilities include a 9,000 square foot building (former ski lodge), two ski lifts, and maintenance buildings. A portion of the parking at the site has been allocated to continuing operation of a Sno-park site in the winter months by the State of California Department of Recreation.

The agency invites written comments and suggestions on the scope of the analysis. The agency also gives notice of the full environmental analysis and decision-making process that will occur on the proposal so that interested and affected people are aware of how they may participate and contribute to the final decision.

DATES: Two public scoping meetings will be held. One will be held November 7, 1991 at 7 p.m. at the Eldorado National Forest Supervisor's Office, 100 Forni Road, Placerville, CA. The second will be held November 13, 1991 at 7 p.m., at Valhalla, Tallac Historic Site, South Lake Tahoe, CA.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Written comments and suggestions about the EIS or questions about the proposed action may be addressed to Diana Erickson, Project Coordinator; Eldorado National Forest; 100 Forni Road; Placerville, California 95667; phone (916) 622–5061. For consideration in the draft EIS, comments should be received no later than January 15, 1992.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In preparing the EIS, the Forest Service will identify and consider a range of alternatives for management of the Echo Summit site. One of these alternatives is no action. Other alternatives will consider a variety of summer and winter recreation activities, educational activities, and related uses. Removal of the facilities and/or restoration of all or a portion of the site will be considered as well. Public participation will be especially important at several points throughout the environmental analysis process. The first point is during the scoping process (40 CFR 1501.7). The Forest Service will be seeking information, comments, and assistance from Federal, State, and local agencies and other individuals or organizations who may be interested in or affected by the proposed action. This input will be used in preparation of the draft EIS. The scoping process includes:

1. Defining the scope of the analysis and nature of the decision to be made.
2. Identifying the issues and determining the significant issues for consideration and analysis within the EIS.
3. Determining the proper interdisciplinary team.
4. Determining the effective use of time and money in conducting the analysis.
5. Identifying the potential environmental, technical, and social impacts of the alternatives.
6. Determining potential cooperating agencies.
7. Identifying groups or individuals interested or affected by the decision.

The District Ranger, Placerville Ranger District, is the responsible official.

Upon completion of the draft EIS, the Forest Service will publish a notice of availability of the draft in the Federal Register.

The comment period on the draft EIS will be 45 days from the date the EPA's notice of availability appears in the Federal Register. It is very important that those interested in future management of the Echo Summit site participate at that time. Comments on the draft EIS should be as specific as possible and may address the adequacy of the statement or the merit of the alternatives discussed (see the Council on Environmental Quality Regulations for implementing the procedural provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act at 40 CFR 1503.3). In addition, Federal court decisions have established that reviewers of draft EIS's must structure their participation in the environmental review of the proposal so that it is meaningful and alerts an agency to the reviewers' position and contentions, Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Corp. v. NRDC, 435 U.S. 519, 553 (1978), and that environmental objections that could have been raised at the draft stages may be waived if not raised until after completion of the final EIS, Wisconsin Heritages, Inc. v. Harris, 490 F. Supp. 1334, 1338 (E.D. Wis. 1980). The reason for this is to ensure that substantive comments and objections are made available to the Forest Service at a time when it can meaningfully consider them and respond to them in the final EIS.

After the comment period on the draft EIS ends, the comments will be analyzed and considered by the Forest Service in preparing the final EIS. In the final EIS, the Forest Service is required to respond to the comments and responses received (40 CFR 1503.4). The responsible official will consider the comments; responses; environmental consequences discussed in the draft EIS; and applicable laws, regulations, and policies in making a decision. The responsible official will document the decision and reasons for the decision in the Record of Decision. The decision is subject to appeal pursuant to 36 CFR Part 217.

Dated: October 10, 1991.

That the Grantee is authorized to expand its zone in accordance with the application filed on March 1, 1991. The grant does not include authority for manufacturing operations, and the Grantee shall notify the Board for approval prior to the commencement of any manufacturing or assembly operations. The authority given in this Order is subject to settlement locally by the District Director of Customs and the Army District Engineer regarding compliance with their respective requirements relating to foreign-trade zones.

Frozen Concentrated Orange Juice From Brazil; Final Results and Termination in Part of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review; Revocation in Part of the Antidumping Duty Order AGENCY: International Trade Administration/Import Administration Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of final results and termination in part of antidumping duty administrative review; revocation in part of the antidumping duty order.

SUMMARY: On June 19, 1991, the Department of Commerce published the preliminary results of its administrative review of the antidumping duty order on frozen concentrated orange juice from Brazil. The review covers five producers and/or exporters of this merchandise to the United States and the period May 1, 1989 through April 30, 1990. We determine the weighted-average dumping margins for all respondents during this period to be zero or de minimis. Because Branco Peres Citrus S.A. and Citro-Pectina S.A. withdrew their requests for review, we are terminating the review with respect to those firms.

We gave interested parties an opportunity to comment on our preliminary results. We received comments from the petitioner and five respondents. After consideration of all comments and corrections of clerical and minor programming errors, the final results of review remain unchanged from those presented in our preliminary results. Because Cargill Citrus Limitada, Citrosuco Paulista, Coopercitrus Industrial Frutesp S.A. and Montecitrus Trading S.A. have three consecutive years of sales at not less than foreign market value, and it is not likely that they will sell the subject merchandise at less than foreign market value in the future, the Department is revoking the antidumping duty order with respect to these firms upon publication of these final results.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 21, 1991.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On June 19, 1991, the Department of Commerce (the Department) published in the Federal Register (56 FR 28138) the preliminary results of its administrative review of the antidumping duty order on frozen concentrated orange juice from Brazil (52 FR 16426; May 5, 1987). In May 1990, seven respondents, Cargill Citrus Ltda., Citrosuco Paulista S.A., Coopercitrus Industrial Frutesp S.A., Montecitrus Trading S.A., Frutropic S.A., Citro Pectina S.A., and Branco Peres Citrus S.A., requested an administrative review of the order. A timely request for revocation of the antidumping duty order, accompanied by the required certification, was submitted by Cargill Citrus Ltda., Citrosuco Paulista S.A., Coopercitrus Industrial Frutesp S.A., and Montecitrus Trading S.A. Because Citro-Pectina S.A. and Branco Peres Citrus S.A. subsequently withdrew their requests for review, the Department is terminating the review of their sales for this period. The Department has now conducted the review for the remaining companies in accordance with section 751 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (the Tariff Act).

Scope of the Review

Imports covered by the review are shipments of frozen concentrated orange juice (FCOJ) from Brazil. The merchandise is currently classifiable under item 2009.11.00 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule (HTS). The HTS item numbers are provided for convenience and Customs purposes. The written description remains dispositive.

The review covers the period May 1, 1989 through April 30, 1990 and five producers and/or exporters of Brazilian FCOJ to the United States: Cargill Citrus Ltda., Citrosuco Paulista S.A., Coopercitrus Industrial Frutesp S.A., Frutropic S.A., and Montecitrus Trading S.A. A timely request for withdrawal was submitted by Citro-Pectina, S.A. and Branco Peres Citrus S.A., therefore, the review of this period with respect to Citro-Pectina S.A. and Branco Peres Citrus S.A. is terminated.

The Department has revoked the antidumping duty order with respect to four firms: Cargill Citrus Ltda., Citrosuco Paulista S.A., Coopercitrus Industrial Frutesp S.A. and Montecitrus Trading S.A. These four firms have demonstrated three consecutive years of sales at not less than foreign market value, and it is not likely that these firms will sell subject merchandise at less than foreign market value in the future. The additional respondent who submitted a revocation request, Frutropic S.A., is not eligible for revocation as provided in § 353.25(a) of the Department's regulations because it failed to meet the requirement of having sold the merchandise at not less than foreign market value for three consecutive years. As required by § 353.25(c) of the Department's regulations, the Department conducted a verification of all factual information submitted by those firms eligible for revocation.

Analysis of Comments Received

We gave interested parties an opportunity to comment on the preliminary results and held a public hearing. We received timely comments from the petitioners, Florida Citrus Mutual, Alcoma Packing Co., Berry Citrus Products, Inc., Citrus Belle, Inc., B & W Canning Co., Caulkins Indiantown Citrus Co., and Citrus World, Inc., and five respondents, Cargill Citrus Ltda. (Cacitrus), Citrosuco Paulista S. A. (Citrosuco), Coopercitrus Industrial Frutesp S. A. (Frutesp), Montecitrus Trading S. A. (Montecitrus), and Frutopic S.A.

Comment 1: Petitioners argue that it would be improper for the Department to revoke the antidumping duty order on Brazilian FCOJ regardless of the final results of this review. Partial revocation of an antidumping duty order is controlled by § 353.25(a)(2) of the Department's regulations, which states:

> The Secretary may revoke an order in part if the Secretary concludes that: (i) One or more producers or resellers covered by the order have sold the merchandise at not less than foreign market value for a period of at least three consecutive years; (ii) It is not likely that those persons will in the future sell the merchandise at less than foreign market value;

Petitioners claim that no reasonable basis exists from which to conclude that respondents "will in the future sell the merchandise at not less than foreign market value." The Department must examine thoroughly the objective factors currently influencing (a) the juice industries of both countries and (b) price tends in the United States and Brazil throughout the history of this antidumping order. The Department has not complied with § 353.25(c)(2)(iii) of its regulations by failing to provide an explanation of the criteria applied and results attained in reaching its decision to publish a preliminary notice of intent to revoke.

FCOJ prices are at their lowest since the original dumping petition was filed in this case. The three consecutive administrative reviews which are now being used as the basis for the tentative revocation were conducted during times of rising and relative high FCOJ prices. If the price of FCOJ had been below $1.20 a pound as it is now, and as it was when the original investigation was conducted, it is likely that dumping margins would be found. In addition, a United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) study concludes that the Brazilian FCOJ industry continues to expand domestic processing capacity, export capacity and foreign storage capacity. Thus, while price trends show a decline, Brazilian capacity continues to expand. These factors will create pressure on the Brazilian FCOJ industry to increase exports, something that they can only achieve in an era of low prices through dumping.

Respondents claim that petitioner's logic is faulty when it claims that relatively low prices and planned expansion of Brazilian orange juice producing capacity will result in future dumping. Sharp price fluctuations are frequent occurrences in the FCOJ industry, and as the Department has confirmed in its administrative reviews, they have not triggered dumping. Petitioner cites as "evidence" of future dumping the USDA study on increases in Brazilian FCOJ production capacity. Any link between increasing capacity and future dumping is nonprobative and speculative. Furthermore, to the extent that the study is relevant at all, it contradicts petitioner's reasoning. The USDA study itself states that the planned increase in Brazilian capacity is intended for projected demand from East Europe and the western Pacific Rim countries, not the United States.

Department's Position: We conclude from the evidence in the record that there is no likelihood of future sales at less than foreign market value (LTFMV) by Cacitrus, Citrosuco, Frutesp and Montecitrus. We have examined the evolution of FCOJ prices, current and projected trends in production, company-specific pricing behavior, and other information on general market conditions relevant to our decision to revoke the order with respect to the four companies. In our preliminary determination, we met the requirements of § 353.25(c)(2)(iii) in that we included the "Secretary's decision whether there is a reasonable basis to believe that the requirements for revocation * * * are met."

We find no causal relationship between FCOJ futures contracts prices and the likelihood of future sales at LTFMV. Futures prices for agricultural commodities are inherently volatile. Among other factors, the course of prices are influenced by freezes, droughts, infestation, commercial forces affecting the cash price, technical positions of trading houses, producers and users of the commodity, and the speculating public. Short-term and seasonal price movements are rapid and dependent, for the most part, on outside forces. Currently, the facts are that the prospect of adequate supplies of FCOJ are weighing on the market. Florida orange groves have benefited from excellent growing conditions throughout the summer, and new crop fruit has progressed well, with next season's Florida crop expected to be a good one. The information in the record from independent sources, such as the USDA reports cited by both the petitioners and the respondents, confirms that the recent downward trend in prices is a result of sharp increases in U.S. production in 1990/91 and the constraints of an economic recession on consumer demand. We have reviewed three years of sales data encompassing similar downward and upward price movements without finding a correlating trend of dumping by Brazilian producers. The suggestion that relatively low prices caused by fundamental market factors will in some way lead to future dumping is not supported by evidence drawn from previous reviews.

More importantly, though, the sales data examined throughout the life of this order, confirm the fact that FCOJ cash prices in Brazil, the United States, and various third country markets move in tandem. We have made comparisons of United States prices with prices in all of the major markets for Brazilian FCOJ for three consecutive years. During that period we found no evidence of LTFMV sales by any Brazilian producer. The market for FCOJ is a global one, and when prices in the United States increase or decrease, prices in comparison markets increase or decrease as well.

As for the expansion of Brazilian processing capabilities, forecasts of the USDA's World Agricultural Outlook Board show a six percent decrease in Brazilian production and exports for the 1990/91 season. In the event that any planned expansion becomes a reality, the information in the record suggests that the United States market will be of decreasing importance to Brazilian producers as the quota restrictions on Japanese imports of FCOJ are lifted in accordance with the U.S.-Japan Beef and Citrus Agreement of 1988, beginning in April 1992. The opening of the Japanese and East European markets are likely to continue to dominate the future planning of the Brazilian FCOJ industry.

For these reasons, we conclude that that there is no likelihood of LTFMV sales in the future by Cacitrus, Citrosuco, Frutesp, and Montecitrus. Therefore, we have revoked, in part, the antidumping duty order with respect to these four firms.

Comment 2: Petitioners claim that three years at zero or de minimis margins cannot be the basis for the Department satisfying the requirement that future sales at least less than foreign market value are unlikely. In order for the Department to conclude that it is unlikely that dumping will occur in the future, the Department is required to update sales data and compare United States price and foreign market value for the period between the end of the third consecutive review year period and the date of the tentative revocation (the "gap period"). The court of appeals has upheld this proposition in its decisions in Freeport Minerals Co. v. United States 776 F.2d 1029 (Fed. Cir. 1985), UST, Inc. v. United States, 831 F.2d 1028, 1032 (Fed. Cir. 1987), and Matsushita El. Inc. Co. v. United States, 823 F.2d 505, 507 (Fed. Cir. 1987). Therefore, the Department must complete a review of all sales by all respondents and all new shippers between April 30, 1990 (the end of the review period) and the date of publication of its notice of intent to revoke in part published on June 19, 1991.

Conversely, respondents contend that they have fulfilled the standards for revocation of the antidumping duty order. The need for the Department to examine the gap period has been eliminated. The Department indicated in its consideration of the adoption of its current regulations that it would no longer examine the gap period because it was changing its rules to require three years of no sales at less than foreign market value and was uniformly making the end of the three-year period the effective revocation date. The court decisions cited by petitioners apply to the law, practice and regulations of the Department prior to adoption of the current regulations, and are, therefore, not controlling. The Department has found no sales at less than foreign market value for three consecutive years, and this satisfies the current regulations governing revocations.

Department's Position: We agree with the respondents. The preamble to 19 CFR 353.25(a) and (b) states, "[in] cases in which the Department has issued tentative revocations prior to the effective date of these regulations, it will complete the revocation procedure under the existing regulations. In all other cases, the new regulations will apply." (54 FR 12758.) The adoption of a three-year period for revocation is clear in part 353 which is effective April 27, 1989 (a date prior to publication of our determination of intent to revoke in this proceeding). Prior to adoption of the current regulations, it was the Department's practice to examine sales data of about two years and nine months, i.e., the required two-year period and the period between the end of the two-year period and the date of the tentative revocation or termination. The adoption in § 353.25(c)(3) of the day after the three-year period as the effective revocation date eliminates the need for an examination of the gap period.

Comment 3: Frutropic argues that the Department's refusal to revoke the antidumping duty order as it applies to Frutropic is wrong, both as a matter of fact and as a matter of law. The Department's stated reason for refusing to revoke the order for Frutropic was that "Frutropic failed to meet the requirement of having sold the merchandise at not less than foreign market value for three consecutive years." Frutropic claims this is incorrect because it has demonstrated that it has not sold FCOJ at less than foreign market value for three years (having de minimis margins in the first and third annual reviews), and there is no evidence that Frutropic has ever sold FCOJ at LTFMV. Therefore, a revocation is appropriate.

The Department has never found evidence of LTFMV sales by Frutropic in the history of this antidumping duty case. Even in the original investigation Frutropic was not found to have made LTFMV sales, because it was not covered by the original investigation. The absence of LTFMV sales is confirmed specifically by the first and third reviews. (Frutropic withdrew from the second review because the expense and effort of a review were not justified for the small amount of duties to be refunded.) The Department's regulation on revocation, 19 CFR 353.25(a)(2), does not require the Department to have conducted a review of all of the sales made by an exporter during three consecutive years. It requires only that the "Secretary conclude * * * that one or more producers * * * have sold the merchandise at not less than foreign market value for a period of at least three consecutive years * * *" Indeed, where reviews on either end of a three-year period have specifically confirmed that Frutropic did not make LTFMV sales, it is reasonable for the Secretary to conclude that no such sales were made during the entire three-year period.

The only conceivable basis for the Department to conclude that Frutropic made LTFMV sales during the second annual review period is that Frutropic paid estimated antidumping duty deposits on entries during that period, i.e., Frutropic's entries were liquidated at the duty deposit rate in effect from the original investigation. These duty deposits had nothing to do with Frutropic's actual sale practices, rather they were based upon the sales practices of some other exporter covered in the original investigation. The question of sales above or below foreign market value cannot be answered by reference to whether duty deposits were paid on the merchandise.

Since there is nothing in the Department's regulation that requires participation in three consecutive annual reviews before revocation, and since the Secretary has discretion regarding revocation, such a requirement should only be imposed if it is sound policy to do so. To the extent that policy considerations enter into the Secretary's decision, the better policy is not to require exporters to undertake administrative reviews in each of the three years set forth in the regulation. If the Department insists on reading into the regulation a requirement of three administrative reviews for revocation, it is essentially putting subject exporters on notice that they must submit to the considerable legal expense and administrative effort of participating in a review even where there is no economic justification for such a review. This is setting a price tag on revocation: Three years legal fees and administrative costs. The effect is to make the antidumping law another nontariff barrier, making it more expensive to export to the United States. Finally, requiring administrative reviews every year contradicts the thrust of section 611(a)(2)(A) of the Trade and Tariff Act of 1984, which made administrative reviews permissive, rather than mandatory. In fact, one of the comments considered by the Department in response to the proposed section of its regulations on revocation discusses the concern of unnecessarily increasing the burden on the Department for conducting section 751 reviews.

Conversely, petitioners argue that Frutropic's assertion that three years of sales at not LTFMV exist both on the record and as a matter of fact should continue to be rejected by the Department. The antidumping statute provides a single mechanism by which to determine companies are dumping: the administrative review. Absent a review, or participation in a review by specific respondents, it is impossible for the Department to demonstrate whether dumping is occurring. If there is no record concerning the existence of dumped imports, any decision to revoke or partially revoke an order would be unreasonable.

Department's Position: The applicable statutes and regulations grant the Department broad discretion in determining whether to revoke an antidumping finding. The only relevant statutory provision states: "The administering authority may revoke, in whole or in part, a countervailing duty order or an antidumping duty order * * * after a review under this section." 19 U.S.C. section 1675(c) (emphasis supplied). Therefore, except for the requirement for conducting an administrative review, Congress has not specified any procedure that the Department must follow or any criteria that it must consider in determining whether to revoke a particular antidumping duty order. The applicable Commerce regulation, contained in 19 CFR 353.25, preserves the broad discretion granted by Congress, by providing in pertinent part: "[T]he Secretary may revoke an order or terminate a suspended investigation if the Secretary concludes that * * *" In short, the regulation like the governing statute, vests a great deal of discretion in the Secretary to determine the propriety of revocation.

Frutropic's withdrawal from the second annual review is not evidence that it did not make sales at less than foreign market value during the second review period. Thus, Frutropic's position on revocation amounts to a suggestion that the Department use Frutropic's behavior in the first and third periods of review to create a presumption of no less than foreign market value sales in the second review period. However, such a presumption is contrary to the Department's regulations. See, the proposed rule that led to the current § 353.25, in which the Department set out the burden of proof in a revocation based on an absence of dumping. ("Revocation under paragraph (a) would be based only on a demonstrated absence of dumping." 51 FR 29046, 29052; August 13, 1986.) Thus, it is clear that each period used to justify a revocation under section 353.25(a) must, when considered invidually, evidence a lack of sales at less than foreign market value. No presumption based on behavior in other periods is permitted.

Comment 4: Petitioners argue that the Department erred in assuming that full pass-through exists for ICM and IPI taxes incurred on Cacitrus' sales of FCOJ in the home market. The Department did not develop a methodology for measuring the degree to which the tax payments are passed on to home market customers in the form of higher prices. Therefore, it should either require Cacitrus to provide an acceptable methodology for measuring the rate of tax pass-through, or assume that ICM and IPI taxes are not passed through and disallow this adjustment to foreign market value.

Cacitrus rebuts that the Department's long-standing interpretation of Section 1677a(C) of the Tariff Act is that adjustments for the tax should be made to the extent that the tax was charged and actually paid in the home market. The Department should continue to follow its practice of adjusting United States price for taxes not collected or rebated on exported merchandise but charged and paid in the home market.

Department's Position: We agree with Cacitrus. We have considered and rejected petitioner's argument in a previous review. (See, Department's response to Comment 1 in Frozen Concentrated Orange Juice From Brazil; Final Results and Termination in Part of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review; 55 FR 47502, November 14, 1990.)

Comment 5: Petitioners claim that the Department failed to perform an accurate comparison of Cacitrus' foreign market value and United States price because it used inaccurate U.S. dollar/Brazilian cruzeiro exchange rates. The statute requires the Department to use the exchange rates established by the Secretary of the Treasury. Because Treasury rates did not exist for cruzeiros, the Department used instead rates supplied by the International Monetary Fund (IMF). IMF rates are supplied by the Central Bank of Brazil and are thus inappropriate for foreign market value and the United States price comparisons. The Department should use market rates obtained from several independent commercial banks to insure a reliable comparison.

Cacitrus contends that petitioner's allegation is false. The IMF monthly rates are identical to the monthly rates of independent commercial banks. The Department's established practice is to use daily IMF exchange rates in comparisons involving Brazilian exports to the United States.

Department's Position: We disagree with petitioner. The daily U.S. dollar/cruzeiro exchange rates supplied by the IMF are accurate. We compared the daily IMF rates used in our results with actual foreign exchange contracts between Cacitrus and the Banco do Brazil for the payment of FCOJ exported to the United States during the review period. The daily IMF rates were identical to Cacitrus' foreign exchange contract rates.

Comment 6: Petitioners argue that pulp wash should be included within the scope of the order because pulp wash and orange solids are the same class or kinds of merchandise as FCOJ.

Department's Position: We disagree. We have considered and rejected this argument three times. (See, Scope Decision, October 25, 1989; and the Department's response to Comments 4 and 16 in Frozen Concentrated Orange Juice From Brazil; Final Results and Termination in Part of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review; (55 FR 47502, November 14, 1990) and Frozen Concentrated Orange Juice From Brazil; Final Results of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review; (55 FR 26721, June 29, 1990), respectively.

Comment 7: Petitioners argue that the proper third-country market for the calculation of Citrosuco's foreign market value should not be Canada, but rather Germany, the largest market outside of the United States and Brazil. Despite differences in the physical characteristics of FCOJ sold in the United States and Citrosuco's European markets, these differences do not result in differences in the cost of manufacture for different types of FCOJ.

Department's Position: We disagree. We have considered and rejected this argument in previous reviews. (See, the Department's response to Comments 6 and 3 in Frozen Concentrated Orange Juice From Brazil; Final Results and Termination in Part of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review; (55 FR 47502, November 14, 1990) and Frozen Concentrated Orange Juice From Brazil; Final Results of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review; (55 FR 26721, June 29, 1990), respectively.

Comment 8: Petitioners claim that the Department should impute an inventory carrying charge for the time FCOJ was held in inventory by respondents prior to export to the United States.

Department's Position: Where applicable, we deducted from exporter's sales price transactions an imputed credit expense for the period between export from Brazil and entry into the United States, and an imputed inventory carrying expense for the period the merchandise was held in inventory in the United States. We verified that, in exporter's sales price transactions, inventory was not maintained in Brazil prior to export. Therefore, no deduction is appropriate.

Comment 9: Montecitrus claims that the Department inadvertently failed to subtract Brazilian brokerage and export taxes from the foreign market value of its third country sales.

Department's Position: We agree and have corrected this programming error in our final results.

Comment 10: Frutesp claims that the Department unnecessarily multiplied foreign inland freight expenses on bulk shipments of FCOJ to Germany by the applicable cruzeiro/U.S. dollar exchange rate' and that the Department unnecessarily multiplied EEC duties on FCOJ sold in Germany by the applicable Dutch guilder/U.S. dollar exchange rate. Both charges were already expressed in U.S. dollars, and no further conversion was necessary.

Department's Position: We agree and have corrected these programming errors in our final results.

Comment 11: Frutesp claims that it incorrectly stated in its questionnaire response that imputed credit costs should be calculated in deutschemarks and converted into U.S. dollars. In fact, the Department's formula uses a unit price that is always expressed in U.S. dollars, and, therefore, no conversion is necessary.

Department's Position: We agree and have corrected this calculation in our final results.

Comment 12: Frutesp claims that the Department failed to deduct an imputed credit expense for the period between export from Brazil and entry into Germany, and an imputed inventory carrying expense incurred in Germany, on its exporter's sales price transaction in the third market.

Department's Positions: We agree and have corrected this programming error in our final results.

Comment 13: Frutesp claims that the Department incorrectly failed to use the correct cruzeiro/U.S. dollar exchange rate for the purpose of converting Frutesp's indirect sales expenses incurred in Brazil on a number of United States sales.

Department's Position: We agree, have corrected this programming error, and have uniformly used the exchange rate on the date of sale when converting for Frutesp's indirect sales expense incurred in Brazil.

Final Results of the Review

After analysis of the comments received, the final results of our review are the same as those presented in the preliminary results of review, and we determine the weighted-average margins for the period May 1, 1989 through April 30, 1990 to be:

Manufacturer/exporter	Margin (percent)
Citrosuco Paulista S.A.	0.03
Cargill Citrus Ltda	zero
Coopercitrus Industrial Frutesp S.A.	.04
Montecitrus Trading S.A.	zero
Frutropic S.A.	.06

The Department shall determine, and the Customs Service shall assess, antidumping duties on all appropriate entries. Individual differences between United States price and foreign market value may vary from the percentages stated above. The Department will issue appraisement instructions directly to the Customs Service.

Further, as provided for by section 751(c) of the Tariff Act, and 19 CFR 353.25, the antidumping duty order with respect to the following four firms has been revoked: Cargill Citrus Ltda., Citrosuco Paulista S.A., Coopercitrus Industrial Frutesp S.A., and Montecitrus Trading S.A. No cash deposit will be required for these manufacturers. As provided for by section 751(a)(1) of the Tariff Act, because the margin was de minimis for Frutropic S.A., no cash deposit will be required for Frutropic S.A. The cash deposit rate for merchandise exported by manufacturers or exporters not covered in this review but covered in previous reviews or the final determination in the original less-than-fair-value investigation will continue to be the rate published in the most recent final results or determination for which the manufacturer or exporter received a company-specific rate. If the exporter is not a firm covered in this or prior reviews, but the manufacturer is, the cash deposit rate shall be the rate for the manufacturer established in the final results of this review or the most recent review or, if not covered in this review or an earlier review, the rate from the less-than fair-value investigation. A cash deposit for any future entries from all other manufacturers or exporters who are not covered in this or prior administrative reviews and who are unrelated to any reviewed firm or any previously reviewed firm will not be required.

This administrative review and notice are in accordance with section 751(a)(1) of the Tariff Act (19 U.S.C. 1675(a)(1)) and 19 CFR 353.22 and 353.25.

FINAL RESULTS: We determine that net subsidies within the meaning of section 701 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (the Act), are being provided to manufacturers or exporters in India of certain iron-metal castings (referred to in this notice as "subject castings" or "subject merchandise"). This review covers the period January 1, 1988 through December 31, 1988 and the following programs:

- Pre-Shipment Export Loans
- Post-Shipment Export Loans
- Income Tax Deduction under Section 80HHC
- International Price Reimbursement Scheme (IPRS)
- Sale of Replenishment Licenses
- Sale of Additional Licenses
- Cash Compensatory Support Scheme (CCS)
- Use of Advance Licenses
- Market Development Assistance Grants
- Preferential Freight Rates
- Import Duty Exemptions Available to 100 Percent Export-Oriented Units
- Benefits under the Falta Free Trade Zone or other Free Trade Zones

The weighted-average net subsidies are shown in the "Final Results of Administrative Review" section of this notice.

Case History

On October 16, 1980, the Department published a countervailing duty order on castings from India (45 FR 68650). On August 22, 1991, the Department published the final results of its most recently completed review for the period January 1, 1987 through December 31, 1987 (56 FR 41658).

Since the preliminary results of the review in this case (56 FR 41654; August 22, 1991) the following events have occurred. On September 11, 1991, the Department requested further information from certain Indian exporters regarding the sale of additional licenses and replenishment licenses. A response was received on September 20, 1991. Unsolicited submissions containing factual information also were received, but subsequently were returned to the respective parties. This issue is discussed in more detail in the comments below. Case briefs and rebuttal briefs were filed on September 23 and September 27, 1991, respectively. A public hearing was held on October 4, 1991.

Scope of the Review

Imports covered by this review are shipments of Indian manhole covers and frames, clean-out covers and frames, and catch basin grates and frames. These articles are commonly called municipal or public works castings and are used for access or drainage for public utility, water, and sanitary systems. During the review period, this merchandise was classifiable under Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated (TSUSA) item numbers 657.0950 and 657.0990. This merchandise is currently classifiable under Harmonized Tariff Schedule (HTS) item numbers 7325.10.0010 and 7325.10.0050. Although the TSUSA and HTS subheadings are provided for convenience and customs purposes, our written description of the scope of this proceeding is dispositive.

Analysis of Comments Received

We afforded interested parties an opportunity to comment on the preliminary results. We received comment from the Indian exporters, Govind Steel Co., Ltd. (Govind) and Tirupati International (P) Ltd. (Tirupati), two groups of U.S. importers, and the petitioners.

The issues raised by the parties with respect to the IPRS program in the case and rebuttal briefs were basically identical to those raised by the parties in their briefs for the 1987 review. The information on the record and the Department's position with respect to these comments have not changed.

Therefore, we have generally restated here the comments and "Department Postions" from the 1987 review. (See, Final Results of Countervailing Duty Administrative Review: Certain Iron-Metal Castings From India (56 FR 41658; August 22, 1991).)

Comment 1: The two groups of U.S. importers state that the Department should only countervail proceeds from sales of additional and replenishment licenses that were tied to the export of subject merchandise to the United States. Where the Department cannot determine whether the proceeds are tied to exports of subject or non-subject merchandise, the Department should continue the methodology used in its preliminary determination, i.e., dividing the proceeds by all exports.

The petitioners argue that to the extent that the Department is unable to tie license proceeds to specific merchandise, it should allocate the proceeds over exports of the subject merchandise to the United States.

Department's Position: When respondents have clearly indicated the portion of the license attributable to exports of the subject merchandise to the United States, we have countervailed only the sales proceeds related to that portion of the license and allocated the benefits to sales of the subject merchandise to the United States. Where the response was not clear in stating whether the benefits were attributable to exports of the subject merchandise to the United States, we have used exports of the subject merchandise to the United States as the denominator because this was the specific information requested in the September 11, 1991 supplemental questionnaire.

Comment 2: Govind and Tirupati request that the Department reconsider its September 17, 1991 decision to return their questionnaire responses and also that the Department request the Government of India to resubmit the questionnaire responses so that Govind's and Tirupati's company-specific information can be considered for purposes of the final determination. Govind and Tirupati allege that the prohibition against accepting questionnaire responses after the date of the preliminary determination is limited to unsolicited questionnaire responses. Their questionnaire responses, while untimely, were submitted in response to the Department's initial questionnaire.

Govind and Tirupati explain that they did not respond in time because the companies were affected by a strike that lasted from March 9, 1991 to August 12, 1991. The striking workers obstructed movement to the factories where the companies' records for the review period were stored. Govind claims that it obtained a court order to gain access to its factory, but could not enter the premises because the police were unable to enforce the court order.

Hence, Govind and Tirupati contend that the delay in the companies' responses was due to circumstances beyond their control.

Petitioners argue that the Department correctly rejected factual information submitted by respondents after the Department's deadline. The petitioners refer to several past decisions by the Department and the Court of International Trade (CIT) which show that it is the Department's policy not to accept new information after the preliminary determination.

Department's Position: Govind and Tirupati attempted to submit their questionnaire responses only after the preliminary determination had been published. The companies made no effort to notify the Department of the problems created by the labor strike before the publication of the preliminary determination. Nor did the companies request an extension prior to the publication of the preliminary results. Had Govind and Tirupati explained the problems caused by the strike, the Department might have been able to take such arguments into account and been able to grant the companies an extension.

Under § 355.31(b)(2) of the Department's regulations, "* * * in no event will the Secretary consider unsolicited questionnaire responses submitted after the date of publication of the Secretary's preliminary determination." Once the preliminary determination had passed, Govind's and Tirupati's questionnaire responses essentially became unsolicited questionnaire responses. Accordingly, the Department did not accept Govind's and Tirupati's responses.

Comment 3: Govind and Tirupati request that if the Department uses best information available (BIA) in the final results, that it use the country-wide rate as best information available, rather than the highest net subsidy rate found for each program. In addition, Govind and Tirupati argue that even though the responses were submitted outside the time period established by the Department, the failure to submit timely responses was due to the labor strikes mentioned above and not a deliberate attempt to control the outcome of the proceedings through partial and selective submission of information.

The petitioners contend that when a respondent refuses to provide information requested by the Secretary or otherwise impedes the review, it is the Department's responsibility, and not respondent's, to determine what is the best information available. Petitioners indicate that the Department was reasonable in its use of the sum of the highest subsidy rates due to the companies' failure to respond to the questionnaire in a timely manner. Petitioners also cite to past determinations where the Department applied the highest BIA rates to companies not responding to the Department's request for information.

Department's Position: We agree with the petitioners. With respect to Govind, we have continued to apply the highest rate found for each subsidy program in this review. We believe that this application of adverse BIA is warranted because, as discussed above, Govind made no attempt to notify the Department prior to our preliminary determination that it was unable to provide the requested information. Especially since Govind has participated in prior reviews, the company should have been aware that the Department has the authority to draw adverse inferences where a respondent withholds information, particularly when the information is withheld until after publication of an unfavorable preliminary determination. (See, "Department's Position" on Comment 7 for a discussion of our treatment of Tirupati.)

Comment 4: The exporters contend that the Department should apply a non-punitive BIA rate to Uma and Select Steels Ltd. (Select) for the benefits received under the 80HHC income tax deduction program. The exporters argue that application of the highest subsidy rate attributable to the 80HHC program for any other company is unduly punitive because both Uma and Select responded to the Department's May 13, 1991 questionnaire. The exporters state that the companies' only deficiency was their failure to submit the tax return filed in 1988. Therefore, they argue that the Department should use as the BIA rate the weighted average of the benefits received under the 80HHC program for all companies.

The petitioners contend that the Department should continue to apply the highest calculated benefit attributable to the 80HHC program as the BIA rate for Uma and Select.

Department's Position: In our May 13, 1991 questionnaire, we specifically asked the exporters to submit the income tax returns they filed in 1988. In its July 17, 1991 response, Uma submitted a tax return for the period January 1, 1988 through March 31, 1989. Because this tax return covered part of 1989, it could not have been filed in 1988. Consequently, in our July 25, 1991 supplementary questionnaire, we again requested Uma to submit the tax return filed in 1988. Uma, however, never submitted its 1988 tax return.

Similarly, Select never submitted its 1988 tax return.

First, although Select indicated that its tax return was enclosed with its response to our questionnaire, no tax return was included in the response. Second, the company responded to our May 13, 1991 questionnaire on August 8, 1991, three and a half weeks after the deadline for responses. Consequently, there was no time for the Department to send a supplementary questionnaire to Select.

Because both companies failed to provide us with their tax returns or information that would permit us to calculate the benefits received under the 80HHC program, we believe it is reasonable to apply adverse BIA. Therefore, we have continued to apply to each the highest subsidy rate found for the 80HHC tax program.

Comment 5: The exporters and a group of importers argue that the calculation of the benefit from pre-shipment financing is incorrect in that the Department failed to take into account premium payments made to the Export Credit Guarantee Corporation (ECGC) in order to obtain such financing. Respondents claim that in order to obtain such financing, exporters are required to purchase insurance coverage from the ECGC, even for U.S. sales.

The petitioners indicate that because the Department previously has verified that ECGC insurance is not required in order for a company to borrow under the pre-shipment financing program, the Department has correctly disallowed the offset adjustment for the cost of the insurance.

Department's Position: In the 1987 Administrative Review, (see, Final Results of Countervailing Duty Administrative Review: Certain Iron-Metal Castings from India, (56 FR 41658, August 22, 1991)) we verified that exporters are not required to purchase insurance coverage from the ECGC in order to receive pre-shipment financing. No information has been placed on the record to the contrary or demonstrating a different interpretation. Therefore, we continue to determine that the cost of export credit insurance is not a permissible offset as defined by section 771(6)(A) of the Act.

Comment 6: With respect to Select, the petitioners request that the Department apply the highest subsidy rate found for any company for each program determined to be counteravailable as the BIA rate. The petitioners argue that the highest BIA rate is warranted because Select submitted its August 8, 1991 questionnaire response three and a half weeks after the deadline. In addition, the petitioners point out that Select failed to obtain the Department's approval to file its response beyond the due date. Therefore, the petitioners state that the Department should regard the response submitted as untimely.

Conversely, the exporters argue that it would be inappropriate for the Department to reject Select's response since Select's data has already been included in the preliminary determination. The exporters also maintain that if the Department rejects Select's response and assigns a high countervailing duty to this company, this would not penalize Select, which no longer produces or exports castings to the United States, but would only harm U.S. importers.

Department's Position: On a case-by-case basis, the Department may use its discretion to accept questionnaire responses and other factual information after the due date for submitting such information if it is submitted before the preliminary determination and if the Department is given adequate time to analyze the submitted data for the purpose of the preliminary determination. Select's August 8, 1991 response was submitted a week before the due date of the preliminary determination. Select used very few subsidy programs and stopped manufacturing the subject merchandise during the review period. Therefore, in this instance, the Department had sufficient time to analyze the data for purposes of the preliminary results. Furthermore, the petitioners were not prejudiced by the lateness of the submission as they had full opportunity to review and comment on Select's response. For these reasons, the Department has not rejected Select's response for the present review.

Comment 7: The petitioners allege that another Indian exporter, Tirupati, should have been included in the present review and should have been assigned the same BIA rate as Govind at the preliminary determination. Petitioners base their allegation on a submission dated September 13, 1991, in which Tirupati acknowledged that it had not filed a timely response to the Department's May 13, 1991 questionnaire for the 1988 review. The petitioners claim that Tirupati's acknowledgement is properly part of the record of the present review and request that the Department use the highest rate found for any company for each program determined to be countervailable as the BIA rate for Tirupati.

The exporters agree with petitioners that Tirupati should be included in the 1988 review, but argue that the Department should use the all other rate as the BIA rate for this company due to the extenuating circumstances surrounding Tirupati's failure to submit a questionnaire response.

Department's Position: According to the information in the record for this review, Tirupati did not export subject castings in 1988. In its July 15, 1991 response to our May 13, 1991 questionnaire, the Engineering Export Promotion Council of India (EEPC) provided a list of Indian companies which exported castings to the United States during 1988. Tirupati was not on this list. Although new information regarding Tirupati's status as an exporter in 1988 might have been included in the submission referred to by the petitioners, that unsolicited information was rejected by the Department pursuant to 19 CFR 355.31(b)(2) since the submission was received after the publication of the preliminary determination. Therefore, the September 13, 1991 response does not constitute part of the 1988 record. As a result, Tirupati was not reviewed and, as such, has not been included in the calculation of the rate.

Comment 8: The petitioners argue that the Department should use in its calculation of Serampore's subsidy rate for the sales of additional licenses, the ratio of historical export shipments of subject and non-subject merchandise. The petitioners argue that Serampore's September 20, 1991 response regarding the value associated with the additional licenses sold is not consistent with Serampore's historical ratio of export shipments of subject and non-subject merchandise, implying that the additional licenses sold should have been primarily tied to the exports of subject merchandise to the United States, given that Serampore has historically exported a higher volume of subject merchandise.

Conversely, the exporter argue that the Department should use the information on the sale of additional licenses provided by Serampore because there is no indication that Serampore's response is incorrect. In addition, the exporters state that using information from prior reviews to calculate the benefit associated with the sale of the licenses would be inappropriate and a departure from the Department's practices.

Department's Position: We disagree with petitioners. We have no reason to believe that the additional information submitted by Serampore on September 20, 1991 is inaccurate.

Additional licenses are issued based on 10 percent of the net foreign exchange (NFE). The NFE is calculated by subtracting from the f.o.b. value of exports, the c.i.f. value of import licenses (i.e., advance licenses and replenishment licenses). Serampore indicated in its questionnaire response that the receipt of its advance license was linked to exports of subject merchandise to the United States. Consequently, because the value of the advance license was deducted in computing the amount of the additional licenses, only that portion of the additional licenses corresponding to the value added to the subject merchandise is countervailable. Given the way the value of additional licenses is calculated, there is no reason to assume any relationship between the ratio of export shipments of subject merchandise to the United States and non-subject merchandise and the portion of the value of an additional license that is linked to the exports of subject merchandise to the United States. To do so would be to assume that all export shipments rely equally on inputs under advance and replenishment licenses, and we have no reason to make this assumption. Furthermore, historic ratios of export shipments of subject and non-subject merchandise would be even more irrelevent.

Comment 9: The petitioners argue that the Department should countervail the proceeds received by RSI from the sales of both the additional licenses the company sold in 1988. The petitioners state that in its September 20, 1991 response, RSI claimed that one of these two licenses is not countervailable because the license was obtained based on non-subject merchandise. In its response, RSI also explained that the other license the company sold is countervailable since part of it was obtained based on the exports of subject castings to the United States. The petitioners allege that RSI failed to demonstrate that the first license was not linked to the exports of subject castings to the United States and, further, that the company did not provide an explanation as to how it could link the receipt of its additional licenses with specific export transactions.

Conversely, the exporters contend that RSI clearly explained that the additional license was granted based on the exports of non-subject merchandise and that RSI did not apply for any additional licenses based on the exports of subject merchandise to the United States.

Department's Position: The Department has no reason to believe that RSI's September 20, 1991 response is inaccurate. We have therefore accepted RSI's statement that one of the additional licenses the company sold during the review period was received based on the exports of non-subject merchandise while part of the other license was received based on the exports of subject castings to the United States.

Comment 10: The exporters and importers argue that IPRS payments are not countervailable subsidies. In intent and practice, the IPRS refunds to exporters of castings the difference between the price they must pay for certain raw materials purchased from government-owned Indian producers and the price they would otherwise pay on the world market. The program was operated in a manner consistent with item (d) of the Illustrative List of Export Subsidies annexed to the Agreement on Interpretation and Application of Articles VI, XVI, and XXIII of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (the List or the Illustrative List) which states:

> The delivery by governments or their agencies of imported or domestic products or services for use in the production of exported goods, on terms or conditions more favorable than for delivery or like or directly competitive products or services for use in the production of goods for domestic consumption, if (in the case of products) such terms or conditions are more favorable than those commercially available on world markets to their exporters (emphasis added).

Item (d) of the List is thus explicit that the provision of raw materials at world market prices to exporters is not a subsidy. The Department recognized this in previous countervailing duty cases. Namely, in Final Negative Countervailing Duty Determination; Certain Steel Wire Nails fro the Republic of Korea (47 FR 39549, September 8, 1982) (Korea Nails), the Department held that "price preferences for inputs to be used in the production of export goods constitute a subsidy only if the preference lowers the price of that input below that which the input purchaser would pay on world markets." Similarly, in Final Negative Countervailing Duty Determination; Oil Country Tubular Goods from Taiwan (51 FR 19583, May 30, 1986) (Taiwanese OCTG), the Department stated that:

> Based on an examination of China Steel's second-tier prices for hot-rolled coil used in the production of OCTG, and of the world market prices for such coil, we found that China Steel's prices were at world market levels; therefore, we determine that China Steel's two-tiered pricing policy does not confer a countervailable benefit within the meaning of the countervailing duty law.

The exporters also argue that the IPRS benefits not the exporter of castings, but rather than Indian pig iron producers. Castings exporters can import pig iron or purchase domestic pig iron at the relatively high price that is set by the Indian government and receive IPRS rebates. The net effects of these two alternatives are the same.

In addition, the importers argue that the Department is attempting to use an unauthorized interpretation of U.S. law to find the Indian IPRS program countervailable. In Certain Cotton Yarn Products from Brazil; Final Results of Countervailing Duty Administrative Review (55 FR 3442, February 1, 1990) (Cotton Yarn), the Department determined as countervailable a similar Brazilian dual pricing scheme, the Price Equalization Program (PEP). In Cotton Yarn, the Department advanced the theory that the List is not controlling on the identification of subsidies: "It is irrelevant whether the PEP is consistent with item (d) or whether cotton yarn exporters could have imported raw cotton at world market prices. We are concerned with the alternative price commercially available in the domestic market" (55 FR 3446). Importers argue that such a theory is untenable because Congress incorporated the List into U.S. countervailing duty law and the Department has no authority to claim item (d) as "irrelevant." The Court of International Trade has acknowledged the adoption of the List in U.S. law in its decision in Fabricas El Carmen, S.A. de C.V., et al. v. United States, 672 F. Supp. 1465 (CIT October 7, 1987), as did the U.S. Court of Appeals in its decision of the 1984 review of this countervailing duty order (See, RSI (India) Pvt., Ltd. v. United States, 876 F.2d 1571 (Fed.Cir. 1989)). The legislative history confirms that the sole reservation expressed by Congress in adopting the List was that it not be regarded as a permanent, exhaustive listing of all export subsidies countervailable under U.S. law. The Department is empowered only to supplement or expand the existing List, not alter or ignore established principles of the List. Consequently, in the case of item (d), U.S. law specifically excludes from countervailability any such programs which do not result in the provision of inputs on terms more favorable than those obtainable on world markets. Furthermore, the Department's failure to observe the principle of the statutory language and item (d) also directly conflicts with its efforts to codify item (d) in its own regulations. The Department's proposed Regulation 355.44(h) in 19 CFR part 355 Countervailing Duties, Notice of Proposed Rulemaking and Request for Public Comments (54 FR 23366; May 31, 1989) clearly states that price preferences for inputs used in the production of goods for export are subsidies only if they are provided on terms or conditions that "are more favorable than those commercially available on world markets to their exporters."

Conversely, petitioners argue that the exception to an item (d) subsidy is inapplicable in this administrative review because the Government of India did not provide pig iron for use in the production of exported castings at the world market price. Petitioner maintains that the Department's interpretation of item (d) has always been a narrow one, i.e., the exception in item (d) applies only to inputs, not monetary payments. Such an interpretation of item (d) is consistent with a panel report of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) Committee on Subsidies and Countervailing Measures that examined item (d) in conjunction with an investigation of European Community pasta export payments. See, GATT Panel Report on EEC Subsidies on Export Pasta Products, SCM/433 (May 19, 1983). The Department's determination in Cotton Yarn, that the Brazilian PEP program is countervailable, is consistent with past Department determinations that reflect a narrow interpretation of the exception in item (d). The Department's preliminary determination that IPRS payments are countervailable implicitly recognizes that the exception in item (d) does not apply because item (d) clearly encompasses the IPRS within its definition of an export subsidy.

Department's Position: The Indian government's decision to insulate its pig iron producers from foreign competition placed users of domestic pig iron at a disadvantage vis-a-vis competitors abroad by raising the price of domestic pig iron. Indian castings exporters could have overcome this competitive disadvantage in two ways: Duty drawback and the IPRS. Imported pig iron in Indian is subject to normal customs duties. Had Indian castings exporters imported foreign pig iron for use as an input and processed it into castings for export, they could have been exempted from the normal customs duties on pig iron by using duty drawback, a practice acceptable under U.S. countervailing duty law and the GATT. Alternatively, under the IPRS, the Indian government created a benchmark price for pig iron and made cash payments to exporters based on the difference between the benchmark price and the domestic price. These cash payments were made exclusively to castings exporters, with the net effect being a reduction in the price of pig iron to a level well below the price commercially available in the domestic market. The IPRS was an instrument used by the Indian government to ameliorate the deleterious effects of high-priced pig iron on a specific group of downstream users.

The circumstances in both Korean Nails and Taiwanese OCTG differ from those in this case. In Korean Nails, the Korean producers of nails for export had access to wire rod from foreign and domestic sources at comparable prices. Although afforded the opportunity through tariff protection to charge high prices for wire rod used in the manufacture of products sold domestically, POSCO (an integrated steel producer which is largely government-owned) and other Korean producers of wire rod chose to lower their prices to exporters of nails and compete with foreign-sourced wire rod purchased under duty drawback. We concluded that "different prices for purchasers do not arise from a scheme to subsidize exports, but rather are a commercial response to a segmented market, one segment being protected and the other fully open to foreign competition." We further stated that "this dual pricing system reflects strictly economic motivations [of the wire rod producers] rather than a desire of the Government of Korea (the owners of POSCO) to subsidize nail exports" (47 FR 39552).

We noted in addition that our conclusion regarding the dual pricing system was consistent with the principle contained in item (d). However, our decision not to countervail the Korean pricing scheme was based principally on a determination that POSCO was acting in a commercially reasonable fashion by instituting a dual-pricing system. As support for this, we stated that two privately-owned Korean wire rod producers also had dual-pricing systems in place. These facts led us to conclude that the Korean government was not acting to subsidize exports.

Similarly, in Taiwanese OCTG, we found that China Steel, a state-owned corporation and a supplier of pipe and tube inputs, maintained a two-tiered pricing policy. Accordingly, in determining whether China Steel's prices were preferential, we compared not only the actual prices FEMCO (an OCTG producer) paid China Steel to the actual prices FEMCO paid for imported coil, but we also compared the prices FEMCO paid China Steel to generally available world market prices for coil. In doing so, we found that China Steel's prices were at world market levels. Once again, our decision was based on a determination that China Steel was acting in a commercially reasonable manner.

In this case, the fact pattern is different. The Steel Authority of India, Ltd. (SAIL), an Indian government entity that supplied all of the pig iron used by the castings exporters, did not institute a dual-pricing scheme for pig iron. Instead, the Indian government intervened to ensure that Indian castings exporters could continue to use domestically-sourced pig iron while pig iron producers continued to enjoy the full benefits of tariff protection. Thus, the Indian government's decision to establish the IPRS and make cash payments to castings producers made possible exports that otherwise would not have occurred. Without this direct government action, castings exporters would have had to pay the high domestic price for Indian pig iron.

The fact that the Illustrative List is incorporated into U.S. law has no bearing on our decision. In determining whether item (d) is applicable to the identification and measurement of an export subsidy from this type of program, we have examined the law and its legislative history. Section 771(5) of the Tariff Act states, in relevant part: "The term 'subsidy' has the same meaning as the term 'bounty or grant' as that term is used in section 303 * * *, and includes, but is not limited to, the following: (i) Any export subsidy described in Annex A to the Agreement (relating to the Illustrative List of export subsidies) * * *" (emphasis added). While Congress incorporated the Illustrative List into the statute, it did not limit the definition of export subsidy to the practices outlined in the List. The legislative history of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (TAA) explains, "The reference to specific subsidies in the definition is not all inclusive, but rather is illustrative of practices which are subsidies within the meaning of the word as used in the bill. The administering authority may expand upon the list of specified subsidies consistent with the basic definition." S. Rep. No. 96–249, 96th Cong., 1st Sess. 85 (1979). See, also, Trade Agreements Act of 1979: Statements of Administrative Action, H.R. Doc. No. 96–153, Pt. II, 96th Cong., 1st Sess. 432 (1979). The Illustrative List is not, therefore, controlling of the identification and measurement of export subsidies, but must be considered along with other provisions of the statute and its legislative history, administrative practice and judicial precedent. In light of the foregoing reasons, the inclusion of proposed regulation 355.44(h), which corresponds to item (d) on the List, in no way supports the importers' position.

We consider a government program that results in the provision of an input to exporters at a price lower than to producers of domestically-sold products to confer a subsidy within the meaning of section 771(5) of the Tariff Act. It is irrelevant whether the IPRS is consistent with item (d) because we are not concerned with world market prices but with the alternative price of pig iron commercially available in the domestic market. Thus, we determine the IPRS program to be countervailable.

An analogy to the IPRS program is the case of the export loans. In this case, as in many others, we have determined that export loans at preferential interest rates constitute a subsidy. In measuring the subsidy, we do not concern ourselves with whether firms could have borrowed money at commercial rates in international credit markets. The fact that, as a result of a government program, they borrowed from domestic sources at rates below those commercially available in the domestic market leads us to determine that a subsidy is bestowed.

Comment 11: The importers argue that the Department recognized the principle of item (d) in the 1984 administrative review of this case. Further, the importers state that the Department has not identified any valid distinction between the IPRS program and other import substitution programs that have previously been found to be not countervailable. In particular, the importers argue that the Department only distinguished the IPRS from the programs in Korean Nails and Taiwanese OCTG on the basis that the IPRS results in a price rebate while the other programs result in a price reduction.

Department's Position: The importers mischaracterize the Department's decision in the 1984 administrative review of this case. In the 1984 review the Department was unable to confirm that the amount of the IPRS rebate was purely a function of the difference between the domestic and international price of pig iron. Therefore, the Department never reached the question of the applicability of the item (d).

The Department did not distinguish the programs in Korean Nails and Taiwanese OCTG simply on the basis that they offered price reductions rather than price rebates as provided under the IPRS. As we stated in the 1985 administrative review, we found that the dual pricing schemes examined in Korean Nails and Taiwanese OCTG were strictly commercial responses to segmented markets and not the product of a government desire to subsidize exports while continuing to offer input suppliers the full benefits of tariff protection.

Comment 12: The importers argue that although the Department has the authority to expand or supplement the Illustrative List it must strictly adhere to the precise standards of the Illustrative List in identifying export subsidies. Specifically, the importers state that the Department does not have the authority to interpret the Illustrative List so as to negate the world market price exception in item (d).

Department's Position: It is very clear from the legislative history of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 that Congress intended to define subsidy very broadly. This was made clear in the course of the Congressional debate of the 1979 Act. For example, Senator Heinz stated that: "The point * * * is to define subsidy broadly so as to catch within the scope of our law as many unfair trading practices as we can * * * Better to define the term broadly as it ought to be defined, and then use the injury test as it is intended to be used." 125 Cong. Rec. 20167 (July 23, 1979) (emphasis added). Nowhere in the statute is an exhaustive list of subsidy practices and their definitions provided. Rather, Congress merely set out certain descriptive examples of unfair trading practices. Therefore, it is beyond dispute that the Department was given wide discretion to determine what constitutes a subsidy within the meaning of section 771(5) of the Act.

We believe that we have the authority to countervail export subsidy practices which cause injury to a domestic industry, and that it is not limited by the adoption of the Illustrative List into U.S. law. It is clear from the legislative history that the incorporation of the Illustrative List was merely intended to provide examples of potential subsidy practices. It is unquestionable that, with respect to the administration of the countervailing duty law up until 1979, Congress was not concerned that an excessive number of foreign government practices were being found countervailable. Instead, Congress was troubled by the number of foreign government practices which were not being countervailed. Therefore, we do not believe that Congress intended the Department's authority to countervail injurious export subsidy practices to be restricted by a mechanical interpretation of the language used to describe an example of one type of subsidy practice. To Congress, the Illustrative List was just that—illustrative. The incorporation of the Illustrative List into U.S. law has no relevance to the Department's determination that the IPRS program was a subsidy within the meaning of 771(5) of the Act because we are properly concerned with the fact that the Indian government made cash payments to castings producers, the receipt of which was contingent upon export performance. We believe that we have the authority to countervail these payments; we believe it to be inconceivable that the Congress would have us do otherwise.

Comment 13: The importers argue that the Department has not taken into account a past Treasury Department decision involving Uruguayan leather apparel (see, Final Countervailing Duty Determination; Leather Wearing Apparel from Uruguay (43 FR 3974, January 30, 1978)), where a world market price exception similar to the one noted in item (d) was relied on. Moreover, in its final results of the 1985 administrative review of this case the Department misread the finding in Uruguayan Leather Apparel when distinguishing it from the IPRS.

Department's Position: We have explained our rationale for countervailing the IPRS in the previous comments. While this rationale may appear to be inconsistent with previous Treasury determinations, we do not believe we are necessarily bound by previous Treasury decisions regarding practices which were not defined as subsidies. As explained above, our determination with respect to the IPRS is based upon our interpretation of the 1979 statute and its legislative history. To the extent that we have refined our analysis, we believe that we have articulated a rationale basis for doing so.

Comment 14: The exporters argue that it is inappropriate to calculate IPRS benefits based on when benefits are received because, even though payment is not received for months after shipment, the program provides known payments on a sale-by-sale basis. The Department should calculate the benefit from the IPRS using payments claimed during the review period, rather than payments received during the review period.

Conversely, the petitioners argue that the Department should be consistent from one review to the next and continue to use the total amount of IPRS payments received during the review period in calculating the benefit from this program.

Department's Position: It has been our general practice to compute benefits received by a firm during the review period and apply them to the relevant value of exports for the same period. This is because the company's cash flow is not affected until the payment is received. There are a few exceptions to this practice, such as when a benefit is earned on a shipment-by-shipment basis and the exact amount of the benefit is known at the time of export (see e.g., Final Affirmative Countervailing Duty Determination and Countervailing Duty Order; Certain Steel Wire Nails from New Zealand (52 FR 37196, October 5, 1987)). In the case of IPRS benefits, however, the exact amount of the benefit is not known at the time of export because there is always a lag between the time an export is made and the time the EEPC announces the international price it will use in its calculation of the IPRS payment. Even if we are to consider the IPRS such an exception, the exporters did not make such a claim when we first determined in the 1984 review of this order that the IPRS provided a countervailable subsidy. In that review, we calculated the subsidy from the IPRS program by allocating receipts over exports. A shift in methodology at this time would result in a substantial gap in the measurement of subsidies from this program.

Comment 15: The exporters argue that the benefit from the IPRS program is overstated, claiming that it should be offset by the Engineering Goods Export Assistance Fund (EGEAF) and Freight Equalization Fee (FEF) levies which are included in the price of pig iron. Because IPRS payments include the refund of both the EGEAF and the FEF, the amounts paid for these two levies should be deducted from IPRS receipts to determine the net subsidy from this program.

Conversely, petitioners argue that the EGEAF and the FEF levies are not allowable offsets under section 771(6) of the Tariff Act. These levies are included in the price of pig iron and are paid regardless of whether the castings produced from the purchased pig iron is sold domestically or exported.

Department's Position: Section 771(6)(A) of the Tariff Act states that to determine the net subsidy the Department may subtract from the gross subsidy the amount of "any application fee, deposit, or similar payment paid in order to qualify for, or to receive, the benefit of the subsidy * * *." Both levies are paid by all consumers of Indian pig iron, not just exporters. Payment of the levies is not in the nature of an IPRS application fee. Therefore, they do not constitute offsets, as defined in the statute, to the IPRS benefit.

Comment 16: The petitioners argue that the Department incorrectly determined that the benefit from the IPRS program is zero for purposes of the cash deposit of estimated countervailing duties. While it is the Department's policy to adjust the deposit rate if a program-wide change has taken place since the review period but prior to publication of the preliminary results of the administrative review, the exporters' renunciation of IPRS payments on exports of the subject merchandise to the United States does not constitute a program-wide change because it was not effectuated by an official act, statute, regulation or decree, and the exporters could resume receiving IPRS payments if they chose. The exporters state that the Department determined that the EEPC stopped accepting IPRS claims filed on shipments exported to the United States after June 30, 1987. Moreover, because the Department verified that this program-wide change was implemented prior to the issuance of the preliminary determination in this administrative review, the Department should exclude IPRS payments from the estimated countervailing duty assessment rate. Such a determination is consistent with the final results of the 1985, 1986 and 1987 administrative reviews.

Department's Position: We verified in the 1985 and 1987 reviews, that in April 1987 the EEPC directed the castings producers not to make IPRS claims on exports of the subject merchandise. More importantly, however, we verified in the 1987 review that the Government of India officially terminated the IPRS program with respect to exports of the subject merchandise to the United States. We verified this fact by examining a Ministry of Commerce circular which stated that IPRS claims are not to be made on exports of the subject merchandise to the United States. Therefore, we have determined that the termination of the IPRS program with respect to exports of the subject merchandise to the United States meets the Department's program-wide change criteria.

Final Results of Review

After reviewing all of the comments received we determine that the following net subsidies exist for the period January 1, 1988 through December 31, 1988:

Manufacturer/exporter	Net ad valorem subsidy (percent)
Uma Iron and Steel Co	10.03
Govind Steel Co. Ltd	14.08
All other manufacturers or exporters	4.10

In calculating the benefits received during the review period, we followed the methodology described in the preamble to 19 CFR 355.20(d) (53 FR 52325, December 27, 1988). The Department will instruct the Customs Service to assess countervailing duties at the above percentages of the f.o.b. invoice price on shipments of the subject merchandise exported on or after January 1, 1988, and on or before December 31, 1988.

The cash deposit rate of estimated countervailing duties on future entries of the subject merchandise are set forth in the Notice of Final Results of this review for the period January 1, 1989 to December 31, 1989, issued contemporaneously with this notice. These deposit requirements, when imposed, shall remain in effect until publication of the final results of the next administrative review.

This administrative review and notice are in accordance with section 751(a)((1) of the Act and 19 CFR 353.22(c)(5).

Dated October 11, 1991.

Acting Assistant Secretary for Import Administration.

The weighted-average net subsidies are shown in the "Final Results of Administrative Review" section of this notice.

Case History

On October 16, 1980, the Department published a countervailing duty order on castings from India (45 FR 68650). On August 22, 1991, the Department published the final results of its most recently completed review for the period of January 1, 1987 through December 31, 1987 (56 FR 41658).

Since the preliminary results of review in this case (56 FR 41650) the following events have occurred. On September 11, 1991, the Department requested further information from certain Indian exporters regarding sales of additional licenses, sales of replenishment licenses and income tax deductions under section 80HHC. A response was received on September 20, 1991. Unsolicited submissions containing factual information also were received, but subsequently were returned to the respective parties. This issue is discussed in more detail in the comments below. Case briefs and rebuttal briefs were filed September 23, and September 27, 1991 respectively. A public hearing was held on October 4, 19091.

Scope of the Review

Imports covered by this review are shipments of Indian manhole covers and frames, clean-out covers and frames, and catch basin grates and frames. These articles are commonly called municipal or public works castings and are used for access or drainage for public utility, water, and sanitary systems. During the review period. this merchandise was classifiable under Harmonized Tariff Schedule (HTS) item numbers 7325.10.0010 and 7325.10.0050. Although the HTS subheadings are provided for convenience and customs purposes, our written description of the scope of this proceeding is dispositive.

Analysis of Comments Received

We afforded interested parties an opportunity to comment on the preliminary results. We received comments from a group of Indian exporters, Raghunath Prasad Phoolchand Ltd (Raghunath), Govind Steel Co., Ltd. and Tirupati International (P) Ltd. (Govind Steel Co., Ltd. and Tirupati International (P) Ltd. (Govind and Tirupati), two groups of U.S. Importers, and the petitioners.

The issues raised by the parties with respect to the IPRS program in the case and rebuttal briefs were basically identical to those raised by the parties in their briefs for the 1987 review. The information on the record and the Department's position with respect to these comments have not changed. Therefore, we have generally restated here the comments and "Department Positions" from the 1987 review. (See Final Results of Countervailing Duty Administrative Review: Certain Iron-Metal Castings From India (56 FR 41658, August 22, 1991).)

Comment 1: The petitioners argue that the Department should use in its calculation of Serampore's subsidy rate for the sales of additional licenses, the ratio of historical export shipments of subject and non-subject merchandise. The petitioners argue that Serampore's September 20, 1991 response regarding the value associated with the additional licenses sold is not consistent with Serampore's historical ratio of export shipments of subject and non-subject merchandise, implying that the additional licenses sold should have been primarily tied to the exports of subject merchandise to the United States, given that Serampore has historically exported a higher volume of subject merchandise.

Conversely, the exporters argue that the Department should use the information on the sale of additional licenses provided by Serampore because there is no indication that Serampore's response is incorrect. In addition, the exporters state that using information from prior reviews to calculate the benefit associated with the sale of the licenses would be inappropriate and a departure from the Department's practices.

Department's Position: We disagree with petitioners. Based on our analysis of the additional information submitted by Serampore on September 20, 1991, we have no reason to believe it is inaccurate.

Additional licenses are issued based on 10 percent of the net foreign exchange (NFE). The NFE is calculated by subtracting from the f.o.b. value of exports, the c.i.f. value of import licenses (i.e., advance licenses and replenishment licenses). Serampore indicated in its questionnaire response that the receipt of its advance license was linked to exports of subject merchandise to the United States. Consequently, because the value of the advance license was deducted in computing the amount of the additional licenses, only that portion of the additional licenses corresponding to the value added to the subject merchandise is countervailable. Given the way the value of additional licenses is calculated, there is no reason to assume any relationship between the ratio of export shipments of subject merchandise to the United States and non-subject merchandise and the portion of the value of an additional license that is linked to the exports of subject merchandise to the United States. To do so would be to assume that all export shipments relay equally on inputs imported under advance and replenishment licenses, and we have no reason to make this assumption.

Comment 2: The petitioners suggest that the Department should use the best information available (BIA) to calculate Uma's benefits from the section 80HHC program and from the sales of additional licenses due to the company's failure to respond to the Department's September 11, 1991 questionnaire.

The exporters argue that Uma is a very small company that has always had problems understanding and responding to the Department's questionnaires. They further point out that Uma has attempted to respond to the Department's supplemental questionnaire by sending telefaxes to its counsel.

Department's Position: Because Uma failed to respond to the Department's September 11, 1991 questionnaire in which clarification was requested on the benefits received from section 80HHC and from the sale of additional licenses, and also because Uma did not properly address the 80HHC program in the responses to both of the Department's questionnaires presented to Uma before the preliminary results were published, we are assigning Uma the highest rate found in this review for any company using the 80HHC program.

Regarding the sale of additional licenses, we are using, as BIA, the rate calculated for the preliminary results. After issuing the preliminary results, we sent a supplemental questionnaire to certain respondents requesting specific information relating to import licenses sold during the period of review in order to refine the calculations used in the preliminary results. A timely and accurate response from Uma to this questionnaire likely would have resulted in a more accurate subsidy rate for this program because the rate then would have been associated only with that portion of the license attributable to exports of subject merchandise to the United States. The methodology used now, and in the preliminary results, to calculate the subsidy rate for this program is analogous to the one repeatedly used by the Department to calculate subsidy rates associated with the pre- and post-shipment financing programs where the Department allocates the benefit depending upon how much such specific detail is provided about the utilization of such programs (e.g., exports of subject merchandise to the United States, total exports of subject merchandise, total exports). Consequently, because Uma failed to respond to the Department's September 11, 1991 questionnaire requesting information that would enable us to refine our calculations for purposes of the final results, and the methodology used in the preliminary results is consistent with the Department's practice, we have decided to retain the calculation used in the preliminary results.

Comment 3: The petitioners argue that in order to calculate Kejriwal's benefit from post-shipment financing, the Department should use the interest rates provided in the July 15, 1991 response.

Department's Position: Upon review of Kejriwal's original questionnaire response on post-shipment financing, the Department requested further clarification. As a result of this request, Kejriwal submitted a revised response clarifying previously submitted information on post-shipment financing. Consistent with our general practice of using the most recent timely submission, we have used the revised response to calculate the benefits received under the post-shipment financing program.

Comment 4: The petitioners argue that Agarwalla's section 80HHC benefit was incorrectly calculated. In its questionnaire response, Agarwalla indicated that the tax amount shown in the return filed during the review period was incorrect. The petitioners suggest that the Department use the corrected amount reported by Agarwalla, rather than the alleged "incorrect" tax amount used in the company's income tax return, to calculate the benefit.

Department's Position: The 80HHC benefit actually received by Agarwalla is reflected on the tax return filed in the review period. Using any figure other than the one on the tax return would not capture the actual benefit associated with 80HHC. Therefore, we have used information from the tax return filed during the review period to calculate the benefit.

Comment 5: The petitioners request that the Department correct a clerical error made calculating Crescent's benefits from sales of replenishment licenses. The petitioners state that because Crescent's August 5, 1991 submission reported the value of the licenses that were related to the exports of the subject merchandise, the Department should calculate the benefit by summing the premium amounts related to the sale of the licenses associated with exports of subject merchandise and dividing this sum by Crescent's total exports of subject merchandise.

Department's Position: We agree and have corrected out calculations accordingly.

Comment 6: The petitioners request that the Department include benefits to Prudential arising from the sales of its import licenses.

Department's Position: Prudential stated in its August 1, 1991 response that the receipt of such licenses was linked to exports of non-subject merchandise. Therefore, the premiums received by Prudential for the sale of these licenses are not related to the subject merchandise and have not been included in the calculation of the subsidy rate.

Comment 7: The Indian exporters and a group of U.S. importers argue that Serampore's benefit under section 80HHC is overstated. Because the income reported was based on a tax return covering a period of 21 months, the calculation of the subsidy using such income grossly overstates the subsidy since the denominator used in the calculation only covers exports for 12 months.

Department's Position: Except when benefits are allocated over time, it is the Department's practice to determine benefits from subsidies on the basis of payments received, not accrued, by a firm during the review period, and to apply them to the appropriate sales figure for the same period. This receipts methodology is the same used to calculate benefits under the IPRS program, where in prior reviews we summed all IPRS receipts during the review period, despite the fact that such receipts might have been associated with exports that covered more than 12 months. Accordingly, we are not changing the calculation methodology used in the preliminary results, which is based upon section 80HHC benefits received during the review period.

Comment 8: The Indian exporters argue that Carnation's benefit under section 80HHC is overstated. As a result of changing its accounting basis from a cash basis to an accrual basis, Carnation's profit was unusually high. The Indian exporters request that the Department factor out of the cash deposit rate the amount of profit that resulted from the change in Carnation's accounting basis.

The petitioners contend that the Department should not calculate the benefit based on a theoretical profit amount and that the Department should continue to calculate Carnation's tax benefit amount based on its actual profit and resulting tax amount reported in the company's tax return. In addition, the petitioners state that Carnation has failed to provide justification for the Department to calculate a different cash deposit rate than a liquidation rate.

Department's Position: It would not be appropriate to calculate the benefit based on a theoretical figure which does not correspond to the actual benefit received. Carnation's actual benefit received is reflected on the tax return filed during the review period and therefore has been used as the basis for the subsidy calculation. Further, because there is not a program-wide change, the Department has no basis to change the calculation of the cash deposit rate.

Comment 9: The Indian exporters and a group of U.S. importers argue that the calculation of the benefit from pre-shipment financing is incorrect in that the Department failed to take into account premium payments made to the Export Credit Guarantee Corporation (ECGC) in order to obtain such financing. Respondents claim that in order to obtain such financing, exporters are required to purchase insurance coverage from the ECGC, even for U.S. sales.

The petitioners indicate that because the Department previously has verified that ECGC insurance is not required in order for a company to borrow under the pre-shipment financing program, the Department has correctly disallowed the offset adjustment for the cost of the insurance.

Department's Position: In the 1987 Administrative Review (see, Final Results of Countervailing Duty Administrative Review: Certain Iron-Metal Castings from India (56 FR 41658, August 22, 1991)), we verified that exporters are not required to purchase insurance coverage from the ECGC in order to receive pre-shipment financing. No information has been placed on the record to the contrary or demonstrating a different interpretation. Therefore, we continue to determine that the cost of export credit insurance is not a permissible offset as defined by section 771(6)(A) of the Act.

Comment 10: Govind and Tirupati request that the Department reconsider its September 17, 1991 decision to return Tirupati's questionnaire response and also that the Department request the Government of India to resubmit the questionnaire responses so that Tirupati's company-specific information can be considered for purposes of the final determination. Govind and Tirupati allege that the prohibition against accepting questionnaire responses after the date of the preliminary determination is limited to unsolicited questionnaire responses. Their questionnaire responses, while untimely, was submitted in response to the Department's initial questionnaire.

Govind and Tirupati explain that Tirupati did not respond in time because Govind (Tirupati and Govind are closely related and their records are kept at Govind's factories) was affected by a strike that lasted from March 9, 1991 to August 12, 1991. The striking workers obstructed movement to the factories where Tirupati's records for the review period were stored. Hence, Govind and Tirupati contend that the delay in Tirupati's response was due to circumstances beyond their control.

Petitioners argue that the Department correctly rejected factual information submitted by respondents after the Department's deadline. The petitioners refer to several past decisions by the Department and the Court of International Trade (CIT) which show that it is the Department's policy not to accept new information after the preliminary determination.

Department's Position: Tirupati attempted to submit its questionnaire responses only after the preliminary determination had been published. The company made no effort to notify the Department of the problems created by the labor strike before the publication of the preliminary determination. Nor did the company request an extension prior to the publication of the preliminary results. Had Tirupati explained the problems caused by the strike, the Department might have been able to take such arguments into account and been able to grant the companies an extension.

Under § 355.31(b)(2) of the Department's regulations, "* * * in no event will the Secretary consider unsolicited questionnaire responses submitted after the date of publication of the Secretary's preliminary determination." Once the preliminary determination had passed, Tirupati's questionnaire response essentially became an unsolicited questionnaire response. Accordingly, the Department did not accept Tirupati's response.

Comment 11: Govind and Tirupati argue that the Department incorrectly assumed in its preliminary determination that Govind exported subject merchandise to the United States in 1989 and point to an August 30, 1991 amendment to the Engineering Export Promotion Council (EEPC) questionnaire response which requested the Department to delete Govind from the list of companies that exported subject castings to the United States in 1989. In addition, Govind and Tirupati argue that even though the EEPC's amendment and Tirupati's questionnaire response were submitted outside the time period established by the Department, Tirupati's failure to submit a timely response was due to the labor strikes mentioned above and not a deliberate attempt to control the outcome of the proceedings through partial and selective submission of information, and Govind did not export subject merchandise during the review period. Therefore, Govind and Tirupati request they receive the "all other" rate as a deposit rate.

Raghunath also requests the Department to assign the company the "all others" rate. Raghunath explains that 1989 was the first year it exported to the United States, and that the value of its exports was minuscule. Consequently, when the company received the Department's questionnaire, it believed that the United States would not be concerned with its export sales, and only submitted a letter to the EEPC providing its export figures and information on the subsidies received during the review period. Finally, Raghunath states that it did not intentionally refuse to respond to the Department's questionnaire or impede the review.

The petitioners contend that the Department correctly rejected as untimely the amended response of the EEPC referring to several past decisions by the Department and the CIT. In addition, the petitioners assert that when a respondent refuses to provide information requested by the Secretary or otherwise impedes the review, it is the Department's responsibility, and not respondents', to determine what is the best information available. The petitioners argue that the Department was reasonable in its use of the sum of the highest subsidy rates due to Tirupati's failure to provide the requested information in the questionnaire to the Department before its deadline. The petitioners also note that the Department consistently has applied the highest BIA rates to companies not responding to the Department's request for information, citing several past determinations by the Department.

The petitioners also argue that because Raghunath only attempted to submit its questionnaire response after the preliminary determination, the Department correctly rejected this submission. In addition, the petitioners state that the Department has properly assigned as BIA the sum of the highest subsidy rates found for each program due to Raghunath's failure to provide the information requested in the questionnaire before the Department's deadline.

Department's Position: We agree with the petitioners. We must establish BIA subsidy rate for Tirupati and Raghunath due to their failure to supply timely responses to the Department's questionnaire and to Govind because the EEPC listed Govind as an exporter of subject castings to the United States in its July 15, 1991 questionnaire response. After publication of the preliminary determination, the EEPC attempted to submit an amended response, and Tirupati and Raghuanth attempted to submit their responses which were rejected by the Department as untimely. Section 355.31(b)(2) of the Department's regulations does not allow for the unsolicited submission of factual information after the date of publication of the preliminary results. Therefore, we believe it is reasonable to draw adverse inferences and assign as BIA the sum of the highest subsidy rates found for each program for these three companies.

Comment 12: The two groups of U.S. importers state that the Department should only countervail proceeds from sales of additional and replenishment licenses that were tied to the export of subject merchandise to the United States. Where the Department cannot determine whether the proceeds are tied to exports of subject or non-subject merchandise, the Department should continue the methodology used in its preliminary determination, i.e., dividing the proceeds by all exports.

The petitioners argue that to the extent that the Department is unable to tie license proceeds to specific merchandise, it should allocate the proceeds over exports of the subject merchandise to the United States.

Department's Position: When respondents have clearly indicated the portion of the license attributable to exports of the subject merchandise to the United States, we have countervailed only the sales proceeds related to that portion of the license and allocated the benefits to sales of the subject merchandise to the United States. Where the response was not clear in stating whether the benefits were attributable to exports of the subject merchandise to the United States, we have used the exports of subject merchandise to the United States as the denominator because this was the specific information requested in the September 11, 1991 supplemental questionnaire.

Comment 13: The Indian exporters and the U.S. importers argue that IPRS payments are not countervailable subsidies. In intent and practice, the IPRS refunds to exporters of castings the difference between the price they must pay for certain raw materials purchase from government-owned Indian producers and the price they would otherwise pay on the world market. The program was operated in a manner consistent with item (d) of the Illustrative List of Export Subsidies annexed to the Agreement on Interpretation and Application of Articles VI, XVI, and XXIII of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (the Illustrative List) which states:

> The delivery by governments of their agencies of imported or domestic products or services for use in the production of exported goods, on terms or conditions more favorable than for delivery of like or directly competitive products or services for use in the production of goods for domestic consumption, if (in the case of products) such terms or conditions are more favorable than those commercially available on world markets to their exporters (emphasis added).

Item (d) of the List is thus explicit that the provision of raw materials at world market prices to exporters is not a subsidy. The Department recognized this in previous countervailing duty cases. Namely, in Final Negative Countervailing Duty Determination: Certain Steel Wire Nails from the Republic of Korea (47 FR 39549; September 8, 1982) (Korea Nails), the Department held that "price preferences for inputs to be used in the production of export goods constitute a subsidy only if the preference lowers the price of that input below that which the input purchaser would pay on world markets." Similarly, in Final Negative Countervailing Duty Determination; Oil Country Tubular Goods from Taiwan (51 FR 19583; May 30, 1986) (Taiwanese OCTG), the Department stated that:

> Based on an examination of China Steel's second-tier prices for hot-rolled coil used in the production of OCTG, and of the world market prices for such coil, we found that China Steel's prices were at world market levels; therefore, we determine that China Steels' tow-tiered pricing policy does not confer a countervailable benefit within the meaning of the countervailing duty law.

The exporters also argue that the IPRS benefits not the exporter of castings, but rather the Indian pig iron producers. Castings exporters can import gig iron or purchase domestic pig iron at the relatively high price that is set by the Indian government and receive IPRS rebates. The net effects of these two alternatives are the same.

In addition, importers argue that the Department is attempting to use an unauthorized interpretation of U.S. law to find the Indian IPRS program countervailable. In Certain Cotton Yarn Products from Brazil; Final Results of Countervailing Duty Administrative Review (55 FR 3442; February 1, 1990) (Cotton Yarn), the Department determined as countervailable a similar Brazilian dual pricing scheme, the Price Equalization Program (PEP). In Cotton Yarn, the Department advanced the theory that the List is not controlling on the identification of subsidies: "It is irrelevant whether the PEP is consistent with item (d) or whether Cotton Yarn exporters cold have imported raw cotton at world market prices. We are concerned with the alternative price commercially available in the domestic market" (55 FR 3446). Importers argue that such a theory is untenable because Congress incorporated the List into U.S. countervailing duty law and the Department has no authority to claim item (d) as "irrelevant." The CIT has acknowledged the adoption of the List in U.S. law in its decision in Fabricas El Carmen, S.A. de C.V., et al v. United States, 672 F. Supp. 1465 (CIT October 7, 1987), as did the U.S. Court of Appeals in its decision of the 1984 review of this countervailing duty order (see, RSI (India) Pvt., Ltd. v. United States, 876 F.2d 1571 (Fed. Cir. 1989)). The legislative history confirms that the sole reservation expressed by Congress in adopting the List was that it not be regarded as a permanent, exhaustive listing of all export subsidies countervailable under U.S. law. The Department is empowered only to supplement or expand the existing List, not alter or ignore established principles of the List. Consequently, in the case of item (d), U.S. law specifically excludes from countervailability any such programs which do not result in the provision of inputes on terms more favorable than those obtainable on world markets. Furthermore, the Department's failure to observe the principle of the statutory language and item (d) also directly conflicts with its efforts to codify item (d) in its own regulations. The Department's proposed Regulation 355.44(h) in 19 CFR part 355 Countervailing Duties; Notice of Proposed Rulemaking and Request for Public Comments (54 FR 23366; May 31, 1989) clearly states that price preferences for inputs used in the production of goods for export are subsidies only if they are provided on terms or conditions that "are more favorable than those commercially available on world markets to their exporters."

Conversely, petitioners argue that the exception to an item (d) subsidy is inapplicable in this administrative review because the Government of India did not provide pig iron for use in the production of exported castings at the world market price. Petitioner maintains that the Department's interpretation of item (d) has alway been a narrow one, i.e., the exception in item (d) applies only to inputs, not monetary payments. Such an interpretation of item (d) is consistent with a panel report of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) Committee on Subsidies and Countervailing Measures that examined item (d) in conjunction with an investigation of European Community pasta export payments. See GATT Panel Report on EEC Subsidies on Export Pasta Products, SCM/433 (May 19, 1983). The Department's determination in Cotton Yarn, that the Brazilian PEP program is countervailable, is consistent with past Department determinations that reflect a narrow interpretation of the exception in item (d). The Department's preliminary determination that IPRS payments are countervailable implicitly recognizes that the exception in item (d) does not apply because item (d) clearly encompasses the IPRS within its definition of an export subsidy.

Department's Position: The Indian government's decisions to insulate its pig iron producers from foreign competition placed users of domestic pig iron at a disadvantage vis-a-vis competitors abroad by raising the price of domestic pig iron. Indian castings exporters could have overcome this competitive disadvantage in two ways: Duty drawback and the IPRS. Imported pig iron in India is subject to normal customs duties. Had Indian castings exporters imported foreign pig iron for use as an input and processed it into castings for export, they could have been exempted from the normal customs duties on pig iron by using duty drawback, a practice acceptable under U.S. countervailing duty law and the GATT. Alternatively, under the IPRS, the Indian government created a benchmark price for pig iron and made cash payments to exporters based on the difference between the benchmark price and the domestic price. These cash payments were made exclusively to castings exporters, with the net effect being a reduction in the price of pig iron to a level well below the price commercially available in the domestic market. The IPRS was an instrument used by the Indian government to ameliorate the deleterious effects of high-priced pig iron on a specific group of downstream users.

The circumstances in both Korean Nails and Taiwanese OCTG differ from those in this case. In Korean Nails, the Korean producers of nails for export had access to wire rod from foreign and domestic sources at comparable prices. Although afforded the opportunity through tariff protection to charge high prices for wire rod used in the manufacture of products sold domestically, POSCO (an integrated steel producer which is largely government-owned) and other Korean producers of wire rod chose to lower their prices to exporters of nails and compete with foreign-sourced wire rod purchased under duty drawback. We concluded that "different prices for purchasers do not arise from a scheme to subsidize exports, but rather are a commercial response to a segmented market, one segment being protected and the other fully open to foreign competition." We further stated that "this dual pricing system reflects strictly economic motivations [of the wire rod producers] rather than a desire of the Government of Korea (the owners of POSCO) to subsidize nail exports" (47 FR 39552).

We noted in addition that our conclusion regarding the dual pricing system was consistent with the principle contained in item (d). However, our decision not to countervail the Korean pricing scheme was based principally on a determined that POSCO was acting in a commercially reasonable fashion by instituting a dual-pricing system. As support for this, we stated that two privately-owned Korean wire rod producers also had dual-pricing systems in place. These facts led us to conclude that the Korean government was not acting to subsidize exports.

Similarly, in Taiwanese OCTG, we found that China Steel, a state-owned corporation and a supplier of pipe and tube inputs, maintained a two-tiered pricing policy. Accordingly, in determining whether China Steel's prices were preferential, we compared not only the actual prices FEMCO (an OCTG producer) paid China Steel to the actual prices FEMCO paid for imported coil, but we also compared the prices FEMCO paid China Steel to generally available world market prices for coil. In doing so, we found that China Steel's prices were at world market levels. Once again, our decision was based on a determination that China Steel was acting in a commercially reasonable manner.

In this case, the fact pattern is different. The Steel Authority of India, Ltd. (SAIL), an Indian government entity that supplied all of the pig iron used by the casting exporters, did not institute a dual-pricing scheme for pig iron. Instead, the Indian government intervened to ensure that Indian castings exporters could continued to use domestically-sourced pig iron while pig iron producers continued to enjoy the full benefits of tariff protection. Thus, the Indian government's decision to establish the IPRS and make cash payments to castings producers made possible exports that otherwise would not have occurred. Without this direct government action, castings exporters would have had to pay the high domestic price for Indian pig iron.

The fact that the Illustrative List is incorporated into U.S. law has no bearing on our decision. In determining whether item (d) is applicable to the identification and measurement of an export subsidy from this type of program, we have examined the law and its legislative history. Section 771(5) of the Tariff Act states, in relevant part: "The term 'subsidy' has the same meaning as the term 'bounty or grant' as that term is used in section 303 * * *, and includes, but is not limited to, the following: (i) Any export subsidy described in Annex A to the Agreement (relating to the illustrative list of export subsidies) * * *" (emphasis added). While Congress incorporated the Illustrative List into the statute, it did not limit the definition of export subsidy to the practices outlined in the List. The legislative history of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (TAA) explains, "The reference to specific subsidies in the definition is not all inclusive, but rather is illustrative of practices which are subsidies within the meaning of the word as used in the bill. The administering authority may expand upon the list of specified subsidies consistent with the basic definition." S. Rep. No. 96–249, 96th Cong., 1st Sess. 85 (1979). See also Trade Agreements Act of 1979: Statements of Administrative Action, H.R. Doc. No. 96–153, Pt. II, 96th Cong., 1st Sess. 432 (1979). The Illustrative List is not, therefore, controlling of the identification and measurement of export subsidies, but must be considered along with other provisions of the statute and its legislative history, administrative practice and judicial precedent. In light of the foregoing reasons, the inclusion of proposed regulation 355.44(h), which corresponds to item (d) on the list, in no way supports the importer's position.

We consider a government program that results in the provision of an input to exporters at a price lower than to producers of domestically-sold products to confer a subsidy within the meaning of section 771(5) of the Tariff Act. It is irrelevant whether the IPRS is consistent with item (d) because we are not concerned with world market prices but with the alternative price of pig iron commercially available in the domestic market. Thus, we determined the IPRS program to be countervailable.

An analogy to the IPRS program is the case of the export loans. In the case, as in many others, we have determined that export loans at preferential interest rates constitute a subsidy. In measuring the subsidy, we do not concern ourselves with whether firms could have borrowed money at commercial rates in international credit markets. The fact that, as a result of a government program, they borrowed from domestic sources at rates below those commercially available in the domestic market leads us to determine that a subsidy is bestowed.

Comment 14: The U.S. importers argue that the Department recognized the principle of item (d) in the 1984 administrative review of this case. Further, the U.S. importers state that the Department has not identified any valid distinction between the IPRS program and other import substitution programs that have previously been found to be not countervailable. In particular, the importers argue that the Department only distinguished the IPRS from the programs in Korean Nails and Taiwanese OCTG on the basis that the IPRS results in a price rebate while the other programs results in a price reduction.

Department's Position: The importers mischaracterize the Department's decision in the 1984 administrative review of this case. In the 1984 review the Department was unable to confirm that the amount of the IPRS rebate was purely a function of the difference between the domestic and international price of pig iron. Therefore, the Department never reached the question of the applicability of the item (d).

The Department did not distinguish the programs in Korean Nails and Taiwanese OCTG simply on the basis that they offered price reductions rather that price rebates as provided under the IPRS. As we stated in the 1985 administrative review, we found that the dual pricing schemes examined in Korean Nails and Taiwanese OCTG were strictly commercial responses to segmented markets and not the product of a government desire to subsidize exports while continuing to offer input suppliers the full benefits of tariff protection.

Comment 15: The U.S. importers argue that although the Department has the authority to expand or supplement the Illustrative List it must strictly adhere to the precise standards of the Illustrative List in identifying export subsidies. Specifically, the importers state that the Department does not have the authority to interpret the Illustrative List so as to negate the world market price exception in item (d).

Department's Position: It is very clear from the legislative history of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 that Congress intended to define subsidy very broadly. This was made clear in the course of the Congressional debate of the 1979 Act. For example, Senator Heinz stated that; "The point * * * is to define subsidy broadly also as to catch within the scope of our law as many unfair trading practices as we can * * * Better to define the term broadly as it ought to be defined, and then use the injury test as it is intended to be used." 125 Cong. Rec. 20167 (July 23, 1979) (emphasis added). Nowhere in the statue is an exhaustive list of subsidy practices and their definitions provided. Rather, Congress merely set out certain descriptive examples of unfair trading practices. Therefore, it is beyond dispute that the Department was given wide discretion to determined what constitutes a subsidy within the meaning of section 771(5) of the Act.

We believe that we have the authority to countervail export subsidy practices which cause injury to a domestic industry, and that it is not limited by the adoption of the Illustrative List into U.S. law. It is clear from the legislative history that the incorporation of the Illustrative List was merely intended to provide examples of potential subsidy practices. It is unquestionable that, with respect to the administration of the countervailing duty law up until 1979, Congress was not concerned that an excessive number of foreign government practices were being found countervailable. Instead, Congress was troubled by the number of foreign government practices which were not being countervailed. Therefore, we do not believe that Congress intended the Department's authority to countervail injurious export subsidy practices to be restricted by a mechanical interpretation of the language used to describe an example of one type of subsidy practice. To Congress, the Illustrative List was just that—illustrative. The incorporation of the Illustrative List into U.S. law has no relevance to the Department's determination that the IPRS program was a subsidy within the meaning of 771(5) of the Act because we are properly concerned with the fact that the Indian government made cash payments to castings producers, the receipt of which was contingent upon export performance. We believe that we have the authority to countervail these payments; we believe it to be inconceivable that the Congress would have us do otherwise.

Comment 16: The importers argue that the Department has not taken into account a past Treasury Department decision involving Uruguayan leather apparel (see, Final Countervailing Duty Determination; Leather Wearing Apparel from Uruguay (43 FR 3974; January 30, 1978)), where a world market price exception similar to the one noted in item (d) was relied on. Moreover, in its final results of the 1985 administrative review of this case the Department misread the finding in Uruguayan Leather Apparel when distinguishing it from the IPRS.

Department's Position: We have explained our rationale for countervailing the IPRS in the previous comments. While this rationale may appear to be inconsistent with previous Treasury determinations, we do not believe we are necessarily bound by previous Treasury decisions regarding practices which were not defined as subsidies. As explained above, our determination with respect to the IPRS is based upon our interpretation of the 1979 statute and its legislative history. To the extent that we have refined our analysis, we believe that we have articulated a rational basis for doing so.

Comment 17: The Indian exporters argue that it is inappropriate to calculate IPRS benefits based on when benefits are received because, even though payment is not received for months after shipment, the program provides known payments on a sale-by-sale basis. The Department should calculate the benefit from the IPRS using payments claimed during the review period, rather than payments received during the review period.

Conversely, the petitioners argue that the Department should be consistent from one review to the next and continue to use the total amount of IPRS payments received during the review period in calculating the benefit from this program.

Department's Position: It has been our general practice to compute benefits received by a firm during the review period (in this case the 1989 calendar year), and apply them to the relevant value of exports for the same period. This is because the company's cash flow is not affected until the payment is received. There are a few exceptions to this practice, such as when a benefit is earned on a shipment-by-shipment basis and the exact amount of the benefit is known at the time of export (see e.g., Final Affirmative Countervailing Duty Determination and Countervailing Duty Order; Certain Steel Wire Nails from New Zealand (52 FR 37196; October 5, 1987)). In the case of IPRS benefits, however, the exact amount of the benefit is not known at the time of export because there is always a lag between the time an export is made and the time the EEPC announces the international price it will use in its calculation of the IPRS payment. Even if we were to consider the IPRS such an exception, the exporters did not make such a claim when we first determined in the 1984 review of this order that the IPRS provided a countervailable subsidy. In that review, we calculated the subsidy from the IPRS program by allocating receipts over exports. A shift in methodology at this time would result in a substantial gap in the measurement of subsidies from this program.

Comment 18: The exporters argue that the benefit from the IPRS program is overstated, claiming that it should be offset by the Engineering Goods Export Assistance Fund (EGEAF) and Freight Equalization Fee (FEF) levies which are included in the price of pig iron. Because IPRS payments include the refund of both the EGEAF and the FEF, the amounts paid for these two levies should be deducted from IPRS receipts to determine the net subsidy from this program.

Conversely, petitioners argue that the EGEAF and the FEF levies are not allowable offsets under section 771(6) of the Tariff Act. These levies are included in the price of pig iron and are paid regardless of whether the castings produced from the purchased pig iron is sold domestically or exported.

Department's Position: Section 771(6)(A) of the Tariff Act states that to determine the net subsidy the Department may subtract from the gross subsidy the amount of "any application fee, deposit, or similar payment paid in order to qualify for, or to receive, the benefit of the subsidy * * *." Both levies are paid by all consumers of Indian pig iron, not just exporters. Payment of the levies is not in the nature of an IPRS application fee. Therefore, they do not constitute offsets, as defined in the statute, to the IPRS benefit.

Comment 19: The petitioners argue that the Department incorrectly determined that the benefit from the IPRS program is zero for purposes of the cash deposit of estimated countervailing duties. While it is the Department's policy to adjust the deposit rate if a program-wide change has taken place since the review period but prior to publication of the preliminary results of the administrative review, the exporters' renunciation of IPRS payments on exports of the subject merchandise to the United States does not constitute a program-wide change because it was not effectuated by an official act, statute, regulation or decree, and the exporters could resume receiving IPRS payments if they chose. The exporters state that the Department determined that the EEPC stopped accepting IPRS claims filed on shipments exported to the United States after June 30, 1987. Moreover, because the Department verified that this program-wide change was implemented prior to the issuance of the preliminary determination in this administrative review, the Department should exclude IPRS payments from the estimated countervailing duty assessment rate. Such a determination is consistent with the final results of the 1985, 1986 and 1987 administrative reviews.

Department's Position: We verified in the 1985 and 1987 reviews, that in April 1987 the EEPC directed the castings producers not to make IPRS claims on exports of the subject merchandise. More importantly, however, we verified in the 1987 review that the Government of India officially terminated the IPRS program with respect to exports of the subject merchandise to the United States. We verified this fact by examining a Ministry of Commerce circular which stated that IPRS claims are not to be made on exports of the subject merchandise to the United States. Therefore, we have determined that the termination of the IPRS program with respect to exports of the subject merchandise to the United States meets the Department's program-wide change criteria.

Final Results of Review

After reviewing all of the comments received, we determine that the following net subsidies exist for the period of January 1, 1989 through December 21, 1989:

Manufacturer/exporter	Net ad valorem subsidy (percent)
Carnation Enterprise	16.10 percent.
Uma Iron & Steel Company	16.22 percent.
Govind Steel Co. Ltd	21.27 percent.
Tirupati International	21.27 percent.
Raghunath Prasad Phoolchand	21.27 percent.
All Other Manufacturers or Exporters.	2.66 percent.

In calculating the benefits received during the review period, we followed the methodology described in the preamble to 19 CFR 355.20(d) (53 FR 52325, December 27, 1988). The Department will instruct the Customs Service to assess countervailing duties at the above percentages of the f.o.b. invoice price on shipments of the subject merchandise exported on or after January 1, 1989, and on or before December 31, 1989.

As a result of the termination of benefits attributable to the IPRS program, the Department will also instruct the Customs Service to collect a cash deposit of estimated countervailing duties in the amount of 20.21 percent ad valorem for Govind, Tirupati and Raghunath; 16.22 percent ad valorem for Uma; 16.10 percent ad valorem for Carnation Enterprise Pvt. Ltd.; and 2.48 percent ad valorem for all other manufacturers and exporters on shipments of the subject merchandise entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on or after the date of publication of these final results of administrative review.

This administrative review and notice are in accordance with section 751(a)(1) of the Tariff Act and 19 CFR 355.22(c)(5).

Initiation of Antidumping Duty Investigations: Circular Welded Non-Alloy Steel Pipe From Brazil, the Republic of Korea, Mexico, Romania, Taiwan, and Venezuela AGENCY: Import Administration, International Trade Administration, Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 21, 1991.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Michelle Frederick or Michael Pass, Office of Antidumping Investigations, Import Administration, International Trade Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20230; telephone (202) 377-0656 or (202) 377-0629, respectively.

Initiation of Investigations

The Petitions

On September 24, 1991, we received petitions filed in proper form by Allied Tube & Conduit Corporation, American Tube Company, Bull Moose Tube Company, Century Tube Corporation, Laclede Steel Company, Sawhill Tubular Division (Cyclops Corporation), Sharon Tube Company, Western Tube & Conduit Corporation, and Wheatland Tube Company (collectively "the petitioners"). In accordance with 19 CFR 353.12, the petitioners allege that circular welded non-alloy steel pipe ("standard pipe") from Brazil, the Republic of Korea, Mexico, Romania, Taiwan, and Venezuela, is being, or is likely to be, sold in the United States at less than fair value within the meaning of section 731 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended ("the Act"), and that these imports are materially injuring, or threaten material injury to, a U.S. industry.

The petitioners have stated that they have standing to file the petitions because they are interested parties, as defined under section 771(9)(E) of the Act, and because they have filed the petitions on behalf of a U.S. industry producing a product that is subject to these investigations. If any interested party, as described under paragraphs (C), (D), (E), or (F) of section 771(9) of the Act, wishes to register support for, or opposition to, this petition, it should file a written notification with the Assistant Secretary for Import Administration.

Under the Department's regulations, any producer or reseller seeking exclusion from a potential antidumping duty order must submit its request for exclusion within 30 days of the date of the publication of this notice. The procedures and requirements are contained in 19 CFR 353.14.

United States Price and Foreign Market Value

A. Brazil

The petitioners' estimate of United States price is based on the average customs value of imported standard pipe during the second quarter of 1991.

The petitioners' estimate of foreign market value (FMV) is based on actual home market price quotations obtained from Brazilian producers of standard pipe. Prices were based on FOB mill. No adjustments were made.

Based on the comparisons of the prices presented by the petitioners, the alleged dumping margins for standard pipe from Brazil range from 50 percent to 122 percent.

B. Republic of Korea

The petitioners' estimate of United States price is based on two methods: (1) Export price quotes obtained from two Korean producers of standard pipe, and (2) the customs value of standard pipe imported into the United States from Korea during the second quarter of 1991.

The petitioners' estimate of FMV is based on actual transaction prices for welded standard pipe in Korea as reported in the Korean publication "Comprehensive Commodity Price Information (June 1991)." This publication lists the average FOB transaction price for standard pipe during May 1991.

Based on the comparisons of the prices presented by the petitioners, the alleged dumping margins for standard pipe from Korea range from 1.81 percent to 25.04 percent.

C. Mexico

The petitioners' estimate of United States price is based on two methods: (1) the average customs value of imported standard pipe during the second quarter of 1991, and (2) a Mexican standard pipe producer's third quarter 1991 export price quotes.

Petitioner's estimate of FMV is based on actual home market price quotations obtained from two Mexican producers of standard pipe. The petitioners made an adjustment to one company's prices for quantity discounts. We recalculated the alleged dumping margins based on the correction of a typographical error found in the calculation of the petitioners' FMV.

Based on the comparisons of the prices presented by the petitioners, the alleged dumping margins for standard pipe from Mexico range from 28.89 percent to 69.75 percent.

D. Romania

The petitioners, alleging that Romania is a non-market economy country (NME) within the meaning of section 773(c) of the Act, base the FMV on two methodologies: (1) valuation of factors of production for standard pipe in Mexico, and (2) valuation of factors of production for standard pipe in Yugoslavia. The petitioners believe that Mexico is the most appropriate surrogate for Romania since it is a significant producer of standard pipe and a country at a stage of economic development most comparable to that of Romania. We made adjustments to the valuation of factors of production for standard pipe in Mexico for a 10 percent import tariff refunded upon exportation of the subject merchandise.

For U.S. price, the petitioners used the average customs value of standard pipe imports from Romania for the second quarter of 1991 for two representative products.

Based on the comparisons of the prices presented by the petitioners, the alleged dumping margins for standard pipe from Romania range from 45 percent to 63 percent.

E. Taiwan

The petitioners' estimate of United States price is based on the following two methods (1) the re-sale price in the Untied States as quoted by service centers and importers, and (2) the average customs value for standard pipe over 114.3mm in outside diameter and over 1.65mm in wall thickness for the second quarter of 1991. The prices in method (1) were adjusted by the petitioners for freight, distributor mark-ups, import duties, port fees, and brokerage and handling fees to arrive at an ex-factory price. The petitioners made an adjustment to U.S. price in method (2) for the Taiwanese value-added tax in accordance with 19 CFR 353.41(d)(iii).

The petitioners' estimate of FMV is based on price quotations for various sizes and finishes of black standard pipe obtained from one producer of subject merchandise.

Based on a comparison of the prices presented by the petitioners, the alleged dumping margins range from 17.1 percent to 26.9 percent. A comparison of home market prices to ex-factory export prices results in alleged dumping margins ranging from 13.6 percent to 28.5 percent.

F. Venezuela

The petitioners' estimate of United States price is based on the average customs value of imported standard pipe during the second quarter of 1991.

The petitioners' estimate of FMV is based on actual home market price quotations from Venezuelan producers of standard pipe and from retail sellers of standard pipe in Venezuela. The petitioners adjusted, where appropriate, for quantity discounts, cash discounts, and distributor and retailer mark-ups.

Based on the comparisons of the prices presented by the petitioners, the alleged dumping margins for standard pipe from Venezuela range from 7.9 percent to 45 percent.

Initiation of Investigations

Under section 732(c) of the Act, the Department must determine, within 20 days after a petition is filed, whether the petition sets forth the allegations necessary for the initiation of an antidumping duty investigation, and whether the petition contains information reasonably available to the petitioner(s) supporting the allegations.

Pursuant to section 771(18) of the Act, and based on prior investigations, Romania is an NME. Parties will have the opportunity to comment on this issue and whether FMV should be based on prices or costs in the NME in the course of this investigation. The Department further presumes, based on the extent of central control in an NME, that a single antidumping duty margin is appropriate for all exporters. Only if NME exporters can demonstrate an absence of central government control with respect to the pricing of exports, both in law and in fact, will they be entitled to separate, company specific margins. (See, Final Determination of Sales at Less Than Fair Value: Sparklers from the People's Republic of China (56 FR 20588, May 6, 1991) for a discussion of the information the Department considers in this regard).

In accordance with section 773(c) of the Act, FMV in NME cases is based on NME producers' factors of production (valued in a market economy country). Absent evidence that the Romanian government has selected which factories produce for the United States, for purposes of the investigation we intend to base FMV only on those factories in Romania which produce the subject merchandise for export to the United States.

We have examined the petitions on standard pipe from Brazil, the Republic of Korea, Mexico, Romania, Taiwan, and Venezuela and have found that the petitions meet the requirements of section 732(b) of the Act. Therefore, in accordance with section 732 of the Act, we are initiating antidumping duty investigations to determine whether imports of standard pipe from the above-referenced countries are being, or are likely to be, sold in the United States at less than fair value. If our investigations proceed normally, we will make our preliminary determinations by March 2, 1992.

Scope of Investigations

A. Brazil, Republic of Korea, Mexico, Romania, and Venezuela

The merchandise subject to these investigations is circular welded non-alloy steel pipes and tubes, of circular cross-section, not more than 406.4mm (16 inches) in outside diameter, regardless of wall thickness, surface finish (black, galvanized, or painted), or end finish (plain end, bevelled end, threaded, or threaded and coupled). These pipes and tubes are generally known as standard pipe, though they may also be called structural or mechanical tubing in certain applications. Standard pipes and tubes are intended for the low pressure conveyance of water, steam, natural gas, air, and other liquids and gases in plumbing and heating systems, air conditioning units, automatic sprinkler systems, and other related uses. Standard pipe may also be used for light load-bearing and mechanical applications, such as for fence tubing.

Imports of these products are currently classifiable under the following Harmonized Tariff Schedule (HTS) subheadings: 7306.30.10 and 7306.30.50. Although the HTS subheadings are provided for convenience and customs purposes, our written description of the scope of these investigations is dispositive.

B. Taiwan

The merchandise subject to this investigation is (1) circular welded non-alloy steel pipes and tubes, of circular cross-section over 114.3mm (4.5 inches), but not over 406.4mm (16 inches), in outside diameter, with a wall thickness of 1.65mm (0.065 inches) or more, regardless of surface finish (black, galvanized, or painted), or end finish (plain end, bevelled end, threaded, or threaded and coupled), and (2) circular welded non-alloy steel pipes and tubes, of circular cross-section less than 406.4mm (16 inches), with a wall thickness less than 1.65mm (0.065 inches), regardless of surface finish (black, galvanized, or painted, or end finish (plain end, bevelled end, threaded, or threaded and coupled). These pipes and tubes are generally known as standard pipe, though they may also be called structural or mechanical tubing in certain applications. Standard pipes and tubes are intended for the low pressure conveyance of water, steam, natural gas, air, and other liquids and gases in plumbing and heating systems, air conditioning units, automatic sprinkler systems, and other related uses. Standard pipe may also be used for light load-bearing and mechanical applications, such as for fence tubing.

Imports of these products are currently classifiable under the following Harmonized Tariff Schedule (HTS) subheadings: 7306.30.10 and 7306.30.50. Although the HTS subheadings re provided for convenience and customs purposes, our written description of the scope of this investigation is dispositive.

Preliminary Determinations by ITC

The ITC will determine by November 8, 1991, whether there is a reasonable indication that imports of standard pipe from Brazil, the Republic of Korea, Mexico, Romania, Taiwan, and Venezuela are materially injuring, or threaten material injury to, a U.S. industry. If its determinations are negative, the investigations will be terminated. Otherwise, the Department will make its preliminary determinations on or before March 2, 1992.

This notice is published pursuant to section 732(c)(2) of the Act and 19 CFR 353.13(b).

INITIATION:

The Petition

On September 24, 1991, we received a petition in proper form filed by Allied Tube & Conduit Corporation, American Tube Company, Bull Moose Tube Company, Century Tube Corporation, Sawhill Tubular Division, Laclede Steel Company, Sharon Tube Company, Western Tube & Conduit Corporation, and Wheatland Tube Company on behalf of the United States industry producing circular welded non-alloy steel pipe ("standard pipe"). We received supplemental submissions from petitioners on October 11 and October 15, 1991. In accordance with section 355.12 of the Department's regulations (19 CFR 355.12 (1991)), the petitioners allege that producers or exporters of standard pipe in Brazil receive subsidies within the meaning of section 701 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (the Act), and that these imports are materially injuring, or threaten material injury to, the U.S. industry producing a like product.

Since Brazil is a "country under the Agreement" within the meaning of section 701(b) of the Act, title VII of the Act applies to this investigation, and the ITC is required to determine whether imports of the subject merchandise from Brazil materially injure, or threaten material injury to, the U.S. industry.

The petitioners have stated that they have standing to file the petition because they are interested parties, as defined in 19 CFR 355.2(i), and because they have filed the petition on behalf of the U.S. industry producing standard pipe. If any interested party, as described in 19 CFR 355.2(i) (3), (4), (5), or (6), wishes to register support for, or opposition to, this investigation, please file written notification with the Assistant Secretary for Import Administration, room B099, U.S. Department of Commerce, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20230.

Allegation of Subsidies

Petitioners list several practices by the Government of Brazil (GOB) which allegedly confer subsidies on producers or exporters of standard pipe in Brazil. Section 702(b) of the Act requires the Department to initiate a countervailing duty proceeding whenever an interested party files a petition, on behalf of an industry, that (1) alleges the elements necessary for the imposition of a duty under section 701(a), and (2) is accompanied by information reasonably available to the petitioner supporting the allegations. We are initiating an investigation of the following programs:

A. BEFIEX

B. FINEX Export Financing

C. PROEX

We are not initiating on the programs listed below because the requirements of section 701(a) of the Act were not fulfilled in the petition.

A. IPI Reduction/Elimination for Exports

Petitioners allege that the GOB has sought to decrease the IPI, an industrial production tax, for exporters. Petitioners provide a source which states that the 1988 Brazilian constitution provides that exporters pay a reduced IPI rate or are completely exempted. Petitioners do not allege that the reduction/exemption of this indirect tax is excessive, and therefore we are not initiating an investigation with respect to this program.

B. ICMS Reduction/Exemption for Exports

Petitioners allege that state governments have lowered the ICMS, a value-added tax, imposed on certain exports. Petitioners state that the federal government is pressuring the state governments, which administer and collect the tax, to lower the ICMS for exporters. The state government of Sao Paulo has waived the ICMS on some exports (e.g., fruit and flowers). According to a source supplied by petitioners, the 1988 Brazilian constitution contains a clause which provides that exporters pay a reduced ICMS rate or are completely exempted. Petitioners did not allege or provide evidence that standard pipe producers or exporters were also eligible for exemption and, if so, that any reduction/exemption of this indirect tax was excessive. Therefore, we are not initiating an investigation with respect to this program.

Allegation of Upstream Subsidies

Petitioners allege that subsidies are being provided to firms which supply hot-rolled steel coil for use as an input in the production of standard pipe. In order to initiate on an upstream subsidy allegation, the Department's regulations require that petitioner submit "factual information reasonably available" regarding the following: (1) Domestic subsidies that the government provides to the upstream supplier; (2) The competitive benefit the subsidies bestow upon the subject merchandise; and (3) The significant effect the subsidies have on the cost of producing the subject merchandise. 19 CFR 355.12(b)(8).

In this case, petitioners have alleged that three producers of hot-rolled steel coil in Brazil (Usinas Siderurgicas de Minas Gerais S.A. ("USIMINAS"), Cia. Siderurgica Nacional ("CSN"), and Cia. Siderurgica Paulista ("COSIPA")) supply this input to standard pipe producers in Brazil and that these three suppliers are the source of upstream subsidies for standard pipe producers. Petitioners have met the three criteria set forth above as described below.

(1) Domestic Subsidies

In order to satisfy the first criterion, petitioners have alleged that hot-rolled steel coil producers benefit from several programs which confer countervailable benefits. We have analyzed these programs in accordance with section 702(b) of the Act. We found seven of the programs alleged by the petitioners to meet the requirements under section 702(b) of the Act. Two programs alleged by petitioners did not meet those requirements. We have listed below the programs upon which we are initiating and described the two programs upon which we are not initiating.

(2) Competitive Benefit

For purposes of initiation, in determining whether a petitioner has provided sufficient evidence of competitive benefit, the Department will determine whether a petitioner has provided a reasonable basis to believe or suspect that: (1) the supplier of the input product controls the producer of the merchandise, the producer controls the supplier, or the supplier and the producer are both controlled by a third party (the Department does not consider common government ownership to constitute control); (2) the price for the input product is lower than the price which the producer otherwise would pay for the input in obtaining it from an unsubsidized seller in an arm's length transaction; or (3) the government sets the price of the input product so as to guarantee that the benefit provided with respect to the input product is passed through to producers of the subject merchandise. See e.g., Final Affirmative Countervailing Duty Determination; Certain Agricultural Tillage Tools From Brazil (50 FR 34525 (August 26, 1985)); Final Affirmative Countervailing Duty Determination; Steel Wheels from Brazil (54 FR 15523 (April 18, 1989)); see also § 355.45(b) of the Department's proposed substantive countervailing duty regulations (54 FR 23366, 23383 (May 31, 1989)).

Petitioners state that all Brazilian standard pipe producers are privately owned and no evidence is provided that suggests that standard pipe producers are owned by producers of the input product. Rather, petitioners provide evidence which alleges competitive benefit through both the "benchmark" and "government price control" thresholds listed above.

Petitioners state that all flat-rolled steel in Brazil is produced by subsidized steel companies. Therefore, no unsubsidized domestic benchmark price for hot-rolled steel coil is available. In lieu of a domestic benchmark, petitioners have provided published trade reports which indicate that the Brazilian domestic price for hot-rolled steel coil is as much as 30 percent less than the world price. Petitioners were unable to obtain price lists for 1990. Referring to GOB price controls, petitioners note that in the USIMINAS prospectus, the GOB stated its intention to liberalize steel prices so as to allow the price of Brazilian flat-rolled steel to become compatible with international prices, a statement which supports the claim that Brazilian domestic prices are lower than world prices and thereby confer a competitive benefit. The GOB imposed formal price controls, which were administered by the Conselho Interministerial de Precos, until 1989. After that time, according to petitioners, the Brazilian government used informal administrative and regulatory mechanisms to control the price of steel. The Brazilian government reinstituted formal price controls in 1991.

(3) Significant Effect

The Department considers that subsidies to the upstream supplier may have a significant effect if the ad valorem subsidy rate on the input product multiplied by the proportion of the total production costs of the merchandise accounted for by the input product is equal to, or greater than, one percent. See e.g. Final Affirmative Countervailing Duty Determination; Certain Agricultural Tillage Tools From Brazil (50 FR 34525 (August 26, 1985)); Final Affirmative Countervailing Duty Determination; Steel Wheels From Brazil (54 FR 15523 (April 18, 1989)); see also section 355.45(b) of the Department's proposed substantive countervailing duty regulations (54 FR 23366, 23383 (May 31, 1989)).

In this instance, petitioners have provided calculations with respect to the benefits received by USIMINAS, CSN and COSIPA from equity infusions alleged to be inconsistent with commercial considerations. The alleged benefits range from 7.92 to 46.67 percent. Petitioners additionally allege that the input accounts for 75 percent of the cost of producing standard pipe. Therefore, because the resultant benefit exceeds one percent, petitioners have provided information sufficient to support a claim of significant effect.

We are initiating this upstream investigation only with respect to the following programs for which petitioners provided a proper subsidy allegation.

A. Government Equity Infusions

B. Government Provision of Operating Capital

C. Benefits Conferred Under the SIDERBRAS Restructuring Program

D. Fiscal Benefits by Virtue of a Project Approved by CDI

E. IPI Incentives

F. Long-Term Loan Guarantees

G. Government Privatization Assistance

(1) Transfer of Ownership of USIMINAS MECANICA to USIMINAS

(2) Debt Buy-Back

We are not initiating an upstream subsidy investigation with respect to the following programs which petitioner alleges constitute countervailable domestic subsidies: (1) Preferential Provision of Electricity and Loans by Eletrobras, and (2) Government Privatization Assistance, Conversion of Debt Instruments to Stock in USIMINAS. The elements which must be alleged for a domestic subsidy program for purposes of initiation are: (1) specificity (i.e., the program is limited to a specific enterprise or industry or group of enterprises or industries) and (2) provision of a benefit (i.e., a subsidy is paid or bestowed directly or indirectly on the manufacturer, producer, or exporter of any class or kind of merchandise). We are not initiating on these programs because the requirements of section 702(b) of the Act were not fulfilled in the petition.

A. Preferential Provision of Electricity and Loans by Eletrobras

Petitioners allege that Eletrobras, the Brazilian state-owned utility company, provides electricity to USIMINAS, CSN and COSIPA without remuneration. Petitioners further allege that a portion of the unpaid amounts have been converted into long-term loans and equity in the companies. Petitioners provide selected pages from each company's financial statements which appear to list these loans and notes that Electrobras is converting some of the debt into shares of CSN. Petitioners allege that insofar as these loans are not being repaid or that the terms are preferential, these loans constitute a countervailable subsidy. In addition, petitioners allege that insofar that CSN is unequityworthy, the conversion of debt into shares of that company also constitutes a countervailable subsidy.

The Department has carefully analyzed this allegation and has concluded that the loans referred to by petitioners are loans from the three steel companies to Eletrobras. In the verification report from the countervailing duty investigation of Silicon Metal From Brazil (56 FR 26988, June 12, 1991), the Department noted that all electricity consumers are obligated to extend loans to Eletrobras and that, after a number of years, these loans typically are converted into shares of Eletrobras. The documents supplied to the Department in this petition appear to support the same conclusion in this case. Thus, it appears that the facts are the reverse of those alleged by petitioners. Absent further information from petitioners concerning this program which satisfies the standards for initiation of an investigation, we are not initiating an investigation with respect to the use of this program by upstream suppliers.

B. Government Privatization Assistance

Conversion of Debt Instruments to Stock in USIMINAS

Petitioners allege that the GOB has announced that it will permit foreign entities to use overdue promissory notes issued by the GOB and dishonored SIDERBRAS debentures to buy USIMINAS stock. Since petitioners have not delineated how this action confers a benefit to USIMINAS or SIDERBRAS, we are not initiating an investigation with respect to potential benefits provided to upstream suppliers under this program.

Initiation of Investigation

Under 19 CFR 355.13(a), the Department must determine, within 20 days after a petition is filed, whether the petition properly alleges the bases on which a countervailing duty may be imposed under section 701 of the Act, and whether the petition contains information reasonably available to the petitioner supporting the allegations. We have examined the petition on standard pipe from Brazil and find that it meets the requirements of 19 CFR 355.13(a). Therefore, we are initiating a countervailing duty investigation to determine whether Brazilian producers or exporters of standard pipe receive subsidies.

Scope of Investigation

The merchandise subject to this investigation is circular welded non-alloy steel pipe and tubes, of circular cross section, not more than 406.4mm (16 inches) in outside diameter, regardless of wall thickness, surface finish (black, galvanized, or painted), or end finish (plain end, bevelled end, threaded, or threaded and coupled). These pipes and tubes are generally known as standard pipe, though they may also be called structural or mechanical tubing in certain applications. Standard pipes and tubes are intended for the low pressure conveyance of water, steam, natural gas, air, and other liquids and gases in plumbing and heating systems, air conditioning units, automatic sprinkler systems, and other related uses. Standard pipe may also be used for light load-bearing and mechanical applications, such as for fence tubing. Imports of these products are currently classifiable under the following Harmonized Tariff Schedule (HTS) subheadings: 7306.30.10 and 7306.30.50. Although the HTS subheadings are provided for convenience and customs purposes, our written description of the scope of this proceeding is dispositive.

Preliminary Determination by ITC

The ITC will determine by November 8, 1991, whether there is a reasonable indication that imports of standard pipe from Brazil are materially injuring, or threaten material injury to, a U.S. industry. If its determination is negative, the investigation will be terminated. If affirmative, the Department will make its preliminary determination on or before June 2, 1992, in accordance with 19 CFR 355.15(d)(2) of the Department's regulations, unless the investigation is terminated pursuant to 19 CFR 355.17 or the preliminary determination is extended pursuant to 19 CFR 355.15 (b) or (c).

This determination is published pursuant to section 702(c) of the Act (19 U.S.C. 1671a(b)).

Dated: October 15, 1991.

Assistant Secretary for Import Administration.

Notice of Initiation of Countervailing Duty Investigation: Certain Welded Non-Alloy Steel Pipe from Venezuela

AGENCY: Import Administration, International Trade Administration, Commerce.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 21, 1991.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Elizabeth A. Graham or Lawrence P. Sullivan, Office of Countervailing Investigations, Import Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, room B099, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20230; telephone (202) 377-4105 or 377-0114.

INITIATION:

On September 24, 1991, we received a petition in proper form filed by the Allied Tube & Conduit Corporation, American Tube Company, Bull Moose Tube Company, Century Tube Corporation, Sawhill Tubular Division, Laclede Steel Company, Sharon Tube Company, Western Tube & Conduit Corporation, and Wheatland Tube Company on behalf of the United States industry producing circular welded non-alloy steel pipe ("standard pipe"). We received supplemental submissions from petitioners on October 11 and October 15, 1991. In accordance with 19 CFR 355.12, the petitioners allege that manufacturers, producers or exporters of standard pipe in Venezuela receive bounties or grants within the meaning of section 701 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended ("the Act"). In past countervailing duty investigations, Venezuela was considered to be a "country under the Agreement" within the meaning of section 701(b)(3) of the Act. As such, Title VII of the Act applied in those investigations, and the U.S. International Trade Commission (ITC) was required to determine whether imports of the subject merchandise from Venezuela are materially injuring, or threatened material injury to, a U.S. industry before countervailing duties could be imposed.

On August 31, 1990, Venezuela became a contracting party to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade ("GATT"). Since qualification as a "country under the Agreement" under section 701(b)(3) requires that the GATT not apply between the United States and the country from which the subject merchandise is imported, Venezuela is no longer eligible for treatment as a "country under the Agreement" within the meaning of section 701(b)(3). Therefore, the ITC is not required to determine whether, pursuant to section 303(a)(2), imports of such merchandise from Venezuela materially injure, or threaten material injury to, a U.S. industry.

The petitioners have stated that they have standing to file the petition because they are interested parties, as defined in 19 CFR 355.2(i), and because they have filed the petition on behalf of the U.S. industry producing steel pipe. If any interested party, as described in 19 CFR 355.2(i) (3), (4), (5), or (6), wishes to register support for, or opposition to, this investigation, please file written notification with the Assistant Secretary for Import Administration, room B099, U.S. Department of Commerce, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20230.

Allegations of Bounties or Grants

Petitioners list a number of practices by the Government of Venezuela which allegedly confer bounties or grants on manufacturers, producers or exporters of steel pipe. We are initiating an investigation of the following programs.

A. Export Bond Program

B. Short-term FINEXPO Financing

C. Preferential FINEXPO Financing

D. Excessive Tariff Drawback

E. Preferential Finance Company of Venezuela Loans

F. Provision of Preferential Pricing on Raw Materials for Export

We are not initiating an investigation on the provision of preferential loans and equity infusions to Siderpro. Section 702(b) of the Act requires the Department to initiate a countervailing duty proceeding whenever an interested party files a petition, on behalf of an industry, that (1) alleges the elements necessary for the imposition of a duty under section 701(a), and (2) is accompanied by information reasonably available to the petitioners supporting their allegations. The program listed above was alleged to confer domestic subsides. The elements which must be alleged for a domestic subsidy program are: (1) specificity, (i.e., the program is limited to a specific enterprise or industry or group of enterprises or industries) and (2) provision of a benefit (i.e., a subsidy is paid or bestowed directly or indirectly on the manufacturer, producer, or exporter of any class or kind of merchandise). We are not initiating on this program, as petitioners have not provided adequate documentation to support their allegation that Siderpro received loans or equity infusions on terms inconsistent with commercial considerations.

Allegation of Upstream Subsidies

Petitioners allege that subsidies are being provided to firms which supply hot-rolled steel coil for use in the production of standard pipe. In order for the Department to initiate an upstream subsidy investigation, the Department's regulations require that petitioner submit "factual information reasonably available" as follows: (1) A countervailable subsidy must be given to the upstream supplier, (2) A competitive benefit must exist, and (3) The subsidies must have a significant effect on the cost of producing the subject merchandise. 19 CFR 355.12(b)(8).

In this case, petitioners have alleged that SIDOR, the only producer of hot-rolled steel coil in Venezuela, supplies this input to standard pipe producers in Venezuela and that SIDOR benefits from subsidies, the benefits of which are passed on to standard pipe producers. Petitioners have met the criteria set forth above as described below.

(1) Domestic Bounties or Grants

In order to satisfy the first criterion, petitioners have alleged that hot-rolled steel coil producers benefit from nine programs which confer countervailable benefits. We have analyzed these programs according to the criteria outlined in 702(b). We found all nine of the programs alleged by petitioners to meet the requirements under section 702(b) of the Act.

(2) Competitive Benefit

For purposes of initiation, in determining whether a petitioner has provided sufficient evidence of a competitive benefit, the Department will determine whether petitioner has provided a reasonable basis to believe or suspect that: (1) The supplier of the input product controls the producer of the merchandise, the producer controls the supplier, or the supplier and the producer are both controlled by a third party (the Department does not consider common government ownership to constitute control); (2) The price for the input product is lower than the price which the producer otherwise would pay for the input in obtaining it from an unsubsidized seller in an arm's length transaction; or (3) The government sets the price of the input product so as to guarantee that the benefit provided with respect to the input product is passed through to producers of the subject merchandise. See e.g., Final Affirmative Countervailing Duty Determination: Certain Agricultural Tillage Tools From Brazil (50 FR 34525 (August 26, 1985)); Final Affirmative Countervailing Duty Determination: Steel Wheels from Brazil, (54 FR 15523 (April 18, 1989)); see also § 355.45(b) of the Department's proposed substantive countervailing duty regulations (54 FR 23366, 23383 (May 31, 1989)).

Petitioners compared the price of Venezuelan hot-rolled steel coil in 1991 to the CIF value per short ton of United States imports of hot-rolled coil from Korea in 1991. For purposes of analysis, petitioners adjusted the base price of Venezuelan hot-rolled coil for extras and discounts that apply. On this basis, the Venezuelan price of hot-rolled coil is lower than the Korean benchmark.

(3) Significant Effect

The Department considers that subsidies to the upstream supplier may have a significant effect if the ad volorem subsidy rate on the input product multiplied by the proportion of the total production costs of the merchandise accounted for by the input product is equal to, or greater than, one percent. See, e.g., Final Affirmative Countervailing Duty Determination: Certain Agricultural Tillage Tools From Brazil (50 FR 34525 (August 26, 1985)); Final Affirmative Countervailing Duty Determination: Steel Wheels from Brazil (54 FR 15523 (April 18, 1989)); see also section 355.45(b) of the Department's proposed substantive countervailing duty regulations (54 FR 23366, 23383 (May 31, 1989)).

In this instance, petitioners have provided calculations with respect to the benefits received by SIDOR from equity infusions, a GOV cash transfer for inflation and the GOV's assumption of SIDOR debt alleged to be inconsistent with commercial considerations. The alleged benefits equal 18.68 percent. Petitioners additionally allege that the input accounts for 75 percent of the cost of producing standard pipe. Therefore, petitioners have provided information sufficient to support a claim of significant effect.

We are initiating this upstream investigation with respect to the following programs for which petitioners provided a proper bounty or grant allegation.

A. Government Equity Infusions

B. Preferential Government Credit

C. Payments to Cover Debt Service Costs

D. Preferential Tax Incentives Decree 147

E. Preferential Loan Guarantees

F. Sales Tax Exemptions

G. Preferential Energy Rates

H. Assumption of Debt by the GOV

I. Preferential FIVCA Loans

Initiation of Investigation

Under 19 CFR 355.13(a), the Department must determine, within 20 days after a petition is filed, whether the petition properly alleges the basis on which a countervailing duty may be imposed under section 303 of the Act, and whether the petition contains information reasonably available to the petitioner supporting the allegations. We have examined the petition on steel pipe from Venezuela and find that it meets the requirements of 19 CFR 355.13(a).

Therefore, we are initiating a countervailing duty investigation to determine whether Venezuelan producers or exporters of standard pipe receive bounties or grants. In accordance with 19 CFR 355.15(d)(2) of the Department's regulations, the Department will make its preliminary determination on or before June 2, 1992, unless the investigation is terminated pursuant to 19 CFR 355.17 (a) or (b) or the preliminary determination is extended pursuant to 19 CFR 355.15 (b) or (c).

Scope of Investigation

The merchandise subject to this investigation is circular welded non-alloy steel pipe and tubes, of circular cross-section, not more than 406.4mm (16 inches) in outside diameter, regardless of wall thickness, surface finish (black, galvanized, or painted), or end finish (plain end, bevelled end, threaded, or threaded and coupled). These pipes and tubes are generally known as standard pipe, though they may also be called structural or mechanical tubing in certain applications. Standard pipes and tubes are intended for the low pressure conveyance of water, steam, natural gas, air, and other liquids and gases in plumbing and heating systems, air conditioning units, automatic sprinkler systems, and other related uses. Standard pipe may also be used for light load-bearing and mechanical applications, such as for fence tubing. Imports of these products are currently classifiable under the following Harmonized Tariff Schedule (HTS) subheadings: 7306.30.10 and 7306.30.50. Although the HTS subheadings are provided for convenience and customs purposes, our written description of the scope of this proceeding is dispositive.

This determination is published pursuant to section 702(c) of the Act (19 U.S.C. 1671a(b)).

Evaluation of State Coastal Management Programs

AGENCY: Office of Ocean and Coastal Resource Management, National Ocean Service, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of availability of evaluation findings.

SUMMARY: Notice is hereby given of the availability of the evaluation findings for the American Samoa, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, Puerto Rico, and New York State coastal management programs. Section 312 of the Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972 (CZMA), as amended, requires a continuing review of the performance of coastal states with respect to coastal management.

The Territory of American Samoa, States of Louisiana and New York, and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania were found to be implementing and enforcing their Federally approved coastal management programs, addressing the national coastal management objectives identified in CZMA section 303(2)(A)-(K), and adhering to the programmatic terms of their financial assistance awards. The Commonwealth of Puerto Rico was found not fully adhering to its approved coastal management program. Implementation of several recommendations listed in the findings will bring Puerto Rico's program back into satisfactory adherence.

Copies of these findings may be obtained upon request from: Vickie Allin, Chief, Policy Coordination Division, Office of Ocean and Coastal Resource Management, NOS/NOAA, 1825 Connecticut Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20235, (202) 606–4100.

Evaluation of State Coastal Management Programs and National Estuarine Research Reserves

AGENCY: Office of Ocean and Coastal Resource Management, National Ocean Service, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of intent to evaluate.

SUMMARY: The NOAA Office of Ocean and Coastal Resource Management (OCRM) announces its intent to evaluate the performance of the Florida and Wisconsin coastal management programs (CMPs) and the South Slough National Estuarine Research Reserve (NERR) in Oregon.

These evaluations will be conducted pursuant to section 312 of the Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972 (CZMA), as amended. The CZMA requires a continuing review of the performance of coastal states with respect to coastal management and the operation and management of NERRs. Evaluation of a CMP requires findings concerning the extent to which a state has implemented and enforced the management program approved by the Secretary of Commerce, addressed the coastal management needs identified in CZMA section 303(2)(A) through (K), and adhered to the terms of financial assistance awards funded under the CZMA. Evaluation of an estuarine reserve requires findings pertaining to a state's implementation of its federally approved NERR management plan, and adherence to the terms of financial assistance awards funded under the CZMA. These reviews include a site visit, consideration of public comments, and consultations with interested Federal, state, and local agencies and members of the public. A public meeting(s) is held as part of the site visit.

Notice is hereby given of the dates of the site visit for listed evaluations, and the date, local time, and location of a public meeting(s) during the site visit:

BILLING CODE 3510-DR-F

COMMODITY FUTURES TRADING COMMISSION

Chicago Mercantile Exchange: Proposed Amendments Relating to Quality Standards and Quality and Locational Price Differentials for the Pork Bellies Futures Contract

AGENCY: Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

ACTION: Notice of proposed contract market rule changes.

SUMMARY: The Chicago Mercantile Exchange (CME) has submitted proposed amendments to its pork bellies futures contract that will change the quality standards and the quality and locational price differentials for deliveries made on this futures contract. The amendments will apply to all futures contract months beginning with the February 1993 contract month. In accordance with section 5a(12) of the Commodity Exchange Act and acting pursuant to the authority delegated by Commission Regulation 140.96, the Director of the Division of Economic Analysis (Division) of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (Commission) has determined, on behalf of the Commission, that the proposed amendments are of major economic significance. On behalf of the Commission, the Division is requesting comment on this proposal.

DATES: Comments must be received on or before November 20, 1991.

ADDRESSES: Interested persons should submit their views and comments to Jean A. Webb, Secretary, Commodity Futures Trading Commission, 2033 K Street, NW., Washington, DC 20581. Reference should be made to the proposed changes in quality standards and quality and locational price differentials for the CME pork bellies futures contract.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Frederick V. Linse, Division of Economic Analysis, Commodity Futures Trading Commission, 2033 K Street, NW., Washington, DC 20581, telephone (202) 254–7303.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The pork bellies futures contract currently provides for the par delivery of 40,000 pounds of either 12 to 14 or 14 to 16 pound frozen pork bellies with 75 or fewer minor defect equivalents. The contract's existing rules provide for delivery at par at Exchange-licensed warehouses located in Chicago, Illinois, with delivery at locations outside of Chicago being permitted at allowances specified by the Exchange. In this respect, in addition to Exchange-licensed warehouses located in Chicago, the Exchange currently permits delivery at par in all currently licensed warehouses located in the United States that lie east of the greater Chicago metropolitan area.[1] The contract allows pork bellies to be delivered in store at Exchange-licensed plants located west of Chicago at specified discounts.[2]

With respect to the quality standards, the futures contract allows delivery of pork bellies with minor defect equivalents exceeding 75, but no greater than 190, at specified discounts. The contract also specifies a schedule of defects which defines in detail the characteristics of pork bellies which constitute quality defects.

The Exchange proposes amendments to its quality standards and the quality and locational price differentials. The major features of these amendments are:

(1) Revise the par delivery area to include all warehouse locations lying east of the western boundaries of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas. One effect of this proposal is that, of the existing licensed warehouses, only the Colorado warehouse will remain outside the par delivery area; all others will be par delivery locations.

(2) Change the par quality specification from a lot of pork bellies with 75 or less minor defects in the inspection sample to one with 100 or less minor defects in the inspection sample;

(3) Increase the maximum number of minor defects allowed in a delivery unit to 300 from 190;

(4) Modify certain requirements on belly conformation and workmanship listed in the contract's "schedule of defects."

(5) Increase to eight from four the maximum number of minor defects or minor defect equivalents that can be scored against any one belly in the inspection sample; and

(6) Revise the schedule of quality price differentials as shown in the table below.

Minor defect equivalents	Current discount (cents per pound)	Proposed discount (cents per pound)
76 to 100	.50	0
101 to 125	1.00	.50
126 to 150	1.50	1.00
151 to 175	2.00	1.50
176 to 200	2.50	2.00
	(190 defects max.)
201 to 225	Not deliverable	2.75
226 to 250	do	3.50
251 to 275	do	4.25
276 to 300	do	5.00

In support of the proposed amendments to the contract's locational provisions, the Exchange states that the proposal will expand the par delivery area to include the region in which the bulk of the hogs are produced and slaughtered, the bulk of the bacon is believed to be sliced, and the bulk of the approved warehouses are located. The Exchange further states that the proposed amendments "will bring the futures price basis into closer alignment with the Midwest River, Omaha price basis used by the cash market."

In support of the proposed amendments to the quality standards and quality price differentials, the Exchange states that the proposed terms have been adopted with the objective of producing a net increase in potential deliverable supply by better discriminating among pork bellies on the basis of bacon yield, and by providing for their delivery at relative values common in the cash market. The Exchange also states that, according to the consensus of industry testimony, the proposed quality discount range of five cents per pound is based on the commonly observed cash-market price spread between high yield pork bellies and pork bellies at the lower end of the quality range currently deliverable. The Exchange also indicates that the structure of the proposed schedule of quality discounts reflects the nature of #1 bacon yield which decreases at an increasing rate as the number of defects increase.

The Commission is seeking comment on the proposed amendments noted above. In particular, the Commission is requesting comment on the extent to which the par delivery specification reflects cash market price differences for all potential delivery locations in the revised par delivery area. In addition, the Commission is requesting comment on the extent to which the proposed modifications to the futures contract's schedule of price discounts for the specified levels of minor defects reflect cash market pricing relationships.

Copies of the proposed amendments will be available for inspection at the Office of the Secretariat, Commodity Futures Trading Commission, at the above address. Copies of the amended terms and conditions can be obtained through the Office of the Secretariat by mail at the same address or by telephone at (202) 254–6314.

The materials submitted by the CME in support of the proposed amendments may be available upon request pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) and the Commission's regulations thereunder (17 CFR part 145 (1987)). Requests for copies of such materials should be made to the FOI, Privacy and Sunshine Act Compliance Staff of the Office of the Secretariat at the above address in accordance with 17 CFR 145.7 and 145.8.

Any person interested in submitting written data, views, or arguments on the proposed amendments should send such comments to Jean A. Webb, Secretary, Commodity Futures Trading Commission, at the above address by the specified date.

[1] Currently, there are a total of 14 Exchange-licensed warehouses that are either located in Chicago or east of the greater Chicago metropolitan area. These warehouses, all of which are eligible for delivery at par on the futures contract, include 7 Exchange-licensed warehouses located in Illinois (6 of these 7 Illinois warehouses are located in Chicago), 2 in Indiana, and 1 each in Maryland, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

[2] Licensed warehouses that are not eligible for par delivery currently number 19 in Iowa, 2 in Kansas, 6 in Minnesota, 4 in Missouri, 6 in Nebraska, 1 in Oklahoma, and 1 in South Dakota, all at a 75 cents per pound discount, and 1 warehouse in Colorado at a $1 per pound discount.

Issued in Washington, DC on October 15, 1991.

Gerald Gay,

Director, Division of Economic Analysis.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

Floodplain Involvement Notification for Environmental Restoration Activities at the Department of Energy Kansas City Plant Located in Kansas City, MO

AGENCY: U.S. Department of Energy (DOE).

ACTION: Notice of Floodplain Involvement.

SUMMARY: Regulations at 10 CFR Part 1022 require DOE to evaluate actions it may take in a floodplain, in order to ensure consideration of protection of the floodplain in decisionmaking. As soon as practicable after a determination that a floodplain may be involved, the regulations require that public notice be published in the Federal Register, including a description of the proposed action and its location. DOE proposes several corrective actions related to the Environmental Restoration Program at the DOE Kansas City Plant (KCP), which is located in a floodplain. Many of the beneficial characteristics of floodplains have been lost through construction of buildings, parking lots, and flood-control levees. The proposed actions include: (1) a series of site investigations through the Resource Conservation and recovery Act (RCRA) Facility Investigation (RFI) Process to determine the presence or absence of contamination, the vertical and horizontal extent of contamination, and risks to human health and the environment; (2) interim measure groundwater treatment that consists of pumping and treating contaminated groundwater to contain and remediate contaminated groundwater plumes; (3) interim measure actions at the Department 27 Outside site to remove shallow soil Polychlorinated Biphenyls (PCB) contamination; (4) remediation of deep PCB-contaminated soil from the Abandoned Indian Creek Outfall site; and (5) future interim and final remedial actions that will be required to be conducted under the RCRA 3008(h) Administrative Order on Consent. All of these activities could involve the disturbance of floodplain areas along the Blue River or Indian Creek, but there are not expected to be any wetlands disturbed by these actions. The alternatives considered will, to the extent possible, avoid or mitigate impacts to the floodplain.

Additional information and figures depicting all potentially disturbed floodplain areas for the proposed activities are available from DOE at the first address shown below. Floodplain assessments for all future interim and final remedial actions at the KCP will be included with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) documentation for the respective action. The Floodplain Statement of Findings for each proposed remedial action will be published in the Federal Register when the floodplain assessment is completed.

DATES: Comments must be received by November 5, 1991.

ADDRESSES: Comments may be sent to: P.T. Hoopes, Chief, ES&H Branch, Kansas City Area Office, U.S. Department of Energy, P.O. Box 410202, Kansas City, Missouri 64141–0202, Fax comments to (816) 997–7310.

For further information on floodplain environmental review requirements, contact: Carol M. Borgstrom, Director, Office of NEPA Oversight, U.S. Department of Energy, 1000 Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, DC 20585.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Proposed Actions Include:

I. RCRA Facility Investigations

Proposed studies to characterize the environmental setting of groundwater, surface water, sediment, and soil at the KCP would be conducted under the KCP's RCRA 3008(h) Administrative Order on Consent. The purpose of these investigations is to determine the extent of contamination at the risks to human health and the environment. The information gathered would be used in designing interim and final remedial actions for each contaminated site. Common contaminants at the KCP include PCBs in the soil and trichlorethylene, dichloroethylene, and vinyl chloride in the groundwater. These investigations are anticipated to consist of drilling through the soil for the purposes of collecting soil samples and to allow installation of groundwater monitoring wells. All field work would be conducted in accordance with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) approved work plans and summarized in a final report which also receives EPA approval. The proposed actions would install groundwater monitoring wells, obtain soil borings, and characterize the contamination at nine operable units.

The following actions are proposed for fiscal years 1991–1995: installation of approximately 75 monitoring wells including single, double, test, and observation types; drilling of approximately 180 soil borings; and obtaining of approximately 175 groundwater, 16 sediment, and about 1,000 soil samples. Drill holes would be grouted and the top 2 feet would be covered with native soil.

II. Interim Measure Groundwater Treatment

The KCP installed an ultraviolet/ozone/hydrogen peroxide groundwater treatment system in 1987. This existing treatment system would continue to be used to treat contaminated groundwater from the Northeast Area and Trichloroethylene (TCE) Still Area groundwater plumes. The Northeast Area groundwater recovery system consists of four groundwater production wells and one groundwater interceptor trench. The TCE Still Area has seven groundwater production wells. Each production well produces 2 gallons per minute (gpm) while the interceptor trench produces 5 gpm of groundwater. Groundwater is introduced to the reaction chamber of the treatment system where hydrogen peroxide is added. Ozone is bubbled through the water as it passes by ultraviolet lights. The treated water is then passed through two carbon canisters which act as a final polish to remove the last traces of contamination from the water. The water is then discharged to the sanitary sewer system under a discharge permit from the city.

III. Interim Measures at Department 27 Outside

The Department 27 Outside area is the site of the heat transfer system which served Department 27. This system, which has been removed, was filled with a PCB fluid. Years of operation resulted in numerous releases which contaminated the surrounding soil. When the system was removed along with two underground tanks, most of the contamination was also removed. Follow-up sampling revealed, however, that some minor shallow contamination remains at the site. The contamination level is up to 70 parts per million (ppm) PCB. The cleanup standard is 10 ppm PCB. An area of approximately 300 square feet of soil would be excavated to a depth of approximately 6 feet to achieve compliance with this standard.

IV. Abandoned Indian Creek Outfall Site

This site is the former location of a storm sewer outfall to Indian Creek. The outfall was moved when the creek channel was straightened and the former outfall was abandoned. Releases from the KCP to the storm sewer prior to this action led to PCB contamination of soil and sediments surrounding the outfall. Soil excavation is planned to remove the PCB contamination to a 10 ppm level. Approximately 11,400 cubic yards of soil with PCB levels exceeding 9,000 ppm in some areas would be excavated and landfilled off-site. Excavation would be to bedrock over most of the site. Work is estimated to take 4 months for completion.

V. Future Interim and Final Remedial Actions

Interim and final remedial actions will need to be conducted at the KCP based on the results of the RFIs being conducted. These actions may consist of in-situ treatment, bioremediation, groundwater treatment, various soil treatments, or soil excavation. Floodplain assessments for these actions will be included with the NEPA documentation for the respective project. The Statement of Findings will be published in the Federal Register when the floodplain assessment is completed.

[Docket No. CP92-67-000]

October 11, 1991

Take notice that on October 8, 1991, Peoples Gas System, Inc. (Peoples Gas), P.O. Box 2562, 111 Madison Street, Tampa, Florida, 33601, filed in Docket No. CP92-67-000 a complaint pursuant to Rule 206 of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission's Rules of Practice and procedure against Florida Gas Transmission Company (FGT), 1400 Smith Street, Houston, Texas 77002, in connection with FGT's method of allocating proposed Phase III expansion capacity; all as more fully set forth in the complaint which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Specifically, Peoples Gas alleges that FGT's capacity allocation procedures: (1) Are unduly discriminatory; (2) contravene the Commission's Phase II Settlement orders establishing FGT's Firm Service Log and the Commission's May 31, 1991, order establishing service request revalidation procedures; (3) violate first-come, first-served principles; and (4) are not permitted by FGT's existing tariff.

Peoples Gas states that it was an active participant in the proceedings in Docket Nos. RP89–50, et al., that led to a reallocation of FGT's then existing capacity (Phase I capacity) and an allocation of an additional 100,000 Mcf per day expansion (Phase II capacity). Peoples Gas also states that it has unsatisfied requests for Phase II capacity with an April 14, 1989, priority date on FGT's Firm Service Log, and that it also has submitted requests for additional capacity in FGT's December 19, 1990, Phase III open season.

Peoples Gas states that FGT's proposed Phase III expansion project would increase capacity to FGT's market area by 875,000 Mcf per day in the summer and 775,000 Mcf per day in the winter.[1] Peoples Gas states that FGT proposes to render service through these facilities under a profoma Rate Schedule FTS–2, which has not yet been filed with the Commission, and that FGT has tendered FTS–2 Service Agreements to potential Phase III shippers for execution within 30 days of receipt.

Peoples Gas alleges that FGT will use a two-tier allocation methodology to allocate Phase III capacity. The first priority would be given to annual nominations ranked by the term of the agreement. The second priority would be given to those nominations of more capacity in one season than another. Such nominations would be separated into winter peak and summer peak nominations, and ranked within each season according to the present value of such nominations to FGT. Peoples Gas also alleges that FGT will not longer use the April or October seasons in the allocation of its capacity, but will instead use a winter season of November 1 though April 30 and a summer season of May 1 through October 31.

Peoples Gas complains that FGT is required by the terms of its existing tariff and the Commission's previous order to allocate new capacity on the basis of priority dates on FGT's Firm Service Log. Peoples Gas also states that customers with unsatisfied requests for Phase II service should have the highest priority date of April 14, 1989 on FGT's log, and that the customers who revalidated these requests should have priority for Phase III service. Peoples Gas also complains that FGT's Phase III capacity allocation procedures have resulted in some customers submitting nominations for additional Phase III service after the close of the open season and that these nominations, if honored by FGT, would adversely affect Peoples Gas' Phase III nominations with a priority date of December 19, 1990, on FGT's log.

Peoples Gas requests that the Commission: (1) Immediately order that FGT use Section 14.1 of the General Terms and Conditions of it existing FERC Gas Tariff, and the priority dates on the Firm Service Log, in allocating any new capacity on FGT's system, including Phase III capacity; (2) alternatively, immediately issue an order, requiring FGT, if its seeks to deviate from the provisions of its existing tariff in allocation Phase III capacity, to file for and obtain approval of new tariff sheets incorporating the proposed capacity allocation procedures, and thereafter conduct a new Phase III open season, allocation or other approved procedure; (3) pending resolution of the complaint, immediately order FGT to suspend indefinitely the deadline for shippers to execute Phase III Service Agreements pursuant to FGT's pro forma Rate Schedule FTS–2; and (4) adopt a shortened notice, intervention, and reply procedures to permit emergency action to be taken on this complaint prior to October 28, 1991.

Peoples Gas states that a copy of this complaint has been served on FGT. Pursuant to the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 385.206), unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, any respondent to a complaint must file an answer with the Commission.

Any person desiring to be heard or to participate in this proceeding should on or before October 18, 1991, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington DC 20426, a motion to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 385.214 or 385.211) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a motion to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules. Answers to the complaint shall be due on or before October 18, 1991.

Introduction of Genetically Engineered Pesticide Tolerant Plant Species into the Environment; Response to Citizens' Petition AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: This notice announces EPA's denial of a petition filed on July 17, 1991, by Henry Gluckstern under section 21 of the Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA) (15 U.S.C. 2620). The petitioner requests that EPA use its authority under TSCA to control increased pesticide use which the petitioner believes will result from the introduction into the environment of genetically engineered pesticide tolerant plants that are permitted by the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA). EPA has determined that TSCA regulations are not necessary because other Federal laws provide adequate authority to protect against the potential risks identified by the petitioner.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: David Kling, Acting Director, Environmental Assistance Division (TS–799), Office of Toxic Substances, Environmental Protection Agency, Rm. EB–44, 401 M St., SW., Washington, DC 20460, (202) 554–1404, TDD: (202) 554–0551.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Authority

Under section 21(a) of TSCA, any citizen may petition EPA to initiate a proceeding for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of a rule under section 4 (chemical testing rules), section 6 (regulatory control rules), or section 8 (information reporting or retention rules) of TSCA. Section 21 also authorizes a petitioner to request the issuance, amendment, or repeal of orders under TSCA section 5(e) (orders affecting new chemical substances and substances produced for significant new uses) or TSCA section 6(b)(2) (orders affecting quality control procedures). The petitioner must set forth the facts which he/she claims establish that it is necessary for the Agency to issue, amend, or repeal a rule or order under one of the specified sections of TSCA.

Section 21(b)(3) directs that within 90 days after a petition is filed, EPA must decide to either grant or deny the petition. If EPA denies a petition, it must publish its reasons in the Federal Register. If EPA grants a petition, it must promptly initiate an appropriate proceeding in accordance with section 4, 5, 6, or 8.

If EPA denies a petition, or fails to make a decision within the 90–day review period, the petitioner has 60 days from the date of the decision or from the end of the review period, whichever is first, to commence a civil action against EPA. Section 21(b)(4) identifies petitioners' rights and the procedures to be followed under such civil actions.

II. Background

The petitioner requests that the Agency use TSCA to control increased pesticide use he believes will result from the introduction into the environment of genetically engineered pesticide tolerant plants permitted by APHIS.

The petitioner raises concerns that the APHIS process for permitting genetically engineered pesticide tolerant plants is intended to, and normally results in, increased pesticide use which would not otherwise occur with nontolerant forms. He further claims that APHIS review does not consider whether any potential increased burden of pesticide use may adversely affect the environment or human health, including effects on land, surface water, and groundwater.

To remedy this perceived problem, he requests EPA to issue rules under TSCA prohibiting APHIS permit applicants from introducing genetically engineered pesticide tolerant plants into the environment unless applicants substantiate that increased pesticide use will have no adverse effect upon human health and the environment.

III. Agency Decision

EPA has determined that TSCA regulations are not necessary because other Federal authorities deal adequately with the risks for which the petitioner expresses concern, regardless of whether the risks can fairly be characterized as unreasonable.

In the alternative, EPA has determined that there is no basis to conclude at this time that pesticide use resulting from general cultivation of genetically engineered pesticide tolerant plants permitted by APHIS presents an unreasonable risk of injury to human health or the environment. While review of particular pesticide tolerant plants permitted by APHIS may uncover unreasonable risks, the general availability of these plants does not need to be restricted any more than under current regulations.

IV. Public Record

A detailed statement of the reasons for EPA's denial of the petition is contained in a letter to the petitioner, a copy of which is found in the Public Docket described below.

EPA has established a public record of its response to this petition (Docket Number OPTS–211031). The public record contains the petition and the basic information considered by EPA in reaching its decision in this matter. All documents, including the index of the docket, are available to the public in the TSCA Public Docket Office from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, excluding legal holidays. The TSCA Public Docket Office is located at EPA Headquarters, Rm. NE–G004, 401 M St., SW., Washington, DC 20460.

Because of the importance of worksite health promotion as a means of reaching a majority of adult Americans with health information and services, this project will contribute significantly to the achievement of the Nation's health objective for year 2000, as laid out in Healthy People 2000: National Health Promotion and Disease Prevention Objectives. This project was commmenced in fiscal year 1989 under the authority of the "Federal Employees Benefits Improvement Act of 1986," Public Law 99-251. ASPH serves as a coordinating agency for schools of public health located at the University of North Carolina, the University of Texas at Houston, the University of Californina at Los Angeles, the University of Arizona, the University of Washington, and the University of Hawaii, which have formed interdisciplinary teams to study and assited selected Federal worksites with exemplary health and fitness programs.

Availabiltiy of funds

Approximately $305,000 is being made available in fiscal year 1991 to fund the continuation of this cooperative agreement, beginning September 30, 1991, for a 15-month project and budget period. No continuation of this project is anticipated beyond the 15-month period.

Health Resources and Services Administration

Program Announcement and Proposed Funding Preference and Priorities for Grants for Programs for Physician Assistants

The Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) announces that applications for fiscal year (FY) 1992 Grants for Programs for Physician Assistants are being accepted under the authority of section 788(d) title VII, formerly section 783(a) of the Public Health Service Act (the Act), as amended by the Health Professions Reauthorization Act of 1988, title VI of Public Law 100–607.

Comments are invited on the proposed funding preference and priorities stated below.

This program announcement is subject to the availability of legislative authority and to the appropriation of funds. The program currently is operating under Continuing Resolution No. 27601 dated September 27, 1991, effective through October 29, 1991. Applicants are advised that this program announcement is a contingency action being taken to assure that should authority and funds become available for this purpose, grants can be awarded in a timely fashion consistent with the needs of the program as well as provide for even distribution of funds throughout the fiscal year. This notice regarding applications does not reflect any change in this policy.

Section 788(d) authorizes the award of grants to accredited schools of medicine or osteopathic medicine and other public or nonprofit private entities to assist in meeting the cost of planning, developing and operating or maintaining programs for the training of physician assistants as defined under section 701(8) of the Public Health Service Act.

To receive support, programs must meet the requirements of sections 701(8) and 788(d) of the Act and program regulations implementing these sections published at 42 CFR part 57, subparts H and I.

The initial period of Federal support should not exceed 3 years.

Each application must contain or be supported by assurances that the applicant institution has appropriate mechanisms for placing graduates of the training program in positions for which they have been trained.

"Program for the Training of Physician Assistants" is defined at 42 CFR 57.801–803 as a program which has, among other elements, the objective of training graduates who are capable of providing primary health care.

National Health Objectives for the Year 2000

The Public Health Service (PHS) is committed to achieving the health promotion and disease prevention objectives of Healthy People 2000, a PHS-led national activity for setting priority areas. The Grants for Programs for Physician Assistants is related to the priority area of Educational and Community-Based Programs.

Potential applicants may obtain a copy of Healthy People 2000 (Full Report; Stock No. 017–001–00474–0) or Healthy People 2000 (Summary Report; Stock No. 017–001–00473–1) through the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402–9325 (Telephone (202) 783–3238).

Education and Service Linkage

As part of its long-range planning, HRSA will be targeting its efforts to strengthening linkages between U.S. Public Health Service supported education and service programs which provide comprehensive primary care services to the underserved.

Review Criteria

The review of applications will take into consideration the following criteria:

1. The degree to which the project plan adequately provides for meeting the requirements set forth in the regulations;

2. The potential effectiveness of the project in carrying out the purposes of section 788(d) of the PHS Act and 42 CFR part 57, subparts H–I;

3. The capability of the applicant to carry out the proposed project;

4. The local, regional and national needs the project proposes to serve;

5. The adequacy of the project's plan for placing graduates in health professional shortage areas;

6. The soundness of the fiscal plan for assuring effective use of grant funds;

7. The potential of the project to continue on a self-sustaining basis after the period of grant support; and

8. The adequacy of the project's plan to develop and use methods designed to attract and maintain minority and disadvantaged students to train as physician assistants.

In addition, the following mechanisms may be applied in determining the funding of approved applications:

1. Funding preferences—funding a specific category or group of approved applications ahead of other categories or groups of applications, such as competing continuations ahead of new projects.

2. Funding priorities—favorable adjustment of aggregate review scores when applications meet specified objective criteria.

Proposed Funding Preference for FY 1992

A funding preference will be given to applications which document that each of the current trainees will complete at least one required clinical clerkship of between 4 and 8 weeks in an inpatient or outpatient health care facility/practice located in: (1) a Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA) designated under section 332 of the PHS Act; (2) a Medically Underserved Area (MUA) designated under section 330 (b)(3) of the PHS Act; (3) a State-designated clinic/center serving an underserved population; (4) a Migrant Health Center designated under section 329 of the PHS Act; (5) a Community Health Center designated under section 330 of the PHS Act; (6) a Homeless Health Center designated under section 340 of the PHS Act; (7) facilities that have formal arrangements to provide primary health care services to public housing communities; (8) hospitals and/or health care facilities of the Indian Health Service; (9) health care facilities that draw at least 50 percent of their teaching program patients from areas or populations designated as HPSAs or MUAs; or (10) a site located within a service area of a Federal or State supported Area Health Education Center (AHEC), provided such site has been developed through an affiliation agreement with such AHEC and the site otherwise meets the criteria for underserved incorporated within this funding preference.

This preference is responsible to the Bureau of Health Professions interest in linkages with center/clinics that provides care to the underserved.

Section 332 establishes criteria to designate geographic areas, population groups, medical facilities, and other public facilities in the States as Health Professional Shortage Areas.

Section 330(b)(3) establishes Medically Underserved Areas which are areas designated by the PHS, based on four criteria:

(1) Infant mortality rate;

(2) Percentage of the population below the poverty level;

(3) Percentage of the population over age 65; and

(4) Number of practicing primary care physicians per 1,000 population.

Section 329 authorizes support for migrant health facilities nationwide and comprises a network of health care services for migrant and seasonal farm workers.

Section 330 authorizes support for community health care services to medically underserved populations.

Section 340 authorizes the Health Care for the Homeless Program, which, as used here, means a community-based program of comprehensive primary health care and substance abuse services brought to the homeless population.

Public Housing Communities means the residents of low income public housing projects that received Federal assistance, usually through a local public housing agency, under the provisions of the U.S. Housing Act of 1937.

Proposed Funding Priorities for Fiscal Year 1992

Funding priorities will be given for each of the following:

1. Applications which can demonstrate that at least 25 percent of current trainees will complete at least one clinical clerkship of between 4 and 8 weeks in an inpatient or outpatient health care facility/practice located in: (1) A Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA) designated under section 322 of the PHS Act; (2) a Medically Underserved Area (MUA) designated under provisions of section 330 (b)(3) of the PHS Act; (3) a State-designated clinic/center serving an underserved population; (4) a Migrant Health Center designated under section 329 of the PHS Act; (5) a Community Health Center designated under section 330 of the PHS Act; (6) a Homeless Health Center designated under section 340 of the PHS Act; (7) facilities that have formal arrangements to provide primary health care services to public housing communities; (8) hospitals and/or health care facilities of the Indian Health Service; (9) health care facilities, that draw at least 50 percent of their teaching program patients from areas or populations designated as HPSAs or MUAs; or (10) a site located within a service area of a Federal or State supported Area Health Education Center (AHEC), provided such site has been developed through an affiliation agreement with such AHEC and the site otherwise meets the criteria for underservedness incorporated within this funding priority.

This funding priority is proposed to encourage applicants who cannot demonstrate that each current trainee will complete the specified clerkship (as required to receive preference), to train at least 25 percent of trainees in order to maintain their commitment to provide training in underserved areas.

2. Applications which have or propose to incorporate innovative educational approaches in their curriculums (including a clinical component), relative to: public health needs of inner city/rural populations, infant mortality prevention, HIV/AIDS prevention and/or treatment, or substance abuse prevention and/or treatment. Innovation may be demonstrated by the concept/methodology to be used, by the establishment of a new educational relationship with a health care delivery system, by the population to be served as a result of the curriculum initiative or by the subject or disease for the educational intervention. The number of students to be impacted by this training must be included in the description of the activity.

This priority combines previously established priorities in order to encourage activity in these areas of Federal interest. Guidelines will provide examples of types of projects that would be considered innovative.

The proposed funding preference and priorities do not preclude funding of other eligible approved applications. Accordingly, entities which do not qualify for or elect the proposed funding preference or priorities are encouraged to submit applications.

Additional Information

Interested persons are invited to comment on the proposed funding preference and priorities. Normally the comment period would be 60 days. However, due to the need to implement any changes for the FY 1992 award cycle, this comment period has been reduced to 30 days. INTERNATIONAL TRADE COMMISSION

[Investigation No. 337–TA–320]

Certain Rotary Printing Apparatus Using Heated Ink Composition, Components Thereof, and Systems Containing Said Apparatus and Components; Commission Decision To Review Final Initial Determination and To Recall Physical Exhibits AGENCY: International Trade Commission.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: Notice is hereby given that the U.S. International Trade Commission has determined to review in its entirety an initial determination (ID) issued by the presiding administrative law judge (ALJ) finding a violation of section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1337) in the above-captioned investigation. The Commission has also determined to order the recall of all physical exhibits for which photographs were substituted to ALJ Order No. 5.

ADDRESSES: Copies of the ID and all other nonconfidential documents filed in connection with this investigation are available for inspection during official business hours (8:45 a.m. to 5:15 p.m.) in the Office of the Secretary, U.S. International Trade Commission, 500 E Street, SW., Washington, DC 20436, telephone 202–205–2000.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Wayne Herrington, Esq., Office of the General Counsel, U.S. International Trade Commission, 500 E Street, SW., Washington, DC 20436, telephone 202–205–3092.

Hearing-impaired individuals are advised that information on this matter can be obtained by contacting the Commission's TDD terminal on 202–205–1810.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On August 28, 1991, the presiding ALJ issued an ID finding a violation of section 337 in the subject investigation. Petitions for review of the ID were filed by the complainant Markem Corporation and the respondents. Previously, after the close of the evidentiary hearing, the ALJ issued Order No. 5 permitting the parties to substitute photographs for certain physical exhibits.

Having examined the record in the investigation, including the ID, the Commission has determined to review the ID in its entirety. The Commission is particularly interested in the following issues:

1. The parties are requested to specifically identify what parts (if any) of the third paragraph of claim 1 of the subject patent are in means-plus-function form and thus to be construed in accordance with 35 U.S.C. 112, paragraph 6. If the part so specified is less than the entire third paragraph of claim 1, the parties are requested to state how the language in the non-specified part is to be interpreted (i.e., whether according to 35 U.S.C. 112, paragraph 6, or some other specified (perhaps conventional) methodology). In responding to this request, the parties should consider whether the means-plus-function part (if any) of the third paragraph of claim 1 is: (1) "radiant heating means" (i.e., "means for radiant heating"); (2) "radiant heating means for maintaining the inking roll and the printing element on the printing member at elevated temperatures"; (3) the entire third paragraph of claim 1; (4) some other part of the third paragraph of claim 1 not specified in option (1) or (2).

2. The parties are requested to address the apparent occurrence of two recitations of "radiant heating means" in paragraph 3 of claim 1. Paragraph 3 of claim 1 provides: "Radiant heating means for maintaining the inking roll and the printing element on the printing member at elevated temperatures." Paragraph 3 of claim 1 also provides: "Said radiant heating means comprising a one-piece, substantially U-shaped member made of a solid block of thermally conductive material with one or more heating elements therein, * * *" In particular, the parties are requested to address (1) whether these recitations actually represent two recitations of the same element; (2) whether, in view of the second recitation, the first recitation should be treated as a means-plus-function element or whether it is a preamble to the second recitation; and (3) if both recitations are to be given weight, how each is to be construed (whether according to 35 U.S.C. 112, paragraph 6, or some other (perhaps conventional) methodology).

3. After developing responses to requests 1 and 2, the parties are requested to present their respective constructions of the third paragraph of claim 1.

4. After developing their responses to requests 1, 2, and 3, the parties are requested to address the questions of obviousness, infringement, and domestic industry. In the case of infringement, the parties are requested to demonstrate, with references to the record, how the claims are or are not met by all the accused devices. The parties are requested to address infringement under the doctrine of equivalents as well. In the case of domestic industry, the parties are requested to demonstrate, with references to the record, how the claims are or are not met by the asserted domestic devices.

5. The parties are requested to address the basis for asserting liability for infringement for each respondent. In particular, the parties are requested to address the basis for asserting liability for infringement of respondent Image, S.A.

6. Responses to all requests 1–5 should be supported by citation to pertinent authority, especially the case law of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. Physical exhibits for which photographs were substituted pursuant to ALJ Order No. 5 are to be returned to the Commission.

In connection with the final disposition of this investigation, the Commission may issue (1) an order that could result in the exclusion of the subject articles from entry into the United States, and/or (2) a cease and desist order that could result in a respondent being required to cease and desist from engaging in unfair acts in the importation and sale of such articles. Accordingly, the Commission is interested in receiving written submissions that address the form of remedy, if any, that should be ordered.

If the Commission contemplates some form of remedy, it must consider the effects of that remedy upon the public interest. The factors that the Commission will consider include the effect that an exclusion order and/or cease and desist order have on (1) the public health and welfare, (2) competitive conditions in the U.S. economy, (3) U.S. production of articles that are like or directly competitive with those that are subject to investigation, and (4) U.S. consumers. The Commission is therefore interested in receiving written submissions that address the aforementioned public interest factors in the context of this investigation.

If the Commission orders some form of remedy, the President has 60 days to approve or disapprove the Commission's action. During this period, the subject articles would be entitled to enter the United States under a bond, in an amount determined by the Commission and prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. The Commission is therefore interested in receiving submissions concerning the amount of the bond that should be imposed.

Written Submissions

The parties to the investigation are requested to file written submissions on the issues under review. Additionally, the parties to the investigation, interested government agencies, and any other persons are encouraged to file written submissions on the issues of remedy, the public interest, and bonding. Markem and the Commission investigative attorney are also requested to submit a proposed exclusion order and/or proposed cease and desist order(s) for the Commission's consideration. Written submissions, including any proposed orders, must be filed by October 29, 1991, and reply submissions must be filed by November 5, 1991. The physical exhibits to be returned must be filed with the Office of the Secretary by October 29, 1991.

Persons filing written submissions must file with the Office of the Secretary the original document and 14 copies thereof on or before the deadlines stated above. Any person desiring to submit a document (or portion thereof) to the Commission in confidence must request confidential treatment unless the information has already been granted such treatment during the proceedings. All such requests should be directed to the Secretary of the Commission and must include a full statement of the reasons why the Commission should grant such treatment. See 19 CFR 201.6. Documents for which confidential treatment is granted by the Commission will be treated accordingly. All nonconfidential written submissions will be available for public inspection at the Office of the Secretary.

This action is taken under the authority of section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1337) and section 210.54–.55 of the Commission's Interim Rules of Practice and Procedure (19 CFR 210.54–.55 (1991)).

Issued: October 15, 1991.

By order of the Commission.

Kenneth R. Mason,

Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Drug Enforcement Administration

[Docket No. 90–52]

Winn's Pharmacy; Revocation of Registration

On July 12, 1990, the Deputy Assistant Administrator, Office of Diversion Control, Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) issued to Winn's Pharmacy (Respondent), 2540 E. Fayette Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21224, an Order to Show Cause proposing to revoke its DEA Certificate of Registration, AM6904064, and to deny any pending applications for renewal of such registration. The Order to Show Cause alleged that the Respondent's continued registration would be inconsistent with the public interest, as set forth in 21 U.S.C. 823(f) and 21 U.S.C. 824(a)(4).

Respondent, through counsel, requested a hearing and the matter was docketed before Administrative Law Judge Mary Ellen Bittner. Following prehearing procedures, a hearing was held in Arlington, Virginia on February 5, 1991. On July 1, 1991, the administrative law judge issued her opinion and recommended ruling, findings of fact, conclusions of law and decision. No exceptions were filed and on August 5, 1991, Judge Bittner transmitted the record of these proceedings to the Administrator. The Administrator has considered this record in its entirety and pursuant to 21 CFR 1316.67, hereby issues his final order in this matter based upon findings of fact and conclusions of law as hereinafter set forth.

The administrative law judge found that Philip S. Shermak, R.Ph., is the licensed pharmacist and owner of Respondent. Evidence presented at the hearing revealed that DEA initiated an investigation of Respondent as a result of: (1) A DEA report showing that Respondent was the largest retail purchaser of methadone in Maryland; (2) an excessive purchase report filed by a drug company that supplied Respondent with methadone and Dilaudid; and (3) a prescription survey performed by the Maryland Division of Drug Control showing that an unusually large percentage of the prescriptions filled by Respondent for Dilaudid, methadone, and Dolophine (brand name for methadone), Schedule II controlled substances, were issued by one physician, Raymond Bayerle, M.D.

The prescription survey conducted by the Maryland Division of Drug Control included eleven pharmacies in addition to Respondent. The survey showed that between January 1, 1987, and September 22, 1988, Respondent filled 47 prescriptions issued by Dr. Bayerle for Dolophine for a total of 4,150 dosage units. Respondent was the only pharmacy in the survey which filled any of Dr. Bayerle's prescriptions for Dolophine.

The prescription survey also showed that the eleven pharmacies filled a total of 397 prescriptions, aggregating 33,420 dosage units of Dilaudid, issued by Dr. Bayerle. Respondent filled 314 of these prescriptions for a total 28,080 dosage units. The survey also revealed the largest number of prescriptions for Dilaudid filled by any other pharmacy surveyed was eighteen prescriptions totalling 820 dosage units.

At the hearing a DEA Investigator testified that the number of prescriptions filled by Respondent for Dolophine was unusual because the primary use of methadone is detoxification of drug addicts and the substance is usually obtained through narcotic treatment programs, not by prescription. The Investigator also testified that she analyzed the prescriptions issued by Dr. Bayerle for methadone/Dolophine and Dilaudid that were filled by Respondent. The review revealed that a number of patients received what she considered to be an excessive amount of either or both medications and that some of the patients received 100 dosage units each of Dilaudid and methadone the same day.

Dr. Bayerle was arrested in September 1988, and plead guilty on April 4, 1989, to charges of conspiracy relating to the unlawful distribution of Schedule II controlled substances. Dr. Bayerle admitted to DEA Investigators that he knew that the patients to whom he issued prescriptions were addicts and that other pharmacies refused to fill his prescriptions but Respondent did not usually question them.

Respondent also filled a large number of Schedule II prescriptions issued by a Dr. Gordon. Dr. Gordon prescribed methadone to patients which her own medical records indicated were addicts. Dr. Gordon informed DEA that Mr. Shermak telephoned to ask her to treat an individual for his drug addiction. Dr. Gordon treated the individual for addiction by issuing him prescriptions. Subsequently, a large number of addicts came to Dr. Gordon's office seeking prescriptions for methadone.

In addition to the prescriptions issued by Dr. Gordon, Respondent filled 15 prescriptions for the same individual that Mr. Shermak had asked Dr. Gordon to treat. The prescriptions were for Percocet, a Schedule II narcotic, and were issued by 12 different physicians for a total of 408 dosage units.

On September 15, 1988, a DEA agent, acting in an undercover capacity, took a prescription issued by Dr. Bayerle to Respondent. The prescription was in a fictitious name, bore no address and was written for 100 dosage units of Dilaudid 4 mg. The agent testified that when the clerk asked him his address he invented one, and the clerk then gave the prescription to Mr. Shermak who filled it.

On September 22, 1988, a search warrant was executed at Respondent. During execution of the warrant, Mr. Shermak stated that he filled more of Drs. Bayerle and Gordon's prescriptions than any other physicians. Mr. Shermak also stated that he felt that he performed a service for patients because not many other pharmacies in the area stocked Dilaudid.

The DEA Investigators conducted an audit of Respondent's records and inventory of Dilaudid, Dolophine and methadone. The audit showed a total accountability for 34,711 dosage units of Dilaudid 4 mg., 11,473 dosage units of Dolophine 10 mg., and 5,034 dosage units of methadone 10 mg. The audit also showed that Respondent was short 228 dosage units of Dilaudid, or .66% of the total for which it was accountable, and 121 dosage units of Dolophine and methadone combined, or .73% of the total for which it was accountable.

According to the Investigator, while the shortages were not significant, Respondent's purchases of 34,500 dosage units of Dilaudid in a year and a half greatly exceeded the 500 to 1,000 dosage units annually purchased by the average pharmacy. Similarly, Respondent's purchase of a total of 16,400 dosage units of Dolophine and methadone combined was unusual, when the average pharmacy keeps only about 100 dosage units of the substance on hand.

Mr. Shermak asserts that as early as 1985 he had pointed out to a state inspector that he was receiving a large number of Dilaudid prescriptions from one physician, but after reviewing the files the inspector said, "It looks okay to me." Mr. Shermak also testified, and offered into evidence corroborating reports, that state inspections conducted from 1984 through April 1990, were basically satisfactory. It should be noted, however, that Respondent was repeatedly warned to note on invoices and DEA order forms the date controlled substances were received.

Mr. Shermak asserted that although methadone is used to prevent drug addicts from suffering the symptoms of withdrawal, it is also used to alleviate pain, and patients do not get "high" from taking it. Mr. Shermak emphasized that Respondent is near Johns Hopkins Hospital and testified that the hospital has "one of the largest oncology centers in the State." Nevertheless, Mr. Shermak, admitted that he knew that neither Dr. Bayerle nor Dr. Gordon was affiliated with Johns Hopkins.

A cashier at Respondent pharmacy, also testified at the hearing. She stated that she had never seen intoxicated patients enter the store, that she had seen Mr. Shermak refuse to fill a prescription when he did not recognize the physician's handwriting or thought the prescription was forged, that she had also heard Mr. Shermak threaten to call the police, and that he had in fact turned suspicious prescriptions over to the police.

The cashier also testified that although she had never met Dr. Bayerle, on at least half a dozen occasions she had seen Mr. Shermak talking to him on the telephone to verify prescriptions. However, on cross-examination, Ms. Shaw conceded that when she heard Mr. Shermak on the telephone she did not know who else was on the line, although she heard Mr. Shermak ask for Dr. Bayerle.

In evaluating whether Respondent's continued registration by the Drug Enforcement Administration would be inconsistent with the public interest, the Administrator considers the factors enumerated in 21 U.S.C. 823(f) and 21 U.S.C. 824(a)(4). They are as follows: (1) The recommendation of the appropriate State licensing board or professional disciplinary authority; (2) the applicant's (or registrant's) experience in dispensing, or conducting research with respect to controlled substances; (3) the applicant's (or registrant's) conviction record under Federal or State laws relating to the manufacture, distribution, or dispensing of controlled substances; (4) compliance with applicable State, Federal, or local laws relating to controlled substances; and (5) such other conduct which may threaten the public health and safety.

In determining whether a registrant's continued registration is inconsistent with the public interest, the Administrator is not required to make findings with respect to each of the factors listed above. Instead, the Administrator has discretion to give each factor the weight he deems appropriate, depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case. See, Henry J. Schwarz, Jr., M.D., Docket No. 88–42, 54 FR 16422 (1989); Neveille H. Williams, D.D.S., Docket No. 87–47, 53 FR 23465 (1988); David E. Trawick, D.D.S., Docket No. 86–69, 53 FR 5326 (1988).

Under 21 CFR 1306.04, a pharmacist has a corresponding responsibility regarding the proper prescribing and dispensing of controlled substances. "An order purporting to be a prescription issued not in the usual course of professional treatment * * * is not a prescription within the meaning of section 309 of the Act (21 U.S.C. 829) and the person knowingly filling such a purported prescription, as well as the person issuing it, is subject to the penalties provided for violations of the provisions of law relating to controlled substances." 21 CFR 1306.04. In this case there is ample evidence to indicate that Mr. Shermak ignored his responsibility as a pharmacist when he filled hundreds of prescriptions he knew were not issued for legitimate purposes.

The record establishes that Respondent dispensed huge quantities of methadone, a drug primarily used in treatment of narcotics abusers, pursuant to prescriptions written by Drs. Bayerle and Gordon although Mr. Shermak knew that neither of these physicians was registered as a narcotic treatment center. Mr. Shermak referred at least one patient to Dr. Gordon specifically for treatment of his addiction, notwithstanding Dr. Gordon's lack of authorization to render such treatment. Also, Mr. Shermak's explanation, that he filled the prescriptions for Percocet from 12 different doctors presented by the same individual because "obviously 12 different doctors felt he had the same condition" is absurd. The only reasonable conclusion is that Mr. Shermak filled prescriptions knowing that they were not written for a legitimate medical reason.

The record also establishes that the volume of Dilaudid prescriptions issued by Dr. Bayerle and presented to Mr. Shermak would have alerted a reasonable pharmacist to the likelihood that the prescriptions were not issued for a legitimate medical purpose. Similarly, Respondent provided large quantities of Schedule II medications over prolonged periods of time and often filled prescriptions for both Dilaudid and methadone simultaneously, although Mr. Shermak should have been aware that the two drugs are not appropriately prescribed in combination.

In the instant case, the evidence is clear that even if he had no direct knowledge of the nature of the prescriptions he filled, Mr. Shermak disregarded obvious signs that the hundreds of prescriptions he filled were illegitimate. Respondent's dispensing practices directly contravene applicable State and Federal laws, and there can be no question that those practices are not in the public interest.

After considering all of the evidence, the administrative law judge concluded that Mr. Shermak had failed to carry out his responsibilities as a registrant in the past and that there was no credible evidence that he will be more responsible in the future. Judge Bittner thus concluded that Respondent's continued registration is not in the public interest and recommended that its registration be revoked.

The Administrator adopts the recommended ruling, findings of fact, conclusions of law and decision of the administrative law judge in its entirety. The Administrator concludes that Respondent pharmacy's continued registration is inconsistent with the public interest and that its DEA Certificate of Registration must be revoked.

Accordingly, the Administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration, pursuant to the authority vested in him by 21 U.S.C. 823 and 824, and 28 CFR 0.100(b), hereby orders that DEA Certificate of Registration, AM6904064, previously issued to Winn's Pharmacy, be, and it hereby is, revoked, and any pending applications for renewal of such registration be, and they hereby are, denied. This order is effective November 20, 1991.

Dated: October 15, 1991.

Robert C. Bonner,

Administrator of Drug Enforcement.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION

South Carolina Electric & Gas Company; South Carolina Public Service Authority; Environmental Assessment and Finding of No Significant Impact

The U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (the Commission) is considering issuance of exemptions from the provisions of: (1) 10 CFR 50.46, which requires the calculation of emergency core cooling system (ECCS) performance for reactors with Zircaloy clad fuel; (2) 10 CFR 50.44, which gives requirements to control the hydrogen generated by Zircaloy clad fuel after a postulated loss-of-coolant-accident (LOCA); and (3) appendix K to 10 CFR part 50, which presumes the use of Zircaloy fuel when doing calculations for energy release, cladding oxidation and hydrogen generation after a postulated LOCA, to South Carolina Electric & Gas Company and South Carolina Public Service Authority, the licensees for V. C. Summer Nuclear Power Station, Unit No. 1 (Summer Station), located in Fairfield County, South Carolina.

Environmental Assessment

Identification of Proposed Action

The proposed action would allow the licensee to use fuel assemblies whose cladding composition falls outside the definition of Zircaloy in the cited regulations. These assemblies would be loaded into the Summer Station reactor during the refueling outage in the fall of 1991.

The licensee applied for an amendment to allow the use of other than Zircaloy clad fuel by letter, dated November 16, 1990. The exemption is being undertaken on the Commission's own initiative.

The Need for the Proposed Action

The exemption under consideration is needed because 10 CFR 50.46(a)(1)(i) and appendix K to 10 CFR part 50 require the demonstration of adequate ECCS performance for light-water reactors that contain fuel consisting of uranium oxide pellets enclosed in Zircaloy tubes; furthermore, 10 CFR 50.44(a) addresses requirements to control hydrogen generated by Zircaloy fuel after a postulated LOCA. Since the cladding the licensee proposed to use in their November 16, 1990, amendment request falls outside the definition of Zircaloy, the Commission, on its own initiative took into consideration exemptions from 10 CFR 50.44, 10 CFR 50.46, and appendix K to 10 CFR part 50. The Commission believes that special circumstances exist since application of the rule in this case would not achieve the underlying purpose of the rule. The underlying purpose of 10 CFR 50.46 and appendix K to 10 CFR part 50 is to establish requirements for emergency core cooling systems. The underlying purpose of 10 CFR 50.44 is to control hydrogen generated by the metal/water reaction after a postulated LOCA, regardless of whether that metal is Zircaloy or Zirlo. The licensee addressed the safety impact of using the new fuel in its amendment application, and the staff evaluated this impact in its Safety Evaluations dated July 1, 1991, and October 9, 1991. These evaluations concluded that the facility can continue to comply with the purpose of the appropriate regulation with Zirlo clad fuel. Therefore, the underlying purpose of the rule has been fulfilled.

Environmental Impacts of the Proposed Action

With regard to potential radiological impacts to the general public, the exemption under consideration involves features located entirely within the restricted area as defined in 10 CFR part 20. It does not affect the potential for radiological accidents and does not affect radiological plant effluents. The new fuel assemblies meet the same design bases as the fuel that is currently in the reactor. No safety limits have been changed or setpoints altered as a result of the use of these new assemblies. The FSAR analyses are bounding for the new assemblies, as well as for the rest of the core. The advanced zirconium-based alloys have been shown through testing to perform satisfactorily under conditions representative of a reactor environment and the material properties of Zirlo and Zircaloy are very similar. The exemption under consideration, therefore, does not affect the consequences of radiological accidents; consequently, the Commission concludes that there are no significant radiological impacts associated with the exemption.

With regard to the potential environmental impact associated with the transportation of the Zirlo clad fuel assemblies, the advanced cladding has no impact on previous assessments determined in accordance with 10 CFR 51.52.

With regard to non-radiological impacts, the exemption under consideration does not effect non-radiological plant effluents and has no other environmental impact. Therefore, the Commission concludes that there are no significant non-radiological environmental impacts associated with the exemption.

Alternative to the Proposed Action

Since the Commission has concluded that there are no significant environmental effects that would result from the proposed action, any alternatives to this exemption will have either no significantly different environmental impact or greater environmental impact. The principal alternative would be to deny the licensee's amendment request. This would not reduce environmental impacts as a result of plant operations.

Alternative Use of Resources

This action does not involve the use of resources not previously considered in the "Final Environmental Statement Related to the Operation of Virgil C.

Summer Nuclear Station, Unit No. 1," dated May 1981.

Agencies and Persons Consulted

The staff reviewed the licensee's request and did not consult other agencies or persons.

Finding of No Significant Impact

The Commission has determined not to prepare an environmental impact statement for the exemption under consideration.

Based on the foregoing environmental assessment, the staff concludes that the proposed action will not have a significant effect on the quality of the human environment.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[Release No. 34-29814; International Series Release No. 329; File No. SR-DTC-91-14]

Self-Regulatory Organizations; The Depository Trust Company; Notice of Filing and Immediate Effectiveness of a Proposed Rule Change Relating to the Elective Dividends Function

October 11, 1991.

Pursuant to section 19(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Act"),[1] notice is hereby given that on September 16, 1991, The Depository Trust Company ("DTC") filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") the proposed rule change (File No. SR-DTC-91-14) as described in Items I, II, and III below, which Items have been prepared by DTC. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

The proposed rule change would establish the Elective Dividends ("EDS") function to enable participants to use DTC's Participant Terminal System ("PTS") instead of hard copy for their instructions concerning distributions on certain issues of securities.[2] EDS includes menu access to the PTS procedures for obtaining favorable tax treatment of distributions on certain Canadian securities, a service formerly known as the Tax Exempt Dividend Service ("TEDS") and also includes menu access and PTS availability for the following options that previously required hard copy instructions: Foreign Currency Payment ("FCP") instructions for dividend, interest, or principal payments; obtaining favorable tax treatment at source of certain distributions on American Depositary Receipts ("ADR") for United Kingdom ("UK") securities, formerly known as the ADR Tax Withholding Service; Dividend Reinvestment Service ("DRS"); and Optional Dividend Procedures ("ODP").

[1] 15 U.S.C. 78s(b).

[2] With certain limited exceptions, DTC's rules require participants to use PTS or other means of automated input for all participant-originated transactions. Securities Exchange Act Release No. 24166 (March 10, 1987), 52 FR 7360 [File No. SR-DTC-87-01].

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, DTC included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. DTC has prepared summaries, set forth in sections (A), (B), and (C) below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

(A) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

The purpose of the proposed rule change is to enable participants to use PTS for DTC's EDS function operations, which are FCP, DRS, ODP, and obtaining favorable tax treatment of distributions on certain Canadian securities and UK ADRs. EDS provides a menu which the participant uses to display its record date positions by CUSIP number for which any or all of DTC's elective dividend options are available. Initially, EDS will identify:

1. FCP CUSIPs (issues of securities whose issuers permit participants to elect to receive an upcoming distribution in a foreign currency);

2. foreign security option CUSIPs for upcoming distributions on Canadian issues for which the participant may receive favorable tax treatment at source; and

3. foreign security option CUSIPs for upcoming distributions on UK ADRs for which the participant may receive favorable tax treatment at source.

Evenutally, the EDS menu will permit a participant to view its record date positions in:

1. DRS CUSIPs (securities whose issuers offer plans for automatic reinvestment of upcoming cash dividends on all or a portion of the record date position without withdrawing the underlying securities from the depository); and

2. ODP CUSIPs (securities whose issuers give stockholders the option to take all or part of the upcoming dividend in cash, stock or a combination of both).

Current procedures for FCP and for obtaining favorable tax treatment of distributions on certain Canadian securities and UK ADRs require use of the hard copy instruction forms, set out in Exhibit 3 to the filing, to instruct DTC. Under the proposed rule change, the participant would select the desired option from the EDS menu. If PTS showed that the participant had a record date position in any CUSIP permitting use of the FCP or foreign securities option, PTS would then guide the participant as it entered its PTS instruction for the option, as more fully explained in Exhibit 2 to the filing.

Eventually, the participant will also be able to select DRS or ODP from the EDS menu. The forms of hard copy instruction currently used for DRS and ODP are set out in Exhibit 3 to the filing. If PTS identifies securities eligible for DRS or ODP in the participant's record date position, PTS will then guide the participant through the instruction screens. The instruction screens for DRS and ODP have not yet been developed and will be the subject of a future proposed rule change.

The proposed rule change is consistent with the requirements of sections 17A(b)(3) (A) and (F) the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder because it promotes the prompt and accurate clearance and settlement of securities transactions by automating previous manual procedures.

(B) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

DTC does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

(C) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants or Others

DTC has received no written comments on the proposed rule change from DTC participants. Taxing authorities in Canada and the UK have indicated that electronic input is acceptable to them.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

The foregoing rule change has become effective pursuant to section 19(b)(3)(A) of the Act and subparagraph (e) of Securities Exchange Act Rule 19b–4 because the proposal effects a change in an existing service that (A) does not adversely affect the safeguarding of securities or funds in the custody or control of DTC or for which DTC is responsible and (B) does not significantly affect the respective rights or obligations of DTC or persons using the service. At any time within sixty days of the filing of such proposed rule change, the Commission may summarily abrogate such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and arguments concerning the foregoing. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 Fifth Street, NW., Washington, DC 20549. (A) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

The proposed rule change will enable the delivering Participant to cancel certain pending instructions in instances in which the delivering Participant or its agent entered the instruction in error.

The proposed rule change is consistent with the requirements of section 17A(b)(3)(A) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, ("Act") in that it promotes efficiencies in the clearance and settlement of securities transactions.

DTC does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

(C) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants, or Others

DTC has discussed the proposed change with various Participants. Although a number of Participants, as well as the DTC Matters Committee of the New York Clearing House Association, the Securities Operations Division of the Securities Industry Association, and the Commercial Paper Task Force of the Public Securities Association's Money Market Committee, have requested the enhancement, no written comments have been received.

(A) By order approve such proposed rule change or

(B) Institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule change should be disapproved.

Interest Rates

The interest rate on section 7(a) Small Business Administration direct loans (as amended by Public Law 97–35) and the SBA share of immediate participation loans is 9 percent for the fiscal quarter beginning October 1, 1991.

On a quarterly basis, the Small Business Administration also publishes an interest rate called the option "peg" rate (13 CFR 122.8–4(d)). This rate is a weighted average cost of money to the government for maturities similar to the average SBA loan. This rate may be used as a base rate for guaranteed fluctuating interest rate SBA loans. For the October–December quarter of FY 92, this rate will be 8⅛ percent.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

Federal Aviation Administration

Approval of Noise Compatibility Program for Ontario International Airport (ONT), Ontario, CA

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) announces its findings on the Noise Compatibility Program submitted by the Los Angeles City Department of Airports (DOA) and the City of Ontario under the provisions of title I of the Aviation Safety and Noise Abatement Act of 1979 (Pub. L. 96–193) and 14 CFR part 150. These findings are made in recognition of the description of Federal and non-Federal responsibilities in Senate Report No. 96–52 (1980). On April 2, 1991 the FAA determined that the Noise Exposure Maps submitted by under part 150 were in compliance with applicable requirements. On September 27, 1991, the Assistant Administrator for Airports approved the Noise Compatibility Program for Ontario International Airport. Twelve (12) of the recommendations of the program were approved, nine (9) measures were disapproved and one (1) had no action taken as a result of a flight procedure.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The effective date of the FAA's approval of the Ontario International Airport noise compatibility program is September 27, 1991.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Howard W. Yoshioka, Supervisor, Planning Section, AWP–611, Federal Aviation Administration, Mailing Address: P.O. Box 92007, Worldway Postal Center, Los Angeles, California 90009–2007, Street Address: 15000 Aviation Boulevard, Hawthorne, California 90261. Telephone: 213/297–1250. Documents reflecting this FAA action may be reviewed at this same location.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This notice announces that the FAA has given its overall approval to the Noise Compatibility Program for OAK, effective September 27, 1991.

Under section 104(a) of the Aviation Safety and Noise Abatement Act of 1979 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act"), an airport operator who has previously submitted a Noise Exposure Map may submit to the FAA a Noise Compatibility Program which sets forth the measures taken or proposed by the airport operator for the reduction of existing noncompatible land uses and prevention of additional noncompatible land uses within the area covered by the Noise Exposure Maps. The Act requires such programs to be developed in consultation with interested and affected parties including local communities, governmental agencies, airport users, and FAA personnel.

Each airport Noise Compatibility Program developed in accordance with Federal Aviation Regulations (FAR) part 150 is a local program, not a Federal program. The FAA does not substitute its judgment for that of the airport proprietor with respect to which measures should be recommended for action. The FAA's approval or disapproval of FAR part 150 program recommendations is measured according to the standards expressed in part 150 and the Act and is limited to the following determinations:

a. The Noise Compatibility Program was developed in accordance with the provisions and procedures of FAR part 150;

b. Program measures are reasonably consistent with achieving the goals of reducing existing noncompatible land uses around the airport and preventing the introduction of additional noncompatible land uses;

c. Program measures would not create an undue burden on interstate or foreign commerce, unjustly discriminate against types or classes of aeronautical uses, violate the terms of airport grant agreements, or intrude into areas preempted by the Federal Government; and

d. Program measures relating to the use of flight procedures can be implemented within the period covered by the program without derogating safety, adversely affecting the efficient use and management of the navigable airspace and air traffic control systems, or adversely affecting other powers and responsibilities of the Administrator prescribed by law.

Specific limitations with respect to the FAA's approval of an airport Noise Compatibility Program are delineated in FAR part 150, § 150.5. Approval is not a determination concerning the acceptability of land uses under Federal, State, or local law. Approval does not by itself constitute an the FAA implementing action. A request for Federal action or approval to implement specific noise compatibility measures may be required, and an FAA decision on the request may require an environmental assessment of the proposed action. Approval does not constitute a commitment by the FAA to financially assist in the implementation of the program nor a determination that all measures covered by the program are eligible for grant-in-aid funding from the FAA. Where Federal funding is sought, requests for project grants must be submitted to the FAA Airports Division Office in Hawthorne, California.

The DOA and the City of Ontario submitted to the FAA on August 20, 1990, the Noise Exposure Maps, descriptions, and other documentation produced during the Noise Compatibility Planning study conducted from September 1984 through August 1990. The Noise Exposure Maps were determined by the FAA to be in compliance with applicable requirements on April 2, 1990. Notice of this determination was published in the Federal Register on April 11, 1991.

The study contains a proposed Noise Compatibility Program comprised of actions designed for phased implementation by airport management and adjacent jurisdictions from the date of study completion to, or beyond, the year 1991. It was requested that the FAA evaluate and approve this material as a Noise Compatibility Program as described in section 104(b) of the Act. The FAA began its review of the program on April 2, 1991 and was required by a provision of the act to approve of disapprove the program within 180 days (other than the use of new flight procedures for noise control). Failure to approve or disapprove such program within the 180-day period shall be deemed to be an approval of such program.

The submitted program contained twenty-two (22) proposed actions for noise mitigation on and off the airport. The FAA completed its review and determined that the procedural and substantive requirements of the Act and FAR part 150 have been satisfied. The overall program, therefore, was approved by the Assistant Administrator for Airports effective September 27, 1991.

Outright approval was granted for 12 of the specific program elements. The measures that were approved include the following: Continue nighttime preferential runway use; Continue to develop Impact Areas I and II according to the existing General Plan; Acquire and remove incompatible uses for developed land in Impact Area II; Acoustical treatment, purchase assurance and neighorhood enhancement of developed incompatible land in Impact Area III; Acoustical treatment and study of impacted schools; Development of an ongoing airport/community compatibility forum to adjust the part 150 NCP and a computer based land use/noise monitoring system; Prohibition of nighttime jet engine runups for maintenance purposes; and Continue to obtain aviation easements for all new construction of incompatible uses with the projected 12 Million Annual Passenger Level, 65 CNEL.

The Nine (9) elements that were disapproved include Achieving a 65% or greater Stage III fleet mix at ONT by 1995 and 100% by 2000 through the use of a noise regulation. Modification of the PRADO TWO Standard Instrument Departure Procedure; Extension of Runway 26R; Relocation of Bon View Elementary School; Monitoring and maintenance of the 65–CNEL noise exposure level, Annual funding commitment from the DOA, City of Ontario and the FAA; Prohibition of pilot training in jet powered air carrier aircraft; and the active pursuit of an amendment of Title 21—Airport Noise Standards.

No action was taken on one (1) measure that proposed modification to three (3) SIDs for the airport.

These determinations are set forth in detail in a Record of Approval endorsed by the Assistant Administrator for Airports on September 27, 1991. The Record of Approval, as well as other evaluation materials and the documents comprising the submittal, are available for review at the FAA office listed above and at the administrative offices of the Department of Airports.

Issued in Hawthorne, California on October 7, 1991.

Herman C. Bliss,

Manager, Airports Division, AWP–600, Western-Pacific Region.

Federal Railroad Administration

Environmental Impact Statement on the Northeast Corridor Electrification From New Haven, Connecticut to Boston, Massachusetts

AGENCY: Federal Railroad Administration; Department of Transportation.

ACTION: Notice of intent to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement.

SUMMARY: The Federal Railroad Administration gives notice that it intends to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), on the proposed electrification of the Northeast Corridor Rail Route, from New Haven, Connecticut to Boston, Massachusetts. The FRA will prepare the EIS so that it also satisfies the requirements of the Massachusetts Environmental Policy Act (MEPA), the Rhode Island Department of Environmental Management (DEM), and the Connecticut Department of Environmental Protection (CDEP). In addition to electrification, the EIS will evaluate no-action and any other alternatives identified through the scoping process. Scoping will be accomplished through correspondence with interested persons, organizations, and Federal, State and local agencies, and through public meetings.

DATES: Written comments on the scope of alternatives and impacts to be considered should be sent to the Volpe National Transportation Systems Center by November 18, 1991. Public scoping meetings will be held in each State as follows:

Connecticut—November 4, 1991 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.
Rhde Island—November 5, 1991 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.
Massachusetts—November 6, 1991 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

ADDRESSES: Written comments on the project scope should be sent to: US DOT/RSPA Volpe National Transportation Systems Center, Attn: NEC Electrification Project, Glenn Goulet, DTS—77, Kendall Square, Cambridge, MA 02142–1093.

The scoping mettings will be held at three locations:

Connecticut: Martin Center Auditorium, 120 Broad Street, New London, CT, Phone (203) 447–5250.
Rhode Island: Omni Biltmore, 11 Dorrance Street, Providence, RI 02903 Phone (401) 421–0700.
Massachusetts: Volpe National Transportation Systems Center, 55 Broadway, Cambridge, MA 02142, (617) 494–2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mark E. Yachmetz, Federal Railroad Administration. Phone (202) 366–6593.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Scoping

The FRA invites interested individuals, organizations, and Federal, State and local agencies to participate in defining the issues to be evaluated in the EIS. Scoping comments may be made verbally at the public scoping meetings or in writing. Written comments will be received for a period of 30 days after the publication of this notice (See the DATES and ADDRESSES sections above for locations and times). During scoping, comments should focus on identifying specific social, economic, or environmental impacts to be evaluated and suggesting alternatives that are less costly or less environmentally damaging while achieving similar objectives. Scoping is not the time to indicate a preference for a particular alternative. There will be an opportunity to comment on preferences after the Draft EIS has been completed.

Mailing List

If you wish to be placed on the mailing list to receive further information as the project develops, contact Glenn Goulet or Mark Yachmetz as previously described.

Description of Study Area and Project Need:

The study area begins at New Haven, extends through New London, Connecticut and Providence, Rhode Island, and terminates at Boston, Massachusetts, a distance of approximately 160 miles. The proposed action is extension of electrification—catenary installation with all necessary support systems—along the Northeast Corridor. A significant part of the project involves providing adequate clearance at the roadway bridges and tunnels. Various means such as lowering the tracks or raising roadway bridges may be necessary. Other aspects of the project include, but are not limited to, construction of electrical substations and switching stations at specific intervals along the route, modification of railroad bridges to support the new catenary system, and elimination or improved protection of public and private highway and pedestrian grade crossings.

The current use of diesel locomotives along this route limits train acceleration and imposes a delay in New Haven while locomotives are switched between diesel and electric. The project will produce a shorter trip time between New York and Boston, achieved due to the higher acceleration capability and top speed of electric motive power and the elimination of the engine change at New Haven. A shorter trip time is projected to increase ridership substantially and thus reduce highway and airport congestion.

Alternatives:

The Alternatives proposed for evaluation include: (1) No-action, resulting in continued use of diesel locomotives,

(2) Construction of 25 kV-60 Hz constant tension catenary system for electrification of the entire route, including substations and switching stations. The design is to be compatible with a maximum train speed of up to 150 mph., and

(3) Any other alternatives identified during the scoping process.

Probable Effects:

The FRA will evaluate all significant environmental, social, and economic impacts of the alternatives analyzed in the EIS. Impacts include changes in the natural environment (air and water quality, rare and endangered species), changes in the social environment (land use and neighborhoods, noise and vibration, aesthetics, historic and archaeological resources), human health (electromagnetic field effects), and changes in transportation patterns and protection at grade crossings. The impacts will be evaluated both for the construction period and for the long-term period of operation. Measures to mitigate significant adverse impacts will be addressed.

Procedures:

The Draft EIS will be prepared in conjunction with Preliminary Engineering. Introduction to the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations

REGULATORY INFORMATION SERVICE CENTER

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations

AGENCY: Regulatory Information Service Center.

ACTION: Introduction to the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 602) requires that agencies publish semiannual regulatory agendas describing regulatory actions they are developing. Executive Order 12291 and OMB memoranda implementing section 5 of the Executive order establish minimum standards for executive agencies' agendas, including specific types of information for each entry, and publication in a uniform format. In addition, the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988 (41 U.S.C. 402) require the development and semiannual publication of a report on procurement regulations. The Unified Agenda helps fulfill the procurement requirement. All Federal regulatory agencies have chosen to publish their regulatory agendas as part of this Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

The following separate parts in this issue of the Federal Register are the agency agendas, which together comprise the October 1991 edition of the semiannual Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

ADDRESSES: Regulatory Information Service Center, Suite 500, 750 17th Street NW., Washington, DC 20006.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information about specific regulatory actions, please refer to the Agency Contact listed for each entry. To provide comment on or to obtain further information about the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations, contact: Mark G. Schoenberg, Executive Director, (202) 634-6222, or Margaret M. Donohoe, Project Director, (202) 634-6220.

INTRODUCTION TO THE UNIFIED AGENDA OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS

About the Unified Agenda

The Regulatory Information Service Center (the Center) compiles the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations for the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget (OMB). The Center provides information about Federal regulatory activity to the President and his Executive Office, the Congress, agency managers, and the public.

The Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs is responsible for overseeing the Federal Government's regulatory, paperwork, and information-management activities and for implementing Executive Orders 12291 (Federal Regulation) (46 FR 13193; 3 CFR 1981 Comp., p. 127) and 12498 (Regulatory Planning Process) (50 FR 1036; 3 CFR 1985 Comp., p. 323). Under E.O. 12498, OMB publishes the Regulatory Program of the United States Government each year.

The Regulatory Program is a policy document and a management tool that sets forth the priorities of the agency head and of the President regarding the Significant Regulatory Actions (SRAs) that will be conducted during the program year to which it pertains.

The Regulatory Program and the Unified Agenda differ in several ways. The Unified Agenda includes more regulatory actions, because it covers all Federal agencies that issue regulations and includes virtually all the rulemakings they have under development. The Regulatory Program includes fewer than half of those agencies and contains only the most significant of the regulatory actions that each of those agencies plans to undertake. The Regulatory Program, however, describes each entry more thoroughly than the Unified Agenda.

The regulatory actions described in the Regulatory Program of the United States Government are included in this Agenda. In general, the Regulation Identifier Number (RIN) for the action is the same for both publications; however, occasionally, several Agenda entries are combined into one Program entry, and a new RIN is assigned to that entry in the Program.

The Unified Agenda provides uniform reporting of data on regulatory activities under development throughout the Federal Government. This edition of the Unified Agenda includes 59 regulatory agendas from all Federal departments, agencies, and commissions that publish agendas. Agencies of the United States Congress are not included. The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, the Institute of Museum Services, and the National Capital Planning Commission have published regulatory agendas in the past but have nothing to report for this edition of the Unified Agenda.

The regulatory activities included in the agency agendas are those currently planned for the next 12 months. The agendas do not include regulations excluded from review under E.O. 12291 such as those concerning military or foreign affairs functions and regulations related to internal agency management.

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601) requires that agencies publish regulatory agendas identifying those rules that may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Agencies meet that requirement by including the information in their submissions for the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

In addition, Executive Order 12612 of October 26, 1987, entitled "Federalism" (3 CFR 1987 Comp., p. 252) directs executive departments and agencies to identify proposed regulatory provisions that have significant federalism implications. As part of this effort, agencies include in their submissions for the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations information on whether their regulatory actions may have an effect on various levels of government.

The Agenda also helps fulfill the statutory requirement that the Office of Federal Procurement Policy (OFPP) publish a Procurement Regulatory Activity Report as required by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988 (102 Stat. 4055; 41 U.S.C. 402). In their agendas, agencies indicate which regulatory actions are procurement-related, as well as whether or not there is a statutory requirement or a paperwork burden associated with the procurement-related actions. This procurement information is used by OFPP to produce its report.

The Unified Agenda is produced through a computer system designed and maintained by the Center with the advice and assistance of the Government Printing Office. The system was designed to save agencies time and money by automating the preparation and printing of their agendas in a uniform format and to make the Agenda easier to use. In order to further facilitate producing the Agenda, many agencies currently use computer terminals at their offices to enter agenda information into the Center's computer system.

All agendas contain uniform data elements -- regulation title, significance, legal authority, CFR citation, legal deadline, abstract, timetable, small entities affected, government levels affected, procurement, agency contact, and a unique Regulation Identifier Number. Agencies also include any additional information they consider important. If any of the data elements is not included, the agency either did not report the information or may provide an explanation in its preamble. For further information, please contact the individual agency.

Congress generally authorizes a single Federal agency to implement, through regulation, a specific policy objective. Sometimes, however, a statute may require that several agencies issue regulations to accomplish the objective. In such cases, the agencies, working with a central coordinator, jointly publish the documents issued in the course of the rulemaking proceeding. These proceedings are referred to as Governmentwide common rules.

In this edition of the Unified Agenda, one Governmentwide common rule is reported by the agencies participating in its development. It is "New Restrictions on Lobbying." Agencies participating in the development of this common rule have reported it in their individual parts of the Unified Agenda.

The Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations is published in April and October of each year. We welcome comments on this edition and suggestions for improving future ones.

How To Use the Unified Agenda

Each agency agenda appears as a separate part in this edition of the Federal Register. The parts are organized alphabetically in four groups: Cabinet departments, other executive agencies, joint authorities, and independent agencies. Departments are divided into agencies, which may in turn be divided into subagencies.

Each agency begins its agenda with a preamble providing information specific to its agenda. Each agency lists its rules in four groups:

1. Prerule Stage -- actions agencies will undertake in the next 12 months to determine whether or how to initiate rulemaking. Such actions occur prior to a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking and may include Advance Notices of Proposed Rulemaking (ANPRMs) and reviews of existing regulations.

2. Proposed Rule Stage -- actions for which agencies plan to publish a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) as the next step in their rulemaking process or for which the closing date of the NPRM Comment Period is the next step.

3. Final Rule Stage -- actions for which agencies plan to publish a final rule or an interim final rule or to take other final action as the next step in their rulemaking process.

4. Completed Actions -- actions or reviews the agency completed or withdrew since publishing its last agenda. This section also includes items that were begun and completed between issues of the Unified Agenda.

An agency may use a subheading to identify regulations that it has grouped according to a particular topic. When these subheadings are used, they appear above the title of the first regulation in the group.

A bullet (●) preceding an entry indicates that the entry appears in the Agenda for the first time.

All entries are numbered sequentially from the beginning to the end of the Agenda. The Agenda Sequence Number (Seq. No.) preceding the title of each entry identifies the location of the entry in this edition of the Agenda. The same number is used in the indexes to enable readers to find entries on specific subjects.

For each agency that requests it, the Center provides a computer-produced Table of Contents that appears after the preamble of the agency's agenda. The agency Tables of Contents help readers locate quickly those entries within an agency that may be of most interest to them. Sequence numbers also appear in agency Tables of Contents.

The Agenda contains three indexes. The first two indexes list the regulatory actions that agencies believe may have effects on small entities and/or levels of government. In addition, the Agenda contains a Subject Index based on the Federal Register Thesaurus of Indexing Terms to help readers locate entries from various agencies that may affect a particular area of interest. The index also contains cross references to assist the reader's search.

Entries describing regulations in the Agenda should contain, at a minimum, the following information:

- Title of the Regulation.
- Significance -- an indication of the significance of the entry that appears when:
  a. The action is included in the Regulatory Program of the United States Government for the current program year, or
  b. the agency otherwise considers the action a priority.

The Significance heading appears only if the entry is a significant action.

- Legal Authority -- the section(s) of the United States Code (U.S.C.) or Public Law (P.L.) or the Executive order (E.O.) that authorize(s) the regulatory action. Agencies may provide popular name references to laws in addition to these citations.
- CFR Citation -- the section(s) of the Code of Federal Regulations that affects or will be affected by the action.
- Legal Deadline -- an indication of whether the rule is subject to a statutory or judicial deadline, the date of that deadline, and whether the deadline pertains to an NPRM, a Final Action, or some "Other" action.
- Abstract -- a description of the problem the regulation will address; the need for a Federal solution; to the extent available, the alternatives that the agency is considering to address the problem; and the potential costs and benefits of the action.
- Timetable -- the dates and citations (if available) for all past stages and at least the next future stage of rulemaking. If a date appears in this section as 00/00/00, it means the date of the action is presently undetermined. Similarly, 10/00/92 means the agency can predict the month and year the action will take place but not the day it will occur.
- Small Entities Affected -- indicates whether the rule is expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities" as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601) and, if so, whether the small entities are businesses, governmental jurisdictions, and/or organizations.
- Government Levels Affected -- indicates whether the rule is expected to affect levels of government and, if so, whether the governments are local, State, and/or Federal.
- Agency Contact -- the name, title, address, and phone number of a person in the agency who is knowledgeable about the regulation.
- Procurement -- a statement identifying procurement-related actions and indicating whether there is a statutory requirement for the action and whether or not there is a paperwork burden associated with the action. The Procurement heading appears only if the entry is a procurement-related action.

Some agencies have provided other optional information at their discretion.

Data Limitations

Agencies prepared entries for this edition of the Unified Agenda to give the public notice of their plans to review, propose, and issue regulations. They have tried to predict their activities over the next 12 months as accurately as possible, but dates and schedules are subject to change. Agencies may withdraw some of the regulations now under development, and they may issue or propose other regulations not included in their agendas. Agency actions in the rulemaking process may occur before or after the dates they have listed. The Agenda does not create a legal obligation on agencies to adhere to schedules within it or to confine their regulatory activities to those regulations that appear in it. The information in this edition is accurate as of August 23, 1991, in the judgment of the submitting agencies, except as otherwise noted in individual agency preambles. Where applicable, individual actions will be subject to review for compliance with E.O. 12291, the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988, and the Paperwork Reduction Act at appropriate points in the regulatory process.

List of Abbreviations

The following abbreviations appear throughout this edition of the Agenda:

ANPRM -- An Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking is a preliminary notice that an agency is considering a regulatory action. The agency issues an ANPRM before it develops a detailed proposed rule. The ANPRM describes the general area that may be subject to regulation and usually asks for public comment on the issues and options being discussed. An ANPRM is issued only when an agency believes it needs to gather more information before proceeding to a notice of proposed rulemaking.

CFR -- The Code of Federal Regulations is an annual codification of the general and permanent regulations published in the Federal Register by the departments and agencies of the Federal Government. The Code is divided into 50 titles, and each title covers a broad area subject to Federal regulation. The CFR is keyed to and kept up-to-date by the daily issues of the Federal Register.

EO -- An Executive order is a directive from the President to an executive agency, issued under constitutional or statutory authority. Executive orders are published in the Federal Register and in title 3 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

FR -- The Federal Register is a daily Federal Government publication that provides a uniform system for publishing Presidential documents, all proposed and final regulations, notices of meetings, and other official documents issued by Federal departments and agencies.

FY -- The Federal fiscal year runs from October 1 to September 30.

NPRM -- A Notice of Proposed Rulemaking is the document an agency issues and publishes in the Federal Register that describes and solicits public comments on a proposed regulatory action. Under the Administrative Procedure Act, an NPRM must include, at a minimum:

- A statement of the time, place, and nature of the public rulemaking proceeding;
- A reference to the legal authority under which the rule is proposed; and
- Either the terms or substance of the proposed rule or a description of the subjects and issues involved.

PL -- A Public Law is a law passed by Congress and signed by the President or enacted over his veto. It has general applicability, as opposed to a private law that applies only to those persons or entities specifically designated. Public laws are numbered in sequence throughout the 2-year life of each Congress; for example, PL 102-5 is the fifth public law of the 102nd Congress.

RFA -- A Regulatory Flexibility Analysis describes the impact of a proposed rule on small entities as required by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601). An RFA describes why the agency is considering the action; the objectives of and legal basis for the proposed rule; an estimate of the number of small entities that could be affected and the compliance requirements they would have to fulfill; any other duplicative, overlapping, or conflicting Federal rules; and alternatives to the proposed action. When required, an initial RFA accompanies an NPRM, and a final RFA accompanies a final rule.

RIA -- A Regulatory Impact Analysis is required by E.O. 12291 for all major rules and other regulations designated by the Office of Management and Budget. An RIA is prepared to determine whether a proposed regulatory action meets the requirements of section 2 of E.O. 12291; namely, that it:

- Be based on adequate information concerning the need for and consequences of the action;
- Not be undertaken unless the potential benefits outweigh the potential costs to society;
- Maximize net benefits to society;
- Entail the least net cost to society of the alternatives considered; and
- Take into account the condition of particular affected industries, the national economy, and contemplated future regulatory actions.

RIN -- The Regulation Identifier Number is assigned by the Regulatory Information Service Center to identify each regulatory action listed in the Agenda. Many agencies include RIN numbers in the headings of their Rule and Proposed Rule documents when publishing them in the Federal Register.

Seq. No. -- An Agenda Sequence Number identifies entries in the Agenda's indexes.

USC -- The United States Code is a consolidation and codification of all general and permanent laws of the United States. The USC is divided into 50 titles, and each title covers a broad area of Federal law.

1. NATIONAL LABORATORY ACCREDITATION PROGRAM

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: PL 101-624, Sec 1321 to 1330

CFR Citation: Not applicable

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The 1990 Farm Bill authorized the creation of a National Accreditation Program (NALP) for laboratories that request accreditation and conduct residue testing of agricultural products or that make claims to the public or buyers of agricultural products concerning chemical residue levels on agricultural products. The program is designed to protect human health by ensuring that laboratories which make claims to the public concerning pesticide residue levels meet minimum quality and reliability standards. The standards for the NALP will be provided by the Food and Drug Administration with the operation of the program under the Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA. The program costs will be off-set by a fee schedule. The one-time appropriation will be used to construct a fully equipped pesticide laboratory to verify the findings of those laboratories applying for accreditation.

2. PESTICIDE RECORDKEEPING FOR PRIVATE APPLICATORS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: PL 101-624, Sec 1491

CFR Citation: 07 CFR 110

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The USDA, in consultation with EPA, will establish requirements for recordkeeping by all certified applicators of federally restricted use pesticides. Annual reports to Congress on agricultural/nonagricultural uses of federally restricted pesticides are mandated. The identity of individual producers in these reports and surveys will be protected. Currently no recordkeeping requirements exist at the Federal level for certified private applicators. Most State commercial applicator certification programs require some form of recordkeeping. All certified applicators will be required to keep records similar to those maintained by commercial applicators. States that do not have any type of recordkeeping regulations will fall under a Federal program which requires the following information; product name, amount applied, agricultural commodity, approximate date of application, and location of application. To implement, USDA will delegate operational responsibilities to States through cooperative agreements. AMS will oversee the Federal program.

8. REGULATIONS UNDER THE FEDERAL SEED ACT

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1551 to 1611 Federal Seed Act

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 201 to 202

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Changes in the regulations of the Federal Seed Act (FSA) are to be proposed to eliminate differences between FSA and Association of Official Seed Analysts (AOSA) testing rules as well as differences between minimum seed certification standards of the FSA and those of the Association of Official Seed Certifying Agencies (AOSCA). The FSA regulates the interstate shipment of agricultural and vegetable seed, which is required to be labeled with certain information needed by the seed buyer. The Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) has cooperative agreements with each of the 50 states who inspect and test seed being sold in their state. Interstate shipments of seed found to be mislabeled can be submitted to AMS for action under the FSA. States test seed according to AOSA rules. AMS must test according to FSA rules. Any alternative to the changes, could in some cases cause seed labeled according to a test conducted by AOSA rules to be mislabeled when tested according to FSA rules, or cause seed certified by an AOSCA member agency to be not in compliance with the FSA. On balance these changes will likely result in no cost or a net savings to the seed industry.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1621 to 1627 Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 56

Abstract: The proposal clarifies and updates provisions of the regulations in response to changing industry practices, program direction, and policy interpretation. Changes to reflect current industry practices would affect grading room requirements, references to the tape used to seal cartons, and the reuse of oil from shell egg protecting operations. Changes to clarify and strengthen existing regulations would affect the definition of "quality assurance inspector," the facilities and equipment required for graders, the temperature of the spray rinse in shell egg cleaning operations, and the nest run B quality shell definition. Other changes will be to require a specific level of humidity in cooler rooms to help maintain egg quality and to eliminate wholesale grades and weight classes because they are no longer used.

Abstract: The promulgation of revisions to the Cotton Research and Promotion Order within statutory guidelines is mandated by the "Cotton Research and Promotion Act Amendments of 1990," if the Secretary determines that such revisions to the Order will assist in carrying out the Act. This Act dictates basic provisions which require a revised Order to include: (1) terminating the right of producers to demand a refund of assessments; (2) importer representation on the Cotton Board; (3) the assessment of imported cotton and cotton containing products; (4) increasing the amount that the Secretary of Agriculture can be reimbursed for conduct of a referendum from $200,000 to $300,000; (5) reimbursing government agencies who assist in administering the collection of assessments on imported cotton and cotton products; and (6) to provide for a producer and importer requested referenda every five years. The Act does not provide for the Secretary's discretion to consider alternatives. (cont)

21. INSPECTION AND CERTIFICATION OF QUALITY OF AGRICULTURAL AND VEGETABLE SEED UNDER THE AGRICULTURAL MARKETING ACT OF 1946 INCREASE TESTING FEES

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 75

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: An increase in seed testing fees is being proposed. The Agricultural Marketing Act (AMA) provides for the inspection and certification of quality of agricultural and vegetable seed in order to bring about efficient, orderly marketing of seed and to assist the development of new and expanding markets. The AMA provides for the collection of fees and charges equal to the cost of providing the service. The service is voluntary and available to anyone. Most seed tested under the program is exported to countries requiring a Federal Seed Analysis Certificate on U.S. Seed. Alternatives to an increase in the fees and charges are eliminating the service or reducing the cost for providing the service. Eliminating the service will make the shipment of seed to some countries more difficult because there is no other source for a Federal Seed Analysis Certificate. Reducing costs such as for supplies, equipment and personnel will reduce the accuracy of the tests and undermine the credibility of the program. A fee increase is needed to generate approximately $20,000 in additional revenue to cover expenses at the 1990 workload level.

35. 1992 CROP MARKETING QUOTAS FOR FIVE KINDS OF TOBACCO

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1312(a) et seq; The Agricultural Act of 1938, as amended, Sec 312

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Marketing quotas and acreage allotments are required by legislation for these five kinds of tobacco (Fire-cured (type 21), Fire-cured (types 22-23), Dark Air-cured (types 35-36), Virginia sun-cured (type 37), and Cigar Filler and Binder (types 42-44 and 53-55)). The purpose of quotas and allotments is to balance supply with demand at levels that assure stable supplies for domestic and export use at prices that are fair to producers. Marketing quota and acreage allotment determinations are based on 10-year average marketings adjusted for trends to yield the "reserve supply level" as defined by legislation. Marketing quotas are implemented if approved by producers in referenda. Producers approved quotas for the 1992 crop for Type (42-44, 53-55). Referenda for the other types are scheduled for 3/91 and 3/92. Producers of these types have historically voted in favor of quotas. Gross loan outlays under the price support and quota program of $2 million are expected in FY 1993. These outlays will be offset by loan redemptions and no-net-cost assessments in FY 1993 and subsequent years, for a net cost of $0.

39. AMEND U.S. WAREHOUSE ACT (USWA) REGULATIONS TO PROVIDE 1) LIQUIDATION PROCEDURES, AND 2) INFORMAL HEARINGS FOR USWA LICENSED WAREHOUSEMEN

Legal Authority: 7 USC 268; The United States Warehouse Act

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 735 to 742

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under current procedures, when a USWA warehouse is in violation of USWA regulations, the warehouseman's license is suspended until the problem is corrected. If it cannot be corrected, liquidation may be initiated by a State or financial institution to satisfy liens against the warehouse. Because USWA regulations do not currently provide liquidation authority, the Secretary cannot assure that all grain storage depositors will be equally protected. This action would provide the authority for the Secretary to close and take control of a warehouse, including stock liquidation, to protect all grain depositors. This action would also give USWA licensees an opportunity for informal hearings in cases of license suspension. There are no expected outlays as a result of this action.

Abstract: The objective of this action is to amend the regulations governing the procurement of commodities as required by the Food, Agriculture, Conservation, and Trade Act of 1990 (the 1990 Act). The 1990 Act requires that CCC shall, without detriment to any port range, allocate, on the principle of lowest landed cost (LLC) without regard to the country of documentation of the vessel, 50 percent of the bagged, processed, or fortified commodities for Title II (PL 480) donations. In addition, the 1990 Act provides that CCC limit the Great Lakes port range to a percentage share under this procedure that is no greater than in 1984, and that cargo allocated to Great Lakes ports may not be shipped from other port ranges except to meet U.S. flag cargo preference requirements. This action will result in no more than a $5 million increase in annual Government outlays.

43. FARMER-OWNED RESERVE (FOR) PROGRAM FOR THE 1991 CROP OF WHEAT

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1445e; The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, Sec 1123; PL 101-624; The Food, Agriculture, Conservation, and Trade Act of 1990

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, December 15, 1991.

Abstract: The objective of this action is to formulate and administer a FOR program as required by legislation. The FOR program provides extended loans (at no less than the current loan rate) and storage payments to producers to enable this to store their crops when supplies are abundant, extend the time period for orderly marketing, and provide adequate carryover stocks to ensure a reliable supply. The primary determinations are 1) terms and conditions, and 2) maximum quantity of wheat to be stored in the FOR. Entry of wheat into the FOR would be expected to reduce loan redemptions by about $400 million in FY 1991. Loan redemptions and storage payments in FY's 1992 through 1995 would result in a net cost over the FY 1991-95 period of about $100 million.

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, February 1, 1992.

Abstract: The burley tobacco marketing quota and price support are required by legislation. The purpose of the quota and price support is to balance supply with demand at levels assuring stable supplies for domestic and export use at prices that are fair to producers. The national quota is based on manufacturers' intentions, 3-year average exports, an adjustment to maintain loan stocks, and a discretionary adjustment of plus or minus 3 percent. The price support level is based on a formula that weights average market prices (2/3) and a cost index (1/3), plus discretion to limit any increase to 65 percent of the formula increase. Gross loan outlays of $55 million are expected in FY 1993. These outlays will be offset by loan redemptions and no-net-cost assessments in FY 1992 and subsequent years, for a net cost of $0.

47. 1992-CROP PRICE SUPPORT LEVELS FOR SIX KINDS OF TOBACCO

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1445 et seq; The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, Sec 106

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Price support is required by legislation to stabilize prices for these six kinds of tobacco (Fire-cured (type 21), Fire-cured (types 22-23), Dark Air-cured (types 35-36), Virginia sun-cured (type 37), Puerto Rican Cigar Fill (type 46), and Cigar Filler and Binder (types 42-44 and 53-55)) when marketing quotas are in effect. Marketing quotas are implemented, if approved by producers in referenda, to achieve a supply equal to the "reserve supply level" as defined by legislation. No quota will be in effect for type 46 because supplies are well above that level. Producers approved quotas for the 1992 crop for type (42-44, 53-55). Referenda for the other types are scheduled for 3/91 and 3/92. Producers of these types have historically voted in favor of quotas. The primary determination to be made is price support levels. Gross loan outlays under the price support and quota program of $2 million are expected in FY 1993. These outlays will be offset by loan redemptions and no-net-cost assessments in FY 1993 and subsequent years, for a net cost of $0.

Abstract: The objective of this action is to balance supply with demand at a level that will assure stable supplies for domestic use and assure producers a stable income. This action is required by legislation, which provides a formula for computing the national quota. The quota must equal the amount estimated to be devoted to domestic food, seed, and related uses, and may not be less than 1.34 million tons. The primary determination is in regards to the national poundage quota. The quota is set by statutory formula, based on the Secretary's estimate of the amount of peanuts required for domestic food, seed, and related uses for the 1992 marketing year. The 1992 marketing year is from August 1, 1992, through July 31, 1993. The net cost is expected to be $3 million.

92. ● AMEND WAREHOUSE STANDARDS TO INCLUDE MINOR OILSEEDS AS ELIGIBLE FOR STORAGE UNDER THE UNIFORM GRAIN STORAGE AGREEMENT

Legal Authority: 15 USC 714; Commodity Credit Corporation Charter Act

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1421

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The objective of this action is to amend warehouse standards to include minor oilseeds as eligible for storage under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement (UGSA). In order to carry out a price support program for oilseeds, adequate commercial storage space must be available. Current warehouse standards permit only wheat, oats, corn, rye, barley, sorghum, flaxseed, and soybeans to be stored under UGSA. Therefore, it is proposed that the standards be amended to include the sunflower, canola, rapeseed, safflower seed, and mustard seed as eligible commodities under UGSA. There are no expected costs to the government associated with this action.

93. ● AMEND U.S. WAREHOUSE ACT (USWA) REGULATIONS TO CLARIFY THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF USWA INSPECTORS AND WEIGHERS

Legal Authority: 7 USC 268; The United States Warehouse Act

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 736

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will clarify the duties, responsibilities, and authorities of inspectors licensed under the USWA and the USGSA. There has been recent concern over possible conflicts between the USWA and the USGSA with respect to inspection requirements for various grain transactions. FGIS regulates and implements the USGSA, and ASCS regulates and implements the USWA. FGIS inspections and weights are mandatory on exported grain, and are classified as "official." FGIS "official" inspections and weights are provided, upon request, for grain in domestic trade. The USWA allows quality and quantity determinations to be made unofficially. Most USWA warehousemen operate as grain merchants as well as warehousemen. Therefore, it is necessary to establish the quality and quantity of grain to be stored or in storage. "Official" inspection and weighing is often not necessary or unavailable, especially at interior country elevators. This action will amend the regulations to identify inspections and weights available to producers, warehousemen, and others. There are no expected costs to the government associated with this action.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1421; The Disaster Assistance Act of 1989, Section 104(a)

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1477

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The objective of this action is to implement the provisions of the Disaster Assistance Act of 1989 that apply to producers of non-program agricultural commodities in South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Puerto Rico, or the U.S. Virgin Islands that are eligible for disaster payments as the result of Hurricane Hugo. Current provisions require that repeat crops (i.e., multiple croppings of the same commodity) that were damaged by Hurricane Hugo qualify for benefits on the basis of the percentage of the entire season's production of the commodity. The net cost to the government is expected to be $1.4 million.

Abstract: Exotic Newcastle Disease (also known as viscerotropic velogenic Newcastle disease and as VVND) and psittacosis or ornithosis (now generally referred to as chlamydiosis) are communicable diseases of birds and poultry. The spread of these diseases in the United States could have serious consequences for the United States poultry industry. A review of the Department's regulations to prevent the interstate spread of these diseases indicates the need for a complete revision to make the regulations more effective and to increase compliance with them.

Abstract: The Department is proposing to revise "Subpart--Imported Fire Ant," which contains quarantine and interstate movement regulations for the containment and control of this destructive plant pest. Executive Order 12291 and Department Regulation 1512-1 require that agencies initiate reviews of currently effective rules to bring about the goal of reduction of regulatory burdens and to minimize impacts on small entities. The proposed rule is part of the scheduled review of "Subpart--Imported Fire Ant" to meet regulatory review requirements. Revising the regulations would make them easier to understand, thereby increasing compliance and the effectiveness of the regulations in preventing the interstate spread of the imported fire ant.

Abstract: The Department currently regulates the importation of certain animals and animal products to prevent the introduction of communicable animal diseases into the United States. With certain exceptions, most animals imported into the United States must be quarantined upon arrival at facilities operated by the Federal Government; only sheep, birds, and horses may be quarantined in privately-operated facilities. Some importers have expressed interest, however, in importing ruminants and swine, other than sheep, in greater numbers per shipment than can be handled at existing Federal facilities. The Department is considering amending the regulations to allow all species of domesticated ruminants and swine, from countries free of certain serious diseases, to be quarantined upon arrival in the United States at privately operated facilities.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2131 to 2157

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 1; 9 CFR 2; 9 CFR 3

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Department is authorized to regulate the treatment of certain horses and other farm animals under the Animal Welfare Act (the Act). Under the Act, the Department is authorized to regulate the treatment of horses used for research purposes, and is authorized to regulate the treatment of other farm animals, unless those animals are used or intended for use as food or fiber, for breeding management or production efficiency, or for improving the quality of food fiber. As a matter of policy, however, the Department has not been regulating such horses and other farm animals. However, because of the increasing use of these animals for research purposes, the Department has given notice of its intent to regulate such animals, and has requested comments on standards to be developed for the inclusion of these animals under the regulations. These actions will help ensure that the animals are treated humanely, in accord with the Act.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 40 USC 4321

Abstract: The National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) (42 USC 4321, et seq.) and the regulations promulgated by the Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ) (40 CFR 1500 et seq.) require that every Federal agency establish procedures to implement NEPA. The proposed APHIS NEPA Implementing Regulations have been developed to ensure compliance with NEPA and are consistent with the Regulations of CEQ for Implementing the Procedural Provisions of NEPA (40 CFR 1500-1509) and the USDA Regulations for Implementing NEPA (7 CFR lb). These Agency-specific regulations will enable APHIS decision makers to reach decisions in which environmental concerns are fully reviewed and will ensure timely public involvement in the NEPA process. The regulations will identify Agency actions, requirements, guidance, and references for completion of environmental assessments, and environmental reviews. The new APHIS NEPA Implementing Regulations will supersede the previous issues, APHIS Guidelines for Implementing NEPA Procedures (44 FR 50381-50384 and 44 FR 51272-51274), upon publication of the final rule.

Abstract: The Department is reviewing the regulations in 9 CFR Part 92, which, among other things, govern the importation into the United States of certain animals and poultry, and certain animal and poultry products. This is in compliance with Executive Order 12291 and Departmental Regulation 1512-1, which requires agencies to periodically review regulations.

The Department is conducting this Cyclical Review in phases. Phase I, effective August 2, 1990, reorganized the regulations. The Department is now starting Phase II. Subpart C of 9 CFR Part 92, covering horses and certain other equines, is now being reviewed. If the Department determines the regulations should be changed, a notice of proposed rulemaking will be published.

Abstract: Current regulations prohibit, with certain limited exceptions, the importation of ruminants and swine from countries where foot-and-mouth disease (FMD) exists. However, the regulations are unclear with respect to the application of this prohibition to animals that originate in an FMD country but are moved to a FMD-free country and are then offered for importation into the United States. Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2133; 7 USC 2135; 7 USC 2136; 7 USC 2140; 7 USC 2141; 7 USC 2142; 7 USC 2143; 7 USC 2144; 7 USC 2146; 7 USC 2147; 7 USC 2151; 7 USC 2158

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, May 25, 1991.

Abstract: Section 2503 of the Farm Bill, entitled "Protection of Pets" instructs APHIS to amend the Animal Welfare regulations to require that dogs and cats be held for at least 5 days at pounds and shelters and at licensed research facilities. Additionally, the Farm Bill instructs APHIS to require that dealers provide a valid certification to anyone acquiring random source dogs and cats from those dealers. The certification would have to identify the dealer, the animal, and the source of the animal, and would have to accompany the shipment of the animal. The intent of these provisions is to prevent stolen animals from being entered into research channels and to provide owners with the opportunity to locate their animals.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2803; 7 USC 2809

Abstract: The Department currently lists noxious weeds, allowing for their movement into or through the United States only under a written permit and under conditions that would not involve a danger of dissemination of the weeds. The Department is considering amending the regulations by adding a weed, Melaleuca quenquinervia (Cav.) Blake, referred to as broadleaf paper bark tree, to the list of noxious weeds.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 150dd; 7 USC 150ee; 7 USC 150ff; 7 USC 151 to 167

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 319

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: USDA is developing regulations to restrict the importation of certain types of manufactured wood, such as logs, lumber, wood chips, bark, and pulp wood. There are a variety of plant pests and diseases associated with these articles, and there has recently been increased interest in importing large quantities of these articles into the U.S. At this time we are considering prohibiting the importation of logs and unmanufactured wood from certain tree genera and species, unless they meet importation criteria contained in the regulations and are imported under a permit issued by APHIS. The trees we are considering regulating in this manner are: all coniferous species; Carya; Fagus; Juglans; Liquidambar; Liriodendron; Nyssa; Populus; Quercus; Salix; and Thuja. The importation criteria would address the genus or species of the tree; the nature of the wood article; the country or area or origin; and methods by which the trees were harvested, stored, and treated.

Abstract: The Department regulates the importation of certain animals, animal products, and animal embryos, to prevent the introduction of communicable animal diseases into the United States. Under the current regulations, cattle embryos may not be imported into the United States from countries where rinderpest or foot-and-mouth disease exists. This limits the importation of cattle germplasm to live animals and semen. Live cattle from countries where rinderpest or foot-and-mouth disease exist may be imported through the Harry S. Truman Animal Import Center; importations of animal semen do not provide complete genetics. The Department has proposed to amend the regulations to establish conditions under which cattle embryos could be imported from countries where rinderpest or foot-and-mouth disease exists.

Abstract: The Department currently regulates the importation of poultry and poultry products, including eggs for hatching, to prevent the introduction of certain poultry diseases into the United States. These regulations need to be revised to add restrictions to prevent the introduction of Salmonella enteritidis, serotype enteritidis, phage-type 4 (referred to below as S. enteritidis, phage-type 4), a virulent type of Salmonella that has not been detected in poultry flocks in the United States. Canada is the only country other than the United States in which poultry flocks are recognized as being free of S. enteritidis, phage-type 4. Because poultry and poultry eggs for hatching are being imported from countries where this organism is considered to exist, the Department needs to take prompt action to prevent its introduction into the United States. Safeguards under consideration include testing of individual poultry of the flock of origin in the country of origin, and testing and inspection during quarantine in the United States.

Abstract: The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 (P.L. 101-508) and the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990 (P.L. 101-624) authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to prescribe and collect fees to cover the cost of providing agricultural quarantine and inspection services in connection with the arrival at a port in the customs territory of the United States, or the preclearance or preinspection at a site outside the customs territory of the United States, of international passengers, commercial vessels, commercial aircraft, and commercial trucks or railroad cars. APHIS intends to begin collecting fees April 1, 1991, for inspection services provided at ports in the customs territory of the United States. APHIS plans to collect fees for agricultural quarantine and inspection services, and for preclearance or preinspection services at sites outside the customs territory of the United States, starting at a later date.

Abstract: USDA has established regulations to control the spread of Salmonella enteritidis serotype enteritidis (SE) in egg-type chicken breeding flocks and egg production flocks. These regulations restrict the interstate movement of table eggs, hatching eggs, and newly-hatched chicks that may be infected with SE, and require testing of egg production flocks that have been associated with SE outbreaks in poultry or humans. We believe that future SE control efforts must move beyond the present program's emphasis on identifying and cleaning up infected flocks by trace-back from human disease outbreaks. SE control programs should move toward risk reduction throughout the continuum of food production, distribution, preparation, and consumption, and identify critical control points in this continuum for preventing SE spread. USDA is currently developing necessary research data and standards to measure success in SE control. USDA will then coordinate with other involved Federal agencies to determine whether there is a need for new or revised Federal regulations.

Costs to create new subpart and revise and/or amend existing ones is minimal and would enhance all programs' ability to revise and/or amend the regulations with reduced clearances and provide personnel with clearer and simpler regulations to follow and implement. Will avoid "tie-up" of the regulations for one program subject to changes mandated by legislation or court order for another program, such as SFH changes being held up subject to Farmer Program changes being completed as has frequently been the case.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Present regulations require the Agency to place conservation easements on inventory farm property. Previous owners and operators have the option of leasing back or buying back such property from inventory. This regulation revision will allow these parties to lease or buy these properties back with limited easements. There should be little cost involved for the Government as the value of the easement is reflected in the lease or sale value of the property. It is estimated that less than seven percent of the inventory farm property is involved. The benefit is that the previous owner/operator will receive the property back in a similar condition as when it was taken into inventory, and the Federal Government will be taking affirmative action to reduce wetland loss.

This action is necessary because of an accounting system change resulting from the September 1987 congressionally mandated rural housing asset sale. The intended effect of this action is to adjust the formula to coincide with the revised method of applying monthly subsidy to interest credit accounts. In addition, this action will also shorten and simplify the recapture process.

Abstract: The problem is the need to reduce the Government's cost of providing financial assistance to Farmer Programs Borrowers. Lenders and loan applicants prefer that applicants use the insured loan programs rather than the guaranteed programs due to the lower interest rates on insured loans. This regulation will provide for a government subsidy to lenders for interest rates for guaranteed Farmer Programs loans so the borrower will be paying interest rates for guaranteed loans that is similar to insured loans. This should provide an incentive for using the guaranteed loan program. The potential cost to the Government will be reduced as the Government will only pay a lender up to 90 percent of the losses on loans and only part of the interest rate rather than loaning a borrower the full amount of the loan and paying an investor the full cost of the Government borrowing the money for an insured loan. The benefit is that the borrower will be paying an interest rate for guaranteed loans that is comparable to that for insured loans, the lender will receive the subsidy for the lower interest rate, and the Government (cont)

182. ● FOOD STAMP PROGRAM: LIMIT THE NUMBER OF SHIPPING POINTS IN EACH STATE TO ONE, AND REQUIRE STATES TO SUBMIT ONLY ONE COUPON ORDER PER MONTH FOR THE NEEDS OF THE ENTIRE STATE

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2011 to 2032

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 274

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Throughout the history of the food stamp program, the states have, without any restrictions, determined the number and location of shipping points they deemed necessary or convenient. Coupons have been transported to the states primarily by armored vehicle, although some coupons are shipped by registered mail. As the program has grown and coupon allotments have increased, the capacity of the armored vehicle industry has not expanded in proportion to the volume of coupons to be shipped to numerous shipping points. Complaints about late deliveries have increased because of the level of service that armored carriers have been providing, in some situations, special arrangements have been made to get coupons to states to avoid running out of coupons before all households received their coupons for the month.

183. ● FOOD STAMP PROGRAM: INTRODUCTION OF $20 COUPONS FOR ISSUING BENEFITS AND ALLOWING THE USE OF MORE THAN ONE COUPON DENOMINATION FOR CHANGEMAKING IN FOOD STAMP TRANSACTIONS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2011 TO 2032

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 274; 7 CFR 278

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Several states which use machines to stuff coupon books into envelopes for central mail issuance have suggested that USDA introduce a $20 coupon to issue program benefits. Recent increases in coupon allotments have made the packages of coupon books required for many households too large to be handled with automated stuffing machines. USDA has determined that a new $20 coupon to replace lower denomination coupons to the extent feasible will alleviate the stuffing problem and reduce the postage costs for mail issuance. It will also introduce the use of either a new $2 coupon or the $5 coupon, in addition to the $1 coupon, for making change in food stamp transactions by authorized firms. Cash change will continue to be limited to 99 cents or less in any food stamp transaction.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1758

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 245

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Current policy prohibits the use of information provided on applications for free and reduced price meals for any purpose other than determining eligibility for these benefits. However, there is considerable interest in making this information available for other purposes, such as vocational education, free textbooks or, in one State, Medicare benefits. We recognize the value of sharing information from the standpoint of paperwork reduction; nevertheless, we have a number of concerns about potential misuse of the information. Because the subject is highly sensitive, we are considering a notice of intent to publish a proposed rule. Depending on the response to this notice, we will decide if further rulemaking is justified.

Retroactive for Fiscal Year 1985 quality control payment error rate liability claims.

Abstract: This regulatory action is required because the Hunger Prevention Act of 1988 (PL 100-435) revised the Food Stamp Act of 1977, as amended, specifying that Food Stamp Program quality control (QC) payment error rate (PER) liability appeals by State agencies be conducted by Administrative Law Judges. The use of Administrative Law Judges replaces the current appeal process which is conducted by the State Food Stamp Appeals Board. This regulation will delineate the procedures to be followed in these QC appeals. (88-011)

186. OUTCOME-BASED PERFORMANCE STANDARDS FOR FOOD STAMP EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING PROGRAMS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: PL 100-435

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 271; 7 CFR 273

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, October 1, 1991.
The new performance standards as required by regulations must be implemented by States by October 1, 1991.

Abstract: The Hunger Prevention Act of 1988 mandates that the U.S. Department of Agriculture change the basis of its performance standards for Food Stamp Employment and Training programs from process-based to outcome-based measures. Consequently, the Food Stamp regulations must be revised to reflect the new measurement criteria for performance and the methodology for computing the new standards.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1786

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 246

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, October 1, 1989.
The law made these provisions effective October 1, 1989.

Abstract: This regulation would set forth the major revisions to the funds allocation process brought about by Public Law 101-147. The objective of this action is to provide guidelines for the allocation of funds, including changes in the administrative funding structure, breastfeeding targets, and conversion of food funds to administrative funds.

The revised funding structure eliminates the 20 percent limit on administrative and program services funds. Instead, administrative and program services funding will be determined based on a national administrative grant per person. In addition, State agencies must spend their proportionate shares of at least $8 million for breastfeeding promotion in addition to the current 1/6 nutrition education requirement. For those State agencies that achieve participation increases above the federal projected level through acceptable measures such as cost containment, curtailment of vendor abuse, and breastfeeding promotion activities, conversion of food funds to cover administrative expenses is authorized. Finally any State agency using a cost containment measure may temporarily borrow (cont)

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2011 to 2031; PL 101-624

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 273; 7 CFR 277

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, October 1, 1991. Other, Statutory, October 1, 1990.
See abstract

Abstract: This rule proposes to implement three provisions from PL 101-624 that affect Food Stamp recipient claims and ADP funding. For recipient claims, effective October 1, 1990, the timeframe for household election of a repayment method for intentional Program violation (IPV) claims was reduced from 30 to zero days. Also, effective October 1, 1990 for a five year period, retention rates for collections of recipient claims for State agencies were reduced from 50 to 25 percent for IPV claims and from 25 to 10 percent for inadvertent household errors. Finally, effective October 1, 1991, the enhanced funding rate for costs of planning, designing, developing or installing ADP and information retrieval systems was reduced from 75 to 63 percent. These provisions will increase amounts of recipient claims collected and returned to the Federal Government and decrease Federal Government administrative costs.

192. ● SPECIAL SUPPLEMENTAL FOOD PROGRAM FOR WOMEN, INFANTS, AND CHILDREN (WIC): PART 246.10, FOOD PACKAGE III CHILDREN/WOMEN WITH SPECIAL DIETARY NEEDS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1786

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 246

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Food Package III will be revised to increase the maximum quantity of special formula authorized per month; clarify what formula is; add additional authorized WIC foods to the package; and address tailoring.

Need for Action:

This special dietary package currently provides special formula, juice, and cereal. It was designed specifically to assist low-income women and children who require special formulas due to medical conditions. Without WIC these individuals would have difficulty in obtaining special formulas which tend to be quite expensive. Program administrators, participants and the National Advisory Council on Maternal, Infant and Fetal Nutrition recognize that current monthly maximum quantity of formula allowed is sometimes not sufficient and recommend that it be increased. They also recognized that there is a nutritional need for additional WIC foods to be made available to participants receiving this package. This is a very infrequently used package and the proposed rule will in no way affect the other WIC food packages.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1786

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 246

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule responds to a variety of program concerns, most of which have been expressed by WIC State agencies. The proposal strengthens the provision of services to participants in the areas of eligibility determination and nutrition education and increases State agency flexibility regarding the age of medical data and the sharing of participant information with other programs. Several minor clarifications and technical corrections are also made. Principal provisions include: (1) mandatory minimum content requirements for nutrition education participant contacts; (2) State agency discretion to accept medical data over 60 days old under certain circumstances; (3) Additional flexibility for State agencies to share participant information with related programs; and (4) mandatory eligibility determination within 20 days of request of program benefits, whether by phone, letter, or personal appearance.

Abstract: This rule establishes procedures for State agencies to use to participate in the Systematic Alien Verification for Entitlements (SAVE) system. As required by IRCA, the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) implemented this system. The rule also provides guidelines for Federal reimbursement of administrative costs. In addition the rule implements nondiscretionary provisions of IRCA requiring all household members to attest to their citizenship or alien status and certain requirements relating to documentation of alien status. 205. MISCELLANEOUS QC PROVISIONS OF HUNGER PREVENTION ACT OF 1988

Legal Authority: PL 100-435, Sec 602; PL 100-435, Sec 604(1)

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, October 1, 1985.
Most of the changes are retroactive for Fiscal Year 1986 Quality Control payment error rate liability claims.

Abstract: This regulatory action is required because the Hunger Prevention Act of 1988 (PL 100-435) modified the Food Stamp Program quality control (QC) system provisions of the Food Stamp Act of 1977, as amended. Section 602 requires that State agencies be charged interest on unpaid QC payment error rate (PER) liability claims from the date the billing is received by the State agency, unless the State agency appeals the billing. If the State agency appeals, interest will begin to accrue from the date of the appeal decision or 2 years from the date the billing is received by the State agency, whichever is earlier. Section 604 revised the provisions for paying State agencies enhanced administrative funds for low PERs. It also revises the threshold for State agencies' liabilities for excessive payment error rates. Finally, it provides that PER liability claims will be assessed based on a State agency's total allotments issued, rather than as a percentage of administrative costs. (89-001)

Abstract: This rule would implement three provisions of the 1990 Farm Bill (PL 101-624, 104 stat 3359) which revise the Food Stamp Act of 1977, as amended (7 USC 2011 et seq.). The first provision would amend the definition of "food" to include meals sold to the homeless program participants by restaurants approved by State agencies for this purpose. Such restaurants must contract with the state and must be authorized by the Food and Nutrition Service to provide meals at concessional prices to homeless participants. The second provision would allow a periodic reauthorization of retail food stores and wholesale food concerns to participate in the Food Stamp Program. The third provision prohibits a firm which is primarily in the business of selling food at wholesale from being authorized as a retail food store unless failure to authorize such a firm as a retail food store would cause hardship to food stamp households.

Abstract: The proposed rule clarifies the Department of Agriculture's policy on authorizing and educating retail grocers who take part in the Food Stamp Program. In addition, the rule sets forth changes in assigning penalties to retailers who violate program rules. The regulations clarify and emphasize the full and ongoing responsibility of retailers for their actions and the actions of their employees. Under the proposed regulations, the severity of the penalty would not be affected by any warning received by the retailer prior to an investigation. The penalty would be based on the seriousness of the violations committed during the investigation and the level of responsibility for store operations of persons who committed the violations.

Abstract: This regulation implements the mandates of P.L. 101-147, enacted November 10, 1989, relative to food cost containment in WIC. In order to achieve further savings in the cost of WIC Program foods, principally the cost of infant formula, this rule implements two major legislative provisions. First, it restates and extends into future years the provisions of P.L. 100-460, which mandated that in order to receive its grant allocation a State agency must examine the feasibility of cost containment systems by 8/30/89 and implement a cost containment system where feasible. Second, the rule requires all WIC State agencies using a retail food delivery system, except certain Indian State agencies, to employ one of two infant formula rebate procurement methods. These two methods are the competitive method (single- supplier contract) and the comparative method, where the State agency fairly compares the cost savings of any alternative form of infant formula cost containment it may wish to implement. The rebate system generating the greatest savings of those compared must then be implemented. This rule establishes specific factors to be considered in the analysis of (cont)

If the State agency can justify to FNS that the cost containment method resulting in the greatest total savings would cause demonstrable harm to the efficient and effective operation of the WIC Program a waiver will be granted. Timelines are established in the rule for compliance based on the present rebate contract situation of experiencing unavoidable delays related to the procurement process that prevent the State agency from meeting the implementing timeframes established in the rule.

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 246

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Pursuant to the mandates of the Hunger Prevention Act of 1988 (P.L. 100-435), this rule: (1) defines "homeless individual"; (2) identifies WIC as a supplement to the Food Stamp Program and to meals or food provided through emergency food assistance programs; (3) requires description in the State Plan of how the State agency will provide Program benefits to and meet the special nutrition education needs of the homeless; (4) requires that the State agency announce Program availability and distribute WIC information to organizations serving the homeless and shelters for victims of domestic violence; (5) requires that in prescribing program food packages competent professional authorities take into account the special needs and problems of homeless individuals.

The legislative definition of "homeless individual" includes persons residing in temporary shelters. In the rulemaking we will include conditions for participation of all institutionalized persons, including those in temporary shelters, which ensure that (1) the participant and not the institution, benefits form WIC and (cont)

225. ● SPECIAL SUPPLEMENTAL FOOD PROGRAM FOR WOMEN, INFANTS AND CHILDREN (WIC): NONFUNDING MANDATES OF PUBLIC LAW 101-147

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1786

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 246

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, July 1, 1990.

Abstract: This rule amends regulations governing the WIC Program to comply with mandates of Sections 123 and 213 of the Child Nutrition and WIC Reauthorization Act of 1989 (P.L. 101-147) which are not related to the allocation and use of program funds. The following major areas of WIC Program Operation are addressed in this rulemaking: adjunct income eligibility, program access, dissemination of program information, and breastfeeding promotion activities. This rule also expands State agencies discretion to mail food instruments to participants, allow certain States to implement WIC income Eligibility guidelines at the same time as Medicaid guidelines (but not later than July 1) and reduces the frequency in which all States must review their local agencies from annual to biennial. A number of minor mandates of P.L. 101-147 are also addressed in this rulemaking.

Finally, this rule incorporates into the WIC Program regulations by reference the following Department wide rules: Uniform Administrative Requirements for Grants and Cooperative Agreements to State and Local Governments, 7 CFR

Abstract: This advance notice of proposed rulemaking would solicit comments and recommendations regarding certain criteria FSIS is considering to determine the amenability of various species of poultry to Federal inspection. In addition, the advance notice of proposed rulemaking would solicit comments and recommendations on certain procedures FSIS is considering for requesting voluntary inspection of nonamenable poultry and certain information needed from procedures before a voluntary inspection program could be initiated. Because of increasing use of formerly wild species as animals raised for food purposes (e.g., wild turkeys), and use of biotechnology techniques to create genetic variations of traditional species, the Agency is increasingly in need of a framework for deciding when a specific food animal is subject to inspection laws. As a result of recent petitions concerning a variety of bird species, FSIS would amend the regulations to provide criteria and procedures for determining in a consistent and equitable manner the amenability of specific birds to the PPIA.

FSIS has had recurring problems with establishments using these facilities in lieu of building onto the existing building(s) or moving to a new location. Use of these vehicles and containers creates an unsanitary environment which can lead to contamination of meat and poultry products. The proposal identifies two broad conditions for exemption: (1) products containing 3 percent or less of raw meat or other portion of any carcass, or less than 2 percent of cooked meat or other portion of any carcass, and (2) products that historically have not been considered by consumers as products of the meat food industry. FSIS has determined that residues in bob veal calves have reached stable occurrence. 247. INCREASE IN USE LEVELS OF SODIUM CITRATE AS AN ANTICOAGULANT

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 318

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat inspection regulations to increase the level of sodium citrate allowed to be used as an anticoagulant in blood from 0.2 percent to 0.5 percent. FSIS has been petitioned by American Meat Protein Corporation, Ames, Iowa, to approve an increased use level of this substance as an anticoagulant in blood to 0.5 percent to facilitate the cleaning of equipment and the separation of red blood cells from plasma, as well as to improve sanitation.

248. REQUIREMENTS FOR THE PRODUCTION OF FERMENTED SAUSAGE

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 318; 9 CFR 320

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat inspection regulations to establish specific requirements concerning processing procedures used in the production of semi-dry and dry fermented sausages. Currently, the Agency has only general requirements concerning the processing procedures for these products. This proposal will provide that a manufacturer of semi-dry and/or dry fermented sausages use either a model good manufacturing practice (GMP) procedure with specified or described critical control points, process control limits, and monitoring activities; or an approved processing procedure from a processing authority who would define the critical control points, process control limits, and monitoring activities for each processing procedure. In addition, the proposal requires that all processes for semi-dry and/or dry fermented sausages comply with a set of validation criteria to assure the product is not adulterated. The proposed rule provides the necessary processing requirements to assure that the production of fermented meat food products does not result in adulterated products.

249. USE OF VARIOUS BINDERS IN CURED PORK PRODUCTS

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 318; 9 CFR 319

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat inspection regulations to permit the use of food starch modified and other binders as water retention agents in cured pork products. FSIS has been petitioned by the Corn Refiners Association, Inc., Washington, DC, for the approval of food starch modified at a rate not to exceed 2 percent to enable ham processors to formulate products which will better meet the needs of consumers and food service operators. FSIS is amending the regulations to add several other binders, e.g., carrageenan, sodium caseinate, and isolated soy protein, for use as water retention agents in cured pork products.

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations to permit the use of sodium lactate and potassium lactate as means of reducing certain pathogenic microorganisms in cooked meat and poultry products, and would provide for additional protection against the growth and toxin development of Clostridia botulinum in these products. FSIS has received a petition from Oscar Mayer Foods Corporation, Madison, Wisconsin, to use these substances in various cooked meat and poultry products at levels not to exceed 4.8 percent of the formulation.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

256. PROCESSING REQUIREMENTS FOR DRIED READY-TO-EAT MEAT AND POULTRY PRODUCTS

Legal Authority: 21 USC 451 et seq; 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 318; 9 CFR 381

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations to require establishments to treat certain dried, ready-to-eat meat and poultry products to eliminate microbial contamination. Past food-poisoning outbreaks from dried meat products confirm that present processing requirements do not assure that the finished product is free from contamination by salmonellae. Treatment would assure the destruction of infectious disease bacteria, such as Salmonella, often present on the raw ingredients. The proposed rule would cover all dried ready-to-eat meat and poultry products except fermented sausages and dry cured hams and pork shoulders treated by one of the processing methods in section 318.10(c)(3) (ii), (iii), or (iv) of the Federal meat inspection regulations. The required treatment would either be a lethal heating step, a combination curing and heating process, or an alternate processing method which establishments have shown to be effective. The proposed rule would also contain provisions to prevent contamination of treated product by direct or indirect contact with untreated product.

257. ANTE-MORTEM INSPECTION OF DISABLED ANIMALS ON TRANSPORT VEHICLES

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 309; 9 CFR 320

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat inspection regulations to permit an alternate method of ante-mortem inspection of disabled animals. This method would allow a transport vehicle to be an extension of an official establishment's premises for purposes of ante-mortem inspection of disabled animal(s) that are within the vehicle. FSIS received a request from the Western States Meat Association, Oakland, California, to allow ante-mortem inspection of disabled animals to be performed on a transport vehicle. This proposed rule would (1) specify establishment responsibilities for maintaining control over the transport vehicle, for providing proper ante-mortem inspection facilities, for complying with the veterinary disposition, and for providing assistance to the veterinary Medical Officer when performing the ante-mortem inspection; (2) prescribe the facility requirements needed for safe ante-mortem inspection of disabled animals; and (3) provide the requirements for the written request for this inspection.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq; 21 USC 451 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 322; 9 CFR 381

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations to provide export certification of all meat and poultry products exported to foreign countries. Domestic inspectors certify that the product is USDA inspected and passed, and that all foreign requirements have been met. In 1988, the Agency conducted a pilot test to determine the feasibility of streamlining export certification procedures by centralizing controls; utilizing contemporary communications technology; establishing plant review criteria; and modifying stamping requirements. The export certification project, of which the pilot was a part, continues in 1991. FSIS will review the current regulations and determine what, if any, changes should be considered from the outcome of this project.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 451 et seq; 21 USC 601 et seq

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations by requiring the development and maintenance of a written pest control program by official establishments. The proposed rule would also add provisions to the Federal meat inspection regulations regarding the prior approval of those nonfood compounds not currently listed in the FSIS publication "List of Proprietary Substances and Nonfood Compounds," which are intended for use in establishments. The pest-control-related actions would provide additional assurance that meat and poultry products do not become adulterated as a result of the presence of pests in or around establishments or from the misuse of chemical compounds in controlling pests. The compound approval provisions would provide consistent, enforceable requirements regarding approval and use of nonfood compounds.

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the poultry products inspection regulations to permit the use of tricalcium phosphate in mechanically deboned chicken during the dehydration process to preserve the color of such products. Use of tricalcium phosphate at a proposed level not to exceed 2 percent would sequester the iron present in the blood of mechanically deboned chicken during the dehydration process, thus preventing discoloration (browning) of the product. 273. IRRADIATION OF POULTRY

Legal Authority: 21 USC 451 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 381

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the poultry products inspection regulations to permit the use of ionizing radiation sources to treat fresh or frozen, uncooked whole poultry carcasses or parts and mechanically separated poultry product. Ionizing radiation would be applied for the purpose of controlling and/or reducing various foodborne pathogens that may be present on product to reduce the potential for foodborne illness. The proposal would also prescribe facility and production requirements for those establishments wishing to irradiate product. In addition, the proposal would provide labeling requirements for irradiated product.

274. REMOVAL OF PIECE SIZE REQUIREMENTS AND PACKAGING LIMITATIONS OF IMPORTED FRESH OR CURED MEAT AND MEAT PRODUCTS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 327

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat inspection regulations by eliminating the prohibition against importation of individual meat pieces or trimmings smaller than 2-inch cubes or pieces comparable in size. FSIS was petitioned by Alsmeyer Food Consulting, Potomac, Maryland (on behalf of Melville Developments, Ltd., Papakura, New Zealand), to allow importation of ground lamb in labeled containers of five and 25 pounds. This action will allow ground or comminuted meats, chopped steaks, meat patties, meat loaves, sectioned and formed or ground and formed meat products and products of similar type to be imported in labeled containers of any size.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 21 USC 451 et seq; 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 310; 9 CFR 381

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations to provide the authority needed to permit FSIS to notify those entities determined to have marketed livestock or poultry with violative levels of residues and to test subsequent shipments of livestock or poultry marketed by the violators. These actions would not establish new policy in these areas but would, instead, permit the Agency to enforce current policy.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

Abstract: This notice of proposed rulemaking would solicit comment on the conditions under which an inspected establishment would be permitted to introduce into its slaughter facility a new process or procedure that may affect the safety, wholesomeness or proper marking of product or the conduct of inspection in thet establishment. It would propose that such new technologies may be approved tentatively based upon a showing to FSIS that the technology: (1) works; (2) does not pose increased risks of adulteration or misbranding of product; and (3) will not impact negatively on the conduct of inspection. Tentative approval also would require agreement by the establishment to develop data as necessary to demonstrate the validity of the initial showing and to support final approval of the technology. Approvals would be conditional upon the development and maintenance of a comprehensive quality control program that, primarily, ensures finished carcasses and parts meet standards specified for them in the regulation.

Subsequently, FSIS requested the National Academy of Sciences (NAS) to review the proposed procedures. FSIS is evaluating the NAS report and is considering whether to proceed with this rulemaking.

Abstract: This rule will add a new exception to the requirement that the list of ingredients on the labels of meat food products shall show the common or usual names of the ingredients. The exception would apply to the use of Mechanically Separated (Species) (MS(S)), at levels no greater than ten percent of the livestock and poultry product portion of a meat food product, providing that the labeling of such product bear a calcium content declaration in accordance with section 317.2(j)(13)(ii) of the Federal meat inspection regulations (9 CFR 317.2(j)(13) (ii)). This rule will also establish (1) holding temperature and time requirements for raw meat used for cooked, uncured meat patties; (2) internal temperature and time combination processing requirements for fully and partially-cooked, uncured meat patties which are char-marked with heat but remain raw; (3) a requirement that a cooking instruction be placed on the label of partially-cooked and char-marked, uncured patties, instructing the final preparer to cook the patties to a well done state (a minimum internal meat temperature of 160 degrees Fahrenheit); and (4) requirements to assure that fully-cooked, uncured meat patties are not contaminated after cooking. This action will prevent instances of illness from the consumption of such patties.

Abstract: This rule will amend the poultry products inspection regulations to permit the use of added water in turkey ham. The new standard provides for several categories of products that are delineated according to the protein content on a fat-free basis. FSIS was petitioned by the National Turkey Federation, Reston, Virginia, to establish protein fat-free values for turkey ham to promote product standardization and permit producers of turkey ham to compete more equitably with pork producers. This rule will replace the current provision which limits the amount of added water and other substances contained in turkey ham products by requiring the weight of the finished product to be no more than the original weight of the turkey thigh meat used prior to curing.

Abstract: This final rule would amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations by eliminating the official import seal and current sealing requirements for imported product which is transported before reinspection. There is no practical way FSIS can ensure compliance with the sealing requirements. Given the volume of imported product (2.1 billion pounds per year) and FSIS's limited resources (90 import inspectors), it is physically impossible for FSIS personnel to seal each conveyance in which imported product might be transported or to break the seals, if affixed, once product arrives at its intended destination. U.S. Customs' regulations permit movement in-bond without further sealing (provided foreign country seals have been affixed), and Customs does not have the resources to provide special handling services regarding imported meat and poultry products.

Abstract: This rule will amend the Federal meat and poultry products inspection regulations to provide "streamlined" inspection procedures for the reinspection of Canadian meat and poultry products and by exempting Canadian meat and poultry products offered for importation from the requirement that such product and/or containers of product be marked with the official mark of inspection once they are passed for entry into the United States. These actions stemmed from the Canada-United States Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act of 1988, Pub. L. 100-449. These actions specifically responded to one goal of the Agreement whereby both countries are charged with liberalizing agriculture trade practices by seeking ways to eliminate technical or procedural requirements which now may serve to impede trade in agricultural products.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 318

Abstract: This rule will amend the Federal meat inspection regulations to provide additional methods for processing dry sausage and dry cured ham to destroy trichinae (Trichinella spiralis larvae) which may be encysted in the pork meat component. The methods have been developed and validated to be effective by FSIS-supported research at one university and by three manufacturers who supported validating work at another university and independent laboratories. Two of the manufacturers wish to use the ham methods for proscuitto, an Italian-style dry-cured ham; however, the methods can be applied to any dry-cured ham. Two of the three methods are rapid high temperature methods--one for dry-cured ham, the other for two size ranges of sausage. The third method is a slower low temperature for dry-cured ham.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 451 et seq

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the poultry products inspection regulations to provide that poultry products containing pork as an ingredient must comply with all applicable provisions of section 318.10 of the Federal meat inspection regulations regarding trichina, including the provisions regarding whether or not treatment for the destruction of trichinae is necessary for certain products and under certain circumstances. FSIS was petitioned by Olsson, Frank, and Weeda, Washington, DC. The petitioners stated that there are inconsistencies between the meat and poultry products inspection regulations. As a result of the inconsistencies, some meat products containing pork, in certain specific and under specified conditions, may be exempt from trichinae treatment requirements. The regulations do not contain similar exemptions for poultry products.

318. ● CHANGING THE TERM "FAIR MARKET VALUE" IN 36 CFR 223.60 TO "FAIR EXCHANGE VALUE" AND CHANGING EMPHASIS AWAY FROM TRANSACTION EVIDENCE

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1600

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 223.60

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The term "fair market value" has created a certain amount of confusion over the years in that some interpret the term to be appraised or advertised value of timber offered and others interpret it to mean the value of the bid rate of timber sold. This definition will be clarified by changing the term "fair market value" to "fair exchange value" and providing the following definition: "The objective of National Forest timber pricing is to sell timber at the fair exchange value. The fair exchange value is the bid value of the timber sale of normal contractual requirements awarded to a willing buyer by a willing seller when bids are generated by two or more competitors."

The present 36 CFR 223.60 weighs heavy to the Residual Value appraisal system. Since the National direction is to convert to the Transaction Evidence appraisal system by 10/01/92, the emphasis in the CFR needs to be changed.

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend subpart F, part 223 of title 36 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Section 223.200, to list species proposed to be surplus to domestic manufacturing needs.

This proposed rule would implement a portion of Section 489(b) of the Forest Resources Conservation and Shortage Relief Act of 1990 (16 USC 620 et seq.) Section 489(a) of the Act provides that no person who acquires unprocessed timber originating from Federal lands west of the 100th meridian in the contiguous 48 States may export such timber from the United States, or sell, trade, exchange or otherwise convey such timber from the United States, unless such timber has been determined under subsection (b) to be surplus to the needs of timber manufacturing facilities in the United States. Section 489(b) of the Act provides that the prohibition contained in subsection (a) shall not apply to specific quantities of grades and species of unprocessed timber originating in Federal lands which the Secretary concerned determines to be surplus to domestic manufacturing needs, issued in accordance with section 553 of title 5, USC.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 43 USC 1764; 31 USC 483a; 30 USC 181 Mineral Leasing Act; 16 USC 551

Abstract: The objective of this rulemaking is to conform the rule to the requirements of 3 laws approved since the regulation was revised in 1980. These laws include special provisions for authorizing irrigation and livestock watering facilities constructed prior to 1976, electrical and telephone facilities financed pursuant to the Rural Electrification Act of 1936, and special uses in Alaska. In addition, the proposed rulemaking will clarify applicant responsibilities for providing data and studies needed to process a special use application and will provide for the advanced payment of land use rental fees for longer time periods, including the life of the special use authorization. That portion of this action relating to collection of reimbursable costs for processing special use applications is being deferred and will be addressed as a new action in a future agenda. For other changes affecting special use applications and authorization of special uses, see Agenda entry RIN 0596-AA20.

323. PROHIBITION ON MECHANICAL TRANSPORT AND OTHER ACTIVITIES IN WILDERNESS

Legal Authority: 16 USC 113 to 136; 16 USC 528 to 531; 16 USC 577 to 577c; 16 USC 1133

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 293.6(a); 36 CFR 261

Abstract: Except where specifically provided for, the Wilderness Act (16 USC 1133) prohibits both motorized equipment and mechanical transport. Mechanical transport includes devices such as bicycles, hang gliders, wheeled carts, and other items designed to carry people or supplies and powered by either "nonliving" or "living" power sources. The objective of this action is to clarify the definition of mechanical transport in 36 CFR 293.6(a) and to make corollary revisions in the prohibitions applicable to wilderness use, including prohibiting competitive events and expanding the definition of aircraft to include hang gliders, parachutes and parasail. Abstract: Changes in existing regulations are needed to implement provisions of the Federal Land Exchange Facilitation Act of August 20, 1988, as well as to correct errors, delete obsolete portions, update to reflect current authorities, and clarify ambiguities. Upon consideration of public comment and further coordination with the Bureau of Land Management which is also developing rules to implement the act, the agency has decided to issue a new proposed rule.

325. APPLICATION PROCEDURES AND FEES FOR HYDROELECTRIC USES ON NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM LANDS

Legal Authority: 16 USC 551; 43 USC 1761

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 251.54; 36 CFR 251.57

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: A revision of Agency procedures is needed to reduce confusion regarding the role of the Forest Service in permitting hydroelectric uses on National Forest Systems lands. The goal of the directives will be to establish procedures, compatible with the procedures of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) for obtaining various approvals and involvement of the Forest Service in a timely manner.

In addition, the directives will establish a fee system for hydroelectric uses as required by Title V, Section 501 of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976. A Notice of Proposed Policy was published 6/8/84 and comments were received. The proposed policy will take those comments into account.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 478; 16 USC 551; 43 USC 1701 et seq

Abstract: Since the regulations were promulgated in 1974, certain legal requirements have changed due to the provisions of the Wilderness Act and recent court decisions; some sections of the regulations no longer apply and revisions and updating are necessary. Major changes proposed will specifically address the requirements for wilderness operations and, secondly, will clarify the mechanism for administering locatable mineral activities not conducted on mining claims but which are nevertheless authorized by the 1872 mining law.

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 261; 36 CFR 262

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The rules at 36 CFR Part 261 declare the range of unacceptable public behavior when visiting or using National Forest System lands. Among topics covered are prohibitions on setting campfires in certain areas, unlawful cutting of trees, and other unlawful uses of resources and property of the National Forest System. Violations of these prohibitions carry legal penalties. The rules at 36 CFR Part 262 address impoundment of property and rewards for information leading to arrest.

Review has examined the adequacy of the rules for administration of the National Forest System and whether changes in conditions, laws, or other factors require revision. The agency has completed its review and is now preparing a proposed rule to revise the prohibitions.

329. REVISE SMALL TRACTS ACT REGULATIONS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 521(c) to 521(i)

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 254, Subpart C

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Implementation of the agency's Small Tracts regulations has revealed an inadvertent inconsistency between the regulations at 36 CFR 254.35(f) and 254.41(a) and the legislative history of the Small Tracts Act of January 12, 1983. The regulations imply that the disposal of mineral fractions by sale can only be made in response to an application from an abutting landowner, thus discouraging the conveyance by sale to the public. The Act clearly authorizes sale of mineral fractions to the public through public sale, as well as individual applications, provided that certain conditions are met. The revisions will clarify the application of the Act to ensure that both individual applications and public sale are permissible means of disposing of qualifying tracts.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: A Federal District Court has ruled that existing regulations discriminate against groups who wish to gather on National Forests to exercise their first amendment rights of assembly and free speech. The proposed rule will seek to remove ambiguities regarding these first amendment rights.

The agency is reviewing the rules of other Federal land managing agencies for possible approaches and is considering establishing separate rules for authorizing short-term, noncommercial uses of National Forests.

There will be no additional costs as a result of the proposed rule change. The benefit will be that the Forest Service will be able to adequately regulate large group use on the National Forests in a manner that ensures protection of the public health and safety and National Forest resources.

332. HELLS CANYON NATIONAL RECREATION AREA—PRIVATE LANDS

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 292, Subpart E (New)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Forest Service proposes to issue regulations concerning use of private lands in the Hells Canyon National Recreation Area (HCNRA) on the Oregon - Idaho border, as required in PL 94-199. The intended effect of this action is to establish standards for use and development of privately owned lands within the HCNRA.

The standards are intended to achieve the following management objectives for the Recreation Area: (1) The conservation and continuance of forest land for forest uses and farm land for farm uses; (2) The maintenance and protection of the free flowing nature of rivers within the HCNRA; (3) Conservation of scenic, wilderness, cultural, scientific, and other values contributing to the public benefit; (4) Preservation, especially in the area generally known as Hells Canyon, of all features and peculiarities believed to be biologically unique; (5) Protection and maintenance of fish and wildlife habitat; (6) Protection of archaeological and paleontological sites; (7) Preservation of historic sites associated with and typifying the economic and social history of the region (cont)

333. SOLID WASTE DISPOSAL POLICY

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 16 USC 497; 43 USC 931c

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Solid waste disposal sites (sanitary landfills) on National Forest System lands present the potential for resource degradation, hazardous waste dumping, and future liability. A proposal for solid waste disposal is being developed to reflect changes which have occurred as a result of the Resource and Conservation Recovery Act, the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act, and an increased knowledge of solid waste disposal. The proposal would prohibit the authorization of new sites and provide for the phase out of existing sites. During the phase out period, authorizations would be amended to provide resource protection and limit the Government's potential liability. Adoption of this policy would reduce administrative costs associated with administration of solid waste disposal sites, limit future liability, and protect the resources on National Forest System lands. The proposal would impact 110 sites currently authorized.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 472a; 16 USC 528 to 531; 16 USC 1600 et seq; 12 USC 1 et seq

CFR Citation: None

Abstract: In a 1987 court decision, a letter of credit issued in lieu of surety bond was found to be unenforceable because the person who signed the letter of credit did not have authority to do so and because the bank had violated State law in regard to limits of liability. Others were invalid because they exceeded the expiration date. To remedy this problem, the Forest Service is proposing to issue a requirement that the bank president certify as to the authority of the person signing the letter of credit and the conformance with State and Federal statutes. An automatic extension of the expiration date would also be required.

Legal Authority: PL 100-446, Sec 323; 30 USC 601; 30 USC 603

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 228, Subpart C

Abstract: This regulation is a direct response to the direction in Section 323 of Public Law 100-446 which classified quartz mineral on the Ouachita National Forest in Arkansas as no longer subject to location under the General Mining Law of 1872. These materials are now to be managed in the same manner as common varieties of mineral materials under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture. Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: PL 100-691

Abstract: These regulations will implement the Federal Cave Resources Protection Act of 1988, which requires that the rules define what is a significant cave for purposes of this Act. The Act also requires that the rules address an inventory of cave resources, provide for confidentiality of information concerning the nature and location of caves on Federal land, and permits for collection and removal of cave resources. Legal Authority: 16 USC 472(a); 16 USC 618

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 223.101

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Recently, as the number of timber sale defaults have increased, the number of debarred purchasers have increased, and the Government has initiated a policy of only doing business with responsible parties, it is becoming commonplace for bidders to form new affiliates in order to continue to be awarded Forest Service timber sale contracts. Unless the bidder voluntarily identifies affiliates, the Agency must make the determination through a time consuming process prior to award, prior to determining if double downpayment rules apply, and prior to taking debarment action. This rule would require bidders to disclose, prior to award of sales, all affiliates, and to certify that none are suspended or debarred. Filing false claims would be cause for contract cancellation and debarment action.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 497

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 251

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The policy for administering recreation residences on National Forest lands was adopted August 16, 1988 (53 FR 30924) and subsequently appealed under the administrative appeal process (36 CFR 211.18). In rendering his decision on the appeal the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Natural Resources and Environment suspended certain provisions related to tenure and the offering of in-lieu sites; designated the remaining features interim policy; and directed the Chief of the Forest Service to review and reconsider the entire policy (54 FR 23499: June 1, 1989). The policy is being reconsidered and alternatives are being developed. The purpose of the policy is to improve the administration of recreation residence permits and implement a revised fee schedule that obtains fair market value for the use. The policy affects about 15,800 permittees.

339. FEE POLICY FOR RESERVOIRS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 43 USC 1764

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Forest Service proposes to change the policy and procedure for determining the land use rental fees for dams and reservoirs located on National Forests lands that are authorized by special use authorizations. This would eliminate the need for individual appraisals of reservoir areas and would reduce the cost of administering the special use permits. The fees would be comparable to the fees charged by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for reservoirs on Federal lands. There would be no change in the fee waiver policy for reservoirs. Reservoirs that are currently exempt by law from payment of land use rental fees would not be affected by the proposed change in policy.

Legal Authority: 30 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 228, Subpart C

Abstract: Currently rules pertaining to prospecting permits and preference right negotiated sales apply only to minerals on acquired National Forest lands. This limitation is felt to encourage parties to locate mining claims on other National Forest lands under the mining laws of 1872, when it would be more appropriate to apply for a sale of mineral materials. This proposed rule would expand the use of prospecting permits to other National Forest System lands and responds to a recent change in the definition of mineral materials and clarification of those minerals that are subject to mining claims and those that are subject to sale.

Abstract: The current rules at 36 CFR Part 251 Subpart C provide appeal procedures for holders of or certain applicants for land use and occupancy authorizations. Experience under this rule indicates a need to revise the rule as to purpose and scope and appealable decision. Questions have arisen on whether terms and conditions of the permit and routine administration of the permit by the Forest Service are appealable. In addition, the rule is silent on administrative review of decisions regarding recomputation of timber volume shares for small timber purchasers and decisions related to determination for the need for structural changes in a market area under the small Business Timber Set Aside program. 345. GOVERNMENT CANCELLATION OF TIMBER SALE CONTRACTS

Legal Authority: 16 USC 551

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 223.40; 36 CFR 223.116

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Current regulations governing cancellation of National Forest timber sale contracts do not adequately protect the Government's financial interests in the event the Forest Service is forced to cancel contracts due to events beyond its control arising from compliance with environmental statutes. This rulemaking would remove an unworkable compensation of damages formula, remove limits applicable to length of contract term, and establish a termination for environmental protection clause in timber sale contracts, a standard in most Federal procurement contracts.

Abstract: Title 12 of the 1990 Farm Bill authorizes funds to be distributed equally to state foresters and rural volunteer fire departments to conduct preparedness and mobilization activities, including training, equipping, and otherwise enabling State and local firefighting agencies to respond to requests for fire suppression assistance. Rules are needed to establish an equitable process for distributing funds among 50 States and 28,000 qualifying rural volunteer fire departments and to ensure accountability of funds.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 551; 16 USC 472

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 217

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: While the agency is on record as viewing the appeal process as the public's last administrative opportunity to influence the outcome of National Forest System planning and decisionmaking, the Forest Service has also made it clear it believes better resource decisions and fewer challenges of those decisions will result if interested individuals and organizations become involved early in the planning and decisionmaking process. Therefore, the Forest Service is proposing changes to its appeal regulations concerning decisions of Forest officers. The changes address 7 problem areas identified by the agency in a recently completed review of the regulations: standing, purpose, complexity, intervention, inconsistency, negotiation and timeliness.

348. CONSERVATION OF FISH, WILDLIFE, AND THEIR HABITATS; CHUGACH NATIONAL FOREST, ALASKA

Legal Authority: PL 96-487 Title V

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 241, (New)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: December 2, 1980, the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act was signed into law. Section 501 (b) of the law requires that the Secretary of Agriculture promulgate regulations for the conservation of fish and wildlife and their habitats on the Chugach National Forest. The general National Forest System regulations and other existing laws governing management of National Forest System lands are applicable except as supplemented by these regulations or amended by the ANILCA, August 17, 1984. The new Chugach National Forest land management plan was appealed by 17 appellants. The settlement agreement specifies that subject to valid existing rights, the Forest Service will not allow timber harvest, road construction, surface occupancy for mineral leasing prior to publication of final regulations or completion of management area analysis for the Copper River Management Area. There are no alternatives to development of these regulations.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Objectives are to set forth Forest Service procedures and role in the regulation of Indian allotments on National Forest System land. The Indian Allotment Act, as amended, authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to make allotments of National Forest System lands to Indians for homesteading and agricultural and grazing purposes. The Forest Service has relied upon USDI rules and procedures at 43 CFR 2533 to govern its involvement in Indian allotment cases. Litigation and a decision by the Interior Board of Land Appeals indicate the need for the Forest Service to set forth its own regulations when the Forest Service determines that lands are not chiefly valuable for agricultural and grazing purposes.

350. SURETY BOND FORM REVISION

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 31 USC 9301 to 9309; 31 USC 223 to 225

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Following a period of high-priced timber sales bid prior to 1982, the Forest Service experienced a number of contract defaults on these sales. Subsequently, the Forest Service has had difficulty collecting from some sureties on the bonds guaranteeing performance on these sales. As part of a financial security initiative affecting future sales, the Forest Service is proposing to revise the payment and performance bonds to clarify surety's obligation in regard to what is being guaranteed, when payment is due in case of default, what additional charges will be assessed if payment is not made when due and when collection action may be suspended. Other alternatives include eliminating surety bonds as a form of security, reducing surety guarantee to mid-point and periodic payment and retention of current bond forms. Upon adoption the final revised bond forms will be issued for use by Forest Service Contracting and Fiscal Officers for future timber sale contracts.

352. HELLS CANYON NATIONAL RECREATION AREA—USE OF NATIONAL FOREST LANDS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 460(gg) Hells Canyon National Recreation Area

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 292, Subpart F (New)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In Oregon Natural Resource Council v Lyng, the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the Secretary must promulgate regulations as required by the Hells Canyon National Recreation Act (HCNRA) governing federal and private land uses in the HCNRA. The Department had argued that such rules were discretionary and the agency's comprehensive management plan for the NRA, which was prepared as required by the Act, was sufficient to guide management of the area. As a result of the court's ruling, the risk of litigation to halt ongoing activities, particularly timber sales, is high. Accordingly, there is an urgent need to promulgate an interim rule governing management of the federal lands in the HCNRA. While many existing regulations governing National Forest System lands, remain applicable to the Hells Canyon NRA, pending projects and plans are vulnerable to continued litigation until final rules are effective. An interim rule is the most expeditious way to effect rules. Public comment will be invited on the interim rule and will be considered in development of the final rule. (cont)

This is unacceptable because of the potential for disruption to management of the area and the regulatory void that would be created by the longer time frames involved in going through a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

353. INTERVENTION IN APPEALS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 551; 16 USC 472

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 217

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The current rule at 36 CFR Part 217 provides for a streamlined intervention process. Intervention is granted if requested within 20 days of the filing of a notice of appeal. If request is timely, intervenors have an additional 30 days after receiving a copy of the Notice of Appeal from the Reviewing Officer to file comments on issues raised in the Notice of Appeal. Three problems have surfaced with this process: the definition of "filing"; timeframes available for requesting intervention; and the actual comments that intervenors are to submit. The agency will propose a revision of the appeal rules problems.

354. CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE NATIONAL COMMISSION ON WILDFIRE DISASTERS

Legal Authority: 16 USC 551

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 200

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Public Law 101-286 authorized the establishment of a National Commission on Wildfire Disasters, funding for which is to be raised by contribution. The act requires the Secretary of Agriculture to promulgate regulations to "assure that the aggregate amount of contributions from any one person, group or entity shall not exceed 10 percent of the total amount of funds that will be contributed to the commission." The Commission must meet by March 1991 and the act requires the Commission to dissolve 90 days from issuance of its report on December 31, 1991. Therefore, an Interim Rule will be needed to guide handling of contributions of funds to support the Committee's work by the time the Committee meets.

Abstract: The Forest Service proposes to strengthen the government's contract financial position by: the elimination of the $500,000 performance bond ceiling; increasing the bid guarantee to 10 percent of the advertised value; assessing damages for contract repudiation based on resale value; and conditions. In addition, the Forest Service is proposing to increase the amount of contract security to deter speculative bidding, decrease the potential for contract defaulting, and provide additional guarantee for payment in the event of default damage claims. Following notice and comment, these changes will be issued in the form of instruction to agency contracting officers in the Forest Service Directive System.

Abstract: These rules are necessary to carry out the restrictions placed on the export of unprocessed timber from Federal lands and the restrictions on the direct and indirect purchasing of Federal logs to be used in substitution for the export of unprocessed timber originating from private lands. The rules are mandated by the Forest Resources Conservation and Shortage Relief Act of August 20, 1990. The Act calls for various rules to be issued. This information will be used to make the annual report to Congress as required in the 1985 amendments to FPPA. Since the elimination of these sections of the existing rule was not included in the 1987 proposed rule, and the fact that almost 4 years have passed since the proposed rule, this proposed rule is being published for additional public comments.

Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Commerce.

ACTION: October 1991 regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: In compliance with Executive Order (E.O.) 12291 entitled "Federal Regulation" and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (Pub. L. 96-354), the Department of Commerce, in April and October of each year, publishes in the Federal Register an agenda of the rulemaking actions covered by section 1 of E.O. 12291 that the Department plans to conduct or review over the next 12 months. Rulemaking actions are grouped according to prerulemaking, proposed rules, final rules, and rulemaking actions completed since the April 1991 agenda. The purpose of the agenda is to provide information to the public on regulations currently under review, being proposed, or issued by the Department. The agenda is intended to facilitate comments and views by interested members of the public.

The Department's October 1991 regulatory agenda includes regulatory activities that are expected to be conducted during the period October 1, 1991, through September 30, 1992.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Specific: For additional information about specific regulatory actions listed in the agenda, contact the individual identified as the contact person.

General: Comments or inquiries of a general nature about the agenda should be directed to Michael A. Levitt, Assistant General Counsel for Legislation and Regulation, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, DC 20230; telephone: 202-377-8843.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: E.O. 12291 requires all executive agencies to publish semiannually an agenda of those regulations that are under consideration pursuant to this order. By memorandum of June 11, 1991, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) issued guidelines and procedures for the preparation and publication of the October 1991 Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations. E.O. 12291 and the OMB guidelines require that each agency's agenda report the following information on non-exempt regulatory activities being conducted or planned to be conducted by the agency during the 12-month period succeeding publication: The title of the regulation; the name, title, address, and phone number of an agency person who is knowledgeable about the regulation; whether the action is expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities and whether it will affect levels of government; the section(s) of the Code of Federal Regulations which will affect or be affected by the action; the section of the United States Code, Public Law, or Executive order that authorizes the action; an indication of whether or not the entry is a significant regulatory action included in the Administration's Regulatory Program and if the agency considers it a priority action; an abstract describing the problem the regulation addresses, alternatives to the regulation being considered, and potential costs and benefits of the action; legal deadline, if any; and a timetable of dates and, if available, Federal Register citations for past stages of the action. In addition, OMB requires that procurement-related regulatory actions include additional information on all actions that are covered by section 22 of the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988. This information will be used by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy in preparing the "Procurement Regulatory Activity Report."

The Regulatory Flexibility Act requires agencies to prepare a regulatory flexibility analysis where there is a positive finding that a rule will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. E.O. 12291 requires agencies to prepare a regulatory impact analysis for any regulation considered to be a "major rule" as defined in the order.

Explanation of Information Contained in the Agenda

Within the Department, the Office of the Secretary and various operating units may issue regulations. Operating units, such as the Economic Development Administration, the Bureau of Export Administration, the International Trade Administration, the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST), the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), and the Patent and Trademark Office, issue the greatest share of the Department's regulations.

A large number of regulatory actions reported in the agenda are proposed or final Federal Information Processing Standards (FIPS) issued by NIST under Public Law 100-235. FIPS consist of standards and guidelines to improve Federal Government use and management of computers and information technology. The standards, while often of great use to industry and the public, apply only to the Federal Government. In developing the standards and guidelines and in providing technical guidance and coordination to Federal agencies, NIST works closely with private industry standard-setting organizations.

Another large number of regulatory actions reported in the agenda deal with fishery management programs of NOAA's National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS). To avoid repetition of programs and definitions, as well as to provide some understanding of the technical and institutional elements of the NMFS programs, a section on "Explanation of Information Contained in NMFS Regulatory Entries" is provided below.

Explanation of Information Contained in NMFS Regulatory Entries

The Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976 (16 U.S.C. 1801 et seq.) (Act) governs the management of fisheries within the Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ). The EEZ refers to those waters from the outer edge of the State boundaries, generally 3 nautical miles, to a distance of 200 nautical miles. Fishery Management Plans (FMPs) are to be prepared for fisheries which require conservation and management measures. Regulations implementing these FMPs regulate domestic fishing and foreign fishing where permitted.

Foreign fishing can be conducted in a fishery for which there is no FMP only if a preliminary fishery management plan has been issued to govern that foreign fishing. Under the Act, eight Regional Fishery Management Councils (Councils) prepare FMPs or amendments to FMPs for fisheries within their respective areas. In the development of such plans or amendments and their implementing regulations, the Councils are required by law to conduct public hearings on the draft plans and to consider the use of alternative means of regulating.

The Council process for developing FMPs and amendments makes it difficult for NMFS to determine the significance of some regulatory actions under consideration at the time the semiannual regulatory agenda is published. Frequently, NMFS does not have specific plan objectives or alternatives for management, since the Councils may not have approved or submitted plans to the Secretary of Commerce for review, adoption, and implementation.

The DOC October 1991 regulatory agenda follows.

407. CONTRACT CLAUSES AND SOLICITATION PROVISIONS FOR THE COMMERCE AUTOMATED SOLICITATION SYSTEM

Legal Authority: 41 USC 251 et seq; PL 98-369; PL 98-577

CFR Citation: 48 CFR 1301 to 1353

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Department of Commerce is currently reviewing standardized contract clauses and solicitation provisions for inclusion in a planned departmentwide automated solicitation system. A proposed amendment to the Commerce Acquisition Regulation (CAR) would illustrate and incorporate these standardized clauses and provisions. This should ultimately be less burdensome to Department contractors and potential contractors, since the clauses and provisions would be used uniformly throughout the Department.

Legal Authority: 41 USC 251 et seq

CFR Citation: 48 CFR 1301 to 1353

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed amendment will revise the CAR to incorporate references to the Department's Acquisition Manual chapter on formal source selection procedures and will also add agency procedures in those areas of the CAR where the FAR specifies that agency procedures are required. In addition, the proposed amendment will update the CAR to conform with the latest policies and procedures of the FAR.

409. ● MODIFY REQUIREMENT IN THE COMMERCE ACQUISITION REGULATION TO PUBLISH PRESOLICITATION NOTICES IN THE COMMERCE BUSINESS DAILY FOR DOC PROCUREMENTS WHICH WILL BE PERFORMED IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Legal Authority: 41 USC 251 et seq

CFR Citation: 48 CFR 1305

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Revise the Commerce Acquisition Regulation, Part 5 to reflect class deviation that presolicitation Commerce Business Daily notices are not required for foreign procurements. The current procedures are burdensome and delay the procurements needlessly. Most of the potential sources are foreign firms and publishing the presolicitation notices does not achieve government goals of increasing competition among U.S. firms. The revised regulation will require notices to be provided if there are a significant number of U.S. firms doing business in the location and these firms are able to provide the required supplies or services.

410. ● MODIFY THE COMMERCE ACQUISITION REGULATION TO USE A DEVIATION VERSION OF A FEDERAL ACQUISITION REGULATION CLAUSE ON THE BUY AMERICAN TRADE AGREEMENT ACTS

Legal Authority: 41 USC 251 et seq

CFR Citation: 48 CFR 1325; 48 CFR 1352

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Revise the Commerce Acquisition Regulation to authorize the use of a contract clause which deviates from the FAR Clause at 52.225-9 "Buy American Act-Trade Agreements Act-Balance of Payments Program" and the provision at 52.225-7 "Buy American Act-Trade Agreement Act-Balance of Payment Program Certificate." The revision will permit the case of a provision and clause which does not give U.S. firms a disadvantage against foreign firms. Recently the FAR provision and clause were found to be in violation of the Trade Agreement Act. The proposed CAR Regulation will remain in effect only until the FAR is revised to correct this problem. The rule is in accord with the governmentwide policies established by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy.

Abstract: This action will amend existing rule 15 CFR 806.7 to provide for the conduct of the BE-12, Benchmark Survey of Foreign Direct Investment in the United States -- 1992, as required in the International Investment and Trade in Services Survey Act, 22 USC 3101 to 3108 (see especially section 4(b) of the Act). 413. ● CHANGE IN REPORTING REQUIREMENTS FOR BE-22, ANNUAL SURVEY OF SELECTED SERVICES TRANSACTIONS WITH UNAFFILIATED FOREIGN PERSONS

Legal Authority: 22 USC 3101 to 3108 Int'l Investment & Trade in Svcs Survey Act

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 801

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will amend existing rule 15 CFR 801.9(b)(6) to bring reporting on the BE-22, Annual Survey of Selected Services Transactions With Unaffiliated Foreign Persons, into conformity with proposed reporting requirements on the BE-20, Benchmark Survey of Selected Services Transactions With Unaffiliated Foreign Persons -- 1991 and, perhaps, to add coverage of financial services. The BE-22 is the annual, follow-on survey that updates the quinquennial BE-20. Changes proposed for the BE-20 with respect to exemption levels and types of services covered will be considered for the BE-22. In addition, coverage of financial services on the BE-22 may be considered although such services have not been included on the proposed BE-20 for 1991. A major 1992 initiative of BEA is to improve coverage of financial services in the U.S. international accounts. If a decision is made not to add coverage of financial services to the BE-22, it is likely that a new, separate survey will be proposed to cover such services. In that event, a separate regulatory action will be required and will be identified in a subsequent submission to the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 801

Abstract: This action will replace the existing rule 15 CFR 801.10 with a new rule to provide for the conduct of the BE-20, Benchmark Survey of Selected Services Transactions With Unaffiliated Foreigners -- 1991, as required by the International Investment and Trade in Services Survey Act, 22 USC 3101 to 3108 (see especially Sec. 4(a)(5) of the Act). Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 13 USC 301 to 307

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 30.1 to 30.92

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Review of 15 CFR 30 for changes to conform with the new statistical classification (harmonized system for imports and exports). This review will combine elements of housekeeping changes, updating obsolete information, clarification, bringing the system into line with harmonization (including metric measurements), and conformance of reporting with current practices. There should be no added burden or costs placed on the public because no additional information is required, nor new reporting requirements.

The benefits of these changes will be: allowing direct comparisons between U.S. imports and exports, enabling comparisons between trade balances of the United States and of our major trading partners.

With the passage of the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988, there is no alternative to making these changes in order to conform to the legislation.

Additionally, section 30.54 will be revised to raise the exemption from Shipper's Export Declaration filing requirements for exports by mail from $500 to $2,500.

Abstract: Chapter 19 of the United States-Canada Free Trade Agreement established a system under which final antidumping and countervailing duty determinations of both the United States and Canada are subject to review by independent binational panels. The legislation implementing the Agreement authorized the Department to issue regulations necessary to implement Chapter 19. Regulations are necessary to establish procedures concerning notice of intent to seek judicial review, requests for panel review, notice of receipt by Canada of class or kind determinations, continued suspension of liquidation pending panel review, release of business proprietary and privileged information under protective order during a panel review, and sanctions for violations of such protective orders. Abstract: On July 12, 1985, the Export Administration Amendments Act of 1985 (PL 99-64) extended and amended the Export Administration Act of 1979 (50 USC app 2401, et seq.)(EAA). Certain changes were made to the Short Supply provisions of section 7 of the EAA. Accordingly, revision of the Short Supply provisions (15 CFR 777) and related licensing requirements (15 CFR 771 and 799) of the Export Administration Regulations (15 CFR 730-799) is necessary. An interim final rule was issued which included (1) elimination of the validated licensing requirement for exports of refined petroleum products so as to permit their export with certain restrictions under a general license; (2) a new definition of "crude oil" for purposes of the regulation; and (3) certain technical and housekeeping changes. There are no costs associated with this action which would promote the export of decontrolled products. The Export Administration was made a Bureau in October 1987. The Export Administration Regulations were thereafter transferred from 15 CFR 368-399 to 15 CFR 730-799. Furthermore, the Export Administration Act of 1979 was amended on August 23, 1988, by the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness (cont)

Abstract: The Defense Priorities and Allocations System (DPAS) implements the priorities and allocations authority of Title I of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended and the priorities authority of section 468 of the Selective Service Act of 1948. The DPAS was published as a final rule on July 30, 1984. Based on the findings and recommendations of an interagency sponsored study concerning the controlled materials program, and comments from both defense agency and industry users, this proposed rule would amend the DPAS to remove the controlled materials provisions and make certain revisions to its procedural requirements. These amendments will have no costs associated with them, would reduce the regulatory and information reporting burden on industry and make the DPAS more effective and efficient, and would result in cost savings for defense contractors.

Abstract: On June 24, 1987, the President issued a national security override for a finding of foreign availability for certain types of sputtering equipment controlled under ECCN 1355A of the Commodity Control List. As a result of this override, export controls on the equipment were maintained pending the conclusion of negotiations with the source country to eliminate the foreign availability. The statutorily authorized 18-month negotiating period expired on December 24, 1988, with the source country agreeing to eliminate foreign availability for sputtering equipment until May 31, 1989. The source country has since agreed to eliminate foreign availability for certain types of sputtering equipment for an additional period. This rule amends ECCN 1355A by decontrolling to free world destinations that sputtering equipment that the source country has not agreed to control, and by maintaining controls on that equipment for which foreign availability has been eliminated.

Abstract: In accordance with section 5(a)(A) of the EAA, as amended by the 1988 Trade Act, this rule revises section 776.12 of the EAR to reduce export and reexport controls on U.S.-origin parts and components incorporated in foreign-made products. Under section 776.12 prior authorization is not required when U.S.-origin content comprises 25 percent or less and the foreign-made product is exported to a country listed in Supplements 2 and 3 to Part 773, i.e., countries cooperating in nuclear non-proliferation policy. This interim rule revises section 776.12 to apply the 25 percent exemption to all destinations, except the embargoed countries. The 10 percent exemption, but not the dollar value limitation, is continued for these proscribed destinations. The rule also exempts from control foreign-made products incorporating U.S.-origin content consisting of low level technology specifically designated on the Commodity Control List.

Abstract: The Department proposes to revise the foreign boycott provisions of the Export Administration Regulations. The revisions would clarify the application of: (1) the intent provision to the reporting requirement; (2) the jurisdictional requirements relating to the implementation of letters of credit; (3) the furnishing information prohibitions to information about the nationality of directors and about blacklisted persons; (4) the shipping requirement exception to refusals to use blacklisted vessels; and (5) the import and shipping document exception to information about the nationality of carriers and residence of manufacturers or suppliers. The revisions are intended to clarify areas of confusion. In addition, the proposal would remove many references and provisions dealing with effective dates and grace periods that are no longer applicable.

Abstract: Section 786.3(h) of the Export Administration Regulations contains certain requirements for listing commodities on the Shipper's Export Declaration (SED). This interim rule will amend section 786.3(h) to permit general license commodities and validated license commodities to be listed on the SED. The rule also will revise section 786.3(h) to clarify that the commodities that may be listed on the same SED must be included in one shipment on board a single carrier and must be from the same exporter to the same consignee.

Abstract: The Bureau of Export Administration is revising section 771.18 of the Export Administration Regulations (15 CFR Parts 768-799), which contains provisions on the applicability of General License GIFT for exports from the United States. General License GIFT authorizes export of parcels from U.S. individuals or charitable organizations overseas. General License GIFT is modified to allow no more than one gift parcel from the same donor to the same donee in any one month. Currently, one parcel may be shipped each week. This change is intended to assure that the license is utilized in conformity with its intended purpose, namely the donative provision of gifts between individuals. Specific authorization to exceed this limit may be granted on a case-by-case basis to meet compelling humanitarian concerns (e.g., gifts of medicine to relatives). The Bureau of Export Administration will grant case-by-case exemptions through issuance of a validated license. For clarity, new text is added on appropriateness of items as gifts.

It also reflects the current situation of international trade, which is conducted (almost) exclusively in the metric system. Abstract: The Commodity Control List is based on the Multinational Industrial List, agreed to by the 17 member nations of the Coordinating Committee (COCOM). COCOM has agreed to replace the Industrial List with a totally new "Core List." The Core List will be arranged and numbered differently. Since the CCL is now based on the Industrial List Numbering System, the entire CCL will have to be reformatted to adapt to the new system. The new list incorporates format changes to make it easier to use. While exporters will have to make major changes in their systems to adjust to a totally new control list, they should also benefit from a tighter, more specific list and an improved format that will simplify the process of determining export controls on their products.

456. TRANSFER OF DUAL USE ITEMS FROM U.S. MUNITIONS LIST TO COMMODITY CONTROL LIST

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 50 USC 2401 et seq; 50 USC 1702 et seq; EO 12571; EO 12730

Abstract: The COCOM Industrial List (IL) controls so-called dual-use items, which have both civil and military uses. There is not a direct correspondence between the IL and BXA's Commodity Control List (CCL) because some IL items are controlled by the State Department in the U.S. munitions list.

In his November 15, 1990 memorandum of disapproval of H.R. 4653 the President determined that, "By June 1, 1991, the United States will remove from the U.S. munitions list all items contained on the COCOM dual-use list unless significant U.S. national security interests would be jeopardized." This rule will implement BXA controls through the CCL on those items removed from the U.S. munitions list as a result of the President's decision.

468. ● FASTENER QUALITY

Significance: Regulatory Program

DOC—NIST Proposed Rule Stage

Legal Authority: PL 101-592

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 280

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, May 15, 1991.

Abstract: This rule will implement the Fastener Quality Act. In 1990, Congress enacted the Fastener Quality Act (the Act) to protect public safety, deter introduction of nonconforming fasteners into commerce, improve traceability of fasteners used in critical applications, and provide customers with greater assurance that fasteners meet stated specifications. The Act requires that certain fasteners sold in commerce conform to the specifications to which they are represented to be manufactured; provides for accreditation of laboratories engaged in fastener testing; and requires the inspection, testing, and certification (in accordance with standardized methods) of fasteners used in critical applications.

Abstract: This standard adopts an American National Standard (X3.159-1989) which defines the syntax of the C programming language and the semantics for its interpretation. The standard will be used by implementors as the reference authority in developing compilers, interpreters, or forms of high-level language processors and by other computer professionals who need to know the precise syntactic and semantic rules of the standard. Use of this standard will promote the portability of programs between different systems, and will enable organizations to more fully utilize staff training and skills.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801-81 Magnuson Act

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 620

Abstract: The amendments to the Magnuson Act of November 14, 1990, added several new prohibitions such as the ban on large-scale driftnet fishing and the prohibition on assaulting observers. The regulations at 50 CFR 620 contain the prohibitions that apply generally to domestic fishing regulated under the Magnuson Act. The regulations must be amended to reflect the recent amendments to the Magnuson Act and to update and improve current language generally. The alternative would be to leave the regulatory language as it is now. This would be unacceptable because it would leave the regulation out of date and inconsistent with the current statutory language. The benefits would be to improve the current regulations and to clarify the scope of the new statutory language. There are no potential costs identified.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1853(f)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Problem: The National Marine Fisheries Service requires scientific data about the state of various fisheries in order to provide better management. In the past, much of this data has been collected by voluntary fishery data collectors placed aboard private vessels by NMFS. Owners and operators of these vessels have expressed concern that information collected by these voluntary fishery data collectors might be used against them in a subsequent enforcement proceeding, thereby affecting their willingness to take on these collectors. Solution: The newly enacted statute "restricts" the use of data obtained by voluntary fishery data collectors in subsequent enforcement proceedings brought pursuant to the Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act, 16 USC 1801, the Marine Mammal Protection Act, 16 USC 1361, and the Endangered Species Act, 16 USC 1531.

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 216; 50 CFR 218; 50 CFR 222

Abstract: This rule will establish a minimum distance for approaches to marine mammals by humans, vessels, aircraft, and thrillcraft. These regulations are considered necessary because of the increasing popularity of whale watching and similar activities. Guidelines have not been effective in protecting marine mammals from this growing industry and from individuals wishing to view these animals too closely. An interim regulation regarding approaching humpback whales in Hawaii is working far better than previously used guidelines.

528. SEA TURTLE CONSERVATION; SHRIMP TRAWLING REQUIREMENTS

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 217; 50 CFR 222; 50 CFR 227

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) has determined that there is a need to enhance enforcement and compliance of the 1987 Sea Turtle Conservation Regulations (50 CFR parts 217, 222, and 227) to provide adequate protection to endangered and threatened sea turtles. In addition, NMFS has determined that there is a need to strengthen the conservation measures of these regulations. This is necessary because a significant number of shrimp fishermen are failing to properly use and operate qualified turtle excluder devices (TED) as specified in the 1987 regulations. Some commercial shrimp fishermen are altering, or otherwise modifying, the turtle escape openings of TEDs making them nonfunctional for turtle release. In addition, while implementation of the regulations has resulted in a reduction in the number of turtles killed, significant mortality continues during the months of the year when the conservation requirements are not in effect. The intended effect of these revisions is to reduce the mortality of endangered and threatened sea turtles that may be killed incidental to shrimp trawling, and to enhance compliance with the regulations.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 663

Abstract: Regulations by the State of California were endorsed by the Pacific Council in 1982 and were found adequate for management of the set-net fishery south of 38 degrees N latitude. However, in 1991, California sought to ban set nets for rockfish in the exclusive economic zone. The Council found this action inconsistent with the FMP. Federal regulations are needed to manage the set-net fishery for rockfish in the exclusive economic zone south of 38 degrees N latitude.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1450 et seq

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 923; 15 CFR 928

Abstract: NOAA is pursuing a phased rulemaking to implement the Coastal Zone Act Reauthorization Amendments of 1990, which amended the CZMA and reauthorized it through Fiscal Year 1995. The phased rulemaking will allow us to meet statutory deadlines while at the same time developing necessary information and agreements that should precede some parts of the rulemaking. Phase I will include the Coastal Zone Enhancement Grants (section 309), on which regulations are required within one year of enactment, and the new provisions on program evaluation (section 312), including interim and final sanctions. Phase II would include program approval requirements for the new coastal nonpoint pollution control programs (section 6217). These requirements should be based on final guidance which is required from EPA within 18 months of enactment, and on agreements between NOAA and EPA over their respective responsibilities for program review and approval.

559. NATURAL RESOURCE DAMAGE ASSESSMENT AND RESTORATION REGULATIONS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: PL 101-380, Sec 1006, Oil Pollution Act of 1990

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, August 18, 1992. Other, Statutory. Congress required the regulations to be promulgated no later than two years following the enactment of the Oil Pollution Act.

Abstract: In section 1006(e) of the Oil Pollution Act, Congress specified that the Federal Government, through NOAA, take the lead in developing natural resource damage assessment regulations. A Federal approach will provide a consistent, uniform set of procedures specifically for use in oil spills. These procedures will be available to State, Indian, and foreign natural resource trustees. A single Federal solution will be more cost effective than having the individual States develop separate methodologies. It is expected that trustees will use the procedures contained in the regulations because any determination or assessment of damages made in accordance with the regulations shall have the force and effect of a rebuttable presumption on behalf of the trustee in an administrative or judicial proceeding under the Oil Pollution Act.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1621 to 1630 Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 265A

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The final rule will establish general quality grading standards for all non-breaded forms of fresh or frozen shrimp. These grading standards will provide for the systematic differentiation of the quality of shrimp into categories -- U.S. Grades A, B, and Substandard. The proposed standards will be applied to all commercial species of fresh or frozen shrimp in raw or cooked states in all non-breaded market forms. The adoption of grading standards is expected to facilitate trade in shrimp of all commercial species, as consumers will be able to select shrimp on the basis of identified quality. Industry has shown great interest in and support for the standards.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1382(a); 16 USC 1540(f)

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 222.31

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule will establish as regulation a previously published Notice of Interpretation regarding minimum distances that should be maintained in the presence of humpback whales in Hawaii. Establishing a 100-yard perimeter around any of the whales while in the Hawaiian Exclusive Zone as a regulation is considered necessary given a large increase in vessel traffic and other water use activities in areas where this species historically occurs. In response to comments received in the public record, NOAA is defining two specific sites as cow/calf areas in which an approach closer than 300 yards is prohibited. This addition creates a new subsection to the rule.

Abstract: Amendment 4 measures will provide tighter controls for some of the Gulf of Maine's small-mesh fisheries because of their high discard rates of cod, haddock, pollock, and flounders. Management measures will include: (1) replacing the exempted fisheries program with an experimental fishery; (2) limiting the shrimp fishery to January, February, and March; (3) including silver hake, red hake, and ocean pout as regulated species with the appropriate management measures; (4) implementing a minimum mesh size of 2 1/2 inches in areas outside the regulated mesh area; (5) establishing a Cultivator Shoals whiting fishery; and (6) establishing a seasonal closure in the Nantucket Lightship Area.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1361 et seq Marine Mammal Protection Act; 16 USC 1383b

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 216.15

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Based on a review of the best available information on the status of the coastal-migratory stock of bottlenose dolphins in the U.S. Mid-Atlantic, the National Marine Fisheries Service (NOAA Fisheries) is considering the publication of a proposed rule designating this population stock as depleted under the Marine Mammal Protection Act (MMPA). This action is required by the MMPA when a species or population stock falls below its optimum sustainable population (OSP). If this population stock is designated as depleted, the MMPA requires the application of certain additional restrictions on taking and importation, and the preparation and implementation of a conservation plan to restore the stock to OSP. NOAA Fisheries is also requesting any additional scientific information on this action that may be available from interested parties, as required by the MMPA Amendments of 1988.

569. PROHIBITION OF THE USE OF EXPLOSIVES IN THE YELLOWFIN TUNA-DOLPHIN FISHERY

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1361 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 216.24(d)(2)(vii)(E)

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, April 1, 1990.

Abstract: In 1988, Congress amended the Marine Mammal Protection Act to prohibit the use of explosive devices in tuna purse seine operations that involve marine mammals. An exception from this prohibition was that Class C explosive pest control devices, approved by the Department of Transportation, could continue to be used when marine mammals are present. An interim final rule in this regard was published in the Federal Register (54 FR 411) and became effective January 1, 1989. Continued unrestricted use of the Class C explosive pest control devices was made contingent upon the outcome of a study mandated by Congress and undertaken by NMFS. The MMPA requires the Secretary to prescribe regulations to prohibit or restrict the use of Class C explosives by April 1, 1990, unless the Secretary, based upon the study, determines "...that the use of such devices does not result in physical impairment or increased mortality of marine mammals." Such a study was conducted by NMFS and the results were reviewed by experts in a workshop. The workshop participants determined that physical injuries to dolphins were caused by Class C explosives (cont)

Therefore, because NMFS cannot show that Class C seal bombs do not result in physical impairment or increased mortality of dolphins, and because these devices have the potential to cause injuries and compromise the future survivability of the marine mammals affected, NMFS implemented an interim final rule.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1361 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 216.24(e)(5)(i)

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1151 to 1175; 16 USC 1361 to 1384

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 215

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would eliminate completely the current option of extending the subsistence harvest of northern fur seals on the Pribilof Islands beyond August 8 of each year. The purpose behind this proposed change is to safeguard the reproductive potential of the species by ensuring no harvesting of seals will take place when there is any chance of females being in harvest areas. Experience and studies show that the risk of accidentally taking a female seal during harvest activities is almost nonexistent before August 8, but increases dramatically thereafter.

Abstract: This action will end the conditional fishery status of surf clams. Such designation, made pursuant to 50 CFR 251, restricts the normal availability of NOAA's financial aid programs based on fisheries management, conservation, and protection considerations. Management of the surf clam fishery has progressed to the point at which this restriction is unnecessary. The programs involved provide financial assistance to fishermen for fishing vessel construction, acquisition, and reconstruction. No alternatives are being considered. There is no potential change in cost due to this action. The benefits are that normal availability of the Fisheries Obligation Guarantee and the Fishing Vessel Capital Construction Fund programs will contribute to the financial stability and industrial safety and efficiency of the surf clam fishing industry.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE (DOD)

32 CFR Chs. I, V, VI, and VII

33 CFR Ch. II

36 CFR Ch. III

Improving Government Regulations; Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Department of Defense.

ACTION: Publication of the consolidated semiannual agenda of DoD regulatory documents.

SUMMARY: The Department of Defense is publishing this consolidated semiannual agenda of regulatory documents, including those that are procurement-related, for public information and comments under E.O. 12291 "Federal Regulation" and the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act of 1988 (102 Stat. 4055; 41 U.S.C. 402). This agenda incorporates the objective and criteria, when applicable, of the regulatory reform program under E.O. 12291, the Federal Procurement Policy Act, and other regulatory programs. It contains DoD issuances initiated by DoD components that may have economic and environmental impact on State, local, public, or private interests under the criteria of E.O. 12291. Although most DoD issuances listed in the agenda are of negligible public impact, their nature may be of public interest and, therefore, are published to provide notice of rulemaking and an opportunity for public participation in the internal DoD rulemaking process.

This agenda updates the report published on April 22, 1991, and includes regulations expected to be issued and under review over the next 12 months. The procurement-related agenda items included in this publication will also be used by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy to publish a "Procurement Regulatory Activity Report" as required by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988.

The next agenda is scheduled to be published in April 1992. In addition to this agenda, DoD components also publish rulemaking notices pertaining to their specific statutory administration requirements as required.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For information concerning the overall DoD regulatory improvement program and for general semiannual agenda information, contact Mr. William P. Pearce, telephone 703-746-0933, or write to Directorate for Information Operations and Reports, Washington Headquarters Services, 1215 Jefferson Davis Highway, Suite 1204, Arlington, Virginia 22202-4302.

For questions of a legal nature concerning the agenda and its statutory requirements or obligations, contact the Office of the General Counsel, DoD, Washington, DC 20301, or call 703-697-2714.

For general information on Office of the Secretary regulations, contact Mrs. Patricia H. Means, Directives Division, Directorate for Correspondence and Directives, Washington Headquarters Services; telephone 703-697-4111. For general information on the procurement-related agenda items, contact Mr. Owen L. Green III, telephone 703-697-7266, or write to the Defense Acquisition Regulatory System, Pentagon, Room 3D139, Washington, DC 20301-3062.

For general information on Department of the Army regulations, contact Mr. Kenneth L. Denton, telephone 703-325-6277, or write to Commander, U.S. Army Publications and Printing Command, ATTN: ASQZ-PGS-S, Room 1050, Hoffman I, Alexandria, Virginia 22331-0302.

For general information on Department of the Navy regulations, contact Ms. Alcinda P. Wenberg, telephone 703-602-2542, or write to Department of the Navy, Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Command, Control, Communications, Computers and Intelligence/Electronic Warfare/Space) (DASN (C4I/EW/S)), 2211 Jefferson Davis Highway, CP5, Room 334, Arlington, Virginia 22202.

For general information on Department of the Air Force regulations, contact Ms. Patsy J. Conner, telephone 703-614-3527, or write to Department of the Air Force, SAF/AAIA, Pentagon, Washington, DC 20330-1000.

For specific agenda items, contact the appropriate individual indicated in each DoD component report.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This consolidated agenda is composed of the regulatory status reports, including procurement-related regulatory status reports from the Office of the Secretary of Defense and the Departments of the Army, Navy, and Air Force. Included also in this agenda is the regulatory report from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, whose civil works functions fall under the reporting requirements of E.O. 12291. Their agenda will reflect these requirements with follow-on reporting actions taken as necessary.

DoD issuances range from DoD Directives (reflecting departmental policy) to implementing instructions and regulations (largely internal and used to implement Directives). The OSD agenda section contains the primary Directives under which DoD components promulgate their implementing regulations.

To ease identification and to clarify the differences among the variety of issuances reported, they are identified by their DoD internal numbering system, which denotes component level of authority and type of issuance, in addition to the required CFR number.

In addition, this agenda, although published under the reporting requirements of E.O. 12291, will continue to be the DoD single source reporting vehicle, which will identify issuances that are currently applicable under the various regulatory reform programs in progress. Therefore, when applicable, DoD components will identify those rules which come under the criteria of the:

a. Regulatory Flexibility Act;

b. Paperwork Reduction Act;

c. GATT International Trade Agreement; and

d. Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988.

These DoD issuances, which are directly applicable under these statutes, will be identified in the agenda and their action status indicated. Generally, the reports in this agenda will contain four sections: (1) Prerule stage; (2) proposed rule stage; (3) final rule stage; and (4) completed actions.

Although not a regulatory agency, the Department of Defense will continue to participate in regulatory initiatives designed to reduce the economic costs and unnecessary environmental burdens upon the public. Comments and recommendations are invited on the rules reported and should be addressed to the DoD component representatives identified in each section.

DOD

Although sensitive to the needs of the public and regulatory reform, the Department of Defense reserves the right to exercise the exemptions and flexibility permitted in its rulemaking process in order to proceed with its overall defense-oriented mission.

Note: The publishing of this agenda does not waive the applicability of the military affairs exemption in section 553 of title 5 and section 1 of E.O. 12291.

Dated: August 16, 1991.

Arthur Ehlers,

Deputy Director, Administration and Management.

Abstract: Procedures for the protection of endangered species in the regulatory program of the Corps of Engineers. Because of the increased emphasis being placed on endangered species by the Federal and State resource agencies, the Corps identified a need to provide more definitive guidance on implementing the Endangered Species Act (ESA) in its regulatory program. The Corps is now developing counterpart regulations with the Department of Interior. The regulations will basically bring together various guidance used in the past by both the Corps and DOI. The regulations will include guidance on how the ESA Amendments impact applicants for Federal permits.

Abstract: The Corps of Engineers intends to make numerous clarifications to its existing regulations at 33 CFR 320-330, to consolidate all permit regulations into one document, and to reorganize 33 CFR 325 for clarity. Since the Corps Regulatory Program final regulations were published in the Federal Register on November 13, 1986, (51 CFR 41206), there has been need to clarify several of those provisions. Since 1986, we have adopted 2 new appendices at 33 CFR 325, appendices B and C. We have proposed several changes that include: Nationwide Permit Program (33 CFR 330), Fee Schedule, and Class II Administrative Civil Penalties. For clarity, we intend to consolidate all these changes into one document.

718. ● FLOOD PLAIN MANAGEMENT SERVICES PROGRAM: ESTABLISHMENT OF FEES FOR COST RECOVERY

Legal Authority: PL 101-640, Sec 321

CFR Citation: 33 CFR 242

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Budgetary constraints in recent years have substantially reduced the Flood Plain Management Services that the Corps has been providing without charge to Federal agencies, State and local governments, and private persons. New legislation, based on the "Beneficiary Pay" principle, authorizes the Corps to recover the cost of services provided to Federal agencies and private persons. This enables the Corps to continue to provide services without charge to State and local governments and to offer services to Federal agencies and private persons on a reimbursable basis. The Corps will use a nonnegotiable fee schedule to charge Federal agencies and private persons for services taking up to one day and negotiated agreements to recover the cost of services taking more than one day. This rule announces the charges contained in the fee schedule.

Abstract: This regulation will provide for an increase in the fees charged by the Corps of Engineers for Department of the Army permits issued pursuant to section 10 of the River and Harbor Act of 1899, section 404 of the Clean Water Act, and section 103 of the Marine Protection Research and Sanctuaries Act. This action is being taken after an evaluation of the current fee structure by the Department of Defense Inspector General determined that the fee amounts had not been changed for a significant time. Abstract: The Corps intends to propose a revision to 36 CFR 327. The intent of the proposed revision is to supersede the Shoreline Management Fee Schedule set forth in the Lakeshore Management Regulation dated December 13, 1974. Shoreline management fees are charged to individuals receiving permits for minor private exclusive use privileges. The proposed revision will increase the cost of shoreline management permits to current and future permit holders. Abstract: This amendment incorporates the applicable provisions of recent statutes relevant to the deductible amounts for outpatient care. The Persian Gulf Conflict Supplemental Authorization and Personnel Benefits Act of 1991 stipulates that, in the case of dependents of a member of the Uniformed Services who served or serves on active duty in the Persian Gulf theater of operations in connection with Operation Desert Storm, the provisions of Public Law 101-510 and 511, shall not become effective until October 1, 1991. Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION (ED)

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Education.

ACTION: Publication of the semiannual agenda of Federal regulations.

SUMMARY: The Secretary of Education publishes a semiannual agenda of Federal regulations in accordance with guidance issued by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) issued under the authority of section 6(b) of Executive Order 12291 (Federal Regulations). The purpose of the agenda is to encourage more effective public participation in the regulatory process by giving the public early information about pending regulatory activities.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Questions or comments related to specific regulations listed in this agenda should be directed to Kenneth C. Depew, Division of Regulations Management, Office of the General Counsel, Department of Education, Room 2131, FOB-6, 400 Maryland Avenue SW., Washington, DC 20202-2241; telephone: (202) 401-2887.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291, dated February 17, 1981, and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, Pub. L. 96-354, enacted September 19, 1980, require the Department of Education to publish, in October and April of each year, (1) an agenda of regulations that the Department expects to issue and (2) currently effective regulations that are under review. The agenda includes both notices of proposed rulemaking (NPRMs) currently being drafted and pending final regulations.

Under the authority of Executive Order 12291, OMB has issued guidance prescribing the content and structure of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations. The Unified Agenda will be issued semiannually and will cover the succeeding 12 months from the date of publication.

For each set of regulations listed, the Agenda provides the title of the document, the type of document, a citation of any rulemaking or other action taken since publication of the most recent Agenda, and planned dates of future rulemaking. In addition, the Agenda provides the following information:

- An abstract, which includes a description of the problem to be addressed, any principal alternatives being considered, and potential costs and benefits of the action.
- An indication of whether the planned action is likely to have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601(b)).
- A reference to where a reader can find the current regulations in the Code of Federal Regulations.
- A citation of legal authority.
- The name, address, and telephone number of the contact person at the Department from whom a reader can obtain additional information regarding the planned action.
- An indication if the action is priority and the criteria used in determining the priority status.

If the "Abstract" section of an entry refers readers to the preamble, it means that amendments to those particular regulations would be designed (1) to effect regulatory relief, including reducing paperwork and compliance burdens, improving cost effectiveness, and, to the extent possible, vesting greater discretion in State and local agencies; and (2) if necessary, to clarify and simplify requirements governing that program.

The Department will review all regulations that will be published to ensure that those regulations support the President's education strategy, AMERICA 2000, and other efforts to help the Nation reach the National Education Goals. These goals call for:

- All children starting school ready to learn;
- increasing the high school graduation rate to at least 90 percent;
- demonstrating competency in challenging subject matter, including English, mathematics, science, history, and geography;
- becoming first in the world in science and mathematics achievement;
- becoming literate and being able to exercise the rights and responsibilities of citizenship; and
- freeing every school of drugs and violence so as to offer a disciplined environment conducive to learning.

This publication in the Federal Register does not impose any binding obligation on the Department with regard to any specific item on the agenda. Regulatory action in addition to the items listed is not precluded. Dates of future regulatory action are subject to revision in subsequent agendas.

Dated: August 27, 1991.

Jeffrey C. Martin,

General Counsel.

Legal Authority: 20 USC 1221e-3(a)(1)

CFR Citation: 34 CFR 074; 34 CFR 080

Abstract: These regulations propose to remove Part 80 and revise Part 74 to establish certain governmentwide administrative requirements for grants and cooperative agreements to State and local governments, institutions of higher education, hospitals, and nonprofit and commercial organizations. These regulations were based on an OMB proposal to combine OMB Circulars A-102 (Grants and Cooperative Agreements with State and Local Governments) and A-110 (Grants and Cooperative Agreements with Institutions of Higher Education, Hospitals and Other Nonprofit Organizations) into a single, unified grants management circular. On October 29, 1990, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) published a notice in the Federal Register (55 FR 45289) that cancelled plans to merge OMB Circulars A-102 and A-110. Therefore, the Department does not intend to combine administrative requirements for grants and cooperative agreements for all types of recipients into 34 CFR Part 74. The Department is currently participating in a governmentwide work group that will decide, at a later date, what revisions, if any, are needed to be made to OMB circular A-110.

Abstract: On November 4, 1988, the Department published an NPRM proposing to establish certain government-wide administrative requirements for grants and cooperative agreements to State and local governments, institutions of higher education, hospitals, and non-profit and commercial organizations. The regulations would appear in a revised 34 CFR Part 74. On October 29, 1990, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) published a notice in the Federal Register (55 FR 45289) that cancelled plans to merge OMB Circulars A-102 and A-110. Therefore, the Department does not intend to combine administrative requirements for grants and cooperative agreements for all types of recipients into 34 CFR Part 74. However, the Department intends to revise program regulations to cite the applicable administrative requirements found in either 34 CFR Part 74 or 34 CFR Part 80. A notice amending certain program regulations will be published in the Federal Register after final action is taken in the current efforts to amend the common regulations in 34 CFR Part 80.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY (DOE)

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

10 CFR Chs. II, III, and X

48 CFR Ch. 9

Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Department of Energy.

ACTION: October 1991 regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: In order to make Government more responsive to the citizens of the United States and to assist in fulfilling the President's commitment to lessen regulatory burdens, the Department of Energy (DOE) is publishing this regulatory agenda of: (i) Rulemakings currently in progress and rulemakings which currently are expected to begin during the coming year; (ii) any existing rules which are being reviewed within DOE to determine whether modifications should be proposed based upon experience; and (iii) rulemakings and rule reviews which have been completed since publication of the last regulatory agenda in April 1991. This regulatory agenda also contains information on any rulemakings which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, and it contains additional data on procurement-related actions.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

General: For further information on the regulatory agenda in general, please contact: Theodore ("Ted") Wilson, DOE, Room 6B-256, Forrestal Building, 1000 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, DC 20585, (202) 586-9507.

Specific: For further information about any particular item on the regulatory agenda, please contact the individual listed under that item.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Covered agencies publish regulatory agendas under Executive Order 12291 in April and October of each year. Under the Executive order, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) sets standards and procedures for the preparation of these agendas. Regulatory agendas are important to efforts to reduce the burdens of existing and future regulations, to increase agency accountability for regulatory actions, to provide for Presidential oversight of the regulatory process, to minimize duplication and conflict of regulations, and to insure well-reasoned regulations. DOE has made considerable progress in these efforts.

Executive Order 12291 provides that the regulatory agenda may be incorporated with the "regulatory flexibility agenda" required under the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 602 et seq. The regulatory flexibility agenda must cover any rule which the agency expects to propose or promulgate which is "likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities." Its information requirements are similar to those of the Executive order. The regulatory flexibility agenda required under 5 U.S.C. 602(a) is incorporated in today's notice. The Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act Amendments of 1988, 41 U.S.C. 402, require publication twice a year of a "Procurement Regulatory Activity Report." As determined by OMB, agency information is now in the regulatory agenda for use by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy (OFPP) in producing these reports.

Entries appended to this notice reflect the status of activities as of approximately August 15, 1991. They are divided into categories, first by subagency and then according to their stage of rulemaking action: Prerule, proposed rulemaking, final rulemaking, or completed action.

Appended entries contain the following information: (1) The organizational unit responsible for the regulation; (2) the Regulation Indentifier Number (RIN) assigned by OMB/OIRA; (3) title; (4) significance (that is, whether the regulation appears in the Regulatory Program, prepared annually under Executive Order 12498, and if it does not, whether it is nevertheless a DOE priority); (5) the name, title, address, and telephone number of a person who is knowledgeable about the regulation; (6) effects on small business (that is, whether the action is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities" as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act) and effects on Federal, State, and local governments; (7) CFR citation (that is, the affected portion of the Code of Federal Regulations); (8) legal authority (that is, a citation to the section of the United States Code (USC), Public Law (PL), or Executive order (EO) that authorizes the regulatory action); (9) abstract (that is, a description of the problem the regulation will address, the regulatory approach under consideration, the alternatives being considered for addressing the problem, and the potential costs and benefits of the action); (10) legal deadline (that is, the statutory or judicial deadline, if any); and (11) timetable (that is, the dates, and citations if applicable, for all past stages and the date for at least the next stage of the rulemaking). The timetable for completed actions (that is, regulations completed or withdrawn and reviews completed since the preceding regulatory agenda) gives the completion date and any related citation.

For each procurement-related regulatory action, additional information is provided on whether there is a statutory requirement for the action and whether there is a paperwork burden associated with the action.

Consistent with the recent establishment of the Office of Security Affairs, the previous heading "Defense Programs" has been changed to read "Defense and Security Affairs." Entries on rulemakings of both the Assistant Secretary for Defense Programs and the Director of Security Affairs appear under the new heading.

A draft of this regulatory agenda has been transmitted to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration for comment, if any, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 602(b).

DOE's next regulatory agenda will be published in April 1992.

Issued in Washington, DC, on September 11, 1991.

John J. Easton, Jr.,

Acting General Counsel.

Abstract: The Energy Policy and Conservation Act (EPCA), as amended, establishes initial energy-efficiency standards levels for most types of major appliances and generally requires DOE to undergo two subsequent rulemakings, at specified times, to determine whether the extant standard for a covered product should be amended. These products are: refrigerators, refrigerator-freezers, and freezers; room air conditioners; central air conditioners and central air conditioning heat pumps; water heaters; pool heaters; direct heating equipment; furnaces; dishwashers; clothes washers; clothes dryers; kitchen ranges and ovens; and fluorescent lamp ballasts. Other appliances, including television sets, may be regulated by the Department. This rulemaking will review the statutory standards for central air conditioners and furnaces to determine whether those levels need to be amended.

Abstract: The final rule on the inclusion of electric vehicles in the Corporate Average Fuel Economy (CAFE) program was issued by DOE on April 15, 1981. It established a methodology for determining the equivalent petroleum-based fuel economy of electric vehicles so that they could be included in a manufacturer's overall CAFE program. This methodology was based on several factors including the energy efficiency of the vehicle, the efficiency of electricity generation and transmission, the fuels used to generate electricity, and the driving patterns of electric vehicles. At this time, DOE is proposing updating the factors in this methodology that are necessary for calculating the CAFE credits for electric vehicles.

Abstract: The Department of Energy (DOE) conducts a Personnel Assurance Program (PAP) under DOE 5610.11 "Program to Prevent Accidental or Unauthorized Nuclear Explosive Detonation." The PAP was created in order to assure the reliability and safety of individuals in certain critical positions and is a part of the DOE nuclear weapons and explosives safety program. To further minimize the potential risks to personnel, public health and safety, and national security, the Department now proposes this rule which describes the PAP and provides for testing for alcohol in cases of occurrence or reasonable suspicion and testing for possible use of illegal drugs by DOE Federal and contractor employees requiring PAP certification or recertification. The DOE employees under the PAP are part of the DOE Drug-Free Workplace Program (DOE 3792.3). The DOE contractors under the PAP are a part of the Workplace Substance Abuse Programs at DOE Facilities (proposed 10 CFR 707).

This is a court ordered action.

Abstract: On February 9, 1988, DOE Order 5632.7 "Protective Forces" was issued which updated the requirements for firearms qualifications for security inspectors at DOE facilities. In an order and judgment entered March 19, 1990, the U.S. District Court of Nevada granted summary judgment and invalidated DOE's order as it applied to contractor personnel, due to the agency's failure to conduct an Administrative Procedure Act notice and comment rulemaking. The regulations would, inter alia, require that each contractor protective force officer have an appropriate access authorization and successfully complete formal basic and annual training in security skills and knowledge. The regulations also would require security inspectors to pass a firearms qualification test. Each security inspector would be required to demonstrate firearms proficiency at least semiannually, as indicated in the DOE requirements of the Standard DOE Qualification Courses, with all weapons reasonably expected to be used by the employee.

814. ACCELERATED ACCESS AUTHORIZATION PROGRAM; PILOT PROJECT AT DOE ROCKY FLATS SITE

Legal Authority: Atomic Energy Act of 1954, Sec 145

CFR Citation: Not applicable

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In response to a pressing need for more expeditious processing of access authorization (personnel security clearance) requests, the Department of Energy (DOE) is establishing a pilot project for an Accelerated Access Authorization (AAA) program at its production site at Rocky Flats, Colorado. DOE has determined that the AAA program is necessary because of the need to secure, on a timely basis, staff expertise to be applied to a variety of issues associated with the resumption of operations at Rocky Flats. The AAA program will not take the place of the current access authorization clearance process, but will allow workers to perform their jobs while the full background investigation is being conducted. At present, the AAA program will apply to DOE contractor employees at Rocky Flats, as an option. The procedures may be extended to Federal employees in the future.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 839(d)

CFR Citation: Not applicable

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Bonneville Power Administration implemented a cost-sharing program designed to share the cost of conservation program incentives between BPA and the sponsoring utilities. The program provided for equitable cost recovery over loads served by generating and non-generating utilities. Based on five years of operation, BPA is considering the reevaluation of certain elements of the program. BPA may issue a Notice of Intent in the Federal Register which would announce the proposed changes to the Conservation Cost-Sharing Policy and provide opportunity for comment.

816. ● PREFERENCE POLICY FOR CERTAIN SALES OF POWER UNDER THE NORTHWEST POWER ACT

Legal Authority: 16 USC 839c(f); 16 USC 837(b)

CFR Citation: Not applicable

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 5(f) of the Pacific Northwest Electric Power Planning and Conservation Act (Northwest Power Act), Pub. L. 96-501, provides that BPA may sell or otherwise dispose of power which is surplus to the obligations of the Administrator under sections 5(b), (c), and (d) in accordance with that Act and other applicable provisions of statute. The Act of August 5, 1964, Pub. L. 88-552 (the Pacific Northwest Regional Power Preference Act), provides that the Bonneville Power Administration (BPA) may only sell power outside of the Pacific Northwest that is surplus energy or capacity as defined in that Act. These provisions define surplus power as power for which there is no market or demand in the Pacific Northwest "at any established rate." In February 1990, BPA published for comment a proposal for adoption of policy and procedures for sales of surplus power. To complete its effort to establish a formal policy on the disposal of this power, BPA intends to issue in the Federal Register a Notice of Response to Comments on Issues to be Addressed in Establishing a Preference Policy, as well as a Notice of Draft Policy and a Final Policy.

Abstract: The Price-Anderson Amendments Act (PAAA) of 1988 contains provisions subjecting DOE contractors (and subcontractors and suppliers thereto) who are indemnified under the PAAA, to penalties for violations of nuclear safety rules, regulations, or orders issued by the Department. The Secretary has authority to compromise, modify, or remit penalties and to prescribe regulations as necessary. The Secretary is required to determine by rule whether nonprofit educational institutions should receive automatic remission of civil penalties. The penalty provisions of the PAAA are directed toward assuring compliance with DOE nuclear safety requirements through the use of monetary penalties. These regulations implement the penalty provisions of the Act and will include, as an appendix, a General Statement of Enforcement Policy.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2011 et seq. The Atomic Energy Act of 1954

CFR Citation: Not applicable

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action addresses the problem of the Department's management and operating contractors not being uniformly qualified to perform environmental restoration (ER) work. The Department has published a notice of intent to develop an environmental restoration alternate business strategy (55 FR 45843, October 31, 1990). This strategy calls for an Environmental Restoration Management Contractor (ERMC) to assist DOE in managing all the environmental restoration work at each DOE Field Office. A pilot phase program is planned starting with the Fernald Site Office and the Richland Field Office. The ERMC will have total site responsibility for ER work at both locations. The Department has issued a draft request for proposals (RFP) applicable to the ultimate establishment of an ERMC for the Fernald Environmental Management Project. The draft RFP solicited further comment regarding the ERMC concept, as well as comments specific to the Fernald procurement action. The costs to make these changes are very small because this action represents a change in program contract management. The benefits are to acquire contractors (Con't)

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 42 USC 10222

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 961 (Revision)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On April 18, 1983, the Department of Energy (DOE) published a rule which established the Standard Contract for Disposal of Spent Nuclear Fuel and/or High-Level Radioactive Waste (standard disposal contract) to be used by the DOE in furnishing disposal services to the owners or generators of spent nuclear fuel and/or high-level radioactive waste (48 FR 16590). On March 17, 1989, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia (Consolidated Edison Co. et al. v. DOE, No. 88-1194) ruled that the ongoing 1.0 mill per kilowatt hour (1M/KWH) fee in DOE's standard disposal contract should be based on nuclear electricity actually sold rather than net generation of electricity as adopted in the amended final rule of September 17, 1987 (52 FR 35356). This final rule amends Article I.13, Article VIII.A.1 and B.1, and Appendix G of the standard disposal contract to be consistent with the court's ruling. This amendment is expected to reduce revenues from the ongoing fee about seven percent.

Abstract: The Department of Energy (DOE) Office of Civilian Radioactive Waste Management published for comment its proposed interpretation and procedures for certain of the payments-equal-to-taxes (PETT) provisions of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982, as amended (42 USC 10101 et seq.) (the Act). The Act provides that DOE will make these payments to eligible States, units of local government, and Indian tribes for activities related to siting, development, and operation of a high-level radioactive waste and spent-fuel repository, and any monitored retrievable storage facility. The jurisdictions are eligible for payments equivalent to the amount they would receive if authorized to tax the Federal site characterization activities at such site. Following its review of the comments received, DOE will publish a final notice setting forth DOE's interpretation of certain PETT provisions of the Act applicable during the current site characterization phase of the nuclear waste repository program, in addition to a general description of the procedures DOE anticipates utilizing to implement the PETT provisions.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 708

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Employees of contractors at DOE nuclear energy facilities should be able to provide information to DOE, the Congress and certain contractors concerning violations of law, health and safety, or matters involving gross mismanagement, waste, fraud or abuse without fear of reprisal. The regulation will establish a procedure for investigation, hearing and review of allegations of reprisal for such disclosures. Contractors found to have discriminated against an employee for providing such information must provide relief to the complainant. Costs incurred will affect cost reimbursement type contracts for managing, operating, constructing and servicing DOE facilities. Benefits will be in protecting whistleblowers who provide valuable information about unsafe, illegal, or wasteful practices.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2182; 42 USC 5908; PL 99-661

Abstract: The regulation provides procedures and standards for obtaining a waiver of the Government's rights in inventions made under DOE research and development contracts with entities that are not small businesses or nonprofit institutions, and terms and conditions of such waivers. Currently, DOE waiver policy is provided in DOE Procurement Regulations (41 CFR 9-9.109-6). The proposed regulation places DOE patent waiver policy in a separate regulation, and also provides updates, revisions and clarifications to waiver policy as contained in 41 CFR 9-9.109-6.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7254; 5 USC 301; 28 CFR 1621

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 202

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The intent of this regulation is to establish an agencywide procedure for processing and responding to subpoenas or requests for Department of Energy records or testimony by Department of Energy officers and employees. A regulation intended to fulfill this purpose currently exists. However, relocating its position in the Code of Federal Regulations and some minor language changes would clarify its applicability. In addition, efficient application of the regulation will be promoted by more closely modeling it on the comparable Department of Justice regulation, since the Department of Justice is usually responsible for representing the Department of Energy in such matters. The cost of this action is expected to be de minimis and could effect a savings, since clarification and recodification of the existing regulation may avoid needless litigation.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 76510(a)(2)(B); 42 USC 7254

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 715

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, February 15, 1991.

Abstract: The rule will define the term "nonrecourse project-financed" for purposes of Title IV of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990. Under Title IV, Congress granted certain benefits to independent power producers. To ensure that only genuine independent power producers benefit from the program, the Act includes a requirement that the relevant facility be "nonrecourse project-financed," a kind of financing characteristic of independent power producers.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7131; 42 USC 7231; 42 USC 7254; 28 CFR 50.15(a)(7)(iii)

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 1012

Abstract: The Department of Energy does not have a policy for indemnifying its employees who are sued personally and suffer an adverse judgment as a result of conduct taken within the scope of employment. Lawsuits against Federal employees in their personal capacity can constitute a major impediment to the effective conduct of the public's business, since employees faced with the potential of being held personally liable may be inhibited in discharging their duties. To deal with this problem, the Department proposes to establish a policy permitting, but not requiring, the indemnification of an employee who suffers an adverse verdict, judgment, or other monetary award when the actions giving rise to liability were within the scope of his employment and indemnification is in the interest of the Government. This policy would be modeled on a similar policy already adopted by the Department of Justice for its employees.
